Film of Musical 'Oklahoma' Resumes Hollywood Location

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film of the great Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "Oklahoma!" has resumed in Hollywood after a lengthy location in Arizona, so I thought I had better pay a call on the film, which is being made in the new Todd-AO process.

There was a ranch, complete with barber tank and windmill. And at the other end of the stage, a farmhouse, with a backdrop of a huge landscape.

Director Fred Zinnerman ("From Here to Eternity") was in the centre of the cast, directing the wedding of Curly and Laurie. This was strictly a rehearsal and the many young dancers were decked out in some of the wildest getups imaginable.

"Now this is a movie," Zinnerman was instructing the largely Broadway-trained group. "You will have to unlearn some of the things you have learned on the stage. Right pictures will be out."

He rehearsed the scene with the chorus and the principals, including Gordon MacRae, Shirley Jones, J. C. Flippen, Gloria Grahame, Charlotte Greenwood, Gene Nelson, James Witmore. The wedding party streamed out of the house and went into a rousing chorus of "Oklahoma!"

Oscar Hammerstein II is the film's overlord. Richard Rodgers having left for New York and his revival of "On Your Toes."

"Yes, I have learned much from the picture," he commented. "This is the first time I have ever followed a picture through. I used to write them and let others carry the ball.

"I've been on the set for almost every scene. One of the first openers for me is the manpower involved in a picture. We might have a simple scene of a girl swimming in a lake. That would require 150 men behind the camera, and all of them necessary."

He said the experience has whetted his appetite for more films, and he and Rodgers will probably do "South Pacific" and "Carousel."

Arizona rains added 11 days and much money to the picture, he reported, but he felt the locations were worth it. There will be no locations in Oklahoma, as originally planned. Why?

"Because Arizona looks more like the Oklahoma of 1907," he replied, "and don't think Oklahoman should be unhappy, because the show should do them good."

Thinks Railway Will Benefit From Seaway

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said Wednesday night United States railroads are "up with the times" but only will live with the St. Lawrence Seaway but plan to benefit by it.

"The railroads should be commended for stepping out in the name of real progress," Guy L. Brown told reporters.

"If there is any criticism due the railroads, it is that they are too reluctant to admit publicly that he seaway holds any benefits for them. I believe they . . . should let bygones be bygones and boast about their new attitude and the plans they are making."

Brown said eastern railroads would lose some of their long haul traffic as a result of the waterway, but will gain in short haul traffic.

AT THE BELLE

'DUFFY OF SAN QUENTIN'
NEW PRISON DRAMA
MOST GRIPPING

An explosive dramatic sensation based on true-to-life facts provides the background for the Warner Bros. release "Duffy of San Quentin," starring Louis Hayward, Joanne Dru and Paul Kelly, showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

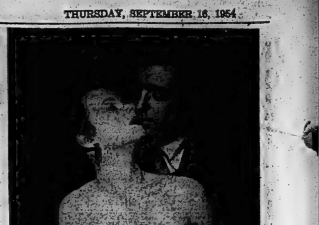
In the role of Warden Duffy, Paul Kelly plays the part of the man who was responsible for many of the penal reforms in effect today, Duffy's most dangerous experiment is portrayed by Joanne Dru, who represents the first woman to live and work behind the walls of the major prison.

In order—to give the convicts the assurance that the world has not passed them by, Warden Duffy asks Joanne Dru to become the prison hospital nurse. Among the staff of prisoners assigned to help her is Louis Hayward, a dangerous convict who hates all women for what one woman did to him.

The role of Warden Duffy's wife is co-star Maureen O'Sullivan.

This is the film which is based on the famous book by Warden Clinton T. Duffy and Dean Jennings surrounding the fabulous career of the former when he was warden of San Quentin.

AT THE CAPITOL — Fearless and farsighted, Jimmy Stewart plays a frontiersman whose daring brings peace between Indians and Whites in 20th Century-Fox's "Broken Arrow," a historical epic of the West in Technicolor which is now showing on the Capitol Screen. On the same program and having its first city showing, "Miss Robin Crusoe" in Technicolor starring Amanda Blake. Extra attraction Saturday matinee, Roy Rogers in "Trigger Jr."



AT THE McCARTHY — Piper Laurie and Rory Calhoun are a handsome romantic team as they pair for the first time in Universal-International's Technicolor adventure, "Dawn at Socorro," now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. David Brian, Kathleen Hughes and Alex Nicol are also starred in this William Alland production.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

Polio Outbreak Takes 14 Lives In Quebec Area

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — A polio outbreak has hit 200 children and claimed 14 lives in the industrial and rural area around Lake St. Johns district in northeastern Quebec.

The first cases were reported in July and the number claimed rapidly until almost 100 were stricken. Then there were signs that the disease was on the wane. However 36 new cases and four deaths were reported within the last few days.

Five children were taken to hospital Friday, five Saturday, one Sunday, three Monday and six Wednesday.

A special section of the Hotel Dieu Hospital here was set aside at the start of the outbreak to deal with polio cases. Iron lungs were shipped in from outside points for the treatment of serious cases.

In Quebec, a spokesman for the Quebec health department said Wednesday the outbreak is not considered of epidemic proportions. He said there are no plans for sending extra doctors, nurses or iron lungs into the area.

The spokesman estimated there are 90,000 children in the Lake St. John area where large families are the rule rather than the exception. About one in every 250 children had been affected by the disease.

TEST TV USE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Southern Pacific is testing use of television as an aid to railroad freight yard operations. A viewer at the desk of terminal superintendent G. J. Matt gives him a wide picture of car movement, makeup of trains and switching operations in the switch yards. At the press of a button he can get a closeup of operations 2,000 feet away.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

For card-playing ability and instinct of the highest ranking bridge masters I have nothing but admiration and praise. When they come to their bidding, however, they are not such a much.

Of the 36 tables, 27 made: At hearts, 15 in four, nine in five, three in two; at no-trump, six in three, one in one. Eight went down at spades; two in five and five in four were doubled, three in four not.

Almost any pair should see a heart game fast. Good pairs should go five over opponent's four spade sacrifice. Despite the 24 that did these things, 24 tables were wrong in some form.

The only two tables not subject to criticism are the ones that were doubled at five spades. These sacrifices went their limit and a double is the best thing left to North-South.

Masters rated so high should know enough to sacrifice at four spades over four hearts and five spades over four hearts. So, the 24 east-west pairs who did not, fell down on the job.

The deal that permitted east to play in four spades undoubled, should have known better. Even if they did not have the ability to see a bid of five hearts they should have doubled, at least.

The five who doubled four spades instead of going five hearts were not as accurate as such pairs are assumed to be. They should know the defeat would not pay as much as a game contract.

With hearts so obviously the best denomination, the two pairs in three no-trump were out of their element. The least their east-west opponents should do is defeat it with five fast diamonds.

No use saying anything about the stop and two hearts, that made or the one no-trump that made five. It is too disgusting.

Acts like these look like cheese.

Fund Started For Gus Ryder

TORONTO (CP)—A fund was started Wednesday to enable Gus Ryder, coach of swimming star Marilyn Bell, to extend his work among crippled children at his Lakeshore Swimming Club.

For years, Mr. Ryder has devoted much of his time in teaching handicapped children to swim.

The Shriners organization, which also helps crippled children, said Wednesday it will present Mr. Ryder with a cheque for $1,000 at the opening of their circus here Sept. 27 to further his work.

DROWNS AFTER FALL

BRIGHTON, Eng. (AP) — Mrs. Pyrdia Shaddick, 30, was blown over a 70-foot seaside cliff Wednesday by a gale. She survived the fall into the ocean, but was swept away by a rising tide and drowned before rescuers could reach her.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 17, 1954 —

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This can be profitable, productive day if managed intelligently and not over-anxiously. Start program by scanning it carefully, get things going in proper order; it will pay.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Favorable for sound matters, good investments, dealing in useful products, also for necessary building. Personal desires may have to be put aside until tomorrow.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Indications generally working up to a big day tomorrow. However, industrial interests, your occupational duties and all activities necessary to everyday living are considered now.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — If you don't permit anything or anyone to irritate you, you can have a fine day. This does not mean that you should neglect essentials. Just be your cheery self and things should go well.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Very encouraging for your personal and business interests. You should advance in your endeavors, at least make some gain. Important matters, finances under fine Sun and Jupiter rays.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — This period may be more advantageous for practical matters. Industrial trades and mechanical interests generally than for artistic or mental tasks, but the day promises benefits—and for you.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Similar to Virgo and Taurus now. Be your innate ingenious self and you will find new opportunities to help your interests in one way or another. Be cheerful, patient.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — An opportune time for seeking favors, perhaps promotion (if earned and due). It is also a moving period for sound financial transactions. Investments. Enjoy some fun.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter and the Sun, well-aspected, promise a full, generous period for your interests. Make new tys, if sound, or finish incompleted matters. Good luck!

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Here's a promising day for sturdy, dependable you. Be your usually fine self even though you may have a few upsets (don't we all!). It's mostly up to you and your schedule.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — This may be a quiet day in some respects but is certainly can be gainful and encouraging. All you need to make good is a little extra urge from within, consistent application and a prayer.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune advises caution about making sudden changes; also in water sports, sailing, shipping, etc. Otherwise the day holds many good offerings for personal achievement.

YOU BORN TODAY have splendid attributes—loyalty, industriousness, artistry, justice and mechanical ability. Be careful that your natural impulsiveness (mostly to help others) will not be mistaken for meddling. And again, watch out lest there may be an inclination to gamble! If not corrected, possible guilt could lead to trouble, defeat of your finer qualities. Don't let this happen! You Virgoans are among life world's best journalists, politicians, actors, designers, artists, historians and physicians.

Electric Union Wants Work Done By Private Firm

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Officials of the AFL Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Wednesday asked the Democratic party in New York state to support private redevelopment of Niagara Falls electrical power.

Public redevelopment, said Bennett J. Murphy, business agent of two Buffalo locals, would "jeopardize the jobs by the thousands, the thousands of members of the brotherhood, destroy their seniority and pension rights and deprive them of their right to collective bargaining."

Murphy spoke at a hearing held by a sub-committee of the Democratic state platform committee. Thomas H. Finletter, former secretary of the air force, presided.

Murphy's stand, supported by officials of the brotherhood from other sections of the state, was in direct opposition to the public redevelopment plan lead by Senator Herbert H. Lehman and Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

Syntona Highly Praised For Helping Many People

Relieves Common Disorders of Stomach, Kidneys, and Liver, Nervousness, Backache and Rheumatic Pain.

Syntona Herbal Compound which was first introduced in Ontario three years ago has won enthusiastic praise from thousands of women and women who suffered from common health disorders, such as sour, acid stomach, a short temper spells, headache, lame, aching back or rheumatic aches and pains. These people tell how it has helped them and how previous intensity, poor sleep, fatigued, run-down condition and how after using a short treatment of Syntona they feel better thahn they did in years.

For example, Mr. A. Waller, 230 Boland Avenue, Hamilton, Ont., made a recent report:

"I had backache so bad I suffered day and night. I thought now it was all I could do to get up again. Sometimes I was so dizzy I was afraid before my eyes, and I couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"Since I have been taking Syntona the pain is relieved so that I can get up at once, my sleep is good, I do not trouble me, and I am getting sound, restful sleep. I now feel better, too, and I cannot praise Syntona too highly."

Why not give this pure herbal medicine a chance to help you. Syntona It is sold and recommended in Belleville by DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Marmora-Deloro Kiwanis Club Receives Charter

MARMORA—Charter night for the Kiwanis Club of Marmora and Deloro was held on Monday evening at Marmora Community Centre, the event attracting an attendance of over 300.

This club came into existence about two months ago, its sponsors being the Kiwanis Clubs of Madoc and Tweed, Lieut-Governor Bill Slade of Belleville was master of ceremonies for this auspicious night. Invocation at dinner was offered by Canon J. M. Brownlie. Following some community singing led by Fred Porter, Charles H. Bunkard, local Kiwanian gave the address of welcome. Ray Woolfrey, past-president of Tweed Club introduced those at the head table.

BOUQUETS PRESENTED

It also being ladies' night those seated there were presented with floral bouquets the gift of the Marmora-Deloro Club. Governor Bert Coulter of the Oshawa Club was then introduced by President Jack Baker, Madoc, prior to the presentation of the charter. Governor Coulter gave a short but telling address which was fittingly replied to by Stanley Shask, president of the new club.

During an interlude, Len Fozard of Belleville regaled the gathering with some magic.

Lieut. Bill Brown of the Salvation Army corps, Tweed, sang a solo.

Gifts on behalf of the visiting clubs from Belleville, Cobourg, Kingston, Madoc, Picton, Port Hope, Trenton and Tweed were made to the new club by Kai Kincaid, past-president of Madoc club and Bill Tweed, vice president of Tweed club. Hertel Rennie, vice president of the local club accepted them. Bill Slade presented ribbons to the sponsoring clubs which were accept by their presidents. Booster prizes were awarded to a number of ladies. A social evening with dancing the major entertainment, filled the rest of the program.

OFFICERS

Officers of this new club for the ensuing term are: president, Stanley Shask; vice president, Hertel Rennie; secretary, Carl McCoy; treasurer, Tom Hanley. Directors, Al Baxter, Charles, Buskard, Douglas Coleman, Earl Leonard, Arnold Jones, James McChesney, Geoffrey Paget and Fred Thompson.

Thirty-six charter members make the executive feel they are off to a good start for support.

Mrs. William Cross of Deloro, underwent an operation in Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday morning and her son James an operation there for appendicitis the previous evening.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company are paving Forsyth street here and started on Tuesday.

Mr. Samuel Barnum of Kingston is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. Gano.

Mrs. C. Clarke of Peterborough visited her mother Mrs. G. W. Henderson on Sunday.

Town Brooks of Denver, has entered the Ryerson School of technology, Toronto.

GETS TEXTILE CONTRACTS

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Officials of the Dominion Textiles factory here said Wednesday that two contracts totalling $130,000 had been received and that staff and production will be increased immediately. The number of employees had been cut to 40 in recent months because of a textile slump.

Charged Reduced In Woman's Death

WINDSOR (CP)—William Lucier of Windsor tonight was found guilty on a reduced charge of dangerous driving after a jury sat for almost two hours.

Lucier was tried for manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Feal May Beach, 41, after she was struck by a car last May 21. He was remanded to Sept. 17 for sentence.

A key crown witness was rushed from Simcoe Wednesday in a provincial police cruiser after he failed to turn up for the first day of the trial. William Hawes, only eye witness to the accident, said the woman's body flew up as high as the roof of the car which he estimated was travelling about 55 miles an hour.

UNEXPECTED GUEST

BAD SCHWALBACH, Germany (Reuters)—A United States army tank skidded on a wet road here, crashed through the walls of a hotel and ended up in the dining room where 30 persons were having supper. Nobody was injured.

Mr. Justice Sloan Will Set Terms of Railway Contracts

Queen Mary Played Role Of Counter-Spy

LONDON (Reuters) — The late Queen Mary was concerned in a counter-spying operation against German secret agents during the Second World War, says a new book, published here today.

The book, "Elizabeth, Queen of the Belgians," by Sidney Cunliffe-Owen, is a study of the life, the widow of King Albert of Belgium.

Cunliffe-Owen says Queen Mother Mary kept in touch with Queen Elizabeth during the four years the Belgian Monarch was held captive by the Germans.

He says in the book that "the exact methods by which Queen Mary did so cannot be divulged, but it can be told that on one occasion Queen Mary was able to get information relayed to Elizabeth, warning her that two individuals whom she trusted were in fact working for the Germans."

Will Call First Seaway Tenders Next Wednesday

MONTREAL (CP) — Private enterprise gets its first crack at digging the mighty St. Lawrence seaway next week.

Lionel Chevrier, president of the seaway authority, hosted 1,000 Montreal Thursday night from a private conference with Quebec's Premier Duplessis and said first tenders for excavation of the big job will be called for Sept. 22.

But the extent to which Quebec fitted into his plans remained a secret.

Mr. Chevrier confined himself to saying the tender will cover excavation of a channel on the south shore of the island between Montreal's Jacques Cartier and Victoria bridges. The announcement made no mention of proposed hydro-electric development once received the planners for the Victoria bridge area.

BY NO PARTISANSHIP

The seaway president has had several talks with Mr. Duplessis in recent months. But there has been no indication the premier has changed his mind since last June when he said the province is in no hurry to develop power at Montreal.

Hint Drug Ring Is Involved In B.C. Slaying

VANCOUVER (CP) — A fire-engine red convertible sat in the police garage here Thursday and a body lay in the morgue, but there were no arrests in the slaying of Danny Brent.

Brent, a 42-year-old liquor club head waiter with a record, died with five bullet holes in his body. His body was found on the 10th green of a fashionable golf course Wednesday.

Since then, police have made no statements, but west coast newspapers have had a field day. The slaying has been linked to anonymous "local interests" as well as to gang killing.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The 54th parallel roughly defines the boundary between the warm air which covers most of Canada and the northern states from the very warm air to the south, and this disturbance moving along this boundary have been bringing periods of rain to Ontario. Such a disturbance is now bringing rain to the central Great Lakes regions and scattered thunderstorms to the mid-west. The fringe of the rain area has already edged into southwestern Ontario and the rain area will spread across the province today or Saturday.

POPE SUFFERING FROM FATIGUE; TO BE EXAMINED

Doctors Not Seriously Concerned About Health

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Despite renewed reports that he is again suffering fatigue, Pope Pius prepared to receive a medical consultation in special audience today and deliver a lengthy address.

Vatican sources close to the Pontiff Thursday night said he has recently shown signs of tiredness, caused by intensive activity.

These sources insisted, however, that the Pope's physicians are not seriously concerned about his health.

DOCTOR CALLS

This was the first indication in several months that the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church may not have entirely recovered from the grave illness that early this year kept him confined for months to his Vatican apartments.

His private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, called on the Pontiff Wednesday and this was described as a normal and regular visit by the physician.

On Tuesday, following a period of two weeks during which he also received the railways also accepted arbitration.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, arriving today from his Quebec summer home, said the government announce the arbitrator's appointment after the cabinet meeting, which also will make formal the arbitrator's terms of reference.

The terms of reference—defining the umpire's powers—were agreed to by the disputants at Montreal earlier this week.

The unions are seeking higher benefits of 18 days a year sick leave, eight paid statutory holidays a year, three weeks vacation and higher overtime pay for Sunday.

While this is not Justice Sloan's first entry into arbitration under federal legislation, he has headed a number of royal commissions for the British Columbia and federal governments.

One of these was on the operation of B. C.'s Workmen's Compensation Act, and his report on that subject brought him a reprimand in the labor relations field. His findings are quoted in Canada at the U. N.

His biggest inquiry job was as a one-man royal commission on B. C.'s $100,000,000-a-year logging and lumbering industry for the provincial government, aimed at conservation of forest resources. His 1945 report of 3,000,000 words was one of the largest ever turned in by a single royal commissioner in Canada.

Mr. Justice Sloan's royal commission was for the federal government in 1948, resulted into fish traps and pure seine fishing in B.C. waters.

The chief justice, a native of Nanaimo, B. C., was a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada at the age of 39 and became chief justice seven years later. He was the youngest provincial judicial chief in Canadian history.

Before going to the bench, he was attorney-general of British Columbia in the Tolmie Liberal administration.

He has served in part in a number of federal-provincial conferences, chiefly on matters relating to the British North America Act, for which a leading advocate of having the constitution enacted as a purely Canadian statute.

Honeymoon Capital of World Marks Golden Anniversary as City Saturday

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—This honeymoon capital of the world celebrates its golden anniversary as a city Saturday.

There'll be fireworks, street dancing, sports, parades and pageants for the next nine days as Niagara Falls, Ont., observes the 50th anniversary of its incorporation as a city 50 years ago but which had its roots in the pioneer days of the 19th century.

Officials expect an overflow crowd of visitors. The city already has its full share of tourists. Thousands of others are summer to see the world-famous falls. They include many honeymoon couples from all over the world who come to honeymoon near the picturesque cataracts.

Two weddings ceremonies will get the city's special spotlight Monday. A young Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., couple — Shirley Newhouse and James MacKay — will be married in St. Mark's Anglican Church. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark of Brantford, married here 50 years ago, will return to re-enact their wedding in 1904 dress.

A parade with hundreds of floats will wind down the main streets Monday, Sept. 20. The gaye festival, usually held in St. Catharines, will see a grape queen crowned from the beauty queens of Ontario municipalities.

Visitors will also see a line of vintage cars, at least 30 years or more old, parade from all over Niagara Falls, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., to 1906 Tuesday and a 1906 Bush.

Niagara Falls began as a pioneer settlement in the 18th century. The Battle of Lundy's Lane was fought there during the war of 1812. A few decades later three villages—Elgin, Clifton and Drummondville —had sprung up in the area. By 1904 they were incorporated as the city of Niagara Falls.

Valdmanis Given Four Years For Defrauding Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis was sentenced today to four years at hard labor in penitentiary here after pleading guilty to a charge of defrauding the Newfoundland government of $300,000. A second charge of defrauding the government of $270,000 has been ordered.

Valdmanis pulled a surprise move Wednesday when he came into court six weeks before scheduled trial, before a doubles panel jury, and entered a guilty plea on one charge and renewed his not guilty plea on the other. The provincial government still has a civil action pending against Valdmanis in an attempt to retrieve the money allegedly defrauded.

Gordon Higgins, defence attorney, however, told the court Wednesday most of Valdmanis' assets of $368,000 would be turned over. Among the assets already turned over is the fish processing plant at St. Andrews, N. B., which Valdmanis planned to operate with his brother Arnold. It was while staying in St. Andrews that he was arrested April 23.

Valdmanis, who worked for the Newfoundland government from 1950 until early this year at $25,000 a year, directed the economic development of the province at a time when Newfoundland was striving itself to new industry.

It was also good job that Premier Joseph Smallwood once said of him: "Newfoundland will one day erect a statue to Dr. Valdmanis." The premier said when Dr. Valdmanis came to Newfoundland: "This is the most unpleasant duty I have ever had to perform."

St. Laurent-Duplessis Expected To Clash Politically Over Talk

By RICHARD DIAGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Storm clouds gathered on the Quebec political scene for a week are expected this week-end to unleash thunderbolts of political lightning within this French-speaking province.

Political observers are speaking in terms of an all-out clash between Quebec's two top political leaders, and also spoke for more than an hour to some 400 pilgrims and tourists in a general audience.

His doctor, Vatican sources said, has been trying to persuade the Pope to do more. Despite that, the Pope has continued his audiences.

The Pope was stricken in January by a severe coronary disorder. He suffered continuous hiccups and was unable to retain nourishment for several days. Later he was put on a liquid diet for a prolonged period.

ADMITS POPE TIRED

The lack of food sapped his strength, and his convalescence was slow.

Beginning in April, however, he resumed his regular audience schedule.

A Vatican source would neither confirm nor deny some reports that the Pontiff has suffered a relapse during the September period but said he "definitely is suffering from fatigue."

U.S. Confident Of Blocking UN Seat for China

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are preparing for a one-day sudden death struggle next week to block Red China's bid for United Nations membership.

The simple strategy of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles attempts by the Communists to unseat Nationalist China's delegation, is said by officials to be a sound showdown vote on the issue. Behind that plan is planned on a move to defer action.

Meanwhile, settlement of the question would clear the way for American Congressional approval next week and thus free State Secretary Dulles in time for the proposed September 29 conference of eight countries on the question of German sovereignty and rearmament.

Dulles Joins With Adenauer In Plea for German Equality

BONN, Germany (AP) — State Secretary Dulles of the United States and West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer agreed in a joint statement today that West German sovereignty should be restored and that the Bonn republic should be given full equality in the Western alliance.

The two leaders issued their decision last night after a dinner conference in Bonn to confer with Foreign Secretary Eden and Prime Minister Churchill on the crisis raised by French rejection of the European Defence Community treaty.

Their communique following a last-minute airport conference said German participation in the West-ern defence should be "considered as soon as practicable with the other interested governments and, in any event, by the end of September" meeting, should be translated into concrete action."

Chancellor Adenauer also declared that the goal of European integration should be "resolutely pursued" despite France's rejection of EDC and the apparent reluctance she still has to rearming a sovereign German state under any other guise.

Dulles flew to Bonn from Washington Wednesday night and talked with Adenauer for two hours Thursday and last night with the chancellor and other members of the cabinet to give Germany sovereignty without alienating the apprehensive French.

Dulles and Eden Will Confer On German Arms

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — John Foster Dulles and Anthony Eden planned to meet today to seek agreement on British-French plan for rearming West Germany, which has received a cool reception from the United States and only partial accord from France.

The two diplomats were to confer soon after Eden reported to Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet on his talks with Dulles and Premier Mendes-France in Paris Europe and shortly after Dulles arrived in Germany to confer with West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

On his return Thursday night Eden told reporters he had reached "a very close measure of agreement" in his talks with the leaders of France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany.

But he cautioned that the "practical aspects of the enterprise are far from simple . . . a good deal of hard work remains to be done before a solution can be presented to the world."

Autopsy Reveals No Indication Of Foul Play

OTTAWA (CP)—An autopsy has found no indication of foul play in the death of a Toronto woman whose legs were found in the Ottawa river Wednesday night.

Dr. Morris Shore, Queen's University pathologist, said Thursday night the autopsy could find no evidence that violence had taken place before death. He estimated the victim's age at between 18 and 25.

Condition of the body indicated the girl had been suddenly immersed in extremely cold water and had drowned almost immediately after she died. The body had been in the water many months.

Meanwhile, attempts continue to identify the girl. An inspector of the Ontario provincial police criminal investigation branch is "expected to arrive here today."

Police today planned to see Toronto dentists in an effort to locate by relatives of Irene Gauthier, a 19-year-old Hull, Que., girl who disappeared New Year's eve, 1953.

BRUCE MACLEAN ADMITS THREAT, DENIES MURDER

Tells Welland Court Wife's Death Accident

WELLAND (CP) — The murder trial of 23-year-old Bruce MacLean, quoted by a witness as boasting he committed the slaying, appeared expected to reach the jury today.

MacLean testified Thursday in a crowded courtroom that the drowning of his 30-year-old wife a year ago was an accidental. He admitted threatening a former girl friend.

His testimony was the conclusion to examination-in-chief which began the fourth of four days of the trial.

Three statements police said MacLean made to them were ruled inadmissible.

On the witness stand MacLean said a canoe in which he and his wife paddled up Twelve creek, a tributary of the Welland river, overturned Aug. 29, 1953. He said he tried to aid his wife, a non-swimmer, in the muddy water and forts to get her to shore, but she died.

When his lawyer asked: "Mr. MacLean, did you drown your wife on the 22nd of August last year?" MacLean replied: "I did not."

Relating the circumstances of his wife's death, MacLean said they had been married 18 months and were happy.

He said he toppled out on one side of the canoe and his wife fell out on the other. He said he tried to swim to aid her but she and his wife went into deep water.

He said he pushed the canoe out of his way and turned it right side up to make sure his wife was not under it. "The next I felt about, the more sedimuel I turned I saw I couldn't do anything by myself. I'd need some help."

Cross-examined by Mr. Forrestall, MacLean denied that he told Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, the wife of her sister Sylvia Davies of Port Colborne, he had killed his wife.

Mrs. Bell on Thursday repeated testimony she gave at MacLean's preliminary hearing that he had told her he had committed the "perfect murder" and had planned every step of it.

Mrs. St. Louis testified earlier in the trial that she was engaged to MacLean for several weeks last winter. She said MacLean broke off when she tried to recover $1,800 she lent him for a down payment on a house.

MacLean told the court he had said: "I shall make you pay the people say I did to my wife."

He said he made the threat to "scare" Mrs. St. Louis into getting action to recover the money he had borrowed from her. He said he never intended to get the money might mean he would lose custody of his son, Douglas.

He denied a claim by 15-year-old Marilyn Lee Gibson of Columbus, now held for planning to kill his wife by pushing her out of a moving car.

He admitted to Crown Attorney Forrestall that he was corresponding with several girls at the time he was seeing Miss Davies, now 19, of Port Colborne, but said they were to be married.

Dr. R. A. Scott of Hamilton said it was possible for a person falling into water to sink directly to the bottom and stay there.

Conservatives Win Three By-Elections By Big Majorities

Highways Administration Main Issue of Contests

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's Progressive Conservative government retained three provincial legislature seats Thursday by by-elections fought on the issue of its highways administration.

Government candidates swept to victory in Leeds, Nipissing and Russell with bigger majorities than the party had in winning the same three seat in the 1951 general election.

The results left the standing in the 90-seat legislature: Progressive Conservatives 79, Liberal-CCF 2, Liberal-Labor 1, Labor-Progressive 1, vacant 7. The vacancies is in Sudbury where no by-election was called.

Premier Frost said the outcome, coupled with other by-election victories in the last year in Niagara Falls and Simcoe East, strengthened "our declaration and efforts to give Ontario the very best in every phase of government." He promised a "satisfying result" to the calibre of the government candidates.

THE HIGHWAYS

Opposition spokesmen centred their heaviest campaign fire on highways administration they had charges of malpractice against Progressive Conservative employees, still before the courts, along with evidence from the legislature's committee investigating the highways department.

Leeds, which had the closest contest was close to that of 1951. Leeds, which had the quietest campaign, showed a drop of more than 3,000 voters.

Insp. F. Kelly Returns to City To Conduct Case

Inspector Frank Kelly of the OPP criminal investigation department has returned to Belleville in connection with the preparation of the Crown's case for the murder trial of Mrs. Mary Bell, 48, scheduled for October 12. The jury trial will be held before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer.

Mrs. Bell is charged with the strychnine poisoning of her husband, Percy Bell, last January 2. Mr. Bell's body was exhumed from the grave in Riverside Cemetery on January 9 and stomach contents analyzed in Toronto were said to have contained traces of strychnine.

Following investigation of the case Mrs. Bell was arrested at her home on January 22, and at the preliminary hearing in March 2,

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter fat prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm on large grades but weak on medidums. Offerings were sufficient for a quiet demand.

Quotations provided by Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in fibre cases; A large 58; A medium 56; A small 50-52; B 51-52; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 61; A medium 61; A small 52-56; B 56-57; C nr.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 53; non-tenderable 57-57½.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils continued to forge ahead strongly in heavy forenoon trading on the stock exchange today but Golds' groups were mixed.

The western oil index climbed more than 1¼ points in the first hour, adding to its 2¼-point gain Thursday and bringing it to 852.39. Gains in the group outnumbered losses about three to one.

Industrial gains balanced losses. Papers and utilities were strong and steels and financial institutions a little easier. Base metals climbed narrowly.

Manitoba and Eastern Mines, formed 26 years ago, went off the exchange today and was replaced by Manexet Uranium Corp.

Granted Stay Of Execution

MONTREAL (CP)—Georges Hebert of Quebec, due to be hanged early today at Montreal's Bordeaux jail for the ax-murder of his nine-year-old son, Rene, was granted a stay of execution. Hebert has already been granted leave to appeal the conviction to the supreme court and the case is expected to be heard in November.

The badly-crushed bodies of his three other children, Louisette, 7, Jacques, 5, and Bastien 2½, were found along side that of Rene in his apartment.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were uneven, calves and lambs were steady and hog prices were lower this week at the Ontario stockyards.

The run of 10,300 head of cattle was added to a carryover from last week of 609 head. An estimated 1,000 head, mostly stockers, will be carried at the close. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light at eight cars and there were no exports to the U.S.

Two-way activity again featured trading in the slaughter cattle market. Buyers showed a good demand for the meagre supply of good and choice quality and these grades ruled up to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. There were unfilled orders for these grades at the close.

Kinds grading medium and down however, were low numerous re-selling in draggy trade on these grades. Action continued to centre around the saleable carcasses and high commercial grades in the dressed beef trade.

Choice steers, all weights, £21.50-22.50; several loads of choice heavy steers £23; good steers £20.10-21.50; mediums down to £19; good heifers £19.50; choice heifers up to £19; low medium heifers £14-16; common light boner steers and heifers down to £10. Cows opened strong to $1 higher in spots on Monday but lost this initial strength in the close with good cows selling at $12 with a few to $12.50; medium and common sold down to 26; good heavy bologna bulls $13-15; butcher bulls up to $18; other light bulls down to $8; another light offering of fed yearlings sold at $18 with a few choice selling at £22.50-24; mediums sold down to £20; replacement cattle met a broad demand with good quality selling at $18-19; good stock calves sold up to $20; mediums were $16-18; common steers and heifers down to $14.

Calves totalled 2,100 head; prices were unchanged on this class with good to choice vealers selling at $22-24; mediums $18-20; common dairy-type grass calves down to $10.

There were 3,000 hogs received; prices were 10 cents a hundredweight lower with top hogs selling generally at $26.30; B1's were $21.40; there were several small lots cleared at $26.10 and $25.75, respectively; sows were $1 a hundredweight lower at generally $17; liveries by rail were paid at $22, by truck $21.50; feeder ewes and wethers; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; common to medium lambs sold at $15-20; good light sheep were $8-10; common sheep down to $4.

Expert Proposes Lighting System For Speedsters

TOKYO (Reuters)—Cupid won a textile mill strike here Thursday. The head of the girls' union and mills agreed that mill - workers have the "right to fall in love" and the right to get married if they want to. An agreement ended a three-month-old strike.

About 13,000 girls at the Omi factories alleged that the company banned love affairs because of "loss of efficiency," forbade marriage, would not let them wear make-up, and made them parade singing Buddhist hymns.

PICTON

Varied Program, Parade, Make Milford Fair a Success

PICTON—Clear and cool weather favored Milford Fair on Wednesday contributing to a successful day. The many attractions both afternoon and evening were enjoyed by large crowds. The Fair was officially opened by County Warden Donald Walker following a colorful parade in which Royal Street School won first prize. Dressed as dairy maids and boys in yellow and white, their entry featured the Mc-Farland dairy cheese made in their community. Second place went to Port Milford who dressed the Port theme by carrying a large model of a boat. Point Traverse was third dressed as cowboys and cowgirls to advertise Three R's Ranch. Rose's School was third, wearing costumes to depict nursery rhymes. Milford School pupils were dressed in costumes to represent countries and professions featured in Milford library books. Black Creek's banner had a map of the county and pupils were red, white and blue decorations and maple leaves. Jackson Falls pupils were dressed to represent different products.

Winners for decorated cars were Lewis Rorabeck, Dixon Community Club, Carson Scott and Mrs. McIntosh, for horses, Janet Langmuir, Gary Rorabeck, Pat Minaker, Rosemary McCaw, decorated bicycle, Aileen Hineman, horse and buggy, Jo Bond, ladies in costume, Mrs. Clifford Walker and Mrs. Jim McCaw.

In the main building the bounty of orchard and garden made a colorful display, with an especially large entry of fruit, flowers and vegetables. There were 92 plates of apples, 18 pears, 25 pumpkin, squash, squash, 20 plates carrots, 14 of beets, 10 of potatoes, 11 entries in corn, 15 in cucumbers, among others, all by the children of South Marysburg township.

In the church hall, art, handicraft, sewnje, writing, cooking, by both adults and children were displayed.

Sheep and calves attracted spectators as did booths operated by Royal Street Club, Carman-Union WA. and the Good Neighbor Club. The township refreshment booth looked after the wants of the inner man, Bingo was an added feature.

The showing of waterfowl, poultry, pigeons, rabbits, cats, dogs, bantams also made an interesting display.

MOST ADMIRED DISPLAY

Much admired was the display of oil paintings done by a group of Milford amateurs under the guidance of Mrs. E. Wrightson.

A display of dolls dressed by Margie Heimer won much praise, "Marilyn Monroe" in bathing costume was included among a complete bridal party. Favorites girls, Miss America, Red Riding Hood, Bo-Peep, Miss Hawaii and a Gibson Girl. The patriotic costumes were really beautiful.

During the afternoon Carson Scott was an able M.C. as he conducted a wide variety of contests, interspersed with music. Mr. Norton, Bloomfield, who is 92, was the oldest man present; Mr. and Mrs. T. Mouck, wed 52 years, the oldest married couple; Mrs. A. Morris from Saskatchewan the person coming the longest distance; Mr. and Mrs. W. Main, the most recently wed couple.

Mrs. W. Striker won a rolling pin throw; Clinton Helmer was the best weight thrower; Mrs. K. Ferguson the best saddlebred and Mrs. Jack Robinson the best hog caller.

CLUB CALF CONTEST

The judging of County 4-H Club calves for the county championship attracted much interest. Ag. Rep. Oliver Dalrymple, Stirling, was judge, with Ag. Rep. Don Taylor and assistant Bruce McCorquodale in charge.

Calves were placed as follows: Bob May, Picton Club; John Hughes, Milford; Bob Denard, Hillier - Ameliasburgh; James Hughes, Milford; Neil Denard, H.A.

A display of round and block cheese by McFarland Dairy Co., at Royal Street was a special feature. Milford Library held a book sale. Fair-goers contributed generously to the cancer, polio, tuberculosis tag day, Mrs. A. MacDonald in charge.

WIN MOST POINTS

Points were given schools for each prize won. S.S 12 was first with 397 points; S.S. 15, 246 points; S.S. 15, 221 points; S.S. 14, 172 points; S.S. 13, 199 points; S.S. 16, 70 points; S.S. 17, 138 points.

Wrex Hicks is president of the Fair and Stewart York, secretary.

NIGHT SHOW

The large shed was filled to capacity with nearly 500 persons for the night show at Milford Fair, with an excellent program, and a great variety of attendance prizes being awarded by M. C. Carson Scott.

Taking part in a quiz, which was recorded for broadcast over CJBQ, courtesy Minaker's Garage, were two teams, Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. Harold Miller were finalists on the two teams. Mrs. Miller emerging as champion in the true or false contest. Jack Devine was "M.C. for this feature.

A number of those present were called upon for brief interviews and an old time orchestra provided music.

Lyndon Hicks and Glendon Walker were announced as winners of the pupils winning the most awards.

BABY SHOW

The many lovely babies were judged by Dr. Breuls, M.O.H. and Health Unit nurses. - Grand Champion was Susan Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Salt. Winners in boys' class were, Bawdy son of Mr. and Mrs. Holland McIntosh; Wayne Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gyde; son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex McKee. in girls' class Susan Ann Salt, Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brooks; Rhonda Lee, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fox.

Pattered after a TV program, a "What's My Secret" program provided much fun. Judges panel included Don Thompson, Jean Mumford; Stewart York, Mrs. C. Rose. Carson Scott was M.C. Contestants were Donald Taylor, whose secret was that a new ram had been purchased for the Meadowcroft Farewell flock; Mrs. Murray Clapp who had waited on Lord Louis Mountbatten during her service in the war, Mrs. Kay Gribble, the first lady in the county to secure a pilot's license, and finally a hilarious one in which Albert Chapman was wearing his wife's pants (beneath his own). All secrets were guessed by the panel after much questioning.

MARILYN DESERVES A REST

When Marilyn Bell swam across Lake Ontario it required more than high skill and stout stamina. It also demanded great courage.

Most people, we think, recognized that. The acclaim which she received was not merely for an athletic feat but for the high qualities of character which were necessary in this achievement.

Because these qualities are not commonplace, we all have a right to be interested in her welfare.

The first concern of many who followed her struggle by listening to radio commentators or reading newspapers was that her ordeal might have caused physical damage. Medical examinations proved these fears groundless.

Now, however, the mental strain of the round of engagements following the swim appears to have done what the physical strain of the swim itself could not do. Marilyn's family physician says that she is "slightly confused" and has prescribed rest and quiet for her.

Those who truly and readily acquiesce. One cannot help but marvel, however, at one statement reported to have been made by "an adviser". He or she said: "We've got to capitalize on her appearances for today and if it is humanly possible that is all she will have."

In the name of common sense what demand on Marilyn's time could be so urgent that the child—for she is really only that—could not be permitted to obtain the rest which her health demands and which she has so richly earned?

In a refreshing contrast, read the statement by her coach, Cec Ryder, who has proved that he is a sincere friend by declining Marilyn's offer of half her rewards: "If they want Marilyn Bell to keep on swimming and to retain her long-distance championship, they'll have to give her normal routine of her life—no matter what it costs in dollars and cents—the better it will be for her."

DID THIS PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME?

Not a day passes without somebody voicing dismay and surprise at the mounting waves of crimes of violence, crimes which frequently appear to have violence as an end in itself rather than a means to an end.

Sadistic assaults are becoming commonplace.

Crimes against the person are regarded by most people as more serious than crimes against property and certainly as deserving of greater punishment than mere infractions of regulations designed to control certain aspects of our social life. Sometimes, however, the sentences imposed by courts do not reflect public opinion on these matters.

A case in point is a sentence imposed by Magistrate O. M. Martin in York County court on Tuesday of this week.

Three teen-age Scarboro youths had accosted another teen-ager as he was walking with his girl. They grabbed him and put him in their car. They took him to the lakeshore at Scarboro Beach, tied him with a chain, dragged him through the water, pulled him up the Bluffs, rolled him in a tarpaulin, crammed him into the trunk of their car, drove him to a lonely spot and threw him in a swamp.

Magistrate Martin decided that they should pay $100 apiece for their evening's entertainment. He said he had considered sending the trio to jail. His final decision, though, was that they should pay the fines the alternative if the fines were unpaid. They were paid.

If these three youths had taken a car, and had been charged with theft of the car, the maximum or minimum sentence which could have been imposed would be a year, although this sentence could be suspended.

If they had purchased a bottle of whiskey illegally, the minimum fine would have been $100.

Judging from the sentences we reach the conclusion that it is considered no more wicked today to assault a youth in a manner which a police officer may say "it was the worst thing I've ever seen" than it is to purchase a bottle of liquor from a bootlegger.

If sentences for crimes of violence were more severe, perhaps maximum sentences would twice before they indulged their appetite for bullying, beating and torturing.

HE LIKES NIGHT WORK

Night life is great!

That is the opinion of Brooks Atkinson. He ought to know because, as drama critic for a New York morning paper, he has been a night worker for thirty years.

"Don't wake up in the morning and say 'work at night,'" is the advice he gives in the October issue of the Reader's Digest.

This is not the first time we had heard about a night worker who was enthusiastic about his hours. Most of them grouse. Still, most of us day workers do that, too. So perhaps the complaints of the night workers need not be taken too seriously. Perhaps they actually have to grouse as Mr. Atkinson says they do, against the temptation to patronize those who work by day.

Of one thing, though, we are sure. Any enthusiasm for night work is limited to night workers. The man who has always worked in the day time regards a night shift with dread.

But the most irksome part of night shifts, we have been told by those who have had the opportunity to "enjoy" them, is that period when the worker switches from the night shift to the day shift, or vice versa. We are creatures of habit and when our routine is changed we are apt to become upset, if not physically ill. Particularly is this true with regard to sleep. Veteran night workers like Mr. Atkinson rarely have any trouble getting enough sleep during light hours, but if there is a change of shifts every fortnight the altered hours play hob with sleep and also with digestion.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In figuring how to beat the traffic problem, which is behaving more and more like the speed and urgency with which it is increasing, let us hope the experts do not overlook the local drivers.

We have all cussed out the Sunday driver as a menace and a nuisance on the Highways—the driver who has the family out for a spin and isn't going any place in particular.

On the highways is another menace, the local driver. The high-way, let us say, is crammed with people, ninety-five per cent of whom are in the process of driving a hundred or even two hundred miles between two cities, at any rate with a long haul ahead of them which they mean to keep moving.

Into the traffic stream, beside one of the towns or villages along the route, toddles a local man who is merely going to the next town, ten miles down the pike, and is in no hurry at all. Maybe his wife is with him, and they have a natural small town or village interest in their own neighborhood. They are passing the farms of folks they know, and they like to have a good look at them as they pass by. You can tell by the nice, easy, shirt-sleeve sort of way they lounge in the front seat. And they are merely poking along, in that pleasant small town way of theirs, a short distance to go, and no need for haste. If they hit 35 miles an hour, they drop back to thirty whenever they see some cows or a field of corn of one of their friends and neighbors.

What these local people can do to the stream of long-distance highspeed traffic is no joke. They create those backups which result in cutting, fuming and fret. They slow the whole procession down to whatever their speed is. They must be a fruitful source of high-way accidents.

The designers of the newer big four lane and larger highways bear this fact in mind when they allow as few entrances on to the highway as possible. But however far they permit, the local people much prefer to ride on the big highway, even if they are only going eight miles. They help pay for them, don't they?

The First Haircut

(New York Times)

There is probably no experience more terrifying for a father than that of taking a son for his first haircut. Veterans of both world wars, men who advanced courageously and unquestioningly into enemy fire, will cringe under the mere thought of facing the neighborhood barber with Junior in tow. The ordeal requires only twenty or thirty minutes, yet each seething minute is crowded of screaming, squirming, squealing and sustained suffering. This taste compounded of pity for the child's mother, but tradition and woman's perceptive nature always ways require that the man assume the burden. The woman will bear the child, at terrible need, and in later years even help him with his homework—but as for the first haircut, that's father's job.

True, not every boy displays his worst side in the barber's chair, but the circumstances are rare. And since a father cannot possibly know that his son will submit quietly when the fatal moment arrives, the hours of suspense during the preliminary arrangements are basically mildly Junior's eventual goodness. Why are boys so often violently opposed to the first haircut? The psychologist probably will assign Dad's attitude to the early visits to a white-coated doctor, who caused him pain and discomfort by jabbing needles into diptheria, tetanus and whooping cough. When the white-coated barber steps forth with pointed shears in hand the child's past experience teaches before the fact to look upon as if in agony. Everyone in the barber shop turns amused or detached glances upon the child and the father wishes he were anywhere else.

At what age should a lad first be shorn? Most youngsters make their initial trip to the barber between the ages of two and three, oddly, the same father who must carry out the mission is the person who is most opposed to the idea of the haircut. He will observe that the child's hair needs cutting, follow the necklne and starting to curl, and when a well-meaning stranger notes innocently, "You certainly have a pretty little girl," the father will demand: "Junior must get a haircut tomorrow." This statement inevitably shocks the child's mother, "But his curls are so becoming," she will protest. If the weather is cool the father may be a reprieved but when Junior is obviously suffering from the heat, there can be no compromise.

The decision to act having been made, another problem then arises. "I'll tell Junior must get a haircut," his mother will insist, "and the barber not to cut his hair too short. Don't let him cut off all the curls." This attitude, of course, is contrary to male thinking. If Junior is to get a haircut, the father will assert, the job should be complete. Then the curls will return they may, a crew haircut is the result. Compromise is useless. A compromise again can be reached: The curls are removed and, instead of giving a crew cut, the barber follows a middle course, leaving a fringe on the forehead. When Junior toddles home shorn of his curls there often is greeted by silence on the part of mother—she cannot bear the New Look of her little boy. Then she notices all wounds, and even grows hair.

And why should not the first haircut be a momentous event in the life of a child? Because it is not the only inevitable things. Unless a person wants to be the object of curious stares at an amusement throughout his life he must shun the barber's chair when he has attained maturity and the hair stop his head becomes sparse, and he must be content with the remaining strands trimmed around his ears. The first haircut is an early milestone, a step toward manhood. A girl can go through life with never a reckless snipped at her curls or braids, but the male is a frequenter of the his barber every week or two. To go quietly for his first haircut and thereafter to submit to the manipulations hardly would be a realistic course for a boy to enter upon a custom destined to remain with him for life.

Romans Liked Their Apples

(New York Herald-Tribune)

Eating his first early apple pie, made from windfall August apples, a countryman forks up a few schoolboy memories of the days with the tart flavor and the flaky crust. The Romans, be remembers, liked apples. Plutarch, that Roman historian, had good words for them; and Cato talked about seven varieties—which is even more than Emerson had on his farm—and Columella, Virgil and Augustus, a countryman ponderers, probably ate apple pie—for his wife, Livia, was a fine housekeeper and had a clever Greek slave as chief cook. It pleases a man to trace the first apple pie back to the kitchen of Augustus.

The apple, like the Romans, went where it widely. The Romans took the apple to Britain, and there it throve wonderfully. Roman rule, when orchards must have grown great, perhaps on soil which is now London. Britain took the apple pie voyaged to America. Even the Indians, primitive tillers and farmers, liked apples well enough to plant better-stretter trees of the white men had carried them. How good an apple pie an Iroquois squaw could bake, and how countryman ponders, probably eats en sweetened with maple sugar, it was possible to imagine. It is a mighty difficult to spoil an apple pie, whether in a country cottage by restaurants, where the apples appear as hard chunks between leathery crusts.

About the time when the apple pie was perfected, Eve could write in a letter: "Good apple pies are a great comfort in a home and domestic happiness." Miss Austen, a famous early expert on home life in the country, knew that apple pie might be founded on apple pies. Thackeray loved to eat many happily than he would gooseberry tart, or too much custard pudding.

Whom are in the most popular dessert that can be put on a menu or set before men. Apple pie is as masculine as a Marine man legionary or an Elks' convention. To say Apple pie followed by Jane Austen, that devoted expert on what Emerson called "manners and breeding," is a trifle strange, but Emerson called "manners and breeding," is a trifle strange, but Emerson called "manners and breeding," is a trifle strange, but

Mr. and Mrs. Denis Callaghan Happily Wed for 50 Years

On September 8, Mr. and Mrs. Denis J. Callaghan, Corbyville, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. High Mass was celebrated in their honor by the former's brother, the Rev. John Callaghan, Westport. Rev. E. Brieland and the Rev. R. J. Walsh were present in the sanctuary.

After this the family had dinner at Golden Acre Inn, Belleville, and were "at home" to their friends and relatives in the afternoon and evening. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, cards and flowers including a substantial sum of money presented to them on behalf of the Knights of Columbus and neighbors. They received the Pope's blessing and also messages of congratulations from the Governor General, School Inspector and Frank Follwell, M.P.

On Friday evening previous to this the past and present township officials gathered and presented Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan with air-foam pillows and pillow cases also beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan were married fifty years ago in Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, by Dean O'Connor. They have lived all their lives on their present farm.

Mr. Callaghan has been very active in township affairs. He has been clerk for the past 35 years. He has also been secretary-treasurer of Rural Union Separate School for almost 14 years.

They have nine children and 21 grandchildren: Mrs. Leo Quinn (Dreda) Kingston; Mrs. Dan Bowerman (Carm), Preston; Rev. Sister Callaghan (Vera), Hotel Dieu, St. Catharines; Mrs. E. A. Jones (Helen), Los Angeles, California; Ken, Tweed; Wilfred, Montreal; Franklin, Killaloe; Jerry, Toronto; and Adrian at home. Members of the family were all present for this occasion except Mrs. Jones of California.

Prince of Wales Home and School Club Meets

The September meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School club was held in the school, Tuesday with the new president, Mrs. Peter Murray, chairman.

A large suggestion jar was brought to the attention of the audience as it is supposed to hold ideas from the parents of a worthwhile project for the association.

The roll call resulted in a three-way tie for the rooms of Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Burtt and Mrs. Phillips with fifteen parents present for each.

Mr. Burch, the program convener called upon Mr. McKay who sang "Moonlight and Roses". He was accompanied by Mrs. Irvin Badgeley.

Mr. Burch gave an outline of three-way tie for the rooms of dominion organizations and various others with the duties of some being mentioned.

Dr. Russell Bateman was the guest speaker for the evening. He recalled studying "The Vision of Mirzah," and related how bridge of seven perfect spans each representing a decade of life crossed the river Styx, followed by three or more broken spans. Many people came from a cloud of mist on one side of the bridge and entered a cloud of mist on the other side. On the bridge were many trapdoors which some people fell through unwittingly and other people were pushed through by men with scimitars. The most numerous trap doors were in the first span and the seventh span.

The interpretation of Mirzah's vision was that the bridge was life. Each trap door was the illness that caused death represented by the river Styx. More diseases are contracted by people in the first and last stages of their life, represented by the numerous trap-doors in the first and seventh spans.

DISEASES BEING CONQUERED

Dr. Bateman showed how modern medicine and modern means of doctoring have almost abolished infantile diseases of acute intestinal flu, whooping cough, pneumonia, measles, both German and red and congenital anomalies or blue babies in the first decade.

The second span's former fatal diseases were smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, rheumatic fever, polio and tuberculosis.

Those in the span of twenty to forty years are killed by automobile, airplane and swimming accidents caused by a person's carelessness or daring. Only the individual can decrease his own chances of falling through these pitfalls.

The forty and fifty year span's death rate is rapidly increasing. The main illnesses are coronary thrombosis and cancer. Good advice was given to slow down the pace of life, read the Bible and good books rather than detective, sex and crime books, eat mother's home-cooked foods, rather than the luxuries of canned pigs' tails or bacon rinds. In other words, slow down.

Longevity is said that people nowadays will live longer than the preceding generations but that more babies will be saved to live a life of perhaps seventy years instead of seven weeks or less.

Mr. Durrant thanked Dr. Bateman for the interesting talk.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Grey and her committee.

THREE CHARGED

HAMILTON (CP) — Police said three men were charged Thursday with theft from their employer following a raid on a house where officers found nearly $3,000 worth of merchandise stolen from a downtown department store. Arrested were Michael Kingsley, 32, Robert Cooke, 24 and James

Mother's Body Dragged 5 Miles On Car's Bumper

EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)— A 23-year-old mother of three children was killed Wednesday night when hit by a car and dragged five miles on its bumper.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Grace Sullivan Frank. Police said the car struck her on Route 18 here, and dragged her along five miles until another motorist hailed the driver, councilman Norman F. Childers, 43, of Milltown, N.J.

Police quoted Childers as saying he felt a bump but wasn't aware his car struck anything.

Doucett Taken To Hospital

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett was taken to hospital Thursday after suffering a slight gastric hemorrhage. A complete physical checkup has been ordered.

Doctors said routine examinations would not be completed for some time.

Mr. Doucett has suffered short periods of illness since he was discharged from an Ottawa hospital after spending six months there following a serious car accident during the 1951 general election campaign.

"He has been under terrific strain during the last few months and there is no doubt this has contributed to his physical breakdown," said Dr. C. R. Rapp.

Drive for Community Centre Fund to Open on October 4

TRENTON (Special)—An official of the Trenton Community Centre project announced today that the drive to raise $175,000 to build the centre would get underway Monday, October 4.

The ways-and-means workers plan a canvass of local merchants and industry coupled with an appeal to business people across the country. It has been decided to solicit donations from former residents of Trenton.

In addition money-raising projects will be launched by various service clubs and voluntary organizations in town.

The site for the proposed arena with auditorium overhead is situated just off Sidney Street east of the Queen Elizabeth Public School on the east side of the river. It comprises three acres of land adequate for the centre, a curling rink, tennis courts and a swimming pool. It is understood that special consideration and encouragement will be given crippled children and disabled persons in the district, when the centre is open for public use.

The financial committee has been encouraged by the prospects of receiving as much as a $10,000 grant from the Provincial government.

Switch Thrown To Start Plant In Operation

TRENTON (Special)—An new important addition to Trenton industry officially opened yesterday when J. K. Vivian, president of the North American interests of Williams and Williams of England threw a switch to start machinery in operation at the company's Canadian plant on West street. The company manufacturers items for the building trades and has 19 subsidiary companies. It is the largest distributor of metal windows and ancillary products in the world. The plant here covers 25,000 square feet and according to company officials there will be other additions erected as production warrants expansion.

Company officials praise Senator W. A. Fraser for convincing them that Trenton was the place to build their Canadian plant.

Some 50 local workers will find employment in this new industry at the beginning. Later this figure will be increased according to the official statement.

Weddings

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. W. James Glessing, Shannonbery, Quebec, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Anne, to Louis Francis Scanlan, son of Mrs. Veronica V. Scanlan, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Scanlan. The marriage to take place October 9, at St. Michael the Archangel Church, Belleville, at 10 a.m.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tweedy wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ruth, to James William, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Grant Robertson, Orillia. Wedding to take place on Saturday, October 9, 1954, at 2.30 p.m., at Cannifton United Church.

Mrs. Jean Van Der Cook of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Grace Stevens of Ithaca, N.Y., are spending their holidays with Mrs. and Mrs. R. D. Black, 23 Howard Street.

Mr. Harry Doran, Detroit, Mich., and Mr. Tod (Oliver) Doran, New Haven, Conn., both former professional hockey players, spent yesterday visiting their aunt, Miss Mary Doran, 245 George Street, and also renewing boyhood friendships. Born in Belleville, they are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doran, Toronto.

EUCHRE PARTY

Wednesday evening the C.W.L. of Holy Rosary Parish held its regular euchre party with 20 tables in play. The lucky winners were as follows: ladies' Miss Ford, Mrs. Aletha Smith, Mrs. A. Donovan, Mrs. Conway. Lone hand went to Mrs. Kelleher. Men, Jack Clarke, J. Snider, Noel Guay, with lone hand going to J. Snider.

Following the cards refreshments were served by the committee.

J. Doyle won the draw on a basket of groceries.

THREE FOR MAYOR

MONTREAL (CP)—Dave Rochon, city councillor since 1934 and leader of the council since 1950, announced Thursday he will be a candidate for mayor in the forthcoming civic elections. Mayor Camillien Houde currently undergoing a health checkup has not yet announced his intentions. Lawyer Jean Drapeau earlier announced he will be a candidate.

JOSS—HOOPES

MUSCATINE, Iowa.—The altar of the First Methodist church, banked with seven branch candelabra, ferns and arrangements of white gladioli and rose pink carnations, formed the setting here, September 5, for the wedding of Miss Ann Griffith Hoopes and Donald Greenleaf Joss. The vows were spoken at 4 p.m. with the Rev. A. D. Steffenson, pastor of the church, officiating at the single ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Hoopes, 345 Belmont Road, Muscatine. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Joss, of Belleville, Ontario.

Mrs. Floyd Scott was organist, playing selections by Bach and Handel and the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Myrna Cameron of Montreal, Canada, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids and bridesmaid were Mrs. Jack Fahy of Muscatine; Mrs. Robert Jeffris of Piedmont, Mo., and Miss Arley Berwald of San Francisco, Calif. Lawrence Schaard of Belleville, served as best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Ray-mond Lewis of Dorval, Quebec, Canada; Bradford Burns of Muscatine, and Joel Maser, of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in nylon tulle over bridal satin. The gown had a fitted bodice, portrait neckline edged with Alencon lace points, and a bouffant skirt with tiers edged with Alencon lace extending through the cathedral train. She wore a fingertip veil of pure silk imported illusion, attached to a cap of pleated illusion trimmed with drop pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of stephanotis and pink elf roses.

Miss Cameron was in a gown of shell pink nylon tulle and lace, designed with a fitted bodice, and fitted jacket with insert of lace in back and a stand-up collar. The bouffant skirt also was styled with an insert of lace. Her bouquet was a crescent arrangement of stephanotis and blue pom poms, and in her hair was a circlet of blue pom poms and stephanotis with tulle.

The other attendants of the bride wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried crescent bouquets of blue pom poms and wore circlets of like flowers and tulle in their hair.

A reception was held in the church parlors. At the centre of the serving table was a four tier wedding cake with garlands of sugared roses, a nosegay of pink elf roses and blue pom poms. The cake was topped with a Colonial bouquet of roses, stephanotis and blue pom poms.

Mrs. Warren Baker cut the wedding cake, assisted by Miss Marian Tomlin. Others assisting with the serving were Miss Marcia Wagner and Miss Albert Montgomery. Mrs. Glen Green had charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Joss are on a wedding trip to Mexico. For going away the bride chose a grey suit with white trim, and her accessories were in blue and black. After October 1, they will be at home at 326 Dufferin Avenue, Belleville.

Mrs. Joss, a graduate of Muscatine high school with the class of 1950, attended Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., and was graduated from McGill University, Montreal, this year. She was affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta sorority of McGill. Mr. Joss was graduated from McGill University in 1953. He is employed as assistant general manager of Black Diamond Cheese Ltd., Belleville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Belleville, Toronto, and Hope, Ontario, Canada; Denver, Colo.; Cambridge, Mass.; Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport and Iowa City, Ia.

Women's Activities

Y'S MENETTES

The fall season got off to a good start Tuesday evening when the Y's Menettes entertained their Y's Men with an evening of square dancing ably directed and called by Fred Page from the Recreation Commission. After an evening of very lively dances, the tired but happy group was treated to a wiener roast accompanied by coffee and watermelon served by the executive. It was with "let's do it again" feeling that a successful evening drew to a close.

BRIDGE STREET EVENING AUXILIARY

The Bridge Street United Church Evening Auxiliary members held their September meeting in the church parlors.

Miss Lazier, vice-president, welcomed the members and conducted the business part of the meeting. The minutes of the June meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Dougherty. Temperance and Christian Stewardship selections were given by Mrs. Calnan and Miss G. Houston respectively.

The study book this year deals with India. Mrs. Morden gave an interesting review about India, the land of contrast. It embodies every kind of story, stated Mrs. Morden. Attention was drawn to India's varied climate, series of invasions, divided cast, political development and the work of the missionaries.

Miss Lazier read the Scripture and gave the theme "A Nation Before God".

Miss Frank Lazier and her group were responsible for the refreshments.

HOLLOWAY STREET WMS

The first fall meeting of the Holloway Street United Church W.M.S. was held in the church parlor with the president, Mrs. Coulter presiding. After brief opening exercises, reports were received from the various secretaries, including that of the supply secretary, Mrs. Bunnett, who reported having shipped three bales containing seven new quilts, layettes hospital supplies, and valuable clothing to the overseas relief. These were contributed by the reading circle, mission band and members.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. R. Dorsee, the theme being, "A Nation Before God", assisted by Mrs. Moorman the member representing India, and Mrs. Walters, the member representing Canada. The offering was received by Mrs. Kingston and Mrs. Moynes, after which the dedication hymn was sung in unison.

NEW STUDY BOOK

Highlights from the School for Leaders, recently held in Whitby were brought by Mrs. F. Wilson in a report filled with enthusiasm and information preparatory to the study of the country of India, which will begin with the new study book "The Church in India" by R. M. Bennett.

Contacts there with outstanding Christian leaders, as well as scholarship students from other countries, who brought an international viewpoint to the school, a medium, through which members attending received a worldwide vision and outlook, and which Mrs. Wilson succeeded in bringing to the meeting.

After the benediction, Mrs. Dorsee and her group served refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S WMS

St. Andrew's WMS opened its autumn season Monday.

Following a letter of resignation from treasurer Mrs. Nulls, the secretary, Mrs. Diamond, was elected to take the vacated office. The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Craig.

Mrs. Egerton Boyce was in charge of the devotions. Scripture was read by Mrs. G. Walbridge, and Mrs. Bell gave the prayer. Guest soloist was Mrs. R. Cowie. Mrs. Boyce also gave an interesting talk and reading built on the theme "What Would You Do" which related the case histories of situations met by missionaries in many corners of the world.

The first one was of a young man in India who was opposed by his family from joining the Christian church, while his mother threatened suicide.

The second case history was read by Mrs. Mantis of a young African chief who also wanted to commit himself and his life to the church. He had three wives and polygamy is not practised in the Christian church.

The third case was from a missionary in Formosa. Her problem was a common one, of a young girl wanting to marry a boy not of her faith—not even a Christian. These things count more in foreign lands and it is quite a struggle for a believer to marry a non-believer.

LOST ARM, PINED

KITCHENER (CP) — Jerome Schill of Heidelberg, Ont., who lost an arm in an accident last July, was fined $30 in court Thursday on charges arising from the mishap. He pleaded guilty charges of careless driving and having liquor in his possession.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER HUSBAND WANTS TO GO OUT WITHOUT HER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 30 years old and my husband is 36. For the past year, he doesn't seem to care whether I go anywhere with him or not. In fact, he seems better pleased if I stay home. He now goes out at least two and sometimes three nights a week by himself, and when he comes back, around midnight, has little or nothing to say about where he has been.

Do you think I should insist that he take me with him when he goes out, or make my own plans? I just can't understand his attitude. —Mrs. W.H.

Dear Mrs. W.H.:

I doubt if it would help your situation very much if you were to insist on accompanying your husband wherever he goes. In fact, it might just aggravate whatever friction there is between you about the matter.

The better plan would be to do as you yourself suggest, and create your own good times by going with your friends. Perhaps if your husband sees that you are able to enjoy yourself without him, his attitude may change.

As I see it, the only hope a wife has of improving a situation of this kind is to make herself such an interesting and independent person that her husband will decide she is more fun to be with than anyone else, and that the evening is not complete if he goes out without her.

ENGAGEMENT - ANNOUNCEMENT PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

A few weeks ago our daughter received her engagement ring. We have not yet made an announcement because she has had to be away. Her fiance's parents live in a city not very far from where we live, and beginning in the Fall she will be working and living in their city. We have not yet entertained his parents. Please tell us the proper procedure about announcing the engagement, and what is expected of us as the engaged girl's parents. — Mother

The announcement of the engagement is, of course, made by you and your husband. First the date on which the announcement is to be made is decided on. Then your daughter tells The Happy News to her relatives and friends, writes notes to those who live at a distance, asking all to "keep it secret" until the date decided on. Her fiance in the meantime tells or writes the news to his relatives and friends. To make the public announcement you and your husband send the formal announcement to the society editors of the newspapers in your city, and, usually, to the newspapers in the fiance's city. This is the simplest way to make the announcement. If you wish (though this isn't necessary), you may give a party of some kind, a late-afternoon party, or a small dinner (often given for only the members of the immediate families), or a buffet dinner or luncheon or supper. Before making the announcement, it would be pleasant, if convenient, to invite your daughter's fiance and his parents to some special occasion, Sunday luncheon or dinner, or tea, or whatever. (They should, of course, make the welcome-into-the-family gesture to your daughter, if you haven't already made this . . . then either they or you may extend the first invitation.)

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would you possibly have a recipe for canning fruit salad? My husband and I are very fond of jelly and fruit mixtures and with so many varieties now in season I thought I would try and do some down.—Mrs. C. L.

QUESTION:

I have been looking for a recipe for home canned Fruit Salad which includes cantaloupe, and have been advised to ask you.—Mrs. S. K.

ANSWER:

I have given you this recipe before and have heard from readers who have made it and are enthusiastic about it.

CANNED FRUIT SALAD

Twelve each perfect ripe peaches and pears, 3 firm apples, 1 large perfect sweet ripe cantaloupe or honeydew melon, 2 No. 2 cans cubed or sliced pineapple, 1 medium-sized bottle of maraschino cherries. Peel, core and cut peaches, pears and apples into large cubes. Cantaloupe may be cubed too but is prettier if cut into balls. Add pineapple to these, stir to mix evenly. Measure. To each 3 cups of prepared fruit add 1 cup of white sugar and place mixture in earthenware bowl and allow to stand, covered for 4 or 6 hours. Add the cherries and put fruit mixture in hot sterile jars. Seal to within 1-4 turn of tight and process in hot water bath for 10 minutes, counting the time after water in bath has come to boiling point. Tighten seal—never open the jars to fill them up from time to time. When serving, this is good with the addition of cubed bananas and sections of grapefruit. . . .

QUESTION:

. . . I have saved and used many of your recipes and have been very pleased with the results. My husband has recently bought a 15-gal. keg from a bakery shop. It contained a sweet syrup. We would like to clean the barrel out and use it for making dill pickles. Would you be able to give me the quantity of the ingredients necessary for making such a large amount of pickles? Also the directions? Would also like to know if we can keep pickles in the barrel or if we must pack them in sealers . . . would it be harmful in any way if we coated the inside of the barrel with wax before using it.—Mrs. R. M.

ANSWER:

I do not think you need to wax the barrel. Wash it well to remove any sweet taste left in the wood from the bakery syrup, then rinse it with boiling water, then dry it in the sun all day, then fill it with clear cold water and let it stand for 24 hours before you make your dill pickles. As far as amounts are concerned the only instructions I can be sure of are for 300 4 or 5-inch cucumbers. Wash them well and place in the clean keg (or earthenware pickle crock). Cover with a cold brine made in proportions of 1 1-2 cups non-iodized salt to each 3 1-2 Imperial quarts of water. Be sure all cucumbers are submerged. Allow to stand in this brine until acid test is given. (Acid test is made by dipping blue litmus paper—which you buy at the drug store—in the brine. If it turns pink cucumbers have been brined long enough.) Drain off brine but reserve it. In the bottom of the keg arrange a double layer of grape leaves, then put in a layer of cucumbers and sprinkle with dill and, if desired a few cloves and pieces of red pepper and 1 or 2 slices of garlic. Repeat until all cucumbers are in. If desired 1-2 cup mustard seed and 1-2 cup horseradish may be added as you do this layering. Add 1-2 cup salt to each 3 1-2 quarts of brine that was poured off, and pour it over the cucumbers again. Cover with cheesecloth to protect it from dust. Place heavy plate or clean board on top to keep all cucumbers submerged. Since these should not be used for 3 or 6 weeks it is advisable to cover them by pouring over melted paraffin to seal.

Canniton WMS Has Monthly Meet

Canniton W.M.S. held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Pound. The meeting opened by all singing the Doxol-ogy followed by The Lord's Prayer.

Mrs J. Williams, president, extended a welcome to all present. A "thank you" letter from Mrs. Farnsworth was read and also other correspondence. Mrs. R. Pound gave a report on the Mission Band and it was decided to order 40 church calendars. Mrs. W. Brenton and Mrs. Philp have charge of the program for next month.

"A Nation Before God" was the theme of the worship service. Music by Mrs. H. Farnham on the record player was enjoyed. Readings were given by Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Philp and Mrs. Farnham.

Mrs. Williams then introduced Mrs. A. Holgate gave a reading on Christian Stewardship and Mrs. F. Holgate on the World Council of Churches.

A presentation was given to Mrs. Lobb from the W.M.S. and the W.A., by Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Lobb is moving away from the community. Lunch was served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

Sunday School Lesson:

Love Never Loses a Battle

By ROY L. SMITH

The Apostle Paul, in his immortal ode to love in the 13th chapter of First Corinthians, has given us what might well be called the germ of this lesson: "Love never fails." It is the most effective and the most reliable weapon any person can employ.

LOVE YOUR ENEMIES

The man who sets out to love his enemies soon finds that many of them never actually existed. They may have been nothing worse than friends that did not understand him. As soon as he shows himself lovable their opposition to criticize disappears entirely.

If he really tries to love his enemies, he will soon discover that some of them are only critics waiting to be converted. If he is able to make a good showing they are ready to change their minds.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 19: "Growing in Christian Love." Matthew 5:43-48; 18:21-35; Ephesians 4:25—5:2; I John 4:7-21.

As soon as he begins loving them they are apt to surrender. The manager of a great sales organization once said, "There is no salesmanship like a good smile." Almost anyone can resist the guy with the strong argument, but no one can resist the man who is persistently friendly." And the principle holds true in many other fields than salesmanship.

AVOID CONTROVERSIES

If one were to run hurriedly through the letters of the great Apostle to the first century Christian churches, he would be surprised to note how many times the old missionary warned his people against becoming involved in arguments, controversies, and dissension.

Much more frequently than his strictures against drunkenness and lechery we find him urging upon the church the importance of peace, forbearance, forgiveness and graciousness. He held dissipation in disdain, of course, and he could speak very bluntly and even severely about men who were guilty of moral lapses, but nothing alarmed him any more than a church quarrel. And the church war that gets into the newspapers would have disheartened him incredibly.

MEASURE CHRISTIAN FAITH

At least a part of this week's Sunday School lesson seems to say that you can measure any man's religion by the way he loves his neighbor, and that his loyalty to God can be estimated by his loyalty to those who trust him as a Christian brother.

It has been said that any man's religion can be measured by the radius of his sympathies. Most of us find it easy to love the members of our own families, and the majority of us trust those in our own circle of friends, but from that point on out our affections become thinner and thinner. It is the distinguishing mark of the friendship of Jesus, however, that there was no diminution of His love clear to the last. Even on His cross He prayed for forgiveness for those who were doing Him to death, and with one of His last breaths He spoke reassuringly to a thief who hung, dying, alongside Him.

Had any man from the edge of the grave cried out for forgiveness, we may be sure he would have heard generous and gentle words from the expiring Master.

It is always unsafe to measure our faith alongside that of another believer. The only safe way is to measure our faith alongside that of our Lord's.

His forgiveness went out with undiminished fervor and eagerness to the last man who was in need or asked for it.

400,000 Hunters Expected To Take to Marshes in Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With ducks plentiful in many sections of Canada this year, the duck-hunting season has been lengthened in some areas.

Big limits in most provinces, average eight or nine, with possession limits between 15 and 30. About 400,000 hunters are expected to take to the marshes.

Farmers in Manitoba and residents in Nova Scotia need no licence to hunt ducks, but other provinces charge from $2 to $35, with the higher rates for hunters from outside Canada.

LATE IN B.C.

In British Columbia, the season for the western inclave is Oct. 16 to Jan. 16; eastern area Sept. 1 to Oct. 31, and other sections Sept. 15 to Dec. 15.

Cold weather last spring caused a late hatch and birds are just arriving. The province however is expected to have an average supply, with pintail, widgeon and mallard the most common types. The bag limit is 10, including one wood duck, and possession limit depends on the number of days out.

A good season is forecast for Alberta with mallards expected to be the most prevalent. Bag limit is eight daily, with possession limit of 32. About 80,000 hunters turned out last year, getting an average bag of 14.

Because of crop damage by mallards and pintails, Alberta issued a special permit to shoot these ducks from Sept. 7 to 17, prior to the general season running from Sept. 18 to Dec. 4. The special permit area covered all crop lands in the Grande Prairie and Peace River regions, and was the first ever issued for the Peace River block.

In Saskatchewan, the open season for the north is from Sept. 11 to Nov. 29, and for the south Sept. 18 to Dec. 17. Ducks are plentiful and officials are expecting heavy flights southward. Daily limit is 10 and possession limit is 40, of which 20 must be mallard. One wood duck is allowed.

RECORD FOR MANITOBA

A record number of licences were issued in Manitoba last year —34,715—but officials say the total may be even higher this season. The bag is 10 a day, with possession 30.

The open season in Manitoba started Sept. 1 north of the 57th parallel, remains to Oct. 30. Between Parallels 57 and 53, the season runs from Sept. 16 to Nov. 25.

St. Thomas Elgins Win Intercounty Baseball Title

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Norm Hurley, whistler hooked and St. Thomas Elgins' fans cheered well into the new day as the city celebrated its first senior intercounty baseball championship since 1923.

The Elgins Thursday night captured the best-of-seven finals 4-3 with a 6-5 victory over the Galt Terriers.

It was a night to celebrate. It was 21 years ago that the Tom Cats brought the intercounty crown and the senior Ontario Baseball Association crown to the city.

After the game League Commissioner John Gillies of London and Secretary Jack Blakney presented the Ontario trophy to team manager Tommy White.

HOUSE JUMPED

It looked sad for Elgins in the first when the Terriers took a 1-0 lead but in the second hopes jumped; Doc Glenn hit a two-run homer.

The Elgins scored another three in the fifth on two hits and two walks, including a two-bagger by Don Butler, Roly Larouche took over from losing pitcher Bill Hanrahan.

Galt came back to score a run on four hits and an error.

Johnny Ambrosa, the starting St. Thomas hurler, allowed four straight hits in the seventh for two runs. Manager Tommy took over to put out the fire. In the eighth the Elgins scored a run on a walk and two errors, and it proved to be the winning trip.

The Terriers scored a run in the ninth on a walk and Freddy Thomas' fourth hit of the game—a big, fourth trip to the plate. A double play halted the series. The favorites were outhit 15-8 and not one Elgin had more than one hit.

Soccer Gossip

Last Saturday two minor teams from this city travelled to Toronto to take on two teams from the Queen City in the Ontario Minor Championship finals. The series is being played on a home and home basis with the total goals scored in the two matches to decide the winner.

Branch 99 Canadian Legion played the first match of a double-header when they took on Toronto Kalevs bantams. The Kalevs team were a much stronger outfit and were composed mainly of Ukrainians. A lot of credit should go to the local team composed mainly of home brew Canadians with not many years of soccer experience behind them that they were not defeated more than 7 goals to nothing.

In the second event Foley Foundry lost to Toronto juveniles by a four goals to nothing score. The return games are to be played at the Fairgrounds in Belleville tomorrow afternoon and the Foley squad should have a good chance of taking the measure of the Torontonians when they get them on their own ground. The kick-off for the bantam game is called for 2 p.m. whilst the juveniles take the field at 3.30 p.m. This will be the first visit of minor squads from Toronto to this city and the games should be well worth watching.

The Belleville bantam league and the Bay of Quinte juvenile league get under way next weekend and interest seems to be very keen for both the Frank Pollwell and the Bill Harvey trophies.

In their first round series for the Ontario Intermediate Cup Kingston United took the first leg from Peterborough Merchants 6-1. The second game of the series takes place in Peterborough tomorrow afternoon with the winner meeting Batawa in the semi-final. In the other semi-final round Peterborough UEW and Canadian Scottish will lock horns.

Batawa really trounced Toronto Slovaks last Sunday afternoon when they scored eight times without reply. Exton with three, Curphey and Rolfsema with two each and Pospouil were the marksmen.

Next Wednesday sees the last evening game of the season when Trenton Mercights and Northern Electric replay their third Belleville championship cup final game at Bain Memorial Park. Kick-off for this game is 6.30 p.m. sharp.

On Wednesday evening, the two teams met in the final of the Trenton Challenge Cup, and this game resulted in a one all tie. An executive meeting of the Cobourg Kilties F.A. is being called to decide on a replay.

WARWICK RESIGNS

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Bill Warwick, one of the trio of hockey brothers who placed Penticton V's to the Allan Cup last season, announced his retirement Thursday. He made no mention of plans to join another club.

SPORT IN BRIEF

WAR CAMP MANAGER

HAMILTON (CP) — Alexander C. Webster, 57, former manager and coach of the Hamilton Wildcat Football Club, died Wednesday. He had been employed by the city since 1951. He was a member of the Wildcat Football Club from 1941 to 1946 and served as manager and coach of the team. He was auditor of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association for several years.

PERGUS LOSES

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Beavers downed the Fergus Thistles 5-4 here Thursday night in the third game of their best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association playoff series. A semi-finals series, Sarnia leads 2-1 and the third and fourth games are in Fergus on Saturday and Tuesday.

ROCKWALL WINS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Defending champion Ken Rosewall of Australia Thursday won his way into the men's singles semi-finals of the Pacific southwest tennis tournament by defeating Hamilton Richardson of New Orleans 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2. Rosewall will play former U.S. champion Tony Trabert Saturday.

PLAN NEW STADIUM

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener Sports Association said Thursday it will study the possibility of promoting a new all-purpose sports stadium in the city. Plans of new stadiums in Winnipeg, Edmonton and other centres will be examined at the association's October meeting. A concrete, stand seating 8,000, was suggested as a nucleus on which to build. It was hoped a new stadium would be ready for use two or three years from now.

RESCHEDULE BOUT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The twice-postponed welterweight title bout between champion Kid Gavilan and fifth-ranked challenger Johnny Sarkin of Philadelphia was rescheduled Thursday for Oct. 20 at Convention Hall. Promoter Herman Taylor announced the new date and said the bout would be nationally-televised with a blackout imposed over a 100-mile radius of Philadelphia.

CUT DOWN ENTRIES

KITCHENER (CP)—Officials of the Kenzelring Golfing Field Day say they have had to turn down 150 entries for Saturday's 18-hole medal event at the Rockway Club. Gerry Kesselring, last year's winner who has turned professional, will play as a member of the featured foursome, including Nick Wallack of Windsor, Jerry Magee of Toronto, and Moe Norman of Rockway. The entry list has been limited to 240.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—like things kept—until your feet dragged and you felt old—and sickly. But those days you can face fifty with energy to spare and active years ahead of you. That is, if you can avoid backaches and the "tired-out" feeling due to kidney and bladder disorders. Most other ailments proceed that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order, helping them to feel better in body, better, and get more fun out of life. Don't neglect kidneys. Try, at last, Dodd's Kidney Pills. They may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 35

Ever See around a Corner?

THE stunning new windshield you find in every 1954 Buick does a lot more than merely keynote the most modern beauty of the times.

Just take the driver's seat in any one of these tomorrow-styled cars and you'll feel positively eagle-eyed.

The spectacular sweep of glass broadens your point of view to the right and to the left.

It puts more safety in your seeing. It lets you see more of what's coming from the sides—and quicker and easier, too—because the corner posts are pulled 'way back.

This, you realize, is true panoramic visibility—and makes anything else seem as outdated as long skirts.

But you ought to look into what else goes with the dream-car styling of these great new Buicks.

You ought to look into the whip-like performance of true high-compression V8 engines that reach new horsepower highs.

You ought to look into the silky new ride, the new handling ease, the utter smoothness and instant response of Twin Turbine Dynaflow.*

Most of all, you ought to look into the sensational new Buick CENTURY that's taking the country by storm—the great new Buick performer that gives you more horsepower per dollar than any other car.

We cordially invite you to come in today or the first thing tomorrow—to see and drive one of these great new Buicks—and judge for yourself that here is the beauty and the buy of the year, by far.

Giants Sweep Series With Braves; Dodgers Lose; Yanks Gain Half-Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THERE WERE THE DAYS!

With the Cleveland Indians "practically in" as far as the American League pennant is concerned, that bitter series between Detroit Tigers and the Tribe in 1940 comes to mind. The clubs were battling each other in a bitter pennant race and it was pretty much agreed the winner of the series would cop the flag.

The Tigers took the first game 6-5 and the Tribe's fates were longer than their wigwam poles. Among the morbidly depressed Indians were two young pitchers, Harry Eisenstat and Johnny Humphries who happened to be room-mates.

They slept fitfully through the night, tossing and groaning. Along about 7 a.m. Eisenstat got out of bed and went to the bathroom. A few moments later Humphries awoke in the other bed. He glanced over and saw that Eisenstat's bed was vacant. Then his eyes moved to the window, which was wide open. A horrible thought came to his mind—he pictured Harry over the loss of the game, had leaped from the window to the pavement far below.

Humphries scrambled out of bed and rushed to the window. He was leaning far out, trying to see some evidence of his friend's suicide leap, when Eisenstat came back into the bedroom. Now it was Eisenstat's turn to be astonished. Here was his friend, out of his mind from the loss of that game, on the verge of taking his own life.

"Don't, Johnny! Don't do it", he cried. At the same time he rushed forward and grabbed Johnny. In a little while they got it all straightened out and went back to bed, and even after Detroit won the pennant they didn't try to end it all.

But for sheer hellery and cussedness none has even approached the hilarious antics of the old St. Louis Cardinals Gashouse Gang. When that wild and uncivilized band hit the road and stormed into one or another of the National League cities, strong men quailed and women and children hid in cellars until the lawless had been repelled.

A Philadelphia sports scribe wrote, "For three days this well-policed town has been prowled by a pack of unbarbered ruffians who looked as though they had just tunnelled their way out of the Joliet jute mill.

"The chipmunks nested in their beards. They wore overalls into the best hotel dining room in the city's best inn. They revived open street carnivals and sacked and pillaged the midways. They frightened traffic cops with their hideousness and made movie cashiers reach for the ceiling.

"They meant no harm. It was only the Dean brothers and the unspeakable Gashouse Gang trying to lure the Giants out of their winning streak.

"The whole thing could have been hushed up. The cops had half been fired, the city fathers had orders to stand by and do nothing unless Pepper Martin and Durocher started to snap and bark.

"But last night the lesser evil, Brother Paul Dean declared himself as a public enemy and stamped into a carnival hot smashing milk bottles with nickel rackets. The scandal broke."

During that visit the Gashousers spent one afternoon walloping the Phillies 11-6. That evening three men walked into the dining room of one of Philadelphia's swankiest hotels. They were dirty overalls and greasy caps, and they carried hammers. They wandered unmolested around the swank room, pounding radiators with their hammers and nobody appeared to recognize Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean and Ernie Schaible. From the dining room they proceeded to the grand ballroom where a convention of the Boys' Clubs of America was in session. There, in the middle of the convention floor, two of them faked a quarrel and then a free-swinging fist fight which ended in Dean knocking Martin to the carpet. The kids were sharper than the splendid people in the dining room. They soon caught on and compelled the invaders to get up and make some little speeches.

KINGSTON HERE SATURDAY

Bob Temple's Bobcats, fresh from their 10-3 victory over the Kingston Alcans in their first playdown round of the OASA intermediate "AA" series, entertain the Kingston club at the CNR Recreation Park Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The Cats played headless softball in that first fray but are not selling their opponents short. Marse Robert will field his strongest team in an effort to sweep the series and look for fresh fields to conquer.

TOGOS TONIGHT

The Terrible Togos, mit-tossing sons of the Land of the Rising Sun, arrived in town this evening looking as ferocious as ever and ready to battle their hated foemen Whipper Watson and Paisley of the Flanagans. These tycoonses are as friendly as a couple of bobcats strung over a barbed fence and the fireworks should reach a new explosive brilliancy tonight in Memorial Arena. Then there is Gentleman Jack Claybourne, an odd Belleville favorite who will battle Ski Hi Lee with Don Lewin and Billy Stack starting the night's fun.

Blast Brewers by 6-2 Scores, Cincy Hands 'Bums' 9-3 Loss; Tigers Bow to Champions 4-2

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Beaming with pride over his pennant-bound New York Giants, Leo Durocher today called his 1954 League leaders a greater club than his 1951 miracle team that came from way behind to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers with the never-to-be forgotten finish.

The voluble little manager, gushing with good will and in a bless-'em-all attitude, lauded his Giants as the "easiest team that ever walked out on a field" following what probably was their happiest day of the season.

Combining brilliant pitching, a tight defence and timely hitting, the Giants twice whipped the Milwaukee Braves by 6-2 scores Thursday to sweep the three-game series and stretch their first-place lead over Brooklyn to 4½ games. A 9-3 defeat inflicted by Cincinnati upon the Dodgers helped the Giants pick up a game in the loop.

As a result, the Giants can count their pennant chances on the fingers of one hand. The magic number is now five. Any combination of five Giant victories or Dodger defeats would clinch the flag for New York.

The game but hard-luck Braves, now 7½ lengths off the pace, are virtually eliminated from the competition there is three. In justice to the Braves, they played the entire New York series without the services of slugging Joe Adcock, their injured first baseman. In addition, Eddie Mathews was bandicapped by a lame left ankle. Bobby Thomson missed Thursday's twin bill because of his ailing ankle and Henry Aaron was out with a busted leg.

Only one other major league game was played. In that one, the New York Yankees prolonged their agony, defeating the Detroit Tigers 4 to 2 and keeping the pennant hopes barely alive. They still trail the pace-setting Cleveland Indians by eight games with only nine to go. Cleveland also has nine games left.

Despite the Giants' big bulge, Durocher refused to make any brash pennant statements.

"We play one game at a time," he said. "We've got to win again today." (The Giants play Philadelphia tonight). "But these two were good ones. My guys played like champions. You can't give them enough credit."

Ruben Gomez and Monte Irvin were the game stars. Gomez, the Puerto Rican righthander, turned in an eight-hitter for his 16th triumph and fourth in a row. Monte Irvin drove in four runs with a double, single and sacrifice fly as the Giants knocked out Warren Spahn for the first time this season. He had started six times against them.

Grisson and Wilhelm combined to hold the Braves to seven hits in the nightcap. Irvin making up his first start since May 1, gave up all the hits before he was removed after Mathews' 20th homer had tied the score at 2-2 with one out in the sixth inning. Wilhelm gained credit for the victory, his 12th, holding the Braves runless through the last 3⅓ innings. He now has pitched 9 2-3 consecutive hitless innings. Mays slammed his 40th homer and two singles to boost his batting average to .343 which tied him with Brooklyn's Duke Snider for the league lead. Alvin Dark and Davey Williams also homered off loser Lew Burdette in the nightcap.

Joe Nuxhall, the only lefthander to beat Brooklyn at Ebbets' Field, did it again with a route-going 10-hitter. The Reds walloped five Brooklyn hurlers for 13 hits including home runs by Wall Post, Bobby Adams and Ted Kluszewski. It was Kluszewski's 49th. Only Ralph Kiner (54) and Johnny Mize (51) have hit more in a season.

Yogi Berra's three-run homer in the first inning was all young Bob Grim needed to win his 19th game of the season. The righthander permitted six hits.

McCabe Hurls In Relief Role

SUDBURY (CP) — Copper Cliff Redmen rapped out a 7-5 victory at the expense of the Sudbury Shamrocks here Wednesday night to enter the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League finals.

Shamrocks bowed out of the semi-final series with a 4-1 record. Jack Duyvestyn got credit for the win, although he had relief help from Leo Jacques in the fifth, and Moose McQuarrie in the seventh.

Maurice St. 'Amour was charged with the loss. Ralph McCabe relieved him in the fourth after a six-run rally by the Redmen in the third inning.

The best-of-seven final series between Creighton Indians and Copper Cliff begins tonight.

Leafs Blank Syracuse 8-0 In Series Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luke Sewell, veteran major league baseball star and manager who guided Toronto Maple Leafs to their first international league pennant since 1943, is out after new laurels.

The skipper hopes to bring Toronto its first sweep of the regular season and the playoffs. The Maple Leafs have won eight pennants and the Governor's Cup once—in 1934—since the playoffs began. But the year of grace was the cup they didn't win the pennant.

The Leafs jumped off to a good start in their much-delayed semi-final series against fourth-place Syracuse Thursday night with an 8-0 victory. Eddie Blake allowed the Chiefs only five scattered hits and Leafs piled up all eight runs in the first four innings against Jim Owens and Jack Spring before Joe Tully and Ed Zinker came along to hold them hitless over the last four.

First-baseman Ed Stevens was the big gun for Toronto. He slugged home one run in the first and homered with a man aboard for the final two Maple Leaf runs in the fourth.

Rochester and Montreal, the other two playoff teams, were idle Thursday night. They resume their series, now tied at 1-1, tonight in Rochester. Toronto and Syracuse play again tonight in Toronto.

Fight, Postponed Second Time, Set for 11 O'Clock Tonight; Weatherman Says 'Mostly Fair'

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Yes, folks heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and challenger Ezzard Charles still are waiting around to fight for the title. The 15-rounder, twice postponed, is scheduled for Yankee Stadium at 11 p.m. EDT tonight.

Note, it says scheduled. Rain washed out the return bout on Wednesday and Thursday to equate it be a heavyweight championship postponement record set in 1942 by Joe Louis and old Jersey Joe Walcott.

The game weatherman, sticking his chin out again, says it will be "mostly fair" this afternoon and tonight. He predicted Wednesday that it would rain Thursday, let up in mid-afternoon, and be cloudy Thursday night. Promoter Jim Norris couldn't wait. The morning rains sent all the seats and everything else in the park and he called off the fight at noon.

For the record, the rain did stop late Thursday afternoon. But it started drizzling again at 7 p.m., let up shortly after, and then, 10 minutes before the original 10:30 p.m., started time, began again.

RAIN-JINXED

If another postponement is forced, the 'rain-jinxed scrap will be rescheduled for Saturday night at 11 p.m., EDT. Rain is forecast for Saturday.

Second Saturday, nobody knows. The Yankees come home Monday and will need the park themselves. The International Boxing Club will have to take out its expensive ring and seat setup. Norris can't shift to the Polo Grounds because the Giants scrap there in the world series and don't want their field messed up.

And Norris doesn't want any more trouble with the Giants. A conflict with the Giants, among other things, is the reason for the 11 o'clock rain event starting time tonight.

Another reason is that the IBC can't compete, even if it wanted to, with its regularly sponsored Friday night radio-television fare series.

Giants president Horace Stoneham got sore at the IBC because it scheduled the fight in opposition to a Philadelphia-Giants game at the Polo Grounds just across the Harlem River. According to an agreement the IBC can't put on a fight in competition with a ball game.

Now You Can Have a Tile-Surface Floor for the Price of Paint!

Just Paint It On! Hardens Like Tile!

Here is the fastest, easiest—and most economical—way to get a tile-finish floor. Just pour LIQUID TILE out of the can and smooth it out with brush or roller. This way you get a tile-finish floor for only the price of paint. Chemically, the finish is actually similar to one of the most beautiful and long-wearing forms of tile. Goes directly on all floors, over bare concrete, wood or linoleum; or over old paint.

LIQUID TILE is more than a paint. It resists wet and rough spots, fills cracks and crevices. You can put it on thickly, and it will still dry thoroughly. Also—no waxing is needed. Simply finish it with a single, easy coat of the new LIQUID TILE CLEAR. The CLEAR penetrates and hardens the finish, giving a high gloss, waterproof, chip-proof surface. It's alkali-resistant, bright and glossy. LIQUID TILE can be put on right on concrete. Cuts costs to a fraction. Good for walls, too.

Alex Delvecchio May Centre Lindsay, Howe

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —Alex Delvecchio is being given a chance to win the centre job between wingers Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe on Detroit Red Wings' big line.

Delvecchio worked at that spot Thursday as the Wings' practice session at their pre-season training camp here. Delvecchio replaced Earl (Dutch) Reibel on the big line when the regular centre was injured in the latter part of the National Hockey League schedule last season. He stayed there during the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Reibel Thursday found himself working on the fourth line with Tony Leswick and Marcel Bonin. Coach Jimmy Skinner's two other lines consisted of Metro Prystai at centre between Johnny Wilson and Bill Dineen and Glenn Skov between wingers Marty Pavelich and Don Poile.

Edmonton Flyers of the Western International League, also practising here, and the Detroit club will play three exhibition games here and another in Sudbury before the camp breaks up.

On The Football Fronts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four of the West's five football clubs reach the halfway mark of their 16-game schedule this weekend and the shape of things to come point to a tremendous three-way fight for first place.

The situation in the East's Big Four race is different. There it appears, with the fifth encounter of the 14-game schedule for each club coming up, that Montreal Alouettes are going to run away with first place.

The three points separate the first three clubs in the Western International Football Union. Saskatchewan Roughriders have the edge at the moment, leading the second-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers by two points and Calgary Stampeders by three. The week-end games can send the surging Roughriders way out in front or make the battle even closer.

TWICE BEFORE

The Roughriders and Blue Bombers collide twice this week-end in a home-and-home series with the first game at Regina. The two clubs have met twice before and the outcome each time showed how closely the two are matched. They played a 13-13 tie in Winnipeg and the Roughriders came out with a 22-21 win in Regina.

The Stampeders tangle with British Columbia Lions at Vancouver in the other Saturday game in the West and then on Monday Edmonton Eskimos move into the west coast city to meet the Lions. The Lions, winless in six games, have been improving in their last couple game and are due to come up with an upset against any club that thinks they'll be pushovers.

In the Big Four Montreal has had it all its own way so far with four wins in as many starts. But the battle for second place could be torrid among Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Argos now claim the runner-up spot, four points behind the Alouettes but only two ahead of Hamilton and Ottawa, tied for third with one win and three losses each.

OTTAWA TELECAST

The Tiger-Cats clash with Montreal at Hamilton Saturday while Toronto goes against the Rough Riders in Ottawa in the game that NBC will telecast in the United States. A win for the Hamilton and Ottawa will create a three-way tie for second place.

In the East's other senior league, the Ontario Rugby Football Union, two games are on top this weekend. Toronto Balmy Beach, defeated in two games so far, play the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in a home-and-home series Saturday and Sunday with Kitchener the site of the first engagement. The Dutchmen, who trail the leading Sarnia Imperials by two points with a 3-2 record, have beaten the Beaches in their only previous meeting.

Windsor Border and Saskatchewan won't meet again in the regular WIFU schedule as their only two games this weekend. Halfback Billy Bye from Minnesota will be out of the Winnipeg line-up for the Saturday game at least. He suffered a minor concussion in last Monday's game against the Lions.

SONGIN MISSING

The Grey Cup champion Tiger-Cats, unimpressive so far this season, are going to go along with Ed Songin as their quarterback in the game against Montreal. He has been criticized by coach Carl Voyles for his poor passing and his failure to run when trapped behind his line.

Voyles tried halfbacks Bernie Custis and Bob Flippin in the quarterback slot in practice this week but neither appeared better than Songin, who has had 14 passes intercepted in four games.

Montreal, who has beaten Hamilton twice already, will use either Larry Grigg or Chuck Hunsinger as their ninth import. Both are halfbacks and coach Peahead Walker has been alternating them to rest one for the All-star game.

Ottawa, who upset Argonauts 13-5 last Saturday after losing 13-12 to them previously, are faced with the loss of split-T quarterback Johnny Gramling to the U.S. Air Force in another couple weeks as they tangle again with the Toronto club.

Gramling will be around for this game and the one following Saturday but after that they may have to depend on halfback Dick Schnaible to handle the pivot position unless they are granted permission to obtain another import.

Boston Bruins Start Training

BOSTON (AP) — Captain Milt Schmidt heads a six-man delegation heading for Boston Bruins' hockey training camp at Hershey, Pa., today.

Flem Mackell, Ferny Flaman, Hal Laycoe, Bill Quackenbush and Ed Sanford will leave with Schmidt.

The rest of the Bruins' squad, coming from all parts of Canada, will assemble in Hershey Sunday for the season's opening practice.

New Champion May Emerge In Ladies Golf

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Golf's "new faces" revue — the 1954 United States women's amateur golf championship—eyed into the semi-final stage today with three unfamiliar figures challenging the defending titleholder, Mary Lena Faulk.

And one of the losers, Willi Smith, may have summarized the whole situation when she lamented: "I wasn't too bad losing to Barbara Romack because "she's getting old and I have a few more years to go. I'll win it yet."

Seventeen-year-old Willi wasn't getting even for a rather brutal 7 and 5 beating when she listed her conqueror as one of the older players. Barbara, a blonde cutie from Sacramento, Calif., is going on 22 and she's been playing the big tournaments for several years. She's almost a veteran compared to some of the kids who have figured prominently in this tournament.

One example was 20 - year-old Marlene Stewart of Heathill, Ont., the Canadian champion, who was upset Thursday by Mrs. Mazon Berger of Rialto, N.Y.

Miss Faulk, 27 years old and a seasoned tournament campaigner, met Mary (Mickey) Wright, 18-year-old Stanford co-ed who just bounced out as a star six years in one of today's matches. The other pitted Miss Romack against Marjorie Lindsay McMillen, 36, of Decatur, Ill. By their records, the two older girls should win.

Grid Schedule For Schools

KITCHENER (CP)—A 16-game schedule has been drafted for the four-team Intercollegiate football league, W. J. Unwin, director of athletics at the Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate, announced on Wednesday.

The league, which includes Junior and senior teams from Galt, Guelph, Brantford and Kitchener-Waterloo, will open the season Sept. 24 with doubleheaders at Kitchener and Brantford.

Playoffs are scheduled for Nov. 5 and 12 only if the second team defeats the first team once during the schedule.

Last Day For Tribe Tickets

NEW YORK (AP)—Today is the last day to mail world series ticket applications for the pennant-bound Cleveland Indians of the American League. The New York Giants, edging close to the National League flag, haven't set any deadline yet on mail orders.

The Indians and the Giants are the only clubs accepting world series ticket orders. The other contenders are having the pasteboards printed, but that's as far as they've gone.

WINS PONY FINAL

CORNING, N.Y. (AP)—Corning Red Sox defeated Jamestown Falcons 3-0 Thursday night to win the Pony League playoffs and Governor's Cup four games to one.

Doug Hepburn To Turn Pro

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Hepburn, "the world's strongest man," plans to turn professional shortly, it was announced Thursday by John L. Davies, a lawyer friend of the heavyweight weight-lifting champion.

"He'll be open to offers," Davies said. "But all offers will have to come through our office."

There is a possibility—barring a better proposition—the 295-pound giant will accept Alanis Stukas' invitation to join the B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Khibitzer

Most of the highest rated masters of bridge play point toward a final contract in no-trump. Some of them are almost fanatical in their search for it. They have a couple of good reasons.

Their remarkable memory for cards and superior skill at play prompts them to prefer this type. And in match point competition there is promise of an edge from the higher score it offers.

To exercise this preference they are often in the wrong final denomination. And there is no telling how much they have lost from this. But they are pleased to consider only the gains.

From the last nationals was this deal number one:

Looking at all hands will tell you that diamonds is the safest trump suit; 11 tricks for game can come in. With a little stretch in imagination, hearts will do ten or more tricks for game.

But of the 36 tables, none were in diamonds. And the only four in hearts ended at two. Two were in two no-trump and two were in a contract of only one no-trump.

All, except one of the rest (37) were in three no-trump for the higher match point scoring record. Some made five, some made four, some made three, and some went down by one trick.

One east got fresh with a three club bid that was doubled and went down six tricks for a minus of 1100 points. For a paltock this would be a silly bid. A master could not accept such a label.

Three of the two heart bidders made four and one made five. The two no-trump bidders made five; the one no-trump bidders made four. Even the best do not get the most they can.

Of the 37 in three no-trump, 16 made five, eight made four, two made three, and three went down a trick. Too many played it wrong.

Masters in comas are dubs with diplomas.

Prechek Ruled Eligible To Play for Argos

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Rugby Union announced Thursday that tackle John Prechek has been ruled eligible to play with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union as one of their 30 imports.

But Prechek's eligibility was questioned because the Argos didn't have his CRU registration card and his release from the Regina club in the hands of the CRU or in the mail before the deadline as required by the CRU.

The Argos claimed that a technically prevented Prechek from being registered in time and the Big Four asked the CRU to conduct a vote of its executive on his eligibility.

"Both Regina and Argonauts lived up to the spirit of the CRU registration rule on imports through the use of telegrams," Dr. W. A. Campbell of Kingston, Ont., president of the CRU, said Thursday.

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Education Association will seek a remedy for the plight of teachers who lost pension contributions through moving from one province to another. Delegates at the association's convention approved Thursday to reciprocal pension agreements between the provinces.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Realize that success comes only to those who work hard and sincerely. Today won't be entirely easy and there may be some intriguing situations during the early hours. Be alert ready to act.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Think first rather than rush into things unprepared. Are you sure of yourself and your tasks? Contemplate the merits of each situation both from business and spiritual standpoints.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't take things for granted because of past success in the same field. Changes may happen overnight. Don't expand uselessly and have nothing in reserves.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your mental and spiritual sides are even more important than making money or having a business. One often doubles returns by taking proper rest before embarking on new undertakings.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may be able to increase advantages, gain new credits this favorable day. Plan wisely and watch health so that you may carry on uninterrupted.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Freshen up now for a big afternoon date. Be mentally as well as physically fit and you will give a good account of your stewardship. Relax some; don't grind monotonously...

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Before starting day, correct mistakes, make up your mind forget slights and your returns will double. You'll have a free ill and mind with which to work.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The planetary influences good but you can speed matters even further by watching activities about you—what fails, what clicks. You have great ability; use it.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Today's aspects favor the artistic, music, arts, professional matters. However, work-a-day folks also have their innings. Keep up to par.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Don't be left out of today's promising picture through lack of enthusiasm, a desire to improve. Don't pass up opportunities that can advance your position and knowledge.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Gratification will come from the services you give to your job and through the encouragement of others. Unusual endeavors, new ideas, working with machinery, construction are sponsored.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Aspects favor new and modern methods, if practical; promoting and advertising. Avoid an inclination to evade difficult tasks; handle all duties in order of their importance.

YOU BORN TODAY are just, orderly, highly intelligent. You are innately honest, forthright and expect others to be the same. You may seem stern, exacting at times. This is only from a reference of principle or fighting for the unprivileged. Avoid overwork. Do get outdoor exercise. Plain diet, as a general rule, is helpful to your health. Allow your intuition and other natural talents more sway.

EVACUATE RESIDENTS

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Residents of 300 homes in a four-block area were evacuated Thursday when a $350,000 fire raged out of control for nearly four hours in two chemical plants. There were no injuries. The fire, which authorities said started when a dust explosion in a chemical grinding machine, destroyed the plant, manufacturing plants of the Chemox Corp. and the Lepaco Chemical Co.

CWL Gets Report On Convention

The Catholic Women's League, St. Michael's subdivision held their rst meeting of the fall season Monday, in St. Michael's High School with Mrs. E. Logan, president, in the chair.

During the meeting a report on the recent Diocesan convention was given by Mrs. Ben Burley who quoted some of the statements of National president, Mrs. Fred Drake, made to the convention.

In part, Mrs. Drake told the delegates to the convention: "Every Catholic woman should take her place in the League and do what she can; each has some one thing that she does well, and it is not enough to donate materially when called upon . . she must come forth and do what she can in the lay apostolate through the League.

SALACIOUS LITERATURE

Attacking immoral literature the national president was quoted: "Unscrupulous advertisers have degraded woman's natural beauty and have used semi-nudes to sell every conceivable type of product. I urge women to join a campaign to force salacious literature from newsstands by protesting to their members of Parliament.

"A nation is only as good as its women and the Catholic Women's League should spearhead a drive to get rid not only of pictures that incite lust, but also of all comic books and magazines that lead young people in bad paths.

"The only people who object to censorship are a noisy minority of irresponsible publishers who benefit from the sale of such literature."

REPORTS

Report of the first vice-president, Mrs. B. Burley, showed a paid-up membership of 366; this includes 34 new members. Second vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Bakey, reported that Mrs. P. Cleary had agreed to take over the leadership of St. Michael's Brownie Pack with Mrs. G. W. Gist as assistant; and that the orchestra had been secured for the Graduation dance which will take place in October.

Mrs. T. C. Young, third vice-president, stated milk and clothing are being supplied where needed in this locality by the Benevolent Society and appealed for canned goods of all kinds and for bedding for the same worthy cause.

Correspondence included several letters to the president from different parts of the diocese, emphasizing the subdivision on the success of the recent convention. Treasurer Mrs. J. E. Boyd reported a gratifying bank balance.

Mrs. J. Farrell, magazine convenor, also reported. Mrs. Young made 48 visits to hospital patients in July, the work being done by St. Joseph's subdivision for August.

The marathon euchre is being organized and will begin early in November, as will the Bridge Marathon under the convenorship of Mrs. V. McIntyre.

PILGRIMAGE

Reporting on the Marian Year Pilgrimage to Cap De La Madeleine on Aug. 7th, Mrs. Young stated that 140 persons from Belleville and district went by special train, while a number of others travelled by car.

A substantial donation was voted to the Holy Father's Relief Fund and plans were made for the forthcoming bazaar to be held in November under the convenorship of Mrs. Wm. Doyle, assisted by Mrs. Richard Barrett.

Very Rev. Dean Garvin addressed the meeting briefly, making special mention of the splendid work done by Mrs. T. C. Young in connection with the Marian Year Pilgrimage.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by Mrs. J. R. Rashotte and her committee

Judge Criticizes Jury for Reducing Court Charge

BRAMPTON (CP) — An assize court jury Wednesday reduced a manslaughter charge to one of dangerous driving and Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of Ontario Supreme Court criticized its action as "an example of how petty juries refuse to convict in flagrant cases."

Wilmot Bentley, 37, of Alton, was sentenced to a year definite and a year indefinite on the dangerous driving charge, which arose from the traffic death 10 months ago of Linda Hawkins, 10, of nearby Malton.

Evidence was that Bentley was driving at a rate exceeding the 30-mile speed limit and in an erratic manner. Witnesses said his vehicle struck the child as she stood on the shoulder of the road.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, who analyzed a sample of Bentley's blood, said it contained two parts per thousand of alcohol. He said 1½ parts is considered enough for intoxication.

Crown attorney A. G. Davis said before sentence was passed:

"As a result of this man having too much alcohol and then getting behind a wheel, a little girl was killed."

Mr. Justice Wilson said:

"This is the kind of reckless, dangerous driving that causes public outcry. Your decision is an example of how petit juries refuse to convict in flagrant cases.

"There is not much use having a police force and having the law to protect the public when people like you enforce it like you have in this case."

YOUR PILES

Your piles, like other internal troubles, must be treated internally. That's why the latest discovery, Liquid PTL-TONE Treatment is giving lasting results. Many sufferers report that one dose brings welcome relief. Others needed more, but all are thankful for results. That's what you get with the first bottle of PTL-TONE or price refunded at once. $2.35 at all druggists or mailed on receipt. PTL-TONE Co., Vancouver, B.C.

Outboard Boat Carrying Three Men Capsizes; One Drowned

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A sightseeing fishing trip ended in tragedy early today when an outboard motor-powered carrying three Detroiters capsized in the Detroit river near Amherstburg. One man drowned while two others were rescued.

The victim, Marvin Wilson, is still missing.

In hospital suffering from exhaustion and shock are Standish Acey, 35, and McIvin Wright, 34.

The fishing started shortly before 6 a.m. during the height of a squall. The boat was only 50 feet off shore.

One of the fishermen apparently stood up in the 16-foot boat and lost his footing. When he fell, the boat capsized throwing the trio of non - swimmers into the rough water.

Bruce Williamson, 41, of Amherstburg, roused from his bed in his nearby home by loud shouting reached the struggling men in his rowboat. By the time he had pulled Acey and Wright aboard Wilson had disappeared.

Dragging operations were halted when a second storm blew up.

It's an Ill Wind---

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me. AP) — From 3,000 to 5,000 cords of pulpwood washed up on the sands at this ocean resort and have become a blessing in disguise.

It was part of 40,000 cords that broke out of a boom about 100 miles away during hurricane Edna.

The paper company that lost the wood now has offered to pay the town $3 a cord to collect the logs and stack them.

Commissioner Says Mau Mau 'Filthy Bunch'

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg man who has taken a leading part in battling terrorists in Kenya described as "misplaced" any sympathy for the colony's Kikuyu tribe—many of whom are Mau Mau.

"They're a filthy bunch," said John Johnston, assistant to the commissioner of police at Nairobi while visiting his home here on a six-month leave.

Words could not describe the atrocities practised in the last three years, the former RCMP officer said in an interview.

The Kikuyu number 1,500,000, about 30 per cent of the population of Kenya. There are only 40,000 whites. The black "are on the bottom of a pyramid," he said.

Number of active Mau Mau totalled 6,000, Mr. Timmerman said. Most members of the tribe are not actively engaged in the Mau Mau movement but are "under cover and behind the scenes for the Mau.

"Anyone who has sympathy for the Kikuyu tribe is misplacing it. They are not to be trusted, cunning and intelligent."

In another interview here, Rev. Shem Irungi, a Kenya Negro who was educated and converted to Christianity by Pentecostal missionaries from Canada, predicted that all of Kenya, including the Mau Mau tribe, eventually will be converted to Christianity.

Here for the general conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, the minister said he now has one Mau Mau in his class who will graduate in November and return to his tribe to preach.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The boundary between the cool air which covers all of eastern and central Canada and the very warm humid air to the south continues to lie just south of the lower lakes.

The warm air briefly invaded the Windsor area over night and a second more pronounced threat of warm air is expected to invade southwestern Ontario Sunday. Showers and thundershowers will occur ahead of this invasion of warm air.

Cool cloudy weather will persist over Quebec today, rejoining throughout the week-end.

Counsel Says Evidence Does Not Warrant Trial

TORONTO (CP)—A habeas corpus proceeding will be heard at Osgoode Hall Sept. 23 to set aside the committal for trial of Raffaele Esposito, 39-year-old railway worker charged with the murder of Mrs. Hedwig Kopplin, a German immigrant mother.

Arthur Maloney, legal counsel for Esposito, will argue there is no evidence to warrant a trial for the accused. Evidence submitted at a preliminary hearing included a cord resembling that which bound the slain woman and the fact Esposito was reported seen about 1,500 yards from the crime scene.

The bruised body of Mrs. Kopplin was found last June 19 in several feet from her home at a railway siding 70 miles northwest of Port Arthur. The building had been destroyed by fire and the bodies of another mother and two children were discovered in the wreckage.

Esposito was committed for trial at magistrate's court in Port Arthur, who said there was sufficient evidence to warrant the action.

Flying Saucers, Balls of Lightning At Great Heights Says Astronomer

HAMBURG (Reuters)—A German astronomer, Hans Haffner, has put forward the fact that "flying saucers" — apart from those which can be classed as hallucinations or reflections in the air—are balls of lightning at great heights.

In an article in the West German weekly newspaper Die Zeit, Haffner said "the flying 'saucers' are definitely a natural phenomenon, belonging to the layer of air surrounding the earth."

Haffner, professor of astronomy at Hamburg University, said all flying saucers seen so far could be classified in four groups:

1. Hallucinations, which are more frequent than commonly believed.

2. Illusions. Alleged photographs of flying saucers are reflections often observed when pictures are taken against the sun.

3. Weather balloons.

4. Truly "unknown flying objects."

All the objects in group four could be explained by what is known about balls of lightning. These, he said, occur rarely and photographs exist of only two or three. Balls of lightning "actually similar" to the reports of flying saucers, Haffner maintains.

Balls of lightning occur at heights of less than 600 feet and rarely at heights of more than 60 to 40 inches. But because more energy is released if lightning occurs at high altitudes are naturally higher. Balls with a diameter of 750 feet have been observed at a height of six miles.

Haffner said that because they rotate, balls of lightning are often flattened and the reports of flying saucers have spoken of cigar or disc-shaped objects. These reports also stated that the flying saucers were rotating.

Balls of lightning are liable to change shape and direction within a split second—as do flying saucers, the changes in the direction of balls of lightning are easily explained by the influence of electrical fields and by the effect when one ball of the balls cools more quickly than the other.

PRISON IS TENSE AFTER RECAPTURE OF CONVICTS

Guard Killed During Escape of Three Men

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Tenseness hung over Nevada state prison today as authorities sought to find out how a guard was killed during a reckless escape by three convicts—all recaptured within 10 hours Friday.

"We are trying to get things back to normal," said Warden A. E. Bernard. He will question the three desperadoes about the death of guard Lieut. Colonel Lee, 50, who was taken as a hostage when the three convicts seized a mill truck in a drive through the yard. They forced him to smash down the rear gate with the truck and make up your mind on the facts of life and you see them as to what is best for you."

He said union demands as they now stand would add $8,320,000 a year to the company's production costs and would be unreasonable and they block any chance for sensible bargaining."

5,700 Ford Workers Will Take Strike Vote on Sunday

WINDSOR (CP)—The 3,700 assembly line workers of the Ford Motor Company will decide Sunday whether to give their negotiating committee authority to call a strike.

The strike vote comes as a climax to negotiations which began eight months ago in a wage dispute between the company and Local 200, United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL).

Whatever the outcome of Sunday's vote, at least one or two more 11th-hour talks are expected to be called. A majority of more than 67 per cent in favor of a walkout is necessary to give the negotiating committee power to call a strike.

Ford President Rhys M. Sale, in a letter sent Friday to each employee, termed union contract demands "unacceptable to the company" and said:

"It is your right to strike if you want to. All I ask is that you think this whole problem through and make up your mind on the facts of life and see them as to what is best for you."

He said union demands as they now stand would add $8,320,000 a year to the company's production costs and would be unreasonable and they block any chance for sensible bargaining."

The union contended earlier that the company could easily afford a wage boost out of its profits. The company said these had been plowed back into plant improvements.

Mr. Sale also said it would be "downright foolishness" to increase costs at a time when Ford is faced with the stiffest competition it has ever had. However, the company was ready to resume talks as soon as the union came back with something reasonable to talk about."

The union said in a counter-statement Friday that Mr. Sale indicated in his letter "a willingness to bargain which his representatives at the bargaining table had not shown" but that the note was sent directly to union members "in violation of Local 200's collective bargaining agreement with the company."

The union originally asked a 30-cent hourly wage increase with fringe benefits but reduced this to 18 cents after a conciliation board report recommended no increase. The company offered a five-cent boost but withdrew it when the union termed it an insult. No counter-offer was made.

A strike of the assembly workers would also affect 2,500 office workers, members of UAW Local 240.

Communist China Tells Troops To 'Ready Selves for Battle'

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist China today stepped up threats to the Nationalist island stronghold of Formosa and called on troops to "make themselves ready for battle."

The commanding officer of the southwestern military area told the First National People's Congress in Peiping that he was there determined to "liberate Formosa and eliminate the Chiang Kai-shek gang" the Communist New China news agency reported.

The Chinese Communist party also called on troops in east China to step up preparations for the "liberation of Formosa and make themselves ready for battle."

The party said the "liberation army" in east China, which is directly facing Formosa and other Nationalist-held islands, has "great responsibilities in the historical task of liberating Formosa."

Mau Mau Free 200 Convicts In Surprise Raid on Prison

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Bugle—blowing anti-white terrorists launched a surprise attack on Lukinia prison near here Friday night and released 200 Mau Mau convicts.

Firing their guns and shouting wierd cries as they broke through the barbed wire around the camp, the well-armed gang overpowered the guards and jailers and hustled most of the Mau Mau convicts out of the camp.

The last break from the Atlanta penitentiary in 1925, when George (Dutch) Anderson tunnelled out. Atlanta, with 2,500 prisoners, has had 28 escapes. Alvin and Leavenworth in prison security among those mentioned.

COPTER AMBULANCES

KINmore, N.Y. (AP) — Kenmore Mercy Hospital in this Buffalo suburb will soon have what is believed the first land-based helicopter ambulance service in the United States. Easter Paul, assistant general manager of the Bell Aircraft Corporation, announced yesterday that the firm will provide a helicopter free at any time the hospital requests it.

Pope Continues Heavy Program Of Activities

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Despite his own word that he is not yet fully recovered from last winter's illness, Pope Pius today continued his heavy program of work.

This morning the Pontiff held his usual conference at his Castel Gandolfo summer residence with Msgr. Domenico Tardini, Vatican pro-secretary of state for ecclesiastical affairs. The Vatican secretary of state's office said no appointments were made for the Pope's agenda for today. It was expected that he would rest in preparation for his big general audience Sunday.

The state secretary's office said the Pontiff has not cancelled any audiences, as one report printed abroad said.

Friday, at a general audience to members of the Italian Volunteers for the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church briefly addressed Swiss reporter Richard Ehrman he is not yet fully recovered.

But despite the urging of his doctors to take more time to rest, the Pope has insisted on holding two and three general audiences a week, in addition to private and special audiences.

His private physician, Prof. Ricardo Galeazzi-Lisi, said the Pope has been taken by a recent spell of overwork, but there is no serious concern over the 77-year-old.

The doctor told Ehrman he is still ailing but that doctors have advised him that by November he should be fully recovered.

At the end of Friday's general audience, the Pope sat for several minutes, apparently out of breath. Then he put his address in his hands shook slightly as he held his notes and his voice at times faded.

GETS IT BACK

TETERBORO, N.J. (AP) — Arthur Godfrey got his pilot's license back Friday after an hour-and-15-minute flight test. The CAA said nautics board revoked Godfrey's pilot's licence six months ago for reckless flying.

Conservatives Will Not Join Federal Bodies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Forfeiture of membership in the Progressive Conservative Association of British Columbia by members who join federal riding organization, it was announced here Friday.

Decision was taken at a recent meeting of the executive were made public in a press release reporting the adoption of a resolution condemning the plan of National Leader George Drew to create federal riding associations in B.C.

The resolution said: "The officers of the provincial association of the Ottawa-inspired organization will forfeit membership in the Progressive Conservative Association of B.C. and its constituent and affiliated bodies."

The resolution also said: "The officers . . . look upon the Drew plan to create federal riding associations that are responsible only to him as contrary to the interests of B.C. Conservatives and a violation of the constitution of the party in this province."

Adoption of the resolution is the latest development in the breach which opened between provincial and federal Progressive Conservative organizations some weeks ago.

OFFICE WORKER NOT GUILTY IN DEATH OF WIFE

No Criticism of Verdict Says Judge Treleaven

WELLAND (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury after more than three hours' deliberation has acquitted Bruce MacLean, 27, of murder in the drowning of his 30-year-old wife.

"I have no criticism of that verdict," Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven told the jury Friday.

"It may be that the accused did murder his wife. There was certainly enough suspicion but suspicion is not enough to convict any man.

"If I had been on the jury, there is a likelihood I would have been in doubt. You have given him the benefit of the doubt, as you should do."

The handsome office worker showed no emotion when C. W. Morse, Welland police chief, clerk and jury foreman, announced the verdict.

CLAIMED ACCIDENT

MacLean had maintained his wife, 21 - year - old Elizabeth, was drowned by accident when a canoe upset in a tributary of the Welland river near Fonthill, July 27, 1952.

He thanked the judge when he was set free after the trial.

But his freedom extended only to the courtroom door where he was led away by police to face charges of forging the name of Sylvia Stevens, 19, to a $1,000 cheque.

The jury said the "liberation army" in east China, which is directly facing Formosa and other Nationalist-held islands, has "great responsibilities in the historical task of liberating Formosa."

Britain Will Act As Host Power for Foreign Ministers

LONDON (AP) — A nine-power Western conference will meet in London on or about Sept. 28 to work out ways of rearming Germany within the Western alliance, the foreign office announced today.

A spokesman told a press conference that Britain will act as the host power and invitations will be issued soon.

The foreign ministers of Britain, the United States, Canada, France, Belgium, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg are expected to attend.

The decision to hold a conference was reached Friday night at a meeting at the foreign office between State Secretary Dulles of the United States and Foreign Secretary Eden.

The two ministers issued a communique before Dulles flew to Washington calling for "an exploratory conference to consider how best to associate the German federal republic with the Western nations on a basis of full equality."

All 14 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are slated to get together about Oct. 15 to study the crucial problem of how to bring rearmament NATO headquarters in Paris called Friday for the meeting but did not set the exact time or name a site.

The conference will be able to take up actual methods of linking Germany with NATO, diplomatic informants said, because the French government already has agreed in principle to such a move. The French want written guarantees, however, that British and American troops will remain on the continent and German rearmament will not be allowed to run rampant, the sources said.

The proposals Eden outlined this week call for a new Western European alliance much looser than the Canadian-opposed but revisioned EDC. Britain would play a full role, and the grouping would be a part of NATO.

MOST APPROVE

The plans have greeted enthusiastic reception by diplomats Eden talked to in Brussels, Bonn and Rome. The French reaction was not completely clear, but the plan's supporters hope its guarantees will remove French fears of German domination.

The European Assembly, a 15-country consultative body, meanwhile continued its debate today in Strasbourg, France, on how to bring about West European unity without the help of dead. Several speakers Friday said full British participation is needed to make parliamentarians plan work, but British parliamentarians did not support this contention.

Nine-Power Talks Called To Bring Germany In NATO

Note Sooths Irate Motorist

OTTAWA. CP) — Ed Morris, of Mine Road, Que., Friday found his parked car closely hemmed in back and front by two other automobiles.

He couldn't ease out. He waited and fumed.

Then he attached a note to the windshield wiper of one of the cars. He said "thanks. I took a trolley bus."

Hours later, when he returned to his car, he found another note wrapped around a 25-cent coin. It said: "This will help your trolley fare home and back. I'm sorry."

Relief Bill Climbing

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's relief bill is climbing and the welfare department says it is because of the increasing number of husbands who walk out on their wives and families.

Desertions are averaging 68 a month, five more than last year.

One reason given by the department was increasing unemployment.

About 84 per cent of the city's relief load of more than $1,000,000 a year is for the care of women and children. The balance is to aid unemployables and pensioners.

Duchess of Kent and Daughter Pay Unofficial Visit to U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Duchess of Kent and her 17-year-old daughter, Princess Alexandra, today planned an informal visit to the United States capital after having rested up near New York following their Canadian tour.

The Duke of Kent's relatives arrived Aug. 23 for the Canadian visit, and planned a stay in New York before sailing for home next Wednesday aboard the Queen Mary. The trip to Washington is "quickie" of about 24 hours—was added yesterday.

The trip here ty'train was unofficial. Were it an official visit, the duchess and princess would have been greeted with ceremony and attended by government functionaries almost everywhere they went.

As it was, they hoped to be left to their own devices.

Lady Makins, wife of Sir Roger Makins, the British ambassador, has not yet returned from a visit to England. Hostess' duties thus fell to the Makins' 19-year-old twin daughters, Cynthia and Mollie.

Sunday the two visitors will attend services at the National Cathedral where 13 years ago this month Alexandra's father was christened for the late Duke of Kent, who was killed in a plane crash in Scotland.

Charge Dismissed

NEW YORK (CP)—A 16-year-old youth was freed Friday of a charge of kicking a man to death after being accosted on a subway as the victim was a "typical hoodlum" and added: "I wish I could send you to jail."

The defendant, Jack Todd Loesch was dismissed for lack of prosecution although he was held on a charge of violating probation in an assault case.

Joseph Wojcowski, 17, was indicted on a murder charge arising out of the fatal attack. Police said the youths attacked Thomas A. Condon, 46, of Brooklyn July 4 because they were annoyed at his humming as he walked along the street.

Obituary

HARRY EDWARD BENNETT (R.R. 2, Stirling)

Harry Edward Bennett, R.R. 2, Stirling, died suddenly at his home in Rawdon township on Friday. He was in his 83rd year.

Son of Mrs. Viola Bennett and the late George Bennett, he was born in Rawdon and had lived there all his life. He was a member of the United Church and was a farmer.

He is survived by a daughter, Doreen, his mother and one brother, Charles of Frankford.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

NORVAL STANLEY BARKER (Rollie)

In ill health for some time, Norval Stanley Barker, 5th concession of Tyendinaga township, near Roslin, died in the Kingston General Hospital, early this Saturday morning.

He was born in Northbrook in March, 1910, and 44 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barker but for the past 28 years he has farmed in Tyendinaga township, where he was well known and highly respected in his community. He previously resided at Northbrook.

A member of the United Church and fraternally identified with L.O.L. No. 179 of Plainfield, he is survived by his wife, the former Wilma Jordan, two sisters, Mrs. Arthur (Florence) Hoskin, Mrs. Robert (Evelyn) Jenkins, Mrs. Gordon (Edna) Grey, Mrs. Charles (Isobel) Dickens, all of Plainfield, Mrs. Russell (Della) Doreen of Roslin and three brothers, Donald of Erindale, Arnold of Roslin and Forest of Plainfield.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

WILLIAM DELBERT REID

The funeral of William Delbert Reid was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Friday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Ray Rowley of Centenary church who also said the last rites in Victoria cemetery.

The flower were Percy Howard, Arthur Stewart, Russell MacFarlane, Wallace Fleming, Albert Woods and Sydenham Morgan.

Y's Men Start Regular Meetings For Fall Team

Thursday evening the Y's Men held the first regular meeting following holiday season. Nearly forty enthusiastic members attended under leadership of president Robbie Clarke. George Wannamaker conducted the meeting and added to the club treasury.

The club was glad to welcome back club member Bill Harris, who has been away from the club on business for the past year and also Di Diamantides, who spent most of his summer in Europe in the interest of Yadon.

The club is very proud of the fact that one of the seven chosen to attend this International Conference from Canada, is a local club member.

Rather than having a speaker, program chairman Ron Moorman asked each member to give briefly the highlights of his vacation period. As a non-fisherman I do not realize that fish in local waters grew so large and were so easily caught," said Mr. Moorman.

Following the regular meeting various committees met to make plans for the coming year.

Escaping Steam Causes Fire Run But No Damage

Steam escaping from heating pipes in a section of the building under renovation caused a run for the city fire department to the Grubb and Robertson store on Front street Friday afternoon.

When firemen arrived on the scene the steam was escaping from under the eaves at the rear part of the building and this apparently had been mistaken for smoke resulting in the alarm being turned in. Workmen have been renovating the building and had disconnected the heating pipes. Yesterday the furnace had been lighted, causing the steam to escape.

Year at Arctic Weather Station Enough for Gerald Maxwell

Gerald Maxwell finished a year among the blizzards and icebergs of the Arctic Circle, weathered Hurricane Carol, then came home to civilization this week and caught a common cold.

Gerry puts his cold down to the rarified air of the Arctic which weakens resistance to germs, where he spent over 12 months as radio operator at Eureka weather station on Ellesmere Island.

Eureka, second most northerly station in the American continent, is about 800 miles from the north pole.

"You don't count the time up there," Gerry grinned in his little living room of his home at 207 Albert street yesterday.

"I spent about 13 months, two days, eight hours, four minutes and 10 seconds."

During that time, together with seven other men, his only links with civilization were through infrequent radio connections, air supplies in the spring and fall, and "any ship that happened by."

This time, however, solitude among the ice floes in the northern ice was nothing new to Gerry.

A radio operator with the Department of Transport, he spent a year in 1952 on Mould Island weather station, also within the Arctic Circle. After a summer vacation last year he took off for Eureka July 27, 1953, arriving there two weeks later on the U.S. icebreaker, "West Wind, from Thule U.S. airforce base in Greenland.

His mates, four of them American, included a radio operator and meteorological experts, manning the station as part of the International Geophysical weather observation network in America's northlands.

Just a scattering of buildings, Eureka lies on the edge of Slidre Fiord, nestled 80 desolate degrees north. Nearest hint of civilization is Alert, 400 miles away. Glaciers—about 125 miles across—mountains of ice at the east end of Ellesmere.

WORKED 12-HOUR SHIFT

During the 12 months all the men saw more snow and ice than blasted land were the intrepid Mountie patrols, musk-ox, wolves, geese, bluebird and icebergs.

"All that's up there is the weather," Gerry said.

He worked a 12-hour shift, sharing the round-the-clock radio vigil with the second operator, and he found himself pretty busy. Too busy in fact to keep a regular diary, requested by his mother.

The men, aside from charting the weather and launching meteorological balloons, busied themselves with astronomy and photography and even built a water tank from the bluish ice and supplied themselves with running hot and cold water.

Up to three years old, they had come from an iceberg, which had grounded in the fiord for nearly four years. "However," Gerry says, "so much ice had been chipped from it to provide water during that time, it just broke up and floated away."

In November came the long northern light, lasting through the winter until about March. And in the middle of the night comes Christmas, perhaps the first time the lonely men despondent as their minds tried to pierce the dreary wastes about them, reaching out to home.

But last Christmas was a slap-up affair at Eureka.

The RCAF flew a North Star over the station and staged a Yuletide air-drop — the men, which included a Christmas tree. As the big metal Santa Claus roared past the men sent "Merry Christmas" salute up to it, marking the greeting in the snow with cans of oil, threaded with lighted wicks.

During the dark period radio communication and reception improves and Gerry was thus enabled to contact a Belleville radio "ham", Ross Dryden, and have him send a message to the Maxwells. Then on January 14, he dropped the brick of excitement into 207 Albert when, from nearly 3,000 miles away, he spoke to his mother.

CONTACTED HAM OPERATOR

He had contacted a radio amateur at Albany, N.Y., and had him hook up his radio receiver to the phone, then place a long-distance call to Belleville.

When his mother came through to Eureka "all the boys came flocking in just to hear a woman's voice," he said.

Longer from the wolves also came with the long night.

Short of food, the fierce white Arctic wolves were prowling round the tiny community, trying to lure the sled dog huskies, Gerry's closest brush with the wolves came in the spring when he spotted one from the air. It was a polar bear near the station. Grabbing a gun and followed by a husky, he headed to cut it off, while a companion tried to draw the bear to him.

Rounding a shed he found himself facing a pack of wolves, two of them went for the husky, which dashed in mad circles round Gerry's feet, pursued by the vicious marauder. He drew a lucky shot and brought it down near his feet.

A constant fear hanging over an isolated outpost such as Eureka is that of serious illness or injury befalling its inhabitants.

Eureka was fortunate in this respect while Gerry was there although he did break his finger, "boys used to up top" to keep in it with ice and building a splint around it.

At times during the long night Gerry confessed he felt "like Admiral Peary, when he found the pole. You start looking for the spring and the air supplies."

The supplies — fresh food lasted a little over a month after arrival and then it was a return to dehydrated foods "— powdered eggs, powdered milk, powdered potatoes — yuk!"

Did they ever tire eating dehydrated foods?

"Sure. Then we ate peanut butter and toast," he grinned.

STARTS JOURNEY HOME

Then on August 22 the great icebreaker D'Iberville splintered through the fiord and relieved the station, starting the men on the long journey home.

Just over a week later the icebreaker rammed through Hurricane Carol in the Atlantic off Labrador.

Landing in Quebec they sought out the first "fresh milk, fresh steak and fresh vegetables in a year."

Back home in Belleville Gerry will found a few new additions to civilization, like 3-D and cinemascope. There also are some new faces and lots of new houses going up.

He admits that life in the Arctic circle might not be everyone's choice but feels he could have spent at Mould Island and Eureka were not wasted.

Above the northern blizzards and snow drifts one thing he can't get used to in civilization is rain.

While he was talking, the radio announcer finished reading the news and turned to the weather forecast.

Among other things, he promised ... "showers and thundershowers ..."

Gerry took it philosophically enough.

Piers of New Concrete Bridge Now Completed

Pouring of the foundation and piers of the new concrete bridge over the Moira River north of Eldorado on Highway 62 has now been completed and preparations are underway for placing of the forms for the bridge floor.

Completion of the new bridge will relieve a traffic bottleneck, which has existed since the widening of No. 62 highway several years ago. Shortage of steel was said to be the main reason for leaving the old narrow Kellar's Bridge in place. Only one-way traffic was possible over the bridge.

The new bridge is being constructed directly on the site of the old structure. Before the bridge was placed over the river channel to the east of the old structure and this is carrying traffic, while construction on the new bridge is underway.

Sound of Heavy Gun-Fire Heralds Duck Season

Duck-hunting artillery thundered on a wide front early today as the 1954 season officially got under way. The season has been extended this year to December 15, nearly a month longer than previous years.

Dawn had scarcely cracked the eastern horizons than the "boom-boom" guns opened and maintained a steady rhythm of fire indicating the feathered fraternity were more or less numerous.

A large number of hunter-seeking enthusiasts sought hides, haunts and other places where the ducks are known to congregate Friday night so as to be on the spot the minute the season became official.

West Lake, on both shores, Consecon Lake, the Trenton marshes, various spots along the Moira were the scenes of the early-morning shoots.

Pre-season reports from parts of the district varied as to the quantity of ducks. Consecon Lake is said to be fairly well equipped with the flying duck as is West Lake. Other parts report the duck population to be normal or less.

No reports on "hunter's luck" in the immediate district were available at time of going to press.

Elgin Vader Named President Quinte COSSA

Elgin Vader of O.S.S.D. was re-elected president of the Bay of Quinte COSSA at the fall meeting held at B.C.I.V.S. on Thursday night.

The following committees were set up to handle the various activities of the Bay of Quinte district: Girls' Volleyball—Miss Beth Roberts, O.S.D.

Duck Hunter Shot in Hip, Condition Fair

A gun-shot wound in a hip marked the first casualty of the new duck-hunting season early today.

Arthur Empey, 26 of 61 South John Street, is in Belleville General hospital, suffering the gun-shot wound incurred while hunting off Huff's Island.

Mr. Empey is reported to have been hunting with "Speedy" St. Louis, and Glen Gordon, when a gun accidentally discharged the charge striking Empey in the left hip. The men were hunting in a boat when the accident occurred.

Empey was rushed to hospital by Bush's ambulance where he was treated for his injuries by Drs. G. S. Cronk and S. Gibson.

Hospital authorities said Empey has suffered a deep wound in the hip. His condition was said to be fair.

Other details of the shooting accident were not available at press time.

Ontario Commerce Chamber Directors Hold Meet Here

Meeting for the first time outside of Toronto, directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce held their regular meeting at the Queen's Hotel here yesterday.

"Eastern Ontario is in many ways the lodestone of Ontario's advance," stated President Irvine Wagner of Owen Sound, in opening the meeting. "Here in Belleville and Kingston, provide the many lake and inland towns was developed by our pioneer families the principle of self reliance which has characterized our development and given purpose to the future we evisage."

Among the fourteen directors in attendance was A. McLean Haig, of Belleville. Other centres represented were Toronto, Oshawa, Hamilton, Picton, Amherstburg, Owen Sound, Dunnas, Fort Erie and Perth.

Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce acted as host at a luncheon.

AUTO TITLE LAW

Among the important items of business considered was that of the consideration of a report from the highway safety committee which was presented by A. J. Perkins jr. of Perth. C. A. Batenchuk of Toronto, vice president, Miss Dorothy Martinson, B.C.I. & V.S.; secretary-treasurer, Mr. John Hayman, Quinte Secondary School.

Great meeting was well represented with the following schools present: Albert College, B.C.I. & V., Quinte Secondary School, O.S.D., Trenton, Picton, St. Michael's, Tweed and Napanee.

AUTO TITLE LAW

Among the important items of business considered was that of the consideration of a report from the highway safety committee which was presented by A. J. Perkins jr. of Perth. C. A. Batenchuk of Toronto, vice president was a member of this committee, which had drafted a submission to the provincial secretary of Ontario Legislature on the central registration of motor vehicle sales agreements and certificates of title of motor vehicles. This brief was approved by the meeting.

Complimenting the government on the formation of this committee, the brief says that the Ontario Chamber of Commerce is immediate and urgent need for an improved system of registration of conditional sales contracts with respect to the sale of motor vehicles."

In spite of the tremendous increase in the volume of automobile sales, the brief continues, "have been made in legislation governing this transaction. It is noted. During the Chamber's annual meeting in January, a brief was presented which which has already been presented as the result of investigations by a committee of central registration and conditional sales contracts. Subsequent study by the Legislative committee has brought to light certain factors which suggest that central registration of conditional sales contracts may not be the full solution to the problem. Another short-coming is adequate title law might well serve the interests of the province.

POINTS TO COVER

Such a law, said the brief, should provide:—

"(a) A means of determining with the consent of each purchaser of any lien or encumberance on a motor vehicle, and

"(b) A means of control of malpractices on sales of motor vehicles, and finally, a law which will assistance to anyone involved in the purchase of a motor vehicle, and

"(c) A means by which the police of the province would be enabled to check more closely upon criminal activities which are apt to the theft and purchase and trading of stolen vehicles, and

"(d) A law which will make automobile insurances rates could be reduced due to control thus established which would sharply reduce the financial loss to insurance companies as a result of the stealing of motor vehicles, thus resulting in a saving to the people of Ontario."

The brief recommended that the select committee undertake a full study of existing title laws in the various states of the U.S.A. which are known to provide the required protection to residents."

It was recommended that a system of title laws be developed which will provide the best features of good legislation in those states. Such a title law, it was suggested "may be supplemented by a system of either central or county registration of conditional sales contracts."

APPOINTMENTS MADE

George F. Clark of Hamilton was named public relations director of the Chamber and Capt. Joseph Gregory of London was chosen second vice president. Mr. Clark and Captain Jeffrey were appointed those appointments of the Ontario regional committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, others so appointed being Ivor Wagner of Owen Sound, R. S. Harris of Peterboro, J. W. Jolly of St. Thomas. The meeting approved Mr. Wagner's suggestion that K. A. Grant of Toronto, the Chamber's general manager, attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber.

After hearing a submission from Norman Moore of Brantford regarding the importation of construction equipment, the meeting decided to write a letter to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario requesting that, as far as possible, contractors use equipment manufactured in Canada in work on the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Mr. Grant submitted a resolution from the Toronto Board of Trade on municipal practices, which was referred to the resolutions committee and R. M. Campbell of Toronto a representative of the public relations committee.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Wagner moved a vote of thanks to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

IN MEMORIAM

LAKENEY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James Lakeney, who died September 18th, 1953.

Dear is the grave where our loved one lies,
Sacred to us shall that we have loved,
A father, brother, loved by all
Now from his work and toil doth rest
But on and on he forged ahead
Until the day the earth was done,
And now he sits among the blest
Beside the throne of his Father's Son.
We would not if we could recall
Where we shall meet him over there
Where all shall meet in peace united
In cloudless lands where all is fair.
Sadly missed and mourned by his wife, sons and daughters. $18

A Lift For Living

God Plays No Favorites

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We talk a lot about relaxing our tensions. We might remember that the best relaxation of little tensions is to use our large muscles.

When, for instance, we have been writing until our fingers are tired, it is good to get up and stretch our legs. Likewise when we have been bending the muscles of our minds to solve our personal problems. It is good to stretch our minds up toward God. As you are reading this, I hope that you will not relax and settle back but relax and straighten up.

The events of the day are fraught with peril. Gangs of youth spread terror in some of our cities. The coast of China bristles with danger. We grow tense asking, "What's the world coming to?" But let us lift our eyes to consider what has been coming to the world.

We in North America should not think of ourselves as "chosen people" in the sense that primitive people believed themselves the chosen favorites of their tribal gods. The Old Testament prophets advanced beyond that idea.

The Biblical writers came to discover that "God is no respecter of persons." He plays no favorites. He is the God of all and the Father of all.

CHOOSING PEOPLE

But while our forefathers were not "chosen people" in the sense of receiving special providence, they were a choosing people. Our parents were compelled to choose after our mental and bodily care beyond what the law required, but they chose to care for us through sleepless nights and anxious days.

Our Pilgrim fathers did not have to leave their refuge in Holland with its comparative comfort. It was largely for the sake of their children that they chose to risk the hardships of the Atlantic and the New World.

Our colonial ancestors were not forced to give us free churches and free schools. They chose to do so. Yes, we have inherited blessings through those who might have lived solely for themselves, but who chose to live for their posterity as well.

WHO CAN REPAY? .. .. .. ..

During the presidency of Mark Hopkins at Williams College, some buildings were defaced. When the culprit was caught, he proved to be the son of a wealthy supporter of the school. Called before the president, he pulled out his purse and said jauntily, "Well, doctor, what's the damage?"

President Hopkins replied sternly, "Young man, put away your pocket book. Tomorrow at prayers you will make public acknowledgment of your offense or you will be expelled."

Speaking later "of the incident, Mark Hopkins said: "Rich young men come here and take that tone, as if they could pay for what they get here. No student can pay for what he gets in Williams College. Can any student pay for the sacrifices of Colonel Williams and our other benefactors? For the heroic sacrifices of half-paid professors who have given their lives that young men might have at the smallest cost, a liberal education. Every man is a charity student."

HEIRS OF GOD

We are heirs of God through the processes of creation and the purposeful choice of sacrificing ancestors. But more.

The God who gave us this inheritance has also been trying to save us for something better. He so loved the world that He sent prophets and teachers and then His "Only Begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have eternal life."

Think how our social heritage has been enriched by the church of God keeping His love ever before us in sacrament and symbol. It does us unspeakable good to stretch our minds to see the greatness of life when lived in God's sight.

A friend once asked a well-known artist to join with him in the hanging of a picture which he had purchased. It was a very valuable painting. The artist said, the magnificent canvas and studying the artist said, "You can't make this picture fit your room; you must change the room to fit the picture."

Too many of us are trying to make God fit our plans and further our purposes. But when we grasp His greatness, we realize that we must change our lives to fit Him.

And when we also ponder God's goodness we are mellowed with gratitude and heartened with hope. The memory of His past mercies gives confidence for the future. God plays no favorites, but His favors are unfailing.

For Parents Only

Rules for Junior

By NANCY CLEAVER

Have you ever watched a weary mother traveling with an infant and a small boy, sit her son down on a train seat and say crossly, "Now you be quiet! Do keep still, while I look after baby!" she is asking an almost impossible feat of her child. His active little body is all on springs. Although noise annoys his mother, it gives him real pleasure! She should hand him a little toy to engage his attention. This will keep him from annoying the fellow passengers while she looks after the younger child. A rule should be possible for a child to follow at his particular stage of development.

In drafting rules for a little child, the youngster's own good is the parent's concern as well as the happiness of the family as a unit. They are not just setting up a number of regulations in order to teach Junior that he must obey without question. The reason behind a rule does not have to be always explained to a child. Bright youngsters will soon delay conforming to a regulation if they find they can question every order before carrying it out. But at the same time, there should be a good sound reason for every family rule.

SHOULD BE ATTENTIVE

When issuing any command, the parent should be sure the child is listening. Then the rule should be stated briefly and clearly. Mother or Dad should expect Junior to do as he is asked. If they anticipate his resistance, they certainly won't be disappointed.

Offering a bribe to a child, if he will follow a rule, is poor procedure. Soon he will want a bigger and bigger bribe. However, if child is promised a treat, parents must keep their word. A child's confidence and trust should not be thrown away thoughtlessly.

It is a mistake for a parent to give an order if he is not in a position to see to it that this rule is carried out. If a child receives numerous directions, and mother does not insist that they be followed, the youngster soon learns to disregard his parent's regulations.

It is hardly fair to Junior for a parent to insist that he eat up the first course of his dinner before receiving his dessert one day, and the next day make no mention of this stipulation. It is very confusing to be inconsistent, and undermines any habit of obedience.

Mother and dad soon discover that they must place on the family set of rules for Junior. If they do not, at a very early age, to get what he wants, he will "play off" one parent against the other. Mother will not let Junior have candy except at the end of a meal. But if father slips his son a chocolate bar, (which Junior promptly starts to nibble), just before supper, this creates a very undesirable situation.

Robert Burton who lived over three hundred years ago, said, "No rule is so positive which admits some exception." Occasions do arise when a parent must be flexible about a rule, but these occasions will not arise very often if the regulations a child must follow are reduced to absolutely necessary ones.

Rules are weakened if they are too many in number. The goal in discipline is to produce a person who in time will discipline himself—who will make his own sensible regulations and use his own will-power to abide by them. In the meantime Junior will be hampered by his parent's directions if he knows that he is not always being ordered about on minor matters. Many of these small decisions he can make if left to himself.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

A USEFUL ENDING

Tails of birds are both more ornamental and more useful than those of animals, and their variety is just about endless. There are large and small, full and narrow, long and short, straight across the end, rounded, notched, forked, and scissor-shaped. Decorations may be at the sides, at the very end, or a band across a little way up. These fancy patches may be quite plain, or in scallops; they may be black, white, or almost any colour.

Grebes have practically no tail at all, those of loons, puffins, Auks, and murres are very short. Tails of grackles, thrashers, redstarts, cuckoos, bluejays, and shrikes are not only very long, but quite beautiful.

However, much more important than their looks is their usefulness. Primarily, they are for steering. Perhaps the best way to see this for ourselves is to watch a large hawk, such as a Red-shouldered, circling overhead. The tail opens like a fan, closes, dips to right, then to left. By notice a gannet coming to its nest on the top of a stiff. The brakes are put on: the tail depressed, the large feet held out in front.

Chimney swifts, woodpeckers, and brown creepers have tails especially designed to act as props. The feathers at the sides of a swift's tail end in sharp, stiff spines to be stuck into the bricks on the inside of the chimney, so

Who Was This?

Who was the left-handed Benjaminite who delivered the Israelites from the bondage of the Moabites by first killing their king and then leading the Israelite army against the Moabite oppressors?

The Israelites, because they had done evil in the sight of the Lord, has been enslaved by Eglon, the King of Moab. They had served him for 18 years. Then the Lord raised up this man who saved the Israelites from rule of the Moabites by cunning and by courage.

This Benjaminite made for himself a two-edged sword, one cubit in length and hid it under his flowing robes on his right hip. He presented the tribute collected from the Israelites, to Eglon, the King of Moab. Now Eglon was a very fat man. When the tribute had been laid before Eglon, this man dismissed the Israelites who had carried it.

Then this man pretended to withdraw also. But he turned back at the sculptured stones and said to the King, "I have a secret message for you." Then the Moabite King, Eglon, commanded "Silence!" and he sent all his courtiers from the cool roof where they were seated. The Israelite promptly drew near to the King, but instead of giving him a message he drew his sword and killed Eglon. Quickly he left the roof, locking the outside door in it.

The Moabite servants suspected nothing. They thought the King wished to be alone. But as time went on they decided to go in. Their moment. Unlocking the door, they found Eglon lying dead on the floor with the sword pro truding from his side.

In the meantime the Benjaminite had made good his escape. When he arrived at Seirah he sounded his trumpet. Israelite men hurried to the hill country rallied around him. He said to them, "Follow after me, for the Lord has given your enemies, the Moabites, into your hand." Swiftly they forded the fords of the Jordon River. In the battle that followed ten thousand strong able-bodied Moabites were killed. For eighty years the Israelites enjoyed peace after this deliverance. You will find this man's name and this story in Judges, Chapter 3, verses 15 to 30.

that the bird can balance on this vertical surface. The tail of a woodpecker ends in stiff bristles which are pressed against the bark of a tree trunk. The long stiff tail feathers of a brown creeper answer the same purpose. All these tails are like the back leg of an easel.

For identification purposes we, too, find a bird's tail a useful end-ing. A nighthawk and a whip-poor-will are quite similar, but the patches of light placed differently in their tails. The vesper sparrow, slate-coloured junco, and savannah lark are all known by their white shafts. The reddish-brown tail of the hermit thrush distinguishes it from the other thrushes.

Why Do You Wait, Dear Brother?

Why do you wait, dear brother?
Oh, why do you tarry so long?
Your Savior is waiting to give you
A place in his sanctified throng.

What do you hope, dear brother
To gain by a further delay?
There's no one to save you but Jesus,
There's no other way but his way.

Do you not feel, dear brother,
His Spirit now striving within?
Oh, why not accept his salvation,
And throw off thy burden of sin?

Why do you wait, dear brother?
The harvest is passing away.
Your Savior is longing to bless you,
There's danger and death in delay.

"WHY DO YOU WAIT, DEAR BROTHER!

George F. Root, who composed the music for many of Christendom's favorite gospel songs including "Come To The Saviour" and "The Jewel Song", turned out both the poem and the tune for the hymn of salvation which appears above.

It is a hymn of Christian invitation which—for more than three-quarters of a century—has been calling men and women to accept Christ and His plan of salvation for mankind. It was popular in the day of revivals for which it was written and it is still being used effectively in twentieth century mission meetings and evangelistic services.

Mr. Root's name was linked with some of the best-loved patriotic songs of the nineties. He composed the tunes for "Just Before The Battle, Mother", "The Battle Cry of Freedom," and many others.

STOP THIS TYPE OF FRAUD

There are two types of laws. One is designed to provide punishment for those guilty of crimes, misdemeanors or punishment for those guilty of crimes, misdemeanors or actions inimical to the public welfare. Laws of the other type have as their purpose making it difficult to commit such offences or making it easier for the authorities to apprehend the offender after such offences are committed.

Fraud is a crime. There is a law against it. But, in the opinion of C. A. Bateman, president of Bateman Motors Ltd. of Belleville and London, there is no adequate law to make it difficult to commit one type of fraud and easy for the authorities to apprehend those guilty of such an offense. Ontario, he contends, needs a proper title law for automobiles.

A few weeks ago Mr. Bateman presented a comprehensive brief on this subject to a select committee of the Ontario Legislature. It appears quite possible that this committee was appointed as the direct result of a conversation Mr. Bateman had with Premier Leslie Frost last December. The committee was formed in March of this year, to consider central registration and certificates of title to motor vehicles.

In his brief to this committee Mr. Bateman declared that dealers in used cars have very little or no protection against liens whatsoever and that the public in purchasing a car, particularly where it is purchased privately, is in exactly the same position."

Central registration of motor vehicles would not solve the problem, Mr. Bateman argued.

"In the case of a real estate purchase," he said, "there is time for a proper search to be made before completing the deal, but, gentlemen, the automobile business, whether we like it or not, is a fast moving business. I think you perhaps realize one of the peculiarities of the automobile business is that a man may drive the same car for years, but the day he decides to change cars and finally makes a deal, he wants delivery of his new car that day. If we couldn't make almost immediate delivery of satisfactory used cars, we'd be losing a terrible time and certainly wouldn't do nearly as much business."

Thus, he maintained, a central registration office would be of no use, "with the exceptions perhaps of the immediate areas such an office would be set up."

"There are dozens of people in our province purchasing a car this very day who haven't the slightest idea how to search a title when the registry office they should search is right in their own city," he declared.

Instead of a central registry office, Mr. Bateman said, what is needed is "a proper title to cars, automobiles in Ontario, so that when a man comes in to trade or sell his car we immediately know by his title if the car is clear of all liens and encumbrances and if not who the lien holder is."

Mr. Bateman cited three cases from his own experience to illustrate how easy it is today for a man to defraud the purchaser of a car by making a false statement that it is clear of liens.

Mr. Bateman is a director of the National Used Car Dealers Association of the United States. A letter to Jack Zansky and Dickey, general counsel for that Association, brought a reply which included a statement that a central registry office alone would not seem to afford adequate protection but that what was needed was a requirement that either the certificate of title to an automobile must be surrendered to a lien holder or that an existing lien must be noted on the face of the title, with subsequent release similarly noted.

Such a type of law in effect in Nebraska, according to another letter quoted by Mr. Bateman. The National Used Car Dealers Association considers that the best title laws in the United States are those in effect in the District of Columbia and in the states of Virginia, Nebraska, Ohio and Texas. Mr. Bateman wrote letters to a few dealers in these states and submitted their replies to the Legislative committee. One reply stated that in Nebraska "any lien on a motor vehicle must be recorded with the county clerk and a record of the lien attached to the title to the vehicle."

Such a title law would appear to offer valuable protection, not only to car dealers but to individual purchasers of used cars. If he succeeds in his efforts to have such a title law drafted for Ontario, Mr. Bateman may well earn the gratitude of hundreds who would otherwise be victimized by unscrupulous persons. Not all such cases of fraud appear to be isolated instances of a person selling a car which, luck, pulled a fast one. He does not possess a clear title. In some instances the sellers appear to have made a regular racket of this type of fraud.

STRANGE PARADOX

This is a hungry world. We are apt to forget that. Remembering it, we shall appreciate strange things. It is that we should have cause for thanksgiving for a poor harvest.

Bad weather and a rust epidemic are expected to reduce the harvest to little more than 400 pounds of last year's bumper crop of wheat per acre. Hence Howe observed that "the balance of the world wheat situation which was temporarily upset by a series of extraordinary good crops is being restored."

Prairie farmers may well view the prospect of a stronger market for wheat with approval.

Still, we ought not to overlook the other lesson which this year's poor crop teaches. That is that, if the world's affairs are ever ordered in such a fashion that no belly goes empty while any granary overflows, we shall have to guard carefully against the results of a poor harvest. For, had all last year's bountiful foundi ns way into the stomachs of the hungry, then this year's poor crop instead of being hailed with joy would have brought with it the threat of short rations for many who are now well fed.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

SEPT. 18, 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davison and Miss Bernice Davison have returned from Montreal where Mrs. Davison attended a convention of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association. They joined a party at Toronto and rallied on one of the fine boats of the Canadian Steamship Lines to Brockville and travelled by rail from there. They visited Ottawa and the Seigniory Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Webster of Galt, formerly of Belleville, spent the week-end here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberlain, Billy and Helen, have left here to reside in England. They sailed on the fine boats Friday.

Miss Grace Coughlin of Toronto is the guest of Miss Anna Lafferty.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Wright, reeve of Deloro Village, was in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelly of Campbellford are the guests of Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, John Street.

30 YEARS AGO

SEPT. 18, 1924.

The Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was officially formed when a group of interested citizens gathered in the city hall with Mayor Wills, C. Mikel presiding. The following officers were elected: president, J. B. Findlay; first vice-president, P. C. MacIlmurin; second vice-president, Rev. George Marshall; secretary, Mrs. George Dean; treasurer, J. Dinn, manager of the Union Bank; executive committee: Miss E. Bleecker, Mr. Bird and Miss Hurley. The Kiwanis Club is much interested in the movement and will give its enthusiastic and substantial support.

Mr. Emery Finkle, who has been visiting here from Ottawa, has left today for his home in Santa Barbara, California.

The Radio Four, A. L. Stillman, Harry Morrison, Dr. Ketcheson and Dr. A. B. Haffner with Prof. Ernest Wheatley as announcer, broadcast a concert in a Masonic concert in Toronto.

Mrs. S. J. Fisher went to Toronto today.

FIRST AUTOMOBILE SEEN IN BELLEVILLE

From our file copy of Sept. 18th, 1900. The heading reads: "Automobile Is Here." "Much Interest Manifested in Its Movements and Mechanism - About one o'clock today the first automobile ever seen on Belleville streets made its appearance. It stopped here to have some repairs made and also to allow the driver and his companion to get dinner. The machine is the property of patent medicine company and it is now en route from the Toronto exhibition to the Ottawa exhibition. The driver expects to reach Ottawa by seven o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The driver left Gananoque at 4 o'clock this morning and was delayed some time owing to a puncture and some other difficulties and arrived here about one o'clock. The machine is the product of a Cleveland manufacture and the owner claims it is capable of 25 miles per hour on level ground.

40 YEARS AGO

SEPT. 18, 1914.

At a joint meeting of the city market and public property committee and the public works committee the tender of William McGill and Co. for heating plant in the city hall at a cost of $1,975.00 was accepted. His tender was the lowest.

Mr. P. J. Wims, who was in the drygoods business here for some time and who left to open a business in Montreal, has returned here and will again establish himself in business.

Lieut. Richard D. Ponton has been appointed senior Lieutenant F. company (15th Regiment) First Contingent, and Lieut. Ed. D. O'Flynn has been appointed Senior Lieutenant of the senior company in the same contingent.

Miss Annie Tenney, Yeomans Street, was presented with a handsome gold clock by a number of her friends prior to her departure from here to reside in Oshawa.

The first Canadian contingent for overseas active service will number 25,000 men.

50 YEARS AGO

SEPT. 18, 1904.

Mr. A. Steele has left here to reside in Bracebridge, Ontario.

Mrs. C. J. Bowell has arrived home from Calgary, Alberta.

Mr. H. F. Gardiner, superintendent of the Institution for the Blind, Brantford, is visiting his father, Rev. Dr. Gardiner, College Hill.

The East Hastings Fair at Thrasher's Corners was a great success in every way. Following are the officials: President, H. J. Garbutt; first vice president, G. M. Caldwell; second vice president, A. D. Campbell; secretary, H. A. Fairman; treasurer, W. G. Weir; directors, H. C. Emerson, A. Martin, W. Thrasher, A. Tufts, H. Lake, Dr. Ketcheson, H. K. Denyes, A. Harrietz and William Hanley.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRISTIAN LIVING COMES HIGH

Jesus was asked on one occasion whether the saved were few or many. He never gave a direct answer to that query, but he did respond to the question. And his words were: "Strive to enter in by the strait gate; for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and will not be able."

Then he goes on to describe the weeping and gnashing of teeth when people realize that they have lost their chance. For the door is finally shut. It will be held open, but many preferred the pleasant out-of-doors to the strait gate and the narrow way which lead unto life.

Some people would like to make Christianity a sentimental, Pollyanna matter, the truth is that it is a very serious and compelling matter. True Christians are not just people who gush all over the place loving everything and everybody. The first thing in a believer's life is submission to the will of God. A man must first be at self right with the Most High. This means that without hesitation he must accept God's purposes. He must enter into life by the strait gate and pursue the narrow way which leadeh unto life. Love has its origing in submission—not in sentimentality.

The word "strive" is the translation of the Greek word from which we get the English word "agony." The Christian life has a price tag on it. It comes high.

Sea Is Losing Its Appeal

(Hamilton Spectator)

There was a time when a sailor's life had a certain attract a fair proportion of boys in every generation. The smell of ships lured courage, a whiff of ozone, or just the spirit of adventure inspired youngsters to seek enough to give a boy sea dreams and direct his footsteps to the docks. Not too often found later that the sea was a harsh mistress and that the romance was only in the mind. Her made him unsuitable for many shore jobs, so he had to stay.

Recently days of sail, the primitive conditions in the fo'c'sle, the pickled pork and hard tack, the starved the crew's staple diet and the long and dangerous hours of watch-keeping, were left in a spirit of adventure to youth. But today the sea has little attraction for a large proportion of boys. Food is usually good, quarters are reasonably comfortable, hours of pay and hours of work are governed by rules, but few boys are attracted to a seafaring life in spite of these benefits.

In that home of great seamen, Britain, the Mercantile Marine Service Association in its report for the year ended March 31, 1954, reports that the merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets employ 32,288 men 32,542 left—a turnover of 8,535. Of these, re-entries numbered 11,344 and were substantially the same as previous years.

It is believed that full employment on shore has much to do with the decline in affairs, but it is certain that the increasing amenities on shore, such as television and popular entertainment and the sense of "belonging" are more attractive. It has often arduous life at sea, the long spells of silence from newspapers and the lacking excitement of distant places which are rapidly losing their romance in a world that is growing stereotyped.

The sea will always have an irresistible charm for some boys, and there will always be some boys whom really shake the impressions made by Stevenson's Treasure Island, but it will be a sad day when the merchant marines of the world have to depend on the lure of the sea to keep their ranks up to strength.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you look at a tree rising so steadily or sturdily, and so beautified, from trunk to branch and from branch to twig, your heart is impressed. This is one of grace, of aspiring delicacy, often of eternal beauty. The waves and the wind do to the breeze. Sometimes it writhes.

It is when you have to cut a tree down, saw it into lengths, cut off the heavy branches and twigs and chop the usable pieces into firewood, that you realize the tree's tremendous sense of fragility, of delicacy that its living substance weighs a ton. It is full of knots. It is tougher than rawhide. Its trunk could be made a pillar of a bank building. Its little twigs, that sway in the breeze every summer breeze, are regular little whipcords. A tree is one of the most valiant conceptions of nature.

The spole-season is now upon us. An apple tree will bear on its lumpy twigs several bushels of apples. In exceptional years, it will bear so heavily as to smash its own branches. But for the most part, the squatty apple tree hands its load very tidily. Four months ago, it was a sort of bride dressed in pink and white. Today it is a masterpiece of mechanics and dynamics. Out on the ends of the twigs, which you can snap between finger and thumb, the fat apple dangles. Where the apple is joined to the branch has its carefully disposed arrangement of banded tissue. Each apple shoulder out from the trunk in a marvellously engineered cantilever system. Like human beings, there may be barrels of apples up there quietly maturing, but they are skyscraping acts!

Mechanically, the secret of the apple tree's ability to produce that which the weight has been developed. In weight-lifting, a man starts practising with small weights, and gradually adds strength as his muscles develop until they can support sensational amounts.

So the apple tree is all muscle. Try to cut one down and chop it up for firewood, and you will be glad to eat apples for the same reason a Mowhawk liked to eat the heart of a brave enemy.

Old House Well Built

(Windsor Daily Star)

Recently we were in a rural home built 80 years ago. It had been in the possession of only two families in that period. We complimented the owner on how well it had been maintained. It looked as sound as it must have done originally, with the added features that have made electricity and other modern facilities.

We were told that when workmen put in the wiring, they were amazed by what they found. The walls were thick and solid; the beams were massive. There was not substantial ones as in a barn. They opined the house would stand for centuries or more, unless destroyed by fire or some such hazard.

The walls had been repeatedly papered through the decades. The carpenter had found that when the plaster found as smooth and sound as new, and that the boards of the floor had been made out of lime burned from natural limestone. The stone for the walls and foundation had been made of hard stone and the walls had been built square and off the farm. The builders may not have been architects or engineers, in the modern sense, but we know them. But the house was well-planned and built to last.

We have known some homes now being built will look like when they are 80 years old. We doubt they will have prospect of another hundred years.

Worthy of a Try
(Sydney Post-Record)

A suggestion worthy of a try was that made by the evangelist Billy Graham in Toronto. He believes that U.S. foreign policymakers should consult missionaries and churchmen in other countries to help determine the attitudes of people in those countries. Why? Because missionaries and missionaries are among the people where the diplomats do not go, and they can get a true picture in a way diplomats are unable to do. It is advice worth having.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

HOW'S YOUR RHEUMATIC, KNUCKLEHEAD?

New York reader says she is finally accepting my teachings after having spent a lot of money for cortisone, gold shots, etc. Her arthritis (she says she's a) snob clan and might call it rheumatism has caused to run its course in nine years, with pain and disability remaining just a little worse. But she has finally got through her "knucklehead" that her trouble may well be from calcium deficiency, since it began immediately after childbirth, and her doctor forgot neglected to advise her to supplement her diet with calcium and vitamin D as she fed with her first baby. So now she promises to follow my advice to the letter.

Dr. Brady

(Mrs. F. L. W.)

Alabama reader reports that the "new" advice to the letter — that is, the advice I give in the pamphlet — for her trouble and "new rheumatic vanished." But now the lady begins to feel the pain and stiffness returning - she does not say how long since she finished the course, nor since better nutrition, and she asks whether it is all right to go back to the old diet whether there is danger of calcium deposits, as a nurse on vacation from - how to treat her.

That told her.

The 1954 edition of the Canadian Rheumatism pamphlet doesn't specify how many weeks or months of one vitamin-mineral should have better nutrition. It is not medicine, knucklehead. It is merely the correction of nutritional elements which have been lacking in your everyday diet from which you looked to breakfast this morning.

The salvergamp home from the hospital, the trick specialist or the clinic racketeer who hopes to sell you a series of shots, or to operate notwithstanding, I assure you that supplementing your deficiencies of which I speak in the pamphlet will not cause calcium deposits.

Another reader says every time she sat for awhile her knees got stiff and she had to walk around her could hear them crack when she stood up. This is one of her eyes, then it went into the other . . . the druggist tried to persuade her not to change her diet as I advise in the pamphlet, but she ignored his personal advice, and now she says it is the finest thing that ever happened . . . she can walk without discomfort . . . every night she asks God to bless us all).

Idaho reader reports her "rheumatoid arthritis" (some medical

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE SERVICEABLE

I do not think we were put into this world just to serve ourselves, or to expect love or happiness to be given to us. Not until we put it to the test do we come to realize the significance of serviceableness —happily going out of our way to make someone else happy. To be of service, serviceable, humbly and without boast, it's like putting a diamond in a ring of Character.

John Ruskin applied this idea to his work and said: "No book is serviceable until it has been read and reread, and loved and learned by." The really great book is one that is not read and then tossed aside or discarded. There are books in my library that have been read and re-read, but which nowhere seem ever to be new. They are serviceable books and always will be.

In one of the small towns in which I served in the Middle West, there was a woman whom I greatly loved because of her big-

Superlatives Are Demanded

(Ottawa Journal)

An Englishman has written a fascinating story about books to see the Australian lyre bird exhibition and when the bird folded its gorgeous tail his hosts asked him if he had enjoyed the display. All he could think to say was "Yes!" This depressed the Australians and they protested the superlative "pommies," that he learned his way to popularity by supporting their conclusions such as "Miraculous!" "Captivating!" "Superb!"

It is the same in Canada. It's not enough for the tourist to admit under pressure that he likes his drive from Fort William. He is expected to say Superlative! He could think to say was "Yes!" This depressed the Australians and

CAMPBELLFORD

Little Damage Caused in Mishap

CAMPBELLFORD—A car driven by Mrs. Nellie Johnstone of R.R. 4, Campbellford, took off on its own on Wednesday evening after she left it parked at a filling station at the corner of the Broad Road and Canrobert St.

Mrs. Johnstone left the car while she went into the station. While she was gone, the vehicle slowly rolled down a paved driveway leading onto the station, across Highway 30, down a 12-foot embankment and into the brick wall of the Campbellford Cloth Company.

Remarkably, little damage was done to the car, the front bumper taking the force of the impact. Chief Constable George Rose investigated.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital met on Friday afternoon in the hospital. Mrs. Fox, president, welcomed the members and outlined the work for the fall term.

It was decided to sponsor a drive for home-made fruits, jams, canned goods, pickles and relishes, with all donations to be left at the hospital.

A draw will be made at the close of the Institute Fair. Tickets for this will be obtainable at the booth formerly occupied by the Registrar, East Women's Institute.

Several other projects were discussed and at the close of the meeting Miss Eva Milne and her group served a dainty lunch to the group.

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linn of Chicago, are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Fred Smith and other relatives and friends in this district.

Dr. E. E. Long New Secretary General Council

SACKVILLE, N. B. (CP)—Scores of United Church clergymen discarded clerical garb for lounge suits today and took their wives for several hundred miles of sightseeing to Prince Edward Island.

Most of the 375 lay and clerical delegates to the 16th general council of the church planned to take advantage of the first break in the arduous schedule since the conference opened Wednesday.

Delegates skipped through the biggest single chunk of the agenda so far Friday in an attempt to get caught up on the schedule.

They gave approval to the report of the committee on vacancies by Very Rev. C. M. Nicholson of Halifax but ran into a snag on the proposal to appoint Dr. Ernest E. Long of Toronto the permanent secretary ship of the general council.

Dr. Long, of Humbercrest United Church, won but only after a five-way election that went to four ballots.

The delegates also received and approved reports of the boards of overseas missions and evangelism and social service.

The report of the board of colleges and secondary schools, submitted by Dr. Harold Young, said the church needs 1,000 more teachers in the next five years and would not be able to do its job unless they were found.

ARE THESE YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT TRUSTS ?

"Would my estate be too small to interest a Trust Company?"

No estate is too small for us to administer as your trustee — to your full advantage or that of your family.

"Would the cost be too high?"

No. A fair fee for trustees is established by law, and it is in proportion to the amount of service the size of the estate requires. Such service might easily save you or yours many times its cost, in just one transaction.

"Will the trustee handle my affairs in too routine a manner?"

Probably not. And by this Company, definitely not. Our obligations and responsibilities apply equally to all trusts, regardless of size, and one standard of service—the highest — is rendered to all. All the collective experience and mature judgment of our trust officers are focused on each and every trust. Just how well we would function for your family can be demonstrated for you now—while you can observe it closely—in a "Living Trust." This is flexible, does not entail forfeiture of your control, gives us as much or as little responsibility as you wish. It can be terminated at will or incorporated in your estate plans. And our services save you many investment and management worries . . . Details at your earliest convenience.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hubbs, of Oakville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johns, of Bayside and enjoyed a trip in the north country, returning by way of Kingston.

Weddings

WATSON—CROSS

A very pretty autumn wedding took place in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Roslin, Saturday September 4, when Doreen Helen Cross, became the bride of Edmund Stanley Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Watson, of Corbyville.

Multi-colored flowers and gladioli formed a lovely background for the ceremony performed by the Rev. L. S. Throop.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Arthur Bates and the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Dills sang "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of nylon net and Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with hooped crinoline skirt, fitted bodice and lace jacket with matching lace gloves. She wore a coronet of seed pearls with heather sent directly from Scotland by a friend, from which fell her fingertip veil of net and lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses and heather.

Miss Audentia Cross was her sister's maid of honour, dressed in mauve, her gown being on the same lines as the bride's. She carried a nosegay of chrysanthemums and rose buds.

Her two bridesmaids, Mrs. Sam Cross and Miss Maxine Cross gowned in yellow and blue respectively. Her junior bridesmaid, Lillian Watson, wore pink. They all carried nosegays of chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds.

Little Miss Beverly Bradshaw was a dainty little flower girl, dressed in mauve. Master David Skelly, nephew of the bride, dressed in grey flannel, made a handsome ring bearer, carrying a white satin cushion with the wedding rings.

Mr. Milton Watson was his brother's attendant. Messrs Sam Cross and Mr. Walter Watson were ushers.

The reception was held in Roslin community hall which was gaily decorated with pink and white streamers and flowers. The bride's mother received in a gown of navy with matching accessories assisted by the groom's mother also in a gown of navy and navy accessories. Tables were laid for 100 guests who sat down to a sumptuous turkey dinner.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. L. S. Throop and responded to by the groom, after which the bride's father invited the guests to their home.

The bride donned a navy suit with navy accessories for their honeymoon trip through Algonquin Park, North Bay and Ottawa. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm on the 3rd of Thurlow.

Prior to her marriage Doreen was feted by a shower given by the girls from the Northern Electric where she is employed.

A kitchen shower was also given by her friends at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Skelly.

September Wonder Month Of the Year

(By A. HENDERSON)

September! Wonder month of the year, fruition of Nature's promises with its fields of ripened grain and yellowing corn shocks; its trees laden with reddening McIntoshes and pink-cheeked Melbas. Country lanes bedecked with fringed gentian, plumes of waving golden rod—flower of the month—and wild, blue asters. The farm fields lined with thorny, wild plums, heavy with scarlet fruit and the luscious nanny berries hushes attempting with their dusky clusters of fat, black fruits.

To walk beneath the tall maples with their tints of gold and early carmine and their silent, floating leaves, beneath the sapphire sky; to hear the muted sounds of the denizens of the open spaces, the hum of the locust, the whirr of the cricket, and to watch the conversations of the black birds as they gather in the tall elm talking over the coming migration, in September is to live best. As the poet has said, September is "Summer's mellow weather and autumn's best of cheer."

FORMERLY SEVENTH MONTH

September is the ninth month of the year. In olden times it was the seventh month, hence the name from the Latin, September, Always it had 30 days. It is on the 22nd that the sun crosses the equator toward the tropic of Capricorn, when days and nights the whole world over are of equal length.

The two anniversary days of the month are Labor Day in Canada, on the first Monday and Emancipation Day on the 22nd in the United States which is celebrated by the American Negroes.

Some of the notables whose birthdays fell in this month are: Queen Elizabeth I, on September 8, 1157; Eugene Field, September 2, 1850, American journalist; Horatio Nelson, September 29, 1758, and Alexander the Great who wept because there were no more worlds to conquer September 20, 356 B.C.

The notable events which took place in the month of September were: the battle of Actium, 2nd, 31 B.C.; the discovery of the Pacific Ocean in 1513, by Balboa, on the 25th of the month; the Mayflower sailed from Plymouth on September 6th, 1620; and then down to later times, the battle of the Plains of Abraham, on the 13th, 1759; the surrender of Quebec to England on the 18th, 1759, and the Battle of the Marne, September 6th, 1914.

Of all the months, September is a choice holiday month. Its invigorating air lures one to long hikes, with adventure beckoning on every side; Nature is at her best, and "Every prospect pleases." The gem of the month is the sapphire, emblematic of its sapphire skies.

RED PLANES IN ARCTIC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Magazine Aviation Age said Thursday Russia has based almost her entire long-range bomber force—6 well at many other army and navy air forces—at airfields along the coast of the Arctic ocean. The private trade publication said that "Like the United States, Soviet Russia views the polar regions as the main avenue for aerial warfare in the event of World War III."

Indian Girl Hopes To Teach on Reserve

SHANNONVILLE — Miss Marlene Brant, an award winning scholar at Queen's University and a member of the Mohawk Band at Tyendinaga Reserve, spent the summer working for the Education Division of the Indian Affairs Branch, Ottawa.

Miss Brant, who won the 1954 W. W. Near Scholarship in French at Queen's, is pleased to be working for the Education Branch, for she plans to become a teacher. She has completed two years of an honors course in English and History and plans to take teachers' training after graduation.

"I have wanted for some time to be a teacher," says Miss Brant, "but it was not until recently that I thought a great deal about teaching among my owwn people.

"Since working in the education division I have seen something of the importance of education to Indians. I would like to play my part in this regard.

RETAIN RACIAL PRIDE

"Of course, education is only part of the work. We must be prepared to compete with other Canadians on equal terms in a modern world, still retaining our individuality and racial pride."

Miss Brant attended Shannonville public school, where she won the Warden's medal as the best Grade VIII student in South Hastings. She attended high school in Belleville.

"We are delighted to have her," says R. F. Davey, superintendent of education. "Of course we are always glad to have Indians come and help in the work we are doing for Indians, but apart from that, she is a very capable worker and a pleasant addition to our staff."

FAMILY DOING WELL

Other members of Miss Brant's family also are doing well. A sister, Lorraine, is a registered nurse, at present teaching at a nursing school in Guelph. Her eldest brother, Reginald, took a college course in accountancy after his return from service in the Second World War, and now is a senior official in a paper factory.

Another sister, Ardeth, has completed Grade XII and after completion of Grade XIII will go to Normal School.

Her youngest brother, Clare, won a Home and School Club scholarship this year as the best Grade 8 student.

NAB MURDER SUSPECT

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 55-year-old man is behind bars after dodging a murder indictment for 28 years. Sheriff Joe Hurley says seven other officers surprised Lexie Hankins in an outhouse in a pre-dawn raid Thursday. The prisoner had dropped from sight after his indictment following fatal knifing at a dance in 1926.

Honored at Trousseau Tea and Showers

On September 3, Mrs. A. R. Galbraith, 247 Charles Street, entertained at a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Miss Rosemary Galbraith, whose marriage took place to John Roland Belanger, on September 11.

The rooms were attractively arranged with pink and white streamers and wedding bells and a profusion of gladioli, asters and ferns.

The tea table with its lace cloth, silver candelabra and silver tea service was graciously presided over by Mrs. Ann Brown and those who served were Mrs. Larry Wood, Mrs. Eileen Smith, while Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Evelyn Olmstead and Mrs. Joan Wood, close friends of the bride showed the trousseau.

Prior to her marriage she was honored at a miscellaneous shower with Mrs. Eileen Smith and Mrs. Helen Gilmore hostesses, a personal shower by Mrs. Joan Diamond, R.N. 8, Belleville, and a kitchen shower with Mrs. Joan Wood as hostess. She was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Mrs. W. R. Walton To Address WCC

Guest speaker to the Women's Canadian Club Monday will be Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr. immediate past national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, and one of Canada's top women athletes.

Closely associated with women's activities, she has been an active worker with the CAC since its inception seven years ago, and also is a national vice-president of the IODE.

One of the nation's star tennis players, Mrs. Walton won the World's Amateur Badminton singles title in 1947. In 1950 she was selected one of the six outstanding Canadian women athletes of the past half-century.

Last year she received the Coronation Medal in recognition of her work with the CAC.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We heard about a freak accident at lunch this week. A garageman was leaning down under the dashboard of a car installing a new radio. The car was in gear. As he tinkered with the screws, he slipped in such a way as to throw his shoulder against the starter. . . . This jerked the car, causing him to thrust his left hand down hard on the accelerator. The car jolted ahead smashing the open hood and chrome radiator grill into the stone wall of the garage.

The mechanic was not badly hurt, but he could easily have had his neck broken. Many of us are too prone to leave our cars in gear, instead of pulling the parking brake. This habit can have dangerous results.

SMALL PRINT

Why will news editors play up fads and bury the young men who are really doing something valuable on the Truce Commission in Indo-China. The names appeared in a number of papers, not only on the back pages, but in very fine print, similar to that used for divorce cases.

Nearly all these young Canadians served in World War II with distinction. Others served in Korea also. Today, they leave their wives and young families for at least a year's patriotic work in the jungle and tropical disease ridden districts where a grim peace must be maintained.

Yes, they flew away into the night, with no fuss, no flag-waving, no balking. They are Canadians who volunteered long ago to serve in Canada's peacetime forces. They go where they are sent. They go cheerfully. They go because they consider it's their job.

Surely our new editors can spare standard size type when it comes to listing their names.

GRACE

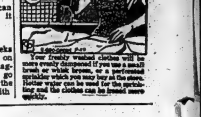
Having spent a couple of weeks eating in public restaurants on vacation, a four-year-old was eagerly climbing onto her chair to go at the home-cooked food in her plate, she bowed her head exclaiming, "Let's talk about the food again, Daddy?"

Perhaps the Lord wouldn't be too pleased with this childlike description of asking for the Blessing, but it was innocent and the kid meant well.

Uncle Frontenac says he was driving through a public park and saw a warning sign which read, "Children Should Be Seen And Not Hurt."



She's headed for her

SHE MARRIED TO ESCAPE FAMILY FIGHTS, BUT ONLY FOUND NEW ONES

Dear Brown-Eyed Betty*: My heart aches for you. It is a cruel Fate that puts a teenage girl in such a dreadful situation as yours.

At 18, you have already been married a year and a half, and to man twice your age. Naturally you were little more than 16 years old when you became a wife, and there is one sentence in your letter which reveals why. What you say is true: "I was raised up in fussing and fighting, and my only wish was to marry someone to get out of it." Did you realize when you wrote that sentence, I wonder, that although you say you did love your husband when you married him, you probably would have thought yourself in love with anyone who offered you a chance to escape the "fussing and fighting"?

I was deeply touched by your evident love for, and loyalty to, the family whose fighting and quarreling drove you to such desperation. For you say that you will never let your mother know, because it would break her heart, that your husband beats you; that you are actually living in the home of his people, with a mother-in-law who constantly berates you and scolds you for not doing things that are wrong, even though she well knows it is untrue. You have become so hopeless, and so fearful, that, hard as you work in the shop, "just one look or one sight come" because it means it's time to go home.

In spite of all this, however, and distraught and desperate though you are, you try to be fair to those who are making your life a hell on earth.

Though your mother - in - law screams at you, and accuses you without cause; though she has made her son such a mama's boy that, when you try to do anything for him, he comes you and yells for his mother, you are quick to see her due. "She has some real good in her," you say, "for she has bought me more pretty clothes than anyone ever did." Though your husband completely neglects you, ridicules your parents, curses you if you suggest moving out of his parents' home and having a home of your own, and often beats you, you say: "Maybe I need some of it, though I don't think I am to blame for all of it." And finally you ask pathetically: "Am I just being childish about everything?"

No, Betty, you are not "just being childish." In fact, the many things you tell me in your letter about your struggles to try to please your husband and his parents make me feel that you have shown amazing maturity in your earnest efforts to adjust yourself to an unbearable situation, and I think the time has fully come when someone should help you out of it. For I am quite sure you are never going to find any happiness or security with this man who, twice your age, should never have married you in the first place, and is now, quite obviously, in a chronic rage at having a child on his hands.

So read carefully what I am going to tell you to do, and don't be afraid to do it.

Call up this newspaper and ask the name and address of the organization in your town which helps people with marriage problems. You do not need to give your name in asking for this information. They will give it to you anyhow. Then, when you have the name and address, call the organization on the telephone, or write a letter, saying that you are desperately in need of help and would like to come there and get some advice. They will tell you just when to come, and some one who will be kind and understanding will talk with you and help you find a way out of your troubles.

Will you do this, and will you write me again, giving me your full name and an address to which I can send you a personal letter? I would like to keep in touch with you and see if there is any way I can help you further.

QUESTIONS:

Could you please give me a recipe for canning peaches in water. I don't want to use saccharin. I am a diabetic so would prefer the water. . . I am making a scrap book of all the recipes I get from you.—Mrs. G. G.

ANSWER:

There are two steps you should observe (besides omitting sugar) when you water-pack fruit. (1) Be sure fruit is perfect and fully ripe. (2) If you want to give the canned fruit as much flavor as possible, wash and strain some of the fruit and add it to the water which is being used.

WATER-PACKED PEACHES

Select perfectly ripe perfect peaches. Have ready to every 2 cups boiling water 3-3 cup mashed and strained raw peaches (to give the water some sweet flavor). This should be boiling gently. Scald peaches in boiling water, peel, cut in halves and remove stones and pack in hot sterile jars. Fill jars with boiling hot water in which peach pulp has been added—to within 1-2-inch of top. Put on sterile rubbers, lops and rings, tightening to within 1-8 turn of tight. Process in boiling water bath allowing 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts—counting time after boil has begun to boil. Tighten seal—never loosen it. Do not pack peaches tightly in jars. Water should be poured over peaches in each jar as it is filled to prevent browning. Jar should then be almost sealed and stood in hot water. You should work quickly.

QUESTION:

Would you please enter in your column a recipe for stretched taffy.—Mickey.

If you are not an experienced candy maker I would advise starting with the first recipe for

MOLASSES MINT TAFFY

This is easier than plain taffy and gives you the detailed directions.

Two cups light molasses, 2 teaspoons vinegar, 1 1-2 tablespoons butter, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon baking soda, 6 or 7 drops oil of peppermint, Cook molasses and vinegar in a large saucepan stirring constantly, to 260 deg. Fahr. (I strongly advise using candy thermometer.) If you do have no thermometer a little of the syrup may be dropped in cold water when it will become brittle. Remove from heat and add butter, salt and baking soda. Stir until mixture stops foaming, then pour into greased pan 12x8x1 inches. When barely cool enough to handle, drop peppermint in centre and draw corners toward centre. Press together, then pull the taffy in your two hands constantly until it is light in color. (Or you may pull it over a hook.) Pull until it begins to harden, then pull into 2 long strips 1-2 inch in diameter, and cut with buttered scissors into 1-inch long pieces, working quickly. Wrap pieces in wax paper squares.

STRETCHED TAFFY

Three cups granulated sugar, 1 1-2 cups water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar. Stir together until it reaches crack stage—300 deg. Fahr. Cool in pan 30 deg. If room isn't ved pan,ping handled, then pour as directed above in Molasses Taffy.

QUESTION:

Mamora . . . I have some hot peppers (the long yellow banana type) in my garden . . . is there any way of canning them or using them with pickles or relish? —Mrs. Robt' H.

ANSWER:

No doubt you know you may add them in limited amount to green pickle or relish.

The only recipe I have for them is

MEMORIES

I have tested them and they are pretty hot. Remove stems and top by slicing off and reserving. Cut out seeds and ribs. Soak in brine of 1 cup water to each 1 quart of cold water, to cover, overnight.

Meat stuffing: To 4 cups chopped cabbage add 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 3-4 cup sugar. Mix and drain well in colander. Replace top with stems and tie them on. Put in crock. Cover with vinegar. Keep in two weeks. No sugar, peppers milder vinegar may be diluted by half with water and poured over boiling hot.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SEECKMAN

TRIP TOGETHER? "NO!"

Dear Miss Seeckman:

My daughter recently became engaged, but is not to be married for about six months. Shortly her fiance has to go on a business trip to a very large city and remain away from here. He is urging her to go with him, says they will of course stay at different hotels, and that while he does his business duties in the city she can go sightseeing, go to the movies, and in the evening they can dine together and go to the theatre. My husband and I think this is a most improper idea, but Dorothy and Bob find it most difficult to accept our vigorous "No!" However, Dorothy, who has written to you several times and has received most helpful replies from you, has promised she will abide by what you say. Distressed Mother.

And I add my vigorous "No!" to the vigorous "No!" spoken by you and your husband, Mother. Surely just mustn't take such an incredibly foolish step.

BIRTHDAY CAKE THE CLIMAX OF THE DINNER

Dear Mrs. Seeckman:

At a birthday dinner, to which approximately twenty-four relatives and friends were being invited, someone has suggested that the birthday cake (which is to be a very elaborate and elaborate one!) be the centerpiece of the dinner table. What is your advice about this idea? — Hostess

I don't approve of this plan. Usually the centerpiece is flowers, often the favorite flowers of the birthdayer, or flowers using his or his favorite color. There should be a dramatic entrance for the birthday cake. It should be brought in with the candles lighted to give a festive crown. And always there should be the gala surprise feature of this entrance, which certainly would be sadly lost if the guests sat all during the dinner looking at the birthday cake centrepiece! The birthday cake should be brought in just before the ice cream is served. It is placed on the table in front of the birthdayer, with "Happy Birthday to you" . . . the blowing-out of the candles. . . the cutting of the cake.

NOTES FOR THESE GIFTS TOO

Dear Mrs. Seeckman:

Although our wedding invits have been over for over a week, I have already received several presents from close friends of my fiance. Should I write thank-you notes for these presents, or should he write them?—Bride-to-be

You should write a thank-you note to each of these friends . . . and of course including in the body of your note, the enthusiastic approbation of your fiance.

CONFESSES THEFT

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Walter Thursday confessed that she stole $12,656 over a period of five years from the bank safety deposit box of her two sisters and lost it by gambling. Mrs. Walter pleaded guilty to a charge of fraudulent conversation. She will be sentenced later.

LECTURE RED WORKERS

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 800 lectures on "love and friendship" in the Soviet Union have been read to Leningrad citizens at their places of work during the last two weeks, Moscow radio reported today. It said the aim was "to inspire them with the principles of a healthy life."

W.M.S. Executive Holds Fall Meeting

STIRLING. — In the United Church, West Huntingdon, members of Belleville Presbyterial executive of the WMS met last Friday morning.

Mrs. Lincoln Elliot, Tweed, presided and conducted the morning devotional period, taking as her theme, "The Kingdom of Heaven."

The new members of the executive were welcomed and introduced, 18 members of executive and 11 presidents of auxiliaries being present.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Jones, Tweed, reported an increase in contributions for 55 per cent of the auxiliaries in Belleville Presbyterial.

Two replacements were made on committees. Mrs. Geo. Carlisle replaced Mrs. J. W. Hutlin on the finance committee. Mrs. W. Edgar replaced Miss Baker on the nominating committee.

The main business of the morning consisted of planning the fall rallies, to be held at Hazzard's, Oct. 13; Moscow, Oct. 27; South Bay, Oct. 28; Holloway Street, Belleville, Oct. 29; (afternoon); Belleville E, at Bridge Street, Oct. 29 (afternoon).

On the evening of Oct. 29, Mrs. K. W. Maslin, a delegate from India to the meeting of the World Council of Churches, held recently in Evanston, Ill., will be guest speaker at a mash meeting held in Bridge Street Church, Belleville.

The ladies adjourned at noon to meet in the Orange Hall for a dinner served by West Huntingdon women.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon meeting was opened with a worship service led by Mrs. Wilson, on the theme, "Today's Need, Prayer."

The various secretaries reported work successfully carried on in their departments.

The Christian Stewardship Secretary, Mrs. R. G. Coulter, of Belleville, stressed the great need of trained workers, especially in mining districts and new development areas.

Mrs .S. W. Spafford, president of Bay of Quinte branch, explained the value of visual aids such as pictures, charts, films, flannel boards and slides as a means of missionary education.

Following the day was Mrs. W. K. Pace and the soloist was Mrs. W. D. Grant.

Women's Institute

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute held its September meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson with a very good attendance. Mrs. Ross Stickle opened the meeting with the "Ode to Canada," "Mary Stuart Collect", followed by the minutes and roll-call, which was answered with a resolution.

A thank-you card was received from Mrs. Yateman and several letters were read. It was moved that the girls who helped the Institute at Belleville Fair putting on meals be sent a letter of appreciation. It was moved the Institute accept the offer of a demonstration of a product to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sandercock, Wednesday afternoon, September 29.

At this point Mrs. Allen arose and said she "had a very pleasant duty to perform." It was to present Mrs. Ross Stickle, assisted with a lovely china cup and saucer trimmed with gold, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Rouleau's 50th wedding anniversary which they celebrated on Tuesday, as a gift from the Institute. Mrs. Rouleau was touch by the thoughtfulness of the ladies and thanking them said she "would always treasure it."

The meeting was then turned over to the convener of "Resolutions", by Mrs. Perce Bolton. "A resolution is like a tool", Mrs. Bolton said, "You have to learn how to use it. Don't just send a resolution to the government alone. Command what you should like to have done and keep at it until you get what you are after and so the laws of the land are changed for the better."

A fine reading was given by Mrs. Clarence Holmes, written by Mrs. Robertson of the Quinte Branch Institute, "The Origin of the Women's Institute" and told of the work of Mrs. Hoodless as Stoney Creek where the Institute was founded.

Mrs. Bolton then put on a contest and it was won by Mrs. Fred Wilson. A gift was presented to the eldest lady present, Mrs. Bonisteel. The meeting closed with "God Save The Queen."

Refreshments were then served by the conveners and an interesting meeting was brought to a close.

Rawdon

RAWDON—Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sine entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr of Dryden, Ont., on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Orr formerly lived in Rawdon township and they called on several old friends.

The ladies of Springbrook have received word that Mrs. J. Wood, Belleville, will be their guest speaker at the end of the month.

Mr. Leslie Thompson held a successful auction sale at his farm home, Ke and Mrs. Thompson plan to move to Stirling in the near future.

Mrs. John Mulheron, Mrs. Walter Sine, Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. S. J. Elliott and Mrs. W. J. V. Walker attended a ministerial meeting at St. John's Church of England, where the Rev. Dr. John Marsh gave his impressions of the Second World Assembly of Churches at Evanston, Illinois.

Mrs. Harry Vandervoort entertained several ladies at her home on Friday evening.

Sally Ann Wood, Nancy David and Jean Dunham began their education at the village school while Teddy Richardson was a new pupil at the Allan School.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dunham and family and Mrs. C. Mumby, Salem, Mrs. James Sharp, Ridge Road, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lightenfield, Marsh Hill, attended the afternoon service at Mount Pleasant United Church. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang "My Peace Is Like a River."

Mr. and Mrs. Will Potts received word of the birth of their niece, Mrs. William Findlay, nee Evelyn Mills.

Frost damaged garden and flower vines in the early hours, last Sunday. The gardens presented a delightful appearance. Several corn fields were also bleached and burned around the edges.

Mrs. Gertrude Caverly, Marmora, is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. John Ray and Lester.

Folks on Rawdon circuit were sorry to hear of the illness of the Rev. John Marsh, who had picked up a virus germ and was compelled to spend a few days in bed. Dr. Marsh was unable to give addresses on Sunday at the three appointments on Rawdon United Church circuit and many people were disappointed.

The circuit did appreciate his message at the reception held on Friday evening and at that time he was not feeling up to par. He hopes to sail this week for England and then resume his lectures at Mansfield College, Oxford, while a locum will fill

PASTEURIZATION AGAIN

A study of vital statistics will always offer evidence in favor of compulsory pasteurization of milk. Whenever a city or a province makes pasteurization of milk compulsory, infant mortality rates drop almost immediately. Canada's poor showing with respect to infant mortality (some 13 other nations have lower rates) may be attributed entirely to those provinces in which pasteurization legislation is most strenuously resisted. Ontario and Saskatchewan, which have province-wide pasteurization regulations have comparatively low infant mortality rates. In fact if the infant mortality rates in all the provinces were as low as in these two, Canada would rank among the four or five nations in the world.

This sounds as though the whole business of infant mortality is a sort of guilt game, in which a low score is the goal. Actually, however, it is extremely important. Canada needs manpower. Canada makes a great effort to attract immigrants for their manpower, and spends a great deal of money helping these immigrants through long and tedious periods of adjustment. This is sound policy from a point of view of economics, but it seems odd that so much time and toil should be put into the procuring of manpower from other countries, when so little effort is put into saving the lives of our own Canadian children. In one year alone, 1951, some 20,000 Canadians died before reaching maturity. It is of course almost impossible to judge just how many of these might have been saved by compulsory pasteurization. Many of the listed causes of death might or might not be milk-born. It is possible to state conservatively that about 3,000 of these deaths might have been prevented by a combination of pasteurization and immunization.

Imagine what 3,000 additional native-born citizens every year could do for population-hungry Canada.

Yet the objections to pasteurization keep coming up:

Question: "I have heard that pasteurization destroys disease producing bacteria, but that it also destroys the organisms which form lactic acid, and also most of the vitamins. If we have to rule the value of our milk just to prevent disease, why not in one step farther and outlaw milk altogether?"

Answer: There is just enough truth in this claim to make it difficult to refute. Some of lactic acid forming organisms are undoubtedly destroyed by pasteurization, with the result that the souring of the milk is delayed and therefore pasteurized milk will stay sweet considerably longer than raw milk will. Whether this improvement in the keeping qualities of pasteurized milk can be considered a serious objection or not is a matter of opinion. If you really want sour or acidophobous milk it is a fairly simple matter to obtain it.

As for the vitamins, the principal ones found in milk are Vitamin A, riboflavin and niacin. Milk which has been pasteurized, treated, contains a negligible amount of Vitamin A and only small amounts of Vitamin C and thiamine. In feeding infants and small children, it is necessary to supplement milk with cod liver oil, orange juice or tomato juice and whole wheat products to supply the deficiencies of these vitamins. It is true that pasteurization does affect Vitamin C and thiamine, which are both thermolabile, and also destroys about 10 per cent of the riboflavin. But since milk does not provide enough Vitamin C or thiamine to be a reliable source of these vitamins, and since it is plentifully supplied with riboflavin that the loss of a mere 2 per cent is negligible, the objection that vitamins are destroyed by pasteurization, while true, does not carry much weight, because those vitamins that are lost must be supplemented even when unpasteurized milk is used.

Rocky Marciano Still World Champion; Knocks Out Charles In 8th Round

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WE CALLED IT RIGHT—FOR ONCE

They never come back. Last night Ezzard Charles failed to do what many another ex-heavyweight boxing champion tried to accomplish and he went the way of all ex-titleholder flesh. In fact it was unreliably reported that Rocky Marciano actually yawned at times, while Al Weill, his manager, was marching maps looking for "geranium sniper" in which to invest his share of the loot. The razor-blade pinpoint were slinging out good advice to Charles in that "sharp" jiarlez while a soda promoter kept asking Charles and a few million listeners "What'll You Have". Charles didn't have much choice. He merely took what was handed to him—and fell for it. However he did take time out to snip a hunk off the Brocton Blockbuster's schnozzle but with the "loot" he took from the brawl, Rocky shouldn't kick at present meat prices.

Now, the "exposits" say, the next bloke to take a crack at the Marciano crown will be either Dan Cockell, paunchy Britisher or Nino Valdes, a scrapper from the sunny land of sercurtas and Bacardi swizzles. Just to clean up the matter, it might not be a bad idea to toss both Cockell and Valdes at Rocky in the ring at the same time and let Rocky take 'em in a doubleheader. It would save time, and reams of tub-thumping copy. And it would let we video ideos get back to our favorite programs such as "Life is Plentiful", "Mr. Murphy's Widow" and other grease-removing, kind-to-your-hands suds operyrs.

WHO'S RUNNING WHAT?

The answer to the question of a large number of city baseball fans would be another question, "Is the Oshawa tail tryine to wag the Ontario Baseball Association dog?"

First of all it must be pointed out that the OBA does not and never did recognize the Viaduct-Ontario Senior Baseball League. In other words it was and is an outlaw organization, playing the most of the time under the OBA rules and constitution.

Oshawa won the Viaduct League championship after ousting the Oakville Oaks, who had eliminated the Belleville Bataa in the semi-finals.

But the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns is a horse of another collar. The Bataa were ordered by the OBA to play their first playdown round with Peterborough whom they polished off with ease in three straight victories. Oshawa, it is reported refused to play the Oaks in an OBA round. The Oaks were drawn against Petrolia with the winners to meet the winners of the Niagara District League for the Western Ontario championship.

The OBA said that Oshawa would be drawn against Belleville for the Eastern Ontario title the respective winners to battle it out for the provincial championship.

Mr. Ab Walker, a member of the OBA executive informed Bataa manager Jack Carson that the Oshawa club had decided ("that is what they have voted") to play the Bataa a best-of-three series. He informed Carson to this extent in a letter that also contained the piteous financial plight of the Transporters.

Carson requested a three-of-five series which was refused, then took the matter, as should have been done at first, to the OBA.

This was a week ago. Since that time the telephone wires have sizzled between Belleville, Oshawa, St. Catharines, the home of Tom Rowdon, OBA secretary, also the home of the OBA prexy, Mr. Riddell, at Milton, Ont.

Carson absolutely refuses to be dictated to by the Oshawa brass hats. He says "I will do whatever the OBA orders, or withdraw from the series. I have played fair with Oshawa all season, even to paying their travelling expenses here. But there will be no expenses as far as this series is concerned. I have offered the Oshawa club the facilities of the Belleville baseball park in which to play their homes if they so wish."

"This series, if there is one, "he said, "will be what the OBA orders. I am satisfied to abide by Secretary Rowdon's decision and not go over his head to the president as did the Oshawa manager. OBA executive or not, it makes no difference to me what Mr. Walker is. He will not tell the Bataa Baseball Club what it is going to do."

The Oshawa sports scribe wrote in his column yesterday that the Oshawa club had decided to play the series "at personal expense" but only in order to bring another baseball title to Oshawa". Bighearted bubs, ain't they.

But you can rest assured the Bataa will do as the OBA says. If Carson has anything to do with it, and that is plenty, and not bow to the whims and vagaries of the Transporters.

Only one thing of a definite nature has emerged from the to-and-fro bickering and this is, the OBA has told Carson the dates for the series are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Manager Carson will request that the venue of the first game be decided by the flip of a coin. And the OBA prexy or secretary will flip it.

SOFTBALL TWIN BILL

Two softball games are on deck this afternoon. Bob Temple's Bobcats meet the Kingston Alcans at the CNR Recreation Park at three o'clock while the Frankford Merchants meet the Kingston Army squad at five p.m., at the same place.

The Bobcats can sweep the series with a win this p.m. while the Frankford-Army tilt is the third of a best-of-three OASA intermediate "B" series. The Frankies are now in the fourth round.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

New York—Rocky Marciano, 187, Brockton, Mass., knocked out Ezzard Charles, 182½, Cincinnati, 8, (For world's heavyweight title) Washington — Willie Troy, 159, Washington, stopped Walter Carter, 160, Washington, 2.

Challenger Floored Twice In Fight That Lacked Drama; Dan Cockell or Valdes Next

By Murray Rose

NEW YORK (AP) — Ezzard Charles has gone the way of the other 40 of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano's knockout victims and now it looks like either England's Don Cockell or Cuba's Nino Valdes will get the next chance to test the unbeaten Brockton blaster's dynamite.

"Cockell or Valdes—the one who brings the most money—is next," said manager Al Weill. Rocky nodded.

"It's all the same to me," said Marciano as Dr. Alexander Schiff bandaged a nasty cut on the tip of his nose and patched a half-inch scabon his left brow.

"But he ain't going to go any more 15 rounds," said Weill. "Rocky will need plastic surgery to fix that cut on his nose. Forget any? Maybe. We'll see. First we gotta leave at 4 p.m. today for Los Angeles. Rocky's on that comedy hour Sunday with Eddie Fisher. Then we gotta make a movie offer, a job in Las Vegas, and a European refereeing tour. Fix Eggleston—he's going international—Cockell or Valdes."

LOOKS ABROAD

Rocky really has to look abroad for his next opponent. He tied the record knockout of Charles Friday night wiped out his last major challenger in the U.S. The 33-year-old Charles, making an unprecedented 19th ring start, failed in his first ex-champion to regain the title, went down for the full count in the eighth, resembling a withering barrage from the bleeding and berserk Bomber.

Down for the second time in the round and for the third time in the one-sided bouts that lacked the drama of their June original, Charles' last manager got up on his feet after referee Al Berl had tolled "ten."

There were many in the crowd of 34,330 at Yankee Stadium who thought that Ezzard could have beaten the count if he had given it the real college try and not the last chance effort. "I don't think so. He was dazed."

"I was groggy but I still had my senses," said Charles, who was virtually unmarked and looked more like a winner than the loser. "My gloves weren't touching his face. I don't have any excuse for getting if they had let me. I think in two rounds I would have had him. He was a cut pretty bad."

NOBODY ELSE

Maybe Ezzard's handlers thought so too, but nobody else did. This wasn't like their unexpected first fight three months ago when Charles got off to a fast, chopping wide gash over Rocky's left eye in the fourth, and had a chance to win at the 14th round.

This was a one-way battle after the first round. Charles tossed left hooks and short rights to win the first round but only two can be received from the three officials but in the second he charging ball-like Marciano took command.

The strong, driving champion whacked three solid rights to Ezzy's body and then bombed the Cincinnati veteran with a right to the head that floored Charles for two.

Charles was staggered repeatedly thereafter but it wasn't until the eighth that he hit the deck again. He went down for two again from a series of rights and then a body bombardment.

KE YROUND

The second round was the key one according to Marciano and co-trainers Charley Goldman and Allie Colombo.

"It was a right to the heart that got it," said the 30-year-old slug. "I could hear him grunt. I knew I had him then and it was just a matter of time. I figured I'd get him before the 10th. After that shot to the head, I dropped him with a right-left-right combination. A right downstairs, then to the chin, eighth and then I gave him the same right-left-right combination to stop him."

"The body punches did it," said Colombo. "It killed him in the legs. I thought Rocky finished him off with a left hook to the chin. He had every punch as well but it was those hooks that were real good."

The difference this time from the other fight was that Rocky started faster, and didn't let Charles get off. He fired right back when Charles opened up.

THE CHAMP

"Yeah," said Rocky, "every time he opened up, I got some good cuses in at first a while he didn't open up too often."

GRABBED, HELD ON

Charles didn't this time. He grabbed and held as if he would succeed the severe shellacking he had absorbed in the 15th round bout when he barely staggered to his corner at the end. He was warned for clinching in the fourth and seventh and many times the referee had to pry him loose from his deadly grip around Rocky's arms.

This was more the cautious Charles of the Jersey Joe Walcott days than the determined fighter who won applause for his game stand against the Bomb in June.

Rocky was warned repeatedly by Berl for hitting after the bell and below the waist but the referee never penalized the champ.

It was all-conquering Rocky's 41st kayo in 47 fights. He weighed 187 while Charles hit 182½heavyest of his career.

For the record, referee Berl and Marciano in front, 5-1-1, while judges Arthur Aidala and Frank Forbes made it 6-1 each. The AP score card had it 5-1-1.

Considering two consecutive rain postponements, the re-match drew over $80,000, and the late 11 p.m., (EDT) starting time, the fight didn't do too bad financially.

The crowd paid $352,654, radio broadcast $35,000 and the coast-to-coast theatre television boosted the kitty about $100,000 more. Rocky's 40 per cent came to about $174,608 while Charles collected $81,304.

It didn't match the 47,368 crowd and $542,082 gate of June 17, but neither did the fight.

Pretty Gals Battle For Golf Crown

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two of the youngest and probably the prettiest girls ever to play in a 36-hole final match for the United States women's amateur golf title met today in an all-California final.

Pert, 5-year-old Barbara Romack of Sacramento, the 1953 Canadian women's champion, and tall, 22-year-old Mary Kathryn (Mickey) Wright of Lajolla survived a field of 145 that started play Monday by winning a notably lopsided pair of semi-final matches.

What's more, they've played every week's best golf on the tight but tricky Allegheny Country Club course. A women's record of 76—73 was established for the tournament over the hilly 6,034 yards.

Miss Wright fired shot one-over-par golf for 14 holes to eliminate the defending champion, Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., by a Miss Romack was two under par for 12 holes to crush Mrs. Marjorie Lindsay McMillen of Decatur, Ill., 7 and 6.

Bob Avila's Grand-Slammer Virtually Clinches Pennant For Indians

Blast Gives Tribe 8 in Row And Ends Yankee Dominance, Braves Cling to Slim Chance

By REN PRIEGIAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Avila's stock rose to new heights today in the race for the most valuable player in the American League.

The peppy Cleveland second baseman, almost a shoo-in for the batting title, made himself personally responsible for at least a share in the pennant with a grand slam home run in Detroit Friday night.

The blast gave the Indians their eighth straight victory and made certain that they will still be in first place on the last day of the season.

The loser into the lower left field seats of Briggs Stadium brought an end to the five-year dominance of the New York Yankees who would have to win all of their remaining games and have the Indians lose all theirs to gain even a tie.

MADE THE DIFFERENCE

Avila made the difference since the final score was 4-3 and the count was even at 2-2 when he came to bat with the bases loaded in the seventh.

It was quite a day for Avila. Before the game he bought a ball club, the Orlando City entry in the Mexican Winter League. Avila said it cost him "mucho pesos."

His home run made it a lead-pipe cinch that he'll collect a good many of those pesos from the world series.

The Yankees were making what probably was their last stand in Philadelphia when the bad news came in their behind. The Athletics just mauled the hapless Athletics 10-3 for their 98th victory. They'll probably win more than 100 games, something no other runner-up ever has done in the American League.

In the National League both the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers were beaten but Milwaukee prolonged its faint chance with a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Giants bowed to Robin Roberts and the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3. Brooklyn committed five errors in losing to last-place Pittsburgh 9-1 in the Dodgers' worst game of the year.

In other action the Baltimore Orioles defeated Chicago 5-1 on two-run home runs by Bob Kennedy and Chuck Diering and Dean Stone of the Senators backed up his own three-hitter with a three-run homer as Washington swamped Boston 8-0.

Bob Lemon pasted his 22rd victory for Cleveland, tops in both leagues. He allowed six hits. Al Rosen's two-run homer in the first sent the Indians off to a lead but Detroit tied it in the sixth with the help of errors by Avila and Al Smith.

FIRST GRAND SLAMMER

Avila's homer was his 14th of the season and his first with the bases full.

Lefty Tommy Byrne checked the Athletics on eight hits and drove in three of the Yankee runs with two doubles and a single.

The Braves' bull pen stopped the Cardinals on three hits in the last six innings. Dave Jolly, second of four pitchers, received credit for his 10th game.

A single by Del Ennis of the Phillies with one out and the bases loaded gave Robin Roberts the needed help in the ninth inning for his 22nd victory. Roberts picked up No. 21 as he held the league leaders to seven hits.

Max Surkont gave the Dodgers only five hits and the Pittsburgh Brooks beat themselves with their five errors in the first four innings.

Alouettes Out To Equal Big Four Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes, looking for all the world like the power-laden football team of 1954 in eastern Canada, are out to equal a Big Four record today—post their fifth straight victory of the season. You must go along with them.

Such a win streak hasn't been equalled since Hamilton Tiger-Cats did it in 1951 to set the league record. And, ironically enough, it will be mainly at Hamilton's expense if the Als make it.

THIRD TIMER

The Big Montreal team and Tiger-Cats meet for the third time this season and the experts call on the Als to keep the term in their loss column. They opened the season with a 34-0 victory at Hamilton and then galloped over the Ti-Cats 21-3 at Montreal last Saturday.

The other eastern setting in second-place Toronto Argonauts meet the Rough Riders at Ottawa, marking the third meeting of the teams in five league games. Argonauts won the first 13-6 and dropped the second 12-5.

The Toronto-Ritchener Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union doubleheader is scheduled. The Dutchmen, two points behind the pace-setting Sarnia Imperials, play at home Saturday and travel to Toronto Sunday. Hamilton Beach has just its two starts of the season.

ACTION IN WEST

As usual, there's plenty of action carded for the West with all five teams active.

The league-leading Saskatchewan Roughriders ingle in a home-and-home series with the second-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The third-place Calgary Stampeders meet the winless British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday and on Monday Edmonton Eskimos move in to the coast city to take on the Lions.

Things could be interesting in the Western Interprovincial Union with the Vancouver club just about ready to roar. Coach Annis Stukus has erased 12 names from the team's injury list and he figures the players have run out of mistakes.

Watson, Flanagan Defeat Hi Lee, Togo in Main Event

By GEO H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Whipper Billy Watson and his Irish sidekick Pat Flanagan acknowledged the accolade victory at Memorial Arena last night—but it was a hollow one.

One of the largest crowds of the season was on hand expecting to see the Terrible Togos get their "rassling" come-uppance at the hands of the handsome Tarawula duo—and what happened?

Togo the Great, boss rail-slinger of the Nipponese brother act did not show up. "Tosh"-jointer partner in the Togo Tonsorial Steaks, Incorporated, made an appearance along with some hired help in the massive form of one Ski-Hi Lee.

Filling for the ride came "Bunny" Dunlop, assisted by one Joe Gollop, all doiled up in white, with "Bunny" always the showman and averse to stepping out of character and swapping pleasantries with the fans—the darlings of East York.

In fact, Joe was left out in the cold as the match was called then decided to get into the brawl and the result was a rip-roaring arm-and-leg "assault" replica sandwich, a western sandwich.

ALL IN RING

They were at it like a political convention and all six were busier than the proverbial one-armed paperhanger. Joe was getting it his mule-kicks in reverse and at times had the Tosh, B'gosh, calling on the spirits of his ancestors for aid in repelling the foreign devil. He himself was the sinned but he couldn't blow the man down.

The Whipper accomodated him rather nicely after some twenty-five minutes of brawling in the first fall when he applied his famous "corkscrew" hold on the nip flipper—and that was that. The fall was conceded to the pain simulatedor otherwise as the handsome Whip pretzelled it in no uncertain manner.

Ski-Hi Lee, whose grunts resemble those of the razor-back hawgs in his native Tennessee, essayed to vindicate the honor of the East-West duo in the second fall but he didn't reckon with the agility and cunning of the Flanagan.

They went at it hammer-and-tongs with assistance from their mates—and it was "Bunny" favoring the while men—until Pat decided it was time to listen in on the heavyweight championship battle. Watson was also allowed in the ring, sorry to say, and Pat had drawn Ticket Number Eight in the Sons of the College of Applied Pachydermy.

PAT DID IT

So he went to work on the skyscraper that walks like a man, and as fight-time drew near, rawing Hi Tennessee Krule back wide and handsome then crashed him to the mat for the fall and the bout.

Gentleman Jack Claybourne, the boy with the fast stylists was to show his wares has slowed down the march of time. He is the same ebon-hued gentleman of the canvas he was years ago when he was a prime favorite with Belleville fans. He has lost none of his artistry and his victory over his opponent after 18 minutes, was a popular one.

Don Lewis and Billy Stass wrestled to a thirty-minute draw in the opener.

Next week will end the wrestling season of 1954 in Memorial Arena. Hockey looms around the corner and officials say ice-making will start a few days after the cessation of wrestling.

Royals Whip Red Wings 6-2; Grab 2-1 Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals, thanks to the big bat of first-baseman Hockey Nelson, hope to make it 3-1 tonight in their International League playoff series with the Red Wings at Rochester.

While Joe Black scattered nine Rochester hits — eight of them singles—Friday night, the Royals blasted out a 6-2 victory to take a 2-1 lead in the semi-final series.

In the other semi-final playoff at Toronto, Syracuse Chiefs took advantage of some spotty Maple Leaf fielding to knock off the league champions 8-5. Three Toronto errors plus other lapses afield gave Syracuse runs unearned runs as the Chiefs evened their series at a game apiece.

With the score tied 3-2, Syracuse scored five runs in the sixth as 11 men went to the plate. Catcher Joe Lonnett, with a triple and single, drove in four.

Nelson blasted two homers and two singles and batted in four Montreal runs. Pinch-hitter Pete Riggan accounted for both Rochester runs with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Batas, Oshawa To Play Series

The Oshawa Transporters and Belleville Batas will play a best-of-three series for the Eastern Ontario senior baseball championship, Batas manager Jack Carson announced today.

The series was ordered by the president of the Ontario Baseball Association in a telegram received this morning.

The first game will be played at Exhibition Park here on Tuesday Sept. 21 starting at eight p.m. with the second slated for Oshawa, Thursday. The third game if necessary, will be played here next Saturday.

'Ole Mississippi' Upsets Alabama

NEW YORK (AP)—Mississippi's Southern has unhorsed the 1954 United States college football season with an upset.

On the same gridiron in Montgomery, Ala., where they startled collegiate circles last year by upsetting Alabama, the cinderella squad did it again to the Crimson Tide. This time the score was 7-2.

The surprise triumph over the Alabama lean overshadowed Stanford's 13-12 squeeze over College of Pacific and Southern California's 28-0 romp over Washington State.

'Easier Than I Figured', Said Rocky, 'Didn't Know What Hit Me'—Charles

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—"It was easier than I figured. He never hurt me once. I should have knocked him out sooner but I guess I was overeager."

This was a surprising statement for the usually gallant Rocky Marciano to make after knocking out Ezzard Charles in eight rounds at Yankee Stadium last night and retain his world heavyweight championship.

A cut eye and an ugly looking gash across the tip of his nose may have partially caused him by a blood-soaked patch, failed to hide Rocky's good humor.

"I don't know him differently this time," he said. "In the first fight he hit me with lots of long right hands. This time I was watching for them and hooking away. Ike, I didn't think he was as strong this time as the last. That was a combination that finished him—a right, left, right. The same one that knocked him down in the second round. I should have finished him then but I was overanxious."

"The cut on the nose?" he repeated. "It came from Charles elbow. I think I had him in the sixth round. It wasn't intentional though. Charles is a clever fighter. It just made me fight a little harder because it bled so much. I was afraid it might get worse."

UNINTENTIONAL

"The cut on the eye? That didn't come from a punch either. It was the result of a head butt. That, too, was accidental."

"Yeah, I guess I did hit him a couple of times after the bell. But, honest, I didn't hear it. Just once I heard it. That was after he hit me after the bell."

A reporter recalled that Charles, immediately after the knockout, had walked over to Marciano and muttered something into his ear. He asked Marciano what Ezzard said.

"He said," Marciano answered, "Nice fight, Rocky."

Charles, smiling and unmarked in contrast to Marciano, said he wanted to go on fighting—he face. "I thought they would let me keep fighting at the end there."

Charles admitted his mistake was to abandon the style he used against Marciano in their first encounter.

"I tried to do what he did to me—I tried to knock him out."

At times, Charles conceded he was groggy "but I still had my senses. My gloves weren't touching the floor. I could have gone on fighting. If they had let me, I think in two more rounds I would have beat him. He was cut up pretty bad."

Charles refused to criticize "the champion for what some observers thought were low blows, or for hitting after the bell.

"Guess that's just the way he fights," said Ez. "He's strong. It made the mistake of stepping back

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

C. R. (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., became the only Canadian to win the United States amateur golf championship 22 years ago today. Somerville defeated Sidney Goodman 3 and 1 in the final at Baltimore. He was chosen as Canadian Press sports poll in 1950 as Canada's greatest golfer of the first half of the century.

with something—I don't know what it was."

On the direct question as to whether he will continue fighting, Charles replied: "Yes, certainly. I think I'll rest for about two weeks and then go back into training."

Solmar Notes Vanishing Species

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)

For a good many years our fathers, grandfathers, and great grandfathers have been held up before the rising generations as the exponents of waste, neglect and destruction in their care of our natural resources. Unlike the American Indian, always thorough conservationist, our forefathers ravaged the country, taking more than their needed and giving little or no thought to the future.

They denuded our hills of their standing of timber, never concerning themselves with reforestation. They dammed our streams for power and polluted them with factory waste and sewage, caring little about their fish migrations.

Our wildlife was killed off ruthlessly, some species becoming extinct. William Cody, for example —"Buffalo Bill"—boasted to have shot over 4,000 buffalo or bison in a single day. The passenger pigeon was driven to extinction by unwise drainage and overshooting.

Believe me, the overall picture is not a pretty one. We shake our heads and deplore the misbehavior and neglect of our forebears, but have we learned our lesson? Evidently not.

BOOMING INDUSTRY

Time was—and not so many years ago—when one of the booming industries of the west coast notably California, was the sardine fishery. These little fish, which numbered in the countless billions, swarmed in offshore water from Washington to the southern California.

During World War I, a group of commercial fishermen netted these fish. For the next 10 years or so the industry grew and grew, providing a reasonable living for a thousand families of fishermen and canning plant operators.

Then a new use for the sardine catch was developed. Reduction plants were built and from them came oil for paint and meal cakes for cattle, rich in protein and vitamins. Naturally catches skyrocketed.

With the construction of new plants came, naturally, new and larger boats together with improved netting methods. As the industry expanded, annual catches reached the staggering total of three fourths of a millions tons or a billion and half pounds.

It stands to reason that no fish, no matter how prolific, can hold its own against a fleet of 300 ships, each capable of taking from 200 to 200 tons of fish per day.

The Marine Fisheries' staff of biologists saw the handwriting on the wall and warned the industry. Such warnings fell upon deaf ears. They continued to net both adult and young fish and to ignore ing seasons.

"No need here to recount the mournful details. As matters stand now, the reduction plants are closed and the once proud fishing fleet lies at the docks, the bottoms pathetic rusty hulks.

Now of all times, the boat owners and the plant operators are appealing to the biologists for help, the same biologists who warned them against their every thing. It may be too late. Only time will tell. At present the sardine supply is too low even to apply for sport fishermen.

Of course, the only possible weapon with which to fight the greed and avarice of individuals is adequate legislation. Always we have the boys whose creed is "I've got mine—let the other fellow worry." The only thing to stop him is a law with some teeth in it. To be sure, we do have laws which control such things as the minimum size of the seal, the sea otter, etc. It would seem that the time has come to take steps with offshore fisheries who operate in the open sea, outside the bounds of territorial waters.

TROY STOPS CARTIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Troy shattered Walter Cartier's comeback dreams Friday night with a murderous two-fister assault that stopped Cartier at 1:34 of the sixth round. Troy, a 32-year old Negro from Washington, weighed 159. Cartier a 30-year-old veteran from Brooklyn, was in at 161.

Chicago Star Bill Mosienko Quits Hockey

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Bill Mosienko, star centre for 13 seasons with Chicago Black Hawks has retired, the National Hockey League club announced Friday night.

Winnipeg-born "Wee Willie," 32, started and ended his professional career with Chicago, scoring 226 goals and 207 assists for an NHL point-total of 503.

Forward Doc Couture was another regular from last year's team who was missing from the Hawks training camp which opened earlier this week. The 31-year-old player has been sold to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Cullen Scores Two at Camp

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Brian Cullen, the pride and joy of this hockey-happy city, stands a good chance of making the jump from junior ranks to the National Hockey League in his first season as a pro.

He scored two goals in an inter-squad game at the Toronto Maple Leafs pre-season hockey camp here Friday. He came within a whisker's width of making it three.

Those were the first two goals as a pro for Cullen, who last year set a Canadian junior scoring record of 161 points when he played with St. Catharines TeePees of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A group.

Other scorers in the 3-3 draw between the Blues and Whites were Rudy Migay, Harry Watson, Ron Stewart and Larry Cahan.

Coach King Clancy was impressed by the scoring ability Cullen displayed.

"He doesn't diddle-dally around with the puck," Clancy said. "He gets it away in a hurry."

FORMER CHAMP DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Erne, 78-year-old former lightweight boxing champion who won the title from George Lavigne in 1899 and retired in 1908, died Friday. His victory over the celebrated Joe Gans March 83, 1900 won him lasting renown. After 12 rounds Gans asked to have the fray stopped.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Even as you and I, masters of bridge play have their troubles from bad trump distribution. Even as you and I, the only way they could know it in time is with a long deck.

In the winter nationals was this deal number eight:

Of the 36 tables, 23 were in a contract of four hearts that correct bidding would have bound to reach. Only one of these was played doubled and redoubled with a loss of two tricks.

The other 22 in four hearts were not doubled. No more than three of these made the contract exactly. If this was not from a foolish type of defense, it was at least careless.

Of the other 18 undoubled contracts of four hearts, down one went seven of them, ten dropped two, and two three. With no odd a holding by opponents, defeat is no disgrace.

But one south player who went down three was permitted to play it in five hearts without being doubled. Failing to double all the game or higher bids is no compliment to such bottoms.

One south played it at two hearts and made three. Another came to a stop of two hearts and made four. One east player got a dandy score at three clubs doubled. Two clubs doubled also made.

The other eight bids were the contracts of one type or another that did not make. Of these, one south dropped one at four spades that was not doubled. Two others fell one at three spades.

An east in one diamond doubled went down one. So did a north in three diamonds undoubled. The inevitable no-trump bounds got in there. There were in undoubled three no-trump, down two or three.

We know many masters are not sure of their final contracts. But it looks as if most of them are not even sure when they can beat opponents. Even with doubles, masters have troubles.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This was the week of the big upset—"Toast of the Town" beat out the Betty Hutton "spectacular" television show.

Last Sunday's Ed Sullivan "toast" show, which saluted Darryl Zanuck with a raft of stars, drew just about twice the audience rating of "Satin and Spurs,"-first of the Max Liebman hour-and-a-half programs. The TV trade is still arguing pro and con.

It would seem that the network works have overestimated the pull of the spectacular shows. The one that started the whole trend was the mammoth Ford anniversary program last year. It drew a huge tremendous reaction, and the industry felt that such biggies were the answer to breathing new life into TV.

NO PROOF

But the Ford show offers no proof. It was telecast on the four networks and had only minor local competition.

You can't underestimate the habit pattern in TV. "Lucy," "Dragnet" and "Toast of the Town" are standard features on the majority of TV dials. It takes something big to offset the habit pattern, and "Satins and Spurs" wasn't spectacular enough.

The show was good—several notches above the average TV entertainment, in fact. But I think the producers made a mistake in making Hutton the whole show. She was immense, but the other entertainment values failed to measure up to her talents. Comedy was largely lacking, and Hutton are what make the big audience ratings.

NO DISCOURAGEMENT

I hope that the backers of the "spectacular" brand of thinking will not be discouraged. They are right in believing that the big shows will bring new excitement to TV. There is nothing dreamier than the same procession of shows week after week, month after month. The spectaculars—if they live up to their name—will be a welcome dividend for TV viewers.

Another thought—why this break-neck competition to unseat certain top-rated shows? It seems a waste to pit two titanics against each other in the same time slot.

Why should the networks struggle so hard against each other on Sunday, Monday, Thursday and Saturday, when most of these shows are on? Why not pay more attention to Wednesday and Friday, which are pretty dull nights for viewing?

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR SUNDAY, SEPT. 19TH, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — No exciting or overly-generous vibrations today but neither are there any unfriendly ones. A mild day on the whole, but interests surrounding the home, family, children, old folks and religion are honored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Saturn, the Moon and Uranus, well aspected, offer pleasant activities and benefits. Special duties need not be tedious. Attend your church with family. Enjoy good fun.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You really should not engage in work that can be done on week days. This day favors sound matters, charitable deeds, caring for the lonely and ill and, of course, spiritual needs.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Favorable rays for you, but do distinguish properly between "wants" and "needs." The things we want are not always for our good. Faith, hope and charity and love have real values—seek them.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Self-restraint where the emotions are concerned is advisable. Be your genial, generous self but also remember your duty to God and to family. There will be time for wholesome fun, too.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Undue excitement, over-strenuous activities are neither profitable nor healthful so try to avoid both. Day's rays do sanction usual routine, however, as well as wholesome diversion.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Be mindful of associations and pleasures. "Little" evils are as harmful as the bigger ones; don't countenance them. Keep in tune with God's commands and you'll be happier.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—The unusual in entertainment and some personal interests are favored, but day on the whole stresses moderation and old-fashioned common sense. Urgent necessary tasks favored but no extremes.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This can be a pleasant, interesting day, but extravagance and immoderation or any kind should be avoided. Due rest, healthful recreation favored. Pray, too.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Don't tie yourself down to a rigid program. Remember, there is a proper time and place for everything and prayer, rest, good reading, music and other fine diversions are actually necessities in life.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus and Saturn are both favorably situated. This should be an interesting, happy period with some unexpected surprises. Think of your blessings! Thank God for them.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Encouraging indications for your interests. Keep faith with your finer self and don't neglect religious needs or wholesome pleasures. Day favors sound, worthwhile activities.

YOU BORN TODAY are artistic, genial and industrious but are often too set in your ways to try the progressive methods that could bring you more assets and better security. However, this does not negat that you should gamble in unfamiliar ventures or take reckless chances with income, savings. Just be elastic in thought and progress along with those who are making headway. You have splendid qualifications for happiness and success but they must be developed and used rightly, intelligently.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR MEN

Believe It Or Not
You Can Earn
$125.08 A Week
DON'T laugh — you can do it easily! Jobs in Radio and TV pay big wages, trained men get from $125 to $250 monthly. We can prove it to you.
WHAT'S the catch? Just this! Not every young man knows that if he will spend some of his evening time in home study, Radio Collegiate can open not only train him for a big pay job, but can help him to get it.
OTHER young men do know this, but they'd rather keep on working and having fun all the time. You wouldn't be one of them, would you?
THERE'S a place in radio and TV for every type of trained man. Want to be a service engineer, a station man, a writer, an announcer? We can train you. Want to be a transmitter engineer, a director, MC/MC, or disc jockey? We can train you for that too — at home, in spare time.
ASK us! Write for full information. It

MONOGRAM

Oil Heaters and Wall Furnaces
Demonstrated Burning
- Installed to give satisfaction as recommended.
- Produces a perfect blaze with a stainless steel burner.
- Operating as low as 1 gallon in 24 hours.
- Does not require fans or to be turned off at night, burns safely all night.
- Louvres and side doors are interchangeable to give heat where needed.
- Fire-clay rings avoid warping at joints.
- Due to the extremely large area in the heat exchangers in the patented burner pot, it meets the Canadian Standards Association heat tested flame unit and gives them a 79.8% overall operating efficiency.
- We specialize in proper installation of appliances because the installation may save up to as much, and also the operating expense than the purchase price.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Church services were held in the Anglican and United Churches on Sunday with fairly good attendance at each service.

The Sunday School held in the morning in the United Church and the service following was in charge of Mr. Harold Morton, superintendent, announced choir practice for Friday, and while thanking the girls for their attendance, appealed to the young men to come and join in making the choir a real success. Their singing was much appreciated by all.

Plans are being discussed for Rally Day and Promotion Service in the Sunday School. The staff hopes to have this service in the very near future.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Elliott on Friday evening the Elliott family enjoyed a re-union supper. Mr. and Mrs. Burton Elliott of Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Elliott of Niagara Falls, were guests of their brother and sister. Mr. and Mrs. Morton Elliott left next day for their home in Niagara.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Richardson and family of Ivy Lea, William, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Sanders and baby Ruth, of Ft. St. John, B.C., who have been visiting their mother here, left on Saturday for their respective homes.

On Thursday they joined in a picnic supper at Sandy Lake, it was a reunion after 14 years. The family, now numbering 22, sat down to a bountiful supper. In reminiscing and games the pleasant evening passed quickly.

Neighbors, friends and the English families of Toronto, Windsor and Niagara Corners gathered at Mr. and Mrs. M. English's home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ward English of London, Ontario, who have recently returned from their honeymoon in B.C. and the western states.

Rev. Chapman presided over a musical program and Mr. and Mrs. English delighted their friends by showing scenic pictures of B.C. and interesting places on their trip.

The honored couple was presented with a couple of air-foam pillows and a beautiful blanket, for which they expressed their thanks.

Lunch and a social time concluded a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. English will continue their high school teaching in London. Best wishes for success in wishing them many years of happiness.

Supper guests on Monday evening at Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott's were Mrs. Wm. (Dr.) Welch of Tweed, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Welch and baby son.

Help for Fall Lawns

FLORA M. SAVILLE

Perhaps you have just moved into a new home and must make a new lawn; or you have an established lawn which has just come through a harsh, hot summer. No matter what your lawn problem is, fall is the best time to take care of it.

In the early part of September when the days become shorter, the nights cooler, and the fall rains start, it's nature's, and the successful gardeners, lawn-making time. Fall weather is ideal for quick germination and sturdy development of grass. Fall lawns have a luxuriant sturdy top growth and sturdy root growth by the time winter comes.

RULES TO FOLLOW

If you decide it is best to make a new lawn, rather than try to condition it, follow these rules. (1) Spade deeply. Lawn-making starts with the preparation of the soil. Spade to a depth of at least nine inches and pulverize the soil thoroughly. (2) Apply a complete plant food. Use three pounds per 100 square feet of area. This assures an ample supply of all the nutrients needed by the grass for the best growth and development. Apply it evenly. You can rent a spreader from the seed store. (3) work the plant food into the soil.

Using a rake, or hoe, mix the food into the top four inches of soil thoroughly. (4) Use good grass seed. A mixture consisting of 40 per cent blue grass has been found satisfactory. You will need four to five pounds of seed for each 1000 square feet. If you sow by hand sow half lengthwise and half crosswise. Mix a half cup of flour with the seed and the white will show where the seed has fallen, and aid in getting even distribution.

Roll the lawn thoroughly, but see that the roller does not pack the soil too hard. A tamper, or wide board can be used in a small area. Water often. Use a fine spray that will not disturb or move the seed. Water each day, that no rain falls, for three weeks. This will insure uniform germination of the seed. After the grass seed is up the daily watering can be stopped.

When these rules are followed you will have a strong root system developed before winter comes, and will insure a thick green turf for next summer.

REVITALIZING LAWN

If you decide to keep the lawn you have and work on the thin and bare spots, eradication of weeds will probably be the first job. This is fairly easy with a recommended weed killer. These are sold under various trade names. Spray the whole area. When the weeds begin to die apply a complete plant food at the rate of three pounds per 100 square feet over the entire lawn. Rake lightly to knock the plant food off the grass blades to prevent burning. Soak the lawn thoroughly to a depth of four to six inches.

Four days later loosen the soil on thin and bare spots. Large bare spots should be spaded. Reseed these areas with god grass seed. Roll, or tamp as for new lawn. Daily sprinkling will ensure quick germination.

ASKS LOWER COSTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—A recommendation that industry adopt a stern cost-cutting program to bring prices of Canadian goods more in line with those of foreign competitors was sounded here Thursday by James Stewart, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, before a meeting of the bank's board of directors.

GAS FUMES FATAL

INDIAN HEAD, Md. (AP)—Two brothers-in-law died and two other persons, including a 13-year-old son of one of the victims, were rescued Thursday when poisonous gas turned a new 20-foot well into a death pit.

National Museum in Canada Has Many Life-Like Displays

By JOHN VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Two husky buffalo brace their feet and lower their horns to guard their calf against three prowling wolves.

Nearby an Indian mother cooks a campfire meal while her children wait. An Indian brave removes a rabbit from a snare.

All are part of a life-like display in the National Museum of Canada.

The museum—a fine stone building in the heart of the capital—in the words of its curator, F. J. Alcock, "illustrates the natural resources and the natural history of Canada and traces the history of its peoples."

"We feel that we are not only an Ottawa museum. We belong to all of Canada and our displays give an over-all picture of the country."

Museum exhibits are so realistic, officials say, that a youngster once walked up to a grey wolf in a glass case and said: "Come on dogey, come on dogey."

Mr. Alcock, in charge of the museum since 1947, says there are 40,000 specimens of birds, 25,000 of mammals and 250,000 of plants. They are added to year after year.

One exhibit shows an Eskimo, sitting in an igloo repairing his primitive bow while his wife warms her fur mitts over a fire. Rich furs cover their couch.

Tourists can also see animal life as it was many ages ago. Fossils of dinosaurs and other extinct reptiles have been dug up, their bones wired together and placed over to show what they looked like in the stone age.

The museum had its start in Montreal in 1841. The present building was completed about 1910. One end is occupied by the National Gallery.

Plans are under way for a new art gallery and Mr. Alcock says he hopes to open more museum displays once the paintings are moved out.

NASH METROPOLITAN beats them all again!

James Ferguson at the wheel of his Nash Metropolitan crossing the finish line to win the Touring Car Race for models under 1500 c.c.

Regular Nash Metropolitan Wins Ottawa Speed Classic
Beats Famed European Cars

Carp Airport: The thunder of automobiles took over from the roar of aeroplanes today as the Ottawa Light Car Club staged an exciting afternoon of racing events. In the Touring Car Race, for models under 1500 c.c., James Ferguson, of Toronto, drove his production model Nash Metropolitan to yet another victory. In two months Mr. Ferguson's Nash Metropolitan has been entered in, and has won, four events . . . he had already won two races at Edenvale, and Mrs. Ferguson recently won a hill climbing event with it at Holland, N.Y.

The two-mile track at Carp has a tightly abrasive surface, and ten laps at high speed call for superior driving skill and automobiles that can "take it". Mr. Ferguson's average speed, according to his speedometer was 80 to 85 m.p.h., while his average speed for the ten laps was 60 m.p.h.*

Look at the way the Nash Metropolitan hugs that corner at high speed, under the capable hands of driver James Ferguson.

It's the fastest and classiest little car in the world!

Every day you see more Nash Metropolitans on the road—and is it any wonder? This great automobile, rightly called "the sweetest little BIG car in the world!", has everything you'll ever want in economical motoring combined with the utmost in style and luxury.

Every Nash Metropolitan comes complete with radio, Weather Eye Conditioned Air System, direction signals, Continental rear tire mount, cigarette lighter, twin inside sun visors, foam cushion, and nylon and leather upholstery. For all these exciting extras YOU PAY NOT A PENNY MORE! That's right, they're included in the amazing low, low price. And, as you can see by the report above, the Nash Metropolitan has plenty of speed—it handles perfectly—and it features the same fine riding qualities as the true sports car. Get behind the wheel and see for yourself why they call it "the sweetest little BIG car in the world". See the Nash dealer nearest you and ask to take a Nash Metropolitan out on a test drive (take your wife with you—she'll love it!)

Entries in the Touring Car Race line up for the start. James Ferguson's Nash Metropolitan can be seen nearest the starter.

St. Laurent Hits Duplessis Govt. In Daring Speech

Tells Quebec He Stands By Taxation Agreements

By RICHARD DAIGNEAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has told his native French Canada he stands by the taxation agreements that have spread wealth over a United Canada and if Quebec thinks this is bad it can vote against his party.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking Saturday night without a text for over two hours in French to 300 Liberal party organizers in the New Quebec Reform Club, ripped apart Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale government, calling its autonomy platform "a screen."

Political experts in the Liberal party described the speech as one of the most daring in Canada's political history in a country where it is a political axiom that the party ruling Quebec rules the House of Commons.

Apart from aiming a body blow at Premier Duplessis' powerful Union Nationale party Mr. St. Laurent hit Quebec nationalists who want to be separated from these cursed Protestants."

AGREEMENTS WILL STAY

He told Quebec province and province to reject taxation agreements, federal aid to education, and sharing in the Columbia River hydro project—that:

1. The federal government will never recognize that a single province is more important than the entire country.

2. Although it was said in Quebec they would lead to a "fright-ful disaster" federal - provincial taxation agreements are here to stay unless a better system is found to spread the wealth across the nation.

3. Although the federal government admits the legality of the Quebec income tax it has no intention of making it deductible in its entirety from Ottawa's income tax.

4. If the English-speaking Canadians regard their government as their national government they should also be the view of all other Canadians.

5. The Liberal party is going to tell Quebec frankly it favors spreading the wealth across the nation by means of subsidies. If Quebec finds that "a bad policy it can vote against us." The policy is not directed against any group, he said. The federal government only believes it is the best policy for the majority of Canadians.

The Quebec Liberal party saw in the speech the signal for an open fight against Quebec's Union Nationals party which rode to power in 1944 denouncing federal income tax agreements signed by a Liberal administration.

Leaders Claim Company Trying To Smash Union

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) executive at a weekend meeting termed the Massey-Harris-Ferguson strike of 21,000 employees here as company-inspired and an effort to smash the union.

The United Automobile Workers Union members struck after the company refused demands for a 10-cent-an-hour wage boost.

The executive said the firm admitted its ability to pay increased wages but gave no reason to do so because of the present unemployment situation.

Locals of Massey - Harris employees in Brantford and Woodstock accepted a conciliation board recommendation of no wage increase and no fringe benefits.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The intense storm which moved rapidly northeastward from Manitoba to Ontario on Sunday is now weakening and moving more slowly from James Bay into northeastern Quebec.

The lower lake region besnilled by the storm which brought a flow of pleasant and mild air and clearing skies, Sunday pleasant weather will continue in southern Ontario today. Tuesday will bring increasing cloudiness with showers by evening as a strong area of cold air which brought strong winds and wet snow to Saskatchewan this morning invades the Great Lakes regions.

Blames Idol For Deaths Of 5 Baronets

BRAUNTON, Eng. (Reuters) A smiling oriental idol whose history reads like a mystery yarn is giving the jitters to villagers here from its site by a local garage.

It was put there by its owner, Sir William Williams, who claims the three-foot marble statue of an ancient god-dess hastened the death of his five predecessors to the title of baronet. Williams is offering the idol free to anyone who'll take it away.

The town council turned down Williams' opening offer to put the idol in the local park, and other prospective owners are giving it a wide berth.

Hees Will Try To Mend Political Fences in B.C.

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—George Hees, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, said here Saturday that he intends to assist "in every way possible" in promoting federal organization of the party in British Columbia.

Mr. Hees also said he would be "delighted" to meet Provincial Leader Deane Finlayson "at any time and hear his reasons for the split between the B.C. association and the federal organization."

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Kamloops Progressive Conservative Association, Mr. Hees, opening a week-long tour of the province, said:

"The Conservative Association of Canada believes, and operates on the basis, that federal organization in this province can only be carried out successfully by the fullest co-operation between the federal members of Parliament from that province, and the provincial association.

"The British Columbia association agrees with this principle, and made it very clear in a resolution passed at its quarterly executive meeting on April 24 last, that it does not wish to work with the three federal members of Parliament from B.C., in matters of federal organization."

Mr. Hees said that in order to make full use of the experience and ability of the three PC federal members of Parliament from B.C., it was decided to "proceed separately with federal organization."

BRITISH GROUP IN CHINA

TOKYO (AP)—A seven-member British trade union delegation of the British-China Friendship Association arrived at Peiping by air on Thursday, radio Peiping said. The broadcast, heard here, said the British delegation led by D. Ivor Davies, Welsh miners' leader, will stay there for a month and attend the Chinese national day celebration.

Marilyn Bell Celebrates Birthday Appearing on 'Toast of Town' Show

NEW YORK (CP) — Marilyn Bell, the Toronto marathon swimmer, celebrated her 17th birthday in the York Sunday with a brief appearance on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" television show.

Miss Bell, who made aquatic history by becoming the first person to swim across Lake Ontario, got a audience for the TV show and was applauded when she took a brief bow after an introduction by Sullivan.

Marilyn, whose photograph appeared on the front page of today's Herald Tribune, arrived here in midafternoon and flew back to Toronto about 11:30 p. m.

WOMAN DIES AT CROSSING NEAR CONSECON

Mrs. Davis' MacDonald Of Frankford Is Killed

TRENTON (Special) — One woman was killed and three other persons were critically injured following a crossing accident on No. 33 Highway near Consecon, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

Killed was Mrs. Davis MacDonald, age 53, of R.R. 2, Frankford.

In hospital with serious injuries are Mr. Davis MacDonald, 60, husband of the dead woman; Mrs. Hess MacDonald, 19, and Mrs. Lillian Chapman, 30, all of Frankford.

Mrs. Chapman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davis MacDonald, while Mrs. MacDonald is a daughter-in-law.

The accident occurred about three miles east of Consecon when the eastbound auto carrying four persons was struck by the engine of a Canadian National Railways southbound mixed freight. The engineer was Arthur Buck, of Belleville.

The dead woman was said to have been thrown out of the wrecked auto and fell beneath the wheels of the train. The impact of the auto was carried 100 yards down the track.

Wesley-Ann ambulance from Trenton took the injured to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Identity of the dead woman and the three injured persons was not learned until several hours after the accident. Later it was learned that Mr. and Mrs. Davis Donald and the two other persons, riding in the 1951 sedan were on their way to Picton to attend a funeral.

Provincial Police Corporal Parry of Picton investigated the accident.

Injured Man Says He Was Attacked by Pair

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A man who spent six hours crouched on a ledge 50 feet above the swirling Niagara river Saturday told police he was attacked by two men who pushed him over the edge of the Niagara gorge.

Elmer Williams, 30, of Toronto, suffered a broken ankle when he fell 60 feet on to the narrow ledge. Unable to climb back to safety on the ledge, he would have plunged 165 feet into the river.

He told police he was hit on the head by two men early Saturday would be taken to the "geographical American side.

He was pulled to safety by Niagara Falls firemen, who lowered a basket on a rope.

COMMISSION VESSEL

KINGSTON (CP) — The navy's HMCS Resolute, second of two HMCS Resolute, was commissioned Thursday at a ceremony witnessed by more than 1,000 persons. She was pledged to come to one another's aid in case of an attack.

This group would set limits on German rearmament as well as form the organization, and considers the United States and Canada.

Reports from Washington said Mendes-France is ready to join the British Eden plan instead of bringing West Germany into the North Atlantic alliance provided Britain and the United States maintain troops on the continent as a shield and as long as there are satisfactory controls are put on German rearmament.

Mendes-France sent his proposal over the weekend to the six other prospective participants as well as to the United States and Canada.

Washington the state department had no immediate comment on the French proposals but the sentiment seemed to be that they offered little if any new hope for the early establishment of "acceptable solution" U. S. State Secretary Dulles had cancelled his plans to leave said it might be difficult, if not impossible, to get the French parliament to okay West German membership in NATO.

Ford Employees Authorize Strike by Nearly 100 Per Cent

WINDSOR (CP) — About 5,300 Ford of Canada workers have authorized their negotiating committee with the company in a contract dispute.

The strike vote, taken Sunday in Windsor city market, was 98.6 per cent in favor of a strike action. Charles McDonald, president of Local 200, United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL), said more than 5,300 Ford workers were at the mass meeting and about 5,300 cast ballots.

It was a secret vote and a special union election committee collected ballots as they left the building. Only Local 200 members were allowed into the building and each had his union card checked by a steward as he entered.

Ford management refused to comment on the result of the vote and the official said it was unlikely any comments would be forthcoming. A letter from Ford President Hoyt M. Sale Friday warned the union the company would not be intimidated. The letters went individually to each employee.

No date was set for strike action but the negotiating committee and the stewards council of the union recommended before the vote that the membership be polled on a strike. The spokesman said that with such a powerful backing union officials would not waste any time.

The resolution, as presented to employees, provided that strike action shall be undertaken if the negotiating committee is not able to come to terms with the company. The usual routine is for a deadline date to be set and talks to opened until that time.

Strike action would have serious consequences for Windsor. Estimates of unemployed set the figure at about 13,000. If the 5,300 Ford workers went on strike, it would force out about 4,500 Ford office workers and about Windsor's jobless total well beyond 20,000.

The Ford strike, if it comes, could close the big Ford assembly plant recently opened at Oakville. Since Ford assembly operations went to Oakville, Windsor is in the position of a feeder plant.

Union officials drew a parallel with the situation during the UAW strike at McKinnon Industries in St. Catharines during 1946. The plant is a maker of parts to the General Motors at Oshawa but the assembly plant was able to keep operating with parts moved in from the United States.

Officials said that Local 707, UAW at Oakville has completed the conciliation procedure and a strike vote has been authorized by union membership.

Negotiations at Ford Windsor started last December. The union asked a 10-cent-an-hour package plus hospitals and medical benefits which the company estimated at 25 cents. The company made one offer of four cents with no hospital benefits but the union rejected it as inadequate and it was withdrawn. No further company offer was made.

The contract expired Feb. 19. A conciliation board last week recommended no wage increase but did recommend the fringe benefits. It also denied a company demand that seniority rights be revised.

After the conciliation report, the union received a package from 3 to 15 cents an hour plus fringe benefits which union economists estimated at 10 cents an hour.

The company claimed the package was amounted to 40 cents an hour and made no counter offer.

Mendes-France Issues Appeal For New West European Pact

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes - France called today for a new West European pact which he said could replace French opposition to West Germany's entry into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The new organization, he said, could have a "degree of supernationality"— meaning some of the powers of a world state.

It was partly because the six-national European Defense Community treaty included supranationality in it, he added, that it was defeated in the French parliament.

Mendes-France spoke before the Council of Europe, made up of Parliament members from the council's 15 nations.

The job of the new organization, which the French leader described as a changed and enlarged Brussels treaty, signed in 1948, would be to set top limits to the size of armaments of the member countries.

Any discrimination, he said, would be only on a "geographical and strategic basis."

In advance of his speech, usually well informed sources here said his plan called for something like this:

1. Approval of the British proposal to expand the five-power Brussels defence alliance of France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg to include West Germany and Italy. The seven countries would be pledged to come to one another's aid in case of an attack.

2. This group would set limits on German rearmament as well as form the organization, and considers the United States and Canada.

3. The European alliance would not control the various national armies; that job would be left to the 14-member North Atlantic Treaty organization, which includes the United States and Canada.

Reports from Washington said Mendes-France is ready to join the British Eden plan instead of bringing West Germany into the North Atlantic alliance provided Britain and the United States maintain troops on the continent as a shield and as long as there are satisfactory controls are put on German rearmament.

Mendes-France sent his proposal over the weekend to the six other prospective participants as well as to the United States and Canada.

Washington the state department had no immediate comment on the French proposals but the sentiment seemed to be that they offered little if any new hope for the early establishment of "acceptable solution" U. S. State Secretary Dulles had cancelled his plans to leave said it might be difficult, if not impossible, to get the French parliament to okay West German membership in NATO.

Labor Minister Promises Work During Winter

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg says the government is seeking a winter program of reducing seasonal unemployment.

"I can assure you that we will do our utmost in arranging federal and other contracts and undertakings so that the maximum amount of employment possible will be made available to Canadian workers during the coming winter," he said Sunday.

Mr. Gregg was speaking at the annual convocation of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor here.

He said the government's unemployment insurance program will be under close study "and we hope to bring in legislation at the next session of Parliament." He is very close to making it a still more effective instrument of social policy." He did not elaborate on this point.

Mr. Gregg, speaking in both French and English, said a committee is examining the contracting and spending practices of the government to see how they affect the industries concerned and how they might be modified to provide more winter work.

Education Will Shift Emphasis To Standards

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of education's emphasis will shift in the next 10 years from increasing the number of schools to maintaining standards, L. S. Beattie, superintendent of secondary education, said Saturday.

He told a meeting of the Ontario School Trustees Council the department has set two objectives for the next year: To improve the use of written and spoken English and to have principals and department heads more aware of the responsibility which has fallen to school inspectors.

MINISTER SLAIN

PARIS (AP)—Defence Minister Kou Vora Voeng of the anti-Communist government of Laos was slain by assassins Saturday night in Vientiane and two gunmen on bicycles tried unsuccessfully to kill Pote Viet Nong, government minister of Laos in Hanoi Sunday. The assassination in the Laotian administrative capital was announced here by Agence France-Presse.

Condition of 4 Teen-Agers Of City Injured In Car Crash Sunday Morning Still Critical

Car Goes Out of Control, Hits Tree East of Milltown

Four Belleville teen-agers are in critical condition in Belleville hospital following injuries received when the new convertible in which they were riding went out of control on a curve near the Salmon River motel east of Milltown, and crashed into a tree.

The hospital with initials described as "critical" are Mary Jane McKinlay, 18, of 101 Queen street; Marguerite Royal, 17, 38 Chatham street; Ronald Batchelor, 18, 1-2 Pinnacle street, and John Meyers, 18 Chatham street, both 19.

The condition of the four teenagers was slightly improved this morning, it was stated by the father of one of the youths.

John "Johnny" Meyers, who suffered a broken back in the crash, underwent two successful operations at the hospital yesterday and Sunday afternoon. The other three teen-agers, Ronald Batchelor, Marguerite Royall, Jane McNally, and Marguerite Royall, all suffered concussion and were still unconscious this morning although it was reported their conditions were slightly improved.

The accident occurred shortly before three o'clock Sunday morning as the speeding, open convertible rounded the curved east of Milltown on the Salmon River.

APPARENTLY LOST CONTROL

The driver apparently lost control on the apex of the curve and the vehicle crashed into a telephone pole about 60 feet along the pavement before coming to rest on the grass verge about 75 feet away across the road.

Provincial police said the car was travelling at a high rate of speed when it went out of control.

The impact threw both girls and Batchelor out of the car, although the front of the convertible was owned by Meyers.

So great was the impact against the first tree that the motor of the auto was torn from its mounting and was found 90 feet away across on the south side of the highway. The front seat of the auto was found 40 feet away from where the car struck the tree.

FOUND CAR WRECKED

Three young Kingston men, who spotted the wrecked car on the highway were first to speak to Meyers and car piled against the tree at the north side of the highway, called police and three ambulances, two from Bush's and one from Wesley-Ann, rushed the injured to hospital. Dr. D. C. McVicker and Dr. Ralph Ellis, Milltown, also treated the injured on arrival at the hospital.

Meyers was found lying unconscious against a broken fence, while Batchelor was found in the field about 100 feet from the scene of the crash. Debris and broken glass covered a wide area.

"I don't know how they got out," Provincial Police said O.P.P. Constable John Fullerton who investigated the accident.

FOUND IN FIELD

Meyers was conscious, when motorists found him partially out of the wreckage, but in a critical condition, however, he kept insisting that he had been with persons in the car and it was only then that rescuers searching in the darkness began to realize that they found Batchelor in the field.

Police said that Batchelor must have been thrown from the car by the girls and then staggered into the field before collapsing.

The weather was clear and the road dry at the time of the accident although the early Sunday morning rain commenced a short time after the mishap.

Chokes Pet Cat While Watching TV Wrestlers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— There's nothing like showing enthusiasm when your favorite manly TV wrestler is attacked by a wicked beast.

Mrs. Claudeen City woman held the family's pet cat in her lap as she watched her wrestling hero under through a battering round. When the excitement ended the cat was dead. She had choked it to death.

9 Persons Hurt, 45 Shaken Up, As Trains Collide

TORONTO (CP) — Nine persons were taken to hospital and about 45 others were shaken up early today when a Canadian National Railways passenger train collided with a shunting freight train.

CNR officials said the train, which had reduced speed as it approached north - central Bathurst avenue station, went through an open switch and collided with a diesel engine shunting three cars.

Taken to hospital were: Thomas L. Dana, 24, Canadian Pacific

WOMAN FINDS 7-LEAF CLOVER

Luck flourishes as lushly on city streets as in any rural field of four-leaf clovers. And what the city lacks in quantity of the lucky clover it balances in quality.

Saturday a woman found a seven-leaf clover on Bridge Street East. She brought it into the Ontario Intelligencer office, carefully pressed to leave her name or address. However, she did leave the clover.

Seriously the Ontario Intelligencer approached carrier boy Ron Butcher with it. But it took some convincing to make him take it.

"Want a seven-leaf clover, son?"

"Whatcha glue it on with?"

He left the office with the clover but still dubious of its reality.

BUS ROUTE CHANGED IN INTEREST OF TRAFFIC SAFETY

In the interest of greater traffic safety, and co-operation with city traffic officials, The Bawden Bus Company has consented to a change being made in the route of their East Hill Bus.

Effective Wednesday, September 22nd, this bus will now operate east on Bridge Street East to MacDonald Avenue, instead of Dufferin as formerly, then south on MacDonald Avenue to Dundas Street East, making a stop at the intersection of MacDonald Gardens and MacDonald Avenue.

This move is made to eliminate a dangerous condition which now exists at the intersection of Dundas Street East and Dufferin Avenue, and it is hoped, that the city district affected will appreciate the reason of the change.

WHITNEY RESIDENTS PAY HEAVY FINES FOR KILLING DEER

Pleading guilty to charges of killing deer out of season two residents of Whitney, Ont., were assessed heavy fines in a Barry's Bay magistrate's court yesterday.

Earl Banks was fined $200, and costs for killing a pet fawn at Killarney Lodge, Algonquin Park, while a companion, Ellar Boldt was assessed $100 and costs for having venison out of season.

Evidence by conservation officer Bruce Turnbull and OPP Constable Ray Keithton, both of Whitney, revealed that Parks and Boldt cut the wind of a doe as the doe, where the young fawn was being kept until the end of September. The hide and a quantity of venison were found at Boldt's home.

YEAR-OLD BEAR CUB SHOT NEAR MARMORA

MARMORA. (Special.) — A year-old bear cub was shot north of here Friday by Tom Pearce, Marmora. It was the second bear killed here in recent weeks, while several more, it is claimed, have been spotted in the district.

Local hunters including the veteran hunter, Jackson Lawrence, blame scarcity of berries and other wild foods with bringing the bears near human habitations.

Board Reserves Decision On Police Request for More Pay

First class constables on the Belleville police force receive lower wages than the lowest paid employees in at least three local industrial plants, members of an arbitration board hearing the request of the local police association for increased wages, were told on Saturday.

First class constables on the local police force receive $1.29 per hour as compared with $1.30 per hour as the base rate at the Bakelite plant, and $1.50 per hour at the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne.

The decision on the request of the police association was reserved by the arbitration board chairman Judge M. D. Lang of Stratford. Members of the board included Neil Fraser, Q.C., of Oshawa, appointee for the city and Charles Dubin, Q.C., Toronto, appointee for the police association.

Kenneth G. M. Ross of Belleville acted as counsel for the police association and Hugh F. Gibson, Kingston, acted as counsel for the city.

The hearing before the arbitration board was heard Saturday morning in the city hall council chambers following which the board members left immediately for Toronto.

Decision of the police association to go to arbitration was made early in the year, when city council turned down a request for a $400 across the board increase in salaries. The city had made a $100 increase.

REQUESTS MADE

Requests of the police association for the year were as follows:

1. That full pay be received during disability caused by injury on duty.
2. A sick leave plan providing for 21 days annual sick leave cumulative plus five days for each year of service.
3. Wage increase of $400 per year for each rank.
4. Payment of Blue Cross hospital service plan by the corporation.
5. That a Sick Fund be set up, rules and regulations pertaining to clothes be amended to read the first of every month.
6. That pay day be every second Friday.
7. Institution of service pay for each five years of service.
8. A shift system with the same take-home pay.

Mr. Ross noted that agreement had not been reached on any of the above issues with the exception of No. 6 which was withdrawn.

In presenting the police association's case Mr. Ross outlined the personnel of the force noting that the association embraced all force members except the chief of police.

Rates of pay effective in 1953 were: Inspector $4,150; sergeant, $3,430; 1st class constable, $3,230; 2nd class constable, $3,030; probationary constable, $2830.

COMPARED RATES

He compared these rates of pay with salaries for police forces in other Ontario municipalities of a comparative size noting that the average excess of salary paid in these towns and cities was approximately $230 over that paid in Belleville.

"In Peterborough police receive $220 more than in Belleville and in Kingston police receive $270 more than in Belleville," he said. Both of these municipalities provide fringe benefits not enjoyed by the Belleville force.

In Kingston police enjoy a 44-hour week as compared with the 48-hour week in force at Belleville and have a service pay plan of five cents per day every five years up to 15 cents.

Mr. Ross made an especial appeal to the board in his request for disability pay. He noted that under the present set-up if a constable were injured in course of duty, workmens' compensation covers only 75 per cent of his salary and no provision is made for payment by the city or the balance of salary.

He listed several instances where local constables had been money out of pocket because injuries received while on duty. He submitted that such a condition was destructive to the morale of the force.

Mr. Ross compared the rate of pay of police force members here with that received by members of the armed forces, noting that a private in the army received $3,456 in pay and allowances as well as free hospital, medical and dental care.

PREMISE NOT SOUND CLAIM

In presenting the brief for the city, counsel Hugh Gibson declared that the premise that a policeman, irrespective of what job he may reside in, should be paid the same salary and have the same working conditions, was not sound.

Rather, the sound premise was that the police force, like other employees in a municipality are intimately tied up with the fortunes of that particular municipality.

He said there were different tials in rates of pay for equivalent work as between municipalities depending on its fortunes and that the legislature of the province recognized this point. He submitted that if the legislature in passing the police act, had not intended there be such differential zones with varying rates of pay and working conditions, it would not have prescribed the machinery for boards of arbitration.

He claimed that a comparison of salaries paid to the police with that paid to hours rated employees in industry was meaningless. He noted that police here an "annual wage" which is being sought by those in industry.

He noted that Belleville police had been granted regular increases in salary from 1946 to 1953 a first class constable, received $1,850 and in 1953 this had been increased to $3,230 Rates for sergeants and other classes of constables had been increased proportionately.

Mr. Gibson noted that unemployment had been high in Belleville during the past year and that as of September 15th of this year 651 persons were receiving benefits as compared with 285 receiving benefits in September, 1953.

WOULD DROP SOME REQUESTS

In reference to the various requests made by the association regarding sick benefits, Mr. Gibson noted that the police association had agreed to drop request for full pay while off duty due to injuries, subject to review by the commission at a later date, required.

He also noted that the bargaining committee had been prepared to drop requests for service pay and also for five 40-hour week. He noted that the above was made condition upon there being any agreement on the matter of salary. The salary request was for $400 per man.

Mr. Gibson said the $100 salary increase offered was the same as given to salary plan civic employees at city hall and also to firemen.

Four Attempted Break-Ins Noted Over Week-End

An attempt to smash the safe at the Drive-In Theatre at the west end of the city, and break-ins or attempted break-ins at three other places of business were reported to police during the week-end.

Besides the Drive-In entry was gained at the Superior Cleaners at the Tip Top Cleaners and at the office of Bateman's Used Cars Ltd.

Police said that Thomas George Guthrie, of Lemoine Street, had been arrested and charged with attempted breaking and entering at the Bateman premises.

The break-in at the Drive-In Theatre was discovered by police patrol officers shortly before four o'clock Sunday morning. Patrol officers had checked the premises an hour earlier but found no interest in the office and investigation showed that an attempt had been made to open the safe. The safe door had been battered by what appeared to have been a light sledge but attempts were unsuccessful.

The sound of breaking glass heard by passing motorists gave police the tip-off that break-ins had been attempted at two of the three other premises. In both instances the motorist noticed a man running away from the scene.

Search was taken at Bateman's or at the two dry cleaning establishments, it was stated.

Two Belleville Rinks Win Prizes At Tournament

On a day ideal for bowling the Belleville Bowling Club staged its last tournament of the year, a mixed trebles, on Saturday afternoon, with 24 rinks in the attendance, which included Belleville, Trenton, Madoc and Havelock clubs. There were three rinks from Belleville and two of them got into the winning list, one with a three-game high and the other with a one-game high. The rinks from the local club were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince and J. W. Davison as skip; Mrs. Edward Buchanan, Mrs. Gerald Clapp with George McGee at the helm and Mrs. Addison Lloyd, Jack Smith with Claude D. Tice as skip.

Horace Ormshaw with his wife and Eric Smith scored the high 3-game high score with 54 plus 13 and were closely followed by the Claude Rink of Bethany with 47 plus two. The two-game high winner was Mr. and Mrs. William Finley with J. Parker as skip, while the one-game high score was won by the Tice rink with a count of 40 plus one.

Two games were played in the afternoon and the third, after a delicious dinner at the clubhouse. Roy Brown, assisted by William Finley conducted the draw, and Mr. Brown, who is president of the club this year, welcomed the bowlers at the commencement of the games. The greens were exceptionally well been and some fine bowling was witnessed throughout the day. A large number watched the evening games.

'Morrie' Stork Retires After 48 Years Service in Post Office; Presented With Gifts by Staff

Forty-eight years of public service ends this week for C. Morris "Morrie" Stork, when he retires Wednesday as assistant postmaster at Belleville post office.

Saturday night many of the people he has known in the post office building during that time gathered at Tabernacle United Church to hail the passing out of service of the 66-year-old civil servant, raconteur, and inveterate sportsman.

A social and an armchair were presented to him, marking the appreciation of his friends and all who had been associated with him at the post office.

Attending the banquet, chaired by Harold Bankier of the post office staff, were A. W. C. Prunisch, former postmaster, Fred Sprague, retired customs and excise official, Lt.-Col. F. K. Agnew, former collector of customs and excise, Belleville, Deputy-superintendent K. D. McDonald, and postmaster J. C. Waddell.

Representing the Post Office Department was G. E. Macklem, district post office inspector at Oshawa.

The evening brimmed with reminiscences as old friends recalled the 48 years. For Morris it was an evening that would be a "heartwarming remembrance . . . as long as I live."

AN ACTIVE SPORTSMAN

An active sportsman with rod and gun in his spare time, hunting since he was six) Morris began the day by joining a squad of duck hunters at 'Sog Wind' helping them down 21 ducks.

On June 12, 1906, when it cost two cents to mail a letter to any part of Canada, U.S., or the Empire, Morris joined the post office staff as clerk under the then postmaster, Jas. Stevens. The staff of eight operated a postal system, which was a far cry from the modern methods and operations of today.

There was less mail to handle, no COD plan and no insurance stamps.

NO LETTER CARRIERS

But also there were no letter carriers, no rural deliveries and a more complicated registered post system.

In those days the nation received its mail at the post office and collecting city letters from individual post boxes.

People in outlying areas had to inquire from the general delivery at the post office.

In 1906 the Belleville staff had to look after about 1,000 post boxes and general delivery, which Morris told the banquet, everyone insisted could not have handled."

He recalled how at Christmastime the small staff had to tackle an inundation of seasonal mail.

Recalling names of colleagues now dead, he said: "We have had lots of sad things happening in the post office."

But then there was lots of humor to the work too.

One day a man bought a money order from Morrie. He returned a week later and said the money had never reached its destination in Toronto.

"Did they get the letter?" asked Morrie.

"Yes."

"Was there no money in it?"

"No."

"What did you do with the money order?"

"Why, I have it here," and the man blandly pulled the money order from his breast pocket.

ASSISTANT FOR 9 YEARS

Morrie, who became assistant postmaster seven years ago, noted his 48 years of service and said he "couldn't have put it in, in any place where relations were more pleasant."

Many tributes were paid to Morrie's 48 years of service by colleagues, past and present.

Former postmaster Prunisch called him a man of any faithful workers, . . . (who) always did a good job."

Making the presentation address P. C. Calnan said after 48 years a job becomes part and parcel of the man," and during that time Morrie had put only conscientious service, but outstanding service."

Presentation of the hand-painted scroll was made to Morrie by Treasurer Waddell.

Also present at the banquet was C. L. Massey, who succeeds to assistant postmaster.

In his retirement Morrie said he will have his hobbies to keep him busy. They include gardening, reading, hunting and fishing. "I'm going to spend more time hunting and fishing until I shuffle off this earth," he declared determinedly.

LUCAS. — In loving memory of our mother, who passed away one year ago today, September 20th, 1953.
Five years have passed since that day
Since you were called away,
Your place is vacant
That can never be filled.
You differed much, you murmured not
We watched you day by day,
We watched and prayed for your dear life
Would not be taken away,
Sadly missed by daughter, Betty and son-in-law Douglas. 38c

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrial and base metals marched ahead smartly, and the rest of the stock market was mixed in active forenoon trading today.

The industrial index advanced one-tenth of a point in the first hour to give it a three-year high of 358.27.

Papers, utilities, financial institutions and manufacturers were strong and steels and foods were narrowly ahead. Gains on the industrial board outnumbered losses two to one but most price climbs were minor fractions.

The base metal index climbed more than a half-point to a yearly high of 123.82. Smelters were narrowly ahead and juniors showed a majority of penny gains.

Western oils were mixed. Golds were active and mixed in juniors and producers. Uraniums were pennies easier.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow on slaughter cattle but active on replacement cattle today at the Ontario stockyards. Good and choice steers were 50 cents lower; good and choice heifers and fed yearlings were steady and cows showed a weak undertone at barely steady prices. Bulls were steady.

Receipts: cattle 7,450; calves 1,875; hogs 370; sheep and lambs 375; holdovers: cattle 1,600; calves 200.

Choice steers, generally 22; a few 22.50; good steers 20-21; mediums down to 19; good heifers 18-18.50; a few choice to 19; mediums down to 18; good cows 11-12; canners and cutters 8-10.50; good heavy bologna bulls 13-13; common light bulls down to 19; choice fed yearlings 22.50; good 20; mediums down to 20; good stockers 18-19; good calves steady to 20; medium stockers down to 16.

Calves were steady at 22-24 for good to choice vealers; mediums 14-21; common light dairy-type grass calves down to 10.

Hog prices not established. Lambs opened 1 lower to last week's close; top good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and 30 delivered by truck; bucks were discounted 1 a hundredweight; common to medium lambs 14-19; good light sheep 8-10; common down to 4.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings adequate for a steady demand.

MORE OF THE SAME

ELDORA, Iowa (AP) — It was sort of "more of the same" for Mrs. Gerald Allen when she gave birth to triplets boys here Friday.

The Lawlers, who live on a farm near here, have five other boys, including five-year-old twins.

DESTROY OLD HOME

PORT STANLEY (CP)—A house built by the late William Glover in 1844, the oldest in this village, is being dismantled. It was used as an apothecary shop and housed four generations of the Glover family.

Railways Plan Reductions In Freight Rates

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's two major railways announced Sunday they plan substantial reductions in freight rates between Montreal and Toronto to meet increased competition from the trucking industry.

In a joint statement, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National have been filed in Ottawa with the railway transport commissioners, to become effective Tuesday.

The rates apply to certain commodities moving between Montreal and Toronto in box cars and in railway-operated trailers on flat cars.

Presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and W. A. Mather of the CPR said in the statement the changes resulted from an "intensive study recently completed by both railways."

SMALL PERCENTAGE

While the railways have ample capacity to handle more freight business, the two offer only a small percentage moves by railway said.

"In the light of this situation, a basis of freight rates has been worked out for the purpose of attracting as much as possible of the available traffic moving between these points," their statement said.

The rates apply to all shipments between 5,000 and 15,000 pounds. Section one specifies commodities in loads of 20,000 to 24,000 pounds, all moving in railway operated trailers on flat cars. They also apply to specified commodities in shipments of 40,000 to 60,000 pounds moving in box cars.

The statement gave no indication what effect the rates will have on revenues and railway spokesmen said no further details are available at the moment.

At Ottawa, an official of the board of transport commissioners said the commission will put the rate cuts into effect, provided the tariff changes name been filed with the board. No prior approval by the board was necessary.

Carry Safe Past Customers In Restaurant

TORONTO (CP) — The youth casually entered a crowded restaurant in suburban North York township Sunday night and a few minutes later walked out carrying a 300-pound safe containing $3,000.

They stole the safe from a basement office in Canadian Restaurant at the Lawrence Plaza shopping centre. They were seen leaving carrying the safe, object draped in a raincoat. They laughed and joked as they made their way past a dozen customers to the cashier's counter.

Cashier Dorothy Juno saw the youths get in a car parked outside the restaurant. As she called to a waitress to try to get the licence number, a customer quipped:

"They're probably taking the safe."

Police described the robbery as one of the most daring in the township.

Production, Govt. Support Prices Give Big Butter Surplus

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Government price support, combined with a lush summer production season, has resulted in a huge surplus of butter in government warehouses. How to get rid of it is the latest federal puzzle.

Federal officials will not state the exact amount in store, but unofficial estimates place the butter pile at a peak of short 65,000,000 pounds. That would be well above last year's 53,000,000 pounds, which the government had a lot of trouble getting rid of.

The situation has become so complex that the thought in some federal quarters is to ship part of the surplus out of the country. But the world price of butter is only about 41 cents a pound, and the government paid 64 cents a pound in its floor support policy.

That would mean exporting at below cost, a step strongly opposed by Canada's Dairy Manufacturers and Distributors and the Retail Federation of Consumers. They feel that if there is to be any cut in price, it should be the consumer should benefit, rather than those in other countries.

But to sell the butter at below cost on the Canadian market, say some authorities, might depress the entire Canadian dairy industry. Would a housewife who got butter at a bargain price, they ask, be willing to pay higher prices for other dairy products, or for new butter when the old supply ran out?

Another federal thought is that the butter might be contributed as a gift to some needy country, but the view is that making such a gift might upset the world butter market, bringing criticism and protests from countries which depend on dairy exports for prosperity.

The current predominant opinion appears to be that subsidized exports would be the answer, since it would clear the domestic market of overhanging surpluses and tend to stabilize the market for next year's production. But faced with chances of political and other repercussions, the government, a year ago, at a time when NATO forces were just beginning to be formed.

The military contended that allies of the United States in Europe could not make tactical or strategic plans for defence without having some definite idea of what to expect from atomic attack by an enemy or atomic weapon supplied to Canada by the United States.

This became especially important with the subsequent appearance in the American arsenal of tactical atomic weapons, artillery and guided missiles with atomic warheads.

A Soviet announcement last week of another atomic weapon test explosion brought to the speed with which Russia is racing against the United States' lead in the atomic weapons field—a lead which AEC chairman Lewis L. Strauss said Sunday is being maintained.

This rivalry between the world's two great atomic powers, emphasizes the question of giving basic atomic weapons schooling to the nuclear weapon "have-not" nations, including France and Germany, both geographically close to Russia.

GALT MAN VICE-PRESIDENT

KITCHENER (CP)—Paul Laluzerne, executive commissioner for the Canadian Boy Scouts' Association, said 6,000 scouts from 20 countries would be attending the event.

"There are 101 jobs to be done, and without volunteers the Jamboree cannot go on," Col. Sim-mons said.

"These volunteers will pay their own transportation costs and camp fees, for the privilege of working without pay from 16 to 18 hours a day."

BUY TRUCK FIRM

TORONTO (CP) — Inter - City Truck Lines Limited has purchased the C. and H. Transport Limited of Waterloo for an engagement of operations. The Waterloo firm originally served the Toronto-Hamilton area but has extended its territory to include Sarnia, London, Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay.

Widow of Worms Goes on Trial For Murders

MAINZ, Germany (AP)—Christa Lehmann, the widow from Worms who popularized an insecticide for suicides, went on trial for murder today before a German court here.

Christa has confessed to killing three people with the insecticide E-605, Wide publication of her story was followed by a suicide wave in which more than 50 West Germans took the poison.

Christa was arrested last February as she dropped flowers into the grave of Anni Hamann, her closest friend and last victim. Five days later the police found Anni by mistake ate candy Christa had doctored for Anni's aged mother.

Later Christa confessed to having mixed a fatal milk-and-insecticide cocktail for her husband, Karl-Franz Lehmann, in 1952. She told police she killed him because he drank too much.

She confessed that she had given her father-in-law, Valentin Lehmann, E-605 in his morning yogurt a year later because the old man had criticized her morals.

DIES OF INJURIES

PERTH (CP)—Gordon Cordick, 22, died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in a car accident Sept. 4 near the community of Glen Tay, miles southwest of Ottawa.

Scout Leaders Will Pay to Work For Jamboree

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Three hundred Cub and Boy Scout leaders attending the south central Ontario area camp conference scheduled here during the weekend were told about the cost of a 10-day furlough during the eighth world scout jamboree at Niagara - On - The - Lake, Aug. 14 to 24 next year.

Lt.-Col. G. E. Simmons of Ottawa, executive commissioner for the Canadian Boy Scouts' Association, said 6,000 scouts from 20 countries would be attending the event.

"These volunteers will pay their own transportation costs and camp fees, for the privilege of working without pay from 16 to 18 hours a day."

Banks and Budgets . . .

If you were going to buy a security what feature would you look for . . . safety, income, growth?

Perhaps it would depend on whether you were "a man with a million" or not quite so rich. But no matter what your financial position, there is a group of top flight securities for each containing most of the qualities that conservative investors look for . . . which are as attractive to the experienced investor as to the man who is just starting. The "bank" stocks are in this group.

Many investors have often wished that they might have the opportunity of budging their savings to buy high grade corporation securities in instalments. Right now they can.

Canada's two largest banks, the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal, are at this time issuing additional shares through Rights. Rights are freely transferable . . . anyone can buy them . . . they are traded on various stock exchanges. To purchase one share of Bank of Montreal stock through Rights will require four Rights . . . currently worth about $3.00 per Right. To purchase one share of Royal Bank stock through Rights will require five Rights . . . currently worth about $2.00 per-Right. The subscription pric.. in each case is the same . . . $30.00 per share. After the Rights are purchased the subscription price of $30.00 per share may be paid in full at once . . . or in ten budget savings instalments of $3.00 each.

An investment opportunity? We think so. These are two Canadian common stocks which will suit anyone's portfolio . . . and anyone's savings budget.

We can show you how to take advantage of this opportunity. If you like we will carry through the transaction for you . . . purchasing Rights and subscribing for shares, either on an instalment or fully paid basis. Our office nearest to you will be happy to help you . . . drop in, write or telephone.

What to Tell Germans About A-Bombs Puzzle

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposal to make West Germany a full-fledged member of NATO for open defence system raises the problem of what to tell Germans on atomic weapons the United States would then give her.

The United States has adopted a policy providing for the exchange of information with allies on the effect of nuclear weapons. The intention is to inform allies only on blast, heat and radiation effects of various atomic weapons, without disclosing details of design. But the mere detailing of effect can carry significant hints about the nature of the weapons themselves.

The proposal for this exchange of information originated with the American military about three years ago, at a time when NATO forces were just beginning' to be formed.

Hastings Youth Seriously Hurt

TORONTO (CP) — Both Gordon Fisher, 16, of Hastings, Ont., and three-year-old Gary Rosebush of Peterborough, Ont., in satisfactory night, hospital authorities said today.

Fisher, severely injured Saturday when a truck in which he was a passenger went out of control and ran into a ditch, suffered undetermined injuries.

Hospital officials said the condition of Gary Rosebush is slightly improved. Both youngsters' parents were head injuries when he fell 25 feet from the second floor landing of his home.

Minor Soccer

Two Toronto minor soccer teams visited the city last Saturday and walked away with the honors in their respective age groups.

In the first game Toronto Kalyra beat Branch 99 Canadian Legion by a score of 4 goals to one in the final of the Ontario bantam soccer championships. The Toronto team were a much bigger and more experienced team, and the Belleville lads never had a chance to show good run for their money. Doug Findlay netted the Belleville goal.

Members of the Kalyra team are Shambolton, Kellar, Kerrulsh, T. Phillips, Van Der Werf, Van Gerwen, J. Green, Findlay, Findlay, Healy, Van Alstyne, Colligan, Hannah, Cunningham.

In the second game of a doubleheader Toronto juveniles defeated Foley Foundry of Belleville by a five to nothing score and were full value for their victory. Their neat passing play had the local boys puzzled on quite a few occasions but the Foley's squad never lost heart and were in there right up to the final whistle.

Foley Foundry team, Smets, Moravcek, Penaska, K. Kappes, R. Kappes, Tighe, Wright, J. Kappes, Sills, Zubka, Aquino, Marcelle.

After the games all four teams were given a banquet well catered for by the ladies of Holloway Street United Church.

TO PROSPECTIVE NEW CAR PURCHASERS CONCERNING 1954 PLYMOUTH AND CHRYSLER CARS

BELIEVE IT OR NOT
WE ARE ALMOST OUT OF
USED CARS

THE REASON . . .
It is even harder for us to believe, because, at one time recently our new car sales brought us in more used cars than we knew what to do with. However, the unusual heavy demand through July and August for our factory reconditioned cars was not anticipated to such an extent—and now we are understocked on used cars. This wonderful public reception further confirms our faith in our belief that the best way to do business is to give a full dollar's worth of value for a dollar.

THE PROBLEM . . .
Now, WE NEED USED CARS! We have six salesmen who don't want to lose, and they need some used cars to sell. Them, too, we have our regular used car customers who look to Boyce's to furnish them with dependable transportation value.

OUR CHOICE . . .
Yes, we can buy used cars. Cars obtained from this source, however, are very hard to get a "history on," and we've always been willing to furnish our used car prospects with the "previous owner's" name—so that they can learn about the car first hand. We like to know our used cars.

THE BENEFIT TO YOU . . .
If you have a real clean car to trade in, and are going to be in the market for a NEW CAR in 1954, NOW is the time to trade with US! We need your used car, this month. We're ready to give you the biggest dollar's worth of value in Boyce's long history of values. Right now you are probably driving the down payment on a brand new Plymouth or Chrysler.

Civic Welcome Given Marilyn At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Marilyn Bell was given a rousing civic welcome Saturday by thousands of Hamiltonians who crowded around city hall and lined the streets to the Civic Stadium.

The 16-year-old girl who won fame and fortune in her swim across Lake Ontario took the reception in her stride. She was greeted by the mayor, hugged by a pretty girl volunteer and kissed by a young Hamilton swimmer before the eyes of hundreds of well-wishers. She received a consonet bearing the city crest and a huge swimming trophy from the citizens of Hamilton.

At the stadium Marilyn kicked off to open a Big Four football game between Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. She was presented at intermission with gifts and a cheque for $1,000 donated by Hamilton citizens in a fund sponsored by radio station CHML.

Two Men Held For Kidnapping Driver of Taxi

TORONTO (CP) — Police say they have arrested two men on charges of kidnapping and carrying offensive weapons in connection with a taxi driver's report that he was forced to drive along a downtown street with a knife pressed against his side.

James Grisewood, 32, and David Connolly, 32, were among five taken into custody on offensive weapons charges, police reported. They also face charges of kidnapping James J. Wright.

The other three being held on the weapons charge are Stanley Grisewood, 26; George Simmons, 34, and Robert Turcwicz, 22.

On Tuesday night, at the Belleville Shrine Club, the Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville inaugurates its 1954-1955 season.

The guest speaker at our meeting will be Mr. Graeme Fraser, Vice-President of Crawley Films, Ottawa. Mr. Fraser is immediate Past President of the Federation of Canadian Advertising and Sales Clubs; he is a member of the Advisory Committee on Public Relations for the Canadian International Trade Fair; a Director of the Dominion Boy Scouts Association, the St. John Ambulance Association, the Rotary Club of Ottawa, and the Better Business Bureau.

Our Club plans to bring other equally distinguished speakers to Belleville—speakers who are highly qualified to bring us up-to-date information concerning the latest techniques in modern merchandising, in advertising, and in the fields of sales and public relations.

Article 2 of our Constitution says: "The purpose of this organization shall be (a) to develop the science and art of salesmanship and advertising. (b) to encourage the interchange of creative ideas in selling and advertising and (c) to promote sociability among the sales and advertising fraternity."

Recognizing the importance of good salesmanship, sound merchandising and thorough knowledge of distribution problems, remembering that one in seven is directly employed in this field, it is our belief that our organization can provide a useful service, not only to our members, but also to the community as a whole. While our club is not a service club, yet we are very conscious of our responsibility to the community. We are endeavoring to discharge that responsibility in two ways: First, by providing the high schools in Belleville with specialized speakers who discuss the opportunities that exist in sales, advertising and allied fields today. Secondly, by providing the Corby Public Library with a variety of books covering such subjects.

We welcome visitors to our club—our meetings are held on the third Tuesday of each month at the Belleville Shrine Club on Highland Avenue. There are also a few vacancies available for additional members.

E. L. LITTLEJOHN,
President.

FROST RETAINS PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

The people of Ontario do not blame the Frost Government for the highways administration irregularities.

That is evident from the results of three by-elections held on Thursday.

All three elections were won by the Progressive-Conservatives. However, these three ridings had been won by the party in the 1951 general election, so that the Progressive-Conservative victories, in themselves, were not highly significant. What did tell the story in indisputable fashion was the fact that in all three ridings the Progressive-Conservatives increased their margins of victory.

In the riding of Russell, which embraces the suburbs of Ottawa and the rural area west of the city, the total vote declined slightly from that in the general election, but not enough to change the result materially. The Progressive-Conservatives increased their vote by 2,940, or over 40 per cent, while the Liberal vote declined by 2,905 and the C.C.F. vote, falling 916, was more than halved. There is no doubt that the people of Russell having faith in the Frost administration.

Nipissing provided a somewhat different picture. Here, too, the Progressive-Conservatives increased their vote, but only by 716, while the C.C.F. also did better, according a gain of 463. The Liberal vote declined by 1,740. In this Northern Ontario riding unemployment may have raised some issues, but while disapproval of Albert Wren by charges against Highway Minister George Doucett may have been reflected in decreased Liberal support.

In Leeds the total vote declined sharply. The victor got 633 fewer votes than did the late C. G. MacOdrum in the 1951 general election, but the Liberal vote declined by 2,497. The Liberal candidate was a woman, a retired school teacher.

In all these ridings the personalities of the various candidates, in both the 1951 general election and the last Thursday's by-elections unquestionably played a large part in the distribution of the vote. Still, if the people of these three ridings thought that maladministration was the basic cause for the highways department irregularities that would have been evident in the results. Premier Leslie Frost and the members of his Cabinet have been assured that they have not lost the confidence of the people of Ontario by that fact. In fact, from blaming the government for the highways mess, the voters are depending on the government to clear it up.

SOME ACTION DESIRABLE

A report from Ottawa regarding the deepening of channels through the Upper lakes reveals a situation which can hardly be regarded as satisfactory.

In the past the United States has taken care of this channel deepening. A 1941 treaty between Canada and the United States regarding the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway provided that the United States would undertake to deepen these channels between the upper lakes. That treaty later became inoperative. The newest agreement on the seaway makes no reference to the question.

"Canada," says a Canadian Press dispatch from Ottawa, "is not expected to open the question unless it gets a definite indication the U.S. will not do the channel job."

In other words, Canada proposes to keep quiet unless it is prodded into action. It might find it had to pay part of the cost of this work.

Is this an appropriate attitude for a country which only recently was loudly proclaiming that it was capable of building the St. Lawrence seaway alone and unaided?

One U.S. informant is quoted as saying "it is probable the channel-deepening will be worked out as one of the upriver capabilities developed by construction of the deep canals" in the St. Lawrence, and that it will not likely be a live issue for another couple of years.

The most reasonable interpretation of this statement is that the lower channels will be deepened only after ships passing through the seaway find that the present 21-foot upbound channels and 25-foot downbound channels are inadequate to float them.

Somehow this hardly appeals to us as the proper method of approaching the problem.

MARRIAGE AND POLITICS

Earl Browder, former head of the Communist Party in the United States, and his wife Raissa have been charged with perjury. They are alleged to have falsely testified that Mrs. Browder never was a member of the Communist Party.

Is it not strange that the political opinions of politician and wife so seldom differ? Of course, in some instances spouses are winged by Cupid while in pursuit of ballots. They marry secretaries or ward organizers. That, however, does not offer an adequate explanation of why so few wives of politicians differ with their husbands in their party affiliations.

Can it be that these wives do not really take politics seriously, that their views on political questions depend upon what Harry or Dwight or Louis or George thinks of the state of the nation?

If this is the case, how do you explain the fact that many another wife does not devote all his time to affairs political and whose wife is likewise apparently disinterested, discovers on election day that his wife invariably kills his vote?

NEW MANAGEMENT NEEDED

My record here would better be Because I often think too late.
If I could learn to handle me. What's best for others I can see.
The blunt, straight-forward truth Not always what is best, for me.
With others I do fairly well
But never have I proved to be Quite capable to manage me.

This sign where other men have failed:
"Under new management" is nailed.

This statement trite I can't deny And pausing by, the while I read
My own worst enemy am I. I think that must be what I need.
It makes mistakes—and some are "Under new management" to be.

Doubts Peary Visited Pole

(By Stanley Burke, writing from Resolute Bay, Queen Elizabeth Islands, in the Vancouver Sun)

The Russians discovered the North Pole.

No kidding.

This is one time when they really scored a first, though it's possible they don't even know it.

The Russians have the right people to set foot on the top of the earth when they landed a helicopter there during the '30's. In spite of what the histories say about Admiral Peary, it's likely no one has ever travelled to the Pole by foot and it's becoming doubtful if anyone ever will.

As far as Peary is concerned, we now proven that either he pulled off one of the greatest hoaxes in history or else he did some fancy Milling across the polar ice pack that relegates Dr. Bannister to the elderly ladies' egg-and-spoon division.

So I'm told by officials of the Department of Northern Affairs, who suggests that Peary was one of the early masters of the modern propaganda techniques of the Big Lie and the Bigger Counter Lie.

At the same time that Peary claimed the Pole, Dr. Frederick Cook of New York made a similar claim. Cook and his influential supporters, who included Rear Admiral Schroeder, denounced Peary" Roosevelt, proved noisily and conclusively that Cook was a liar.

"Peary and his people made so many mistakes that it's impossible to wonder if Peary might be lying too," commented Jack Eggleston, of the Northern Affairs Department, a student of Arctic History. "Peary's own reckoning the Eastern Arctic Patrol.

Peary and his people demanded that the world accept that he had been to the pole, navigational observations or not, he didn't occur to anyone to demand the same proof of Peary.

It's now been shown that, to reach the Pole, Peary would have had to travel at least 93 miles a day, an average of four miles an hour. To reach the Pole when he was travelling over glare ice with sledges and dogs is not within all on skis. Peary on the other hand was travelling not with heavily loaded sledges over the mountainous upheaval of the polar pack.

At one time he ever logged previously was an average of 12 miles a day. But this was he was out of sight of his companions, accompanied by only an untested Negro servant, he suddenly sprouted wings and slipped off up to 50 miles on one day.

Furthermore, according to the Eggleston study, he has analyzed Peary's expeditions, even if he had travelled along at 90 miles a day, he still would not have known whether he had sighted the Pole because he had zigzagged drunkenly all over the polar cap.

Peary admitted that he simply travelled due north, ignoring the sun and the stars. However, in an area where magnetic compasses are erratic, he had to rely on his compass error.

And he took no account of the constant shifting of the ice pack. In 800 miles across the continental ice pack, Peary failed to took no observations for longitude and only three for latitude. Even these latitude observations would have been inaccurate because the Pole is only 12 miles too low in the southern sky for a proper sighting.

All of this isn't enough to cast doubt. Peary was caught. But it is enough to question. In his book, he published a picture supposed to be taken on top of the earth. From the not-quite-erased outlines of a shadow, an observer should be able to calculate that it was taken far to the south.

In testifying before Congress Peary made a statement to direct contradiction of a statement in his book on mileage travelled. Peary's influential backers had recommended that the intrepid explorer be promoted and voted a handsome pension. Several suspicious Congressmen smelled more proof that he had really been to the Pole.

One Congressmen wanted to see Peary's diaries which it was assumed would contain navigational observations en route. Peary refused but was finally forced to yield. But when he produced diaries they turned out to be so-called copies of the originals. The originals have never been seen.

Another paper produced by the explorer was also regarded as highly suspicious by the Congressmen. This document was supposed to have been written on the ice by Peary and his skipper, Newfoundlander Bob Bartlett. The purpose of the document was to record the point at which Peary kicked off for his last spell.

An observant Congressman pointed out that the critical inscription was illegible and longitude of the kickoff point had been written in with pencils. It almost seemed, said the legislators, that the kickoff might have been decided upon later to fit in with the rest of the yarn.

All of which, kiddies, leads us around to the Russians. Let the admiral and the truth was Poles apart.

And back at school don't forget to embarrass teacher by asking her an innocent query.

"Who discovered the North Pole?"

And if any of you kids want to hike to the North Pole when you grow up, don't bother with too much about someone else beating you there. It seems the army isn't interested in bouncing there in its atomic-powered rocket to travel on the ground in the north.

So it looks as though nobody is going to go to the top of the world if you kids don't.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

A WORD TO THE IGNORANT

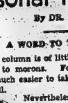
After all this column is of little or no interest to morons. For them it is so much easier to take a headache pill.



Dr. Brady

Nevertheless a good many readers who write well enough to enter high school or college still for a long in the third grade so far as their knowledge of physiology and hygiene is concerned. But what else can we expect from the studied neglect of these subjects in the public school curriculum?

Typical query from a well educated young woman—as education goes in Yankeedom:

"Kindly state our first baby in February. . . ."

We inquired at once. Hospital for names of obstetricians, but they would not name any. How does one go about finding a good obstetrician?

If the advice of a plodding old door-to-door doctor is worthy of your distinguished consideration, Mrs. Wiseacre, you will not try to find an obstetrician.

I assure you, my dear ignorant young woman, that it doesn't help at all to make a federal case of your first childbirth, unless you are seriously ill, crippled or deformed—in which case you had better leave it to your family physician what obstetrician or other specialist to consult.

The trouble with most young Americans facing the birth of their first baby is that they are vaguely aware of their ignorance and incompetence, look blankly around, they feel that it is the normal thing for all the other young prospective parents or nearly all are in the same boat as they, why take time out from bridge or cocktail parties to study such nasty subjects as embryology, the hygiene of pregnancy and natural childbirth? Just be smart. Cover up your stupidity, engage a trick specialist who purports to be an obstetrician and dump all your cares and responsibilities, and incidentally your money in man or woman, in the specialist's lap.

I'm sarcastic about this because I hope to stir young prospective parents out of their abject submission to the rules and regulations of the 19th century lying-in institutions which enable the trick obstetricians, officious nurses and other hospital "authorities" to patronize, ridicule and push them around.

Decay Sets In At Early Age

(Windsor Star)

Psychologists have emerged from a long summer slumber to announce that brains peak before the age of 24. The disabilities of old age begin to creep up him at 30, and after four years gain the upperhand.

This is hard to take, even where a 24th birthday is only vaguely recalled. The young fellow graduates from college, let's say, with the dew of youthfulness still on his cheeks, and appears sparently at his feet. But already the death-watch beetle has begun its work. He's past his prime. Oy so a school of psychologists says.

We think that can be disproved in a fair test. For instance, some of us have a few world seldom huskies and let him share a crosscut saw with a 24-year-old lumberman for a day, or try to keep pace with an even older lumberman. The young will win first.

Better still, match a psychologist against one of those venerable but exceedingly tough counting-house birds. The house psychologist will be willing to revise his theories about man's early decay when he sees the working countryman confirms the theory that we shine in him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Within the past year or so, I have noticed, and possibly you have noticed, that the number of women who drench themselves in perfume is increasing. There has been the odd case when a man smelled as if she had accidentally spilled the perfume bottle over him. But quite recently, you encounter these ladies, moving in a group, in ladies' lists and even more frequently. To sit beside one of them in bus or street car is quite an experience. Good perfume is too expensive to be used except in tiny dabs and on special occasions. Therefore, the semi-anathesia you suffer sitting next to one of these scented ladies is the effect of cheap perfume. And cheap perfume must have chloroform as the other scent soporific in it. It makes you drowsy. It also spoils the taste of your cigarettes for about an hour after. If you were on your way home to supper when you became within the orbit of the lady, you can taste the odor in your food. If you are a bachelor, married man, you will detect lipstick on your collar.

Psychologists have a name for this sort of thing. It is called "displacement activity." Displacement activity is when you are doing something you don't want to do, and you do something else instead. For instance, you are sitting at your desk, and you have to write a letter to your mother-in-law. Instead of writing the letter, you start to clean your fingernails. Or you are sitting at your desk

Fatal Accident Brings $100 Fine, Lost Licence

BANCROFT — Arraigned on a charge of dangerous driving, following a fatal accident at Bird's Creek on August 2nd, when Howard Adams, of Hamilton, was killed, John McKee, 34, also of Hamilton, was found guilty by Magistrate R. C. Jackson at Wednesday's court. A fine of $100 and $47.10 costs were imposed and McKee's licence was suspended for six months.

In reply to defending counsel, J. D. O'Flynn, accused told the court that, on the day of the accident, he and Adams, accompanied by his step-father, Sam Hancock, of Bancroft, had been on a fishing trip, during which time the three had consumed 11 bottles of beer. They returned to Hancock's home, and later that afternoon, Adams suggested a trip to Maynooth for a beer. Hancock declined, and Adams and McKee went to the Arlington hotel at Maynooth and, between the hours of 5.45 and 8.30 p.m. they consumed another four glasses of beer. They then went fishing until 8.45 p.m. when they

JANKE—GAY

Christ Church was arrayed with baskets of asters and white gladioli was the setting on September 18, at 3 p.m., for the marriage of Estella Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Gay, of Foxboro, and Frederick Janke, of Kitchener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Janke. Canon Everett Smith performed the ceremony assisted by the Rev. Harry Janke, brother of the groom. Traditional wedding music was played and members of the junior boys' choir sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length—gown of candlelight—tulle, with taut pleated bodice and billowing skirt, three-quarter length shrug jacket and wrist-length mitts of tulle. Her matching natural satinized lest headdress and imported illusion chapel veil completed her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of Joanna Hill roses with lily.

Miss Merrilee Miller, as bridesmaid, wore a ballerina-length gown of cinnamon brown and white tulle shaded from candlelight to cedar bark tan. Over the pleated bodice she wore a matching frothy tan tulle stole and a tan ostrich feather fascinator over tulle mitts completed her costume. Her cascade bouquet was of feathered carnations in mauve ivy.

Mr. Helmut Binhammer, of Kitchener was groomsman and Mr. Douglas Janke and Mr. Charles Gay, ushers, all of Toronto.

A reception was held in the Parish Hall, the bride's mother receiving in a continental satin dress with capucine accessories with corsage of bronze orchid. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing raspberry toujouis crepe dress with muted pink accessories and, corsage of Sweetheart roses.

For a wedding trip through Eastern Canada the bride donned a cinnamon tweed suit with champagne accessories and corsage of Golden Sceptre roses.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Woodstock, Ill., Dwight, Ill.; Detroit, Windsor, Kitchener, Toronto, Ottawa, Stirling, Bloomfield, Wellington and Eldorado.

The bride and groom will take up residence at 136 Weber Street East, in Kitchener.

Miss America Some $15,000 Richer After Week with Title

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — After a week as Miss America of 1954, Lee Ann Meriwether is some $15,000 richer, is worth $5 cents an hour to collectors and is short about 18 hours sleep.

She has seen the sights of New York—consisting mostly of the rooftops visible from the top of her hotel.

She has spent most of her waking hours in small fitting rooms while size 12 dresses in her new 20-piece wardrobe are cut down to accommodate her size 10 waist; in small dressing rooms as making-up men apply grease-paint and dressmakers change her clothes; and on small stage sets being photographed in ball gowns and street dresses — but no bathing suits—admiring automobiles, enjoying grapefruit and orange juice, looking pleased with various pieces of household electrical equipment.

STRANGE LIFE

She has stood before mirrors and cameras about eight hours each day on three-inch heels and swears her feet don't hurt.

This is the life of Miss America, the 19-year-old San Francisco girl who wants to be an actress and who last Saturday night was picked from 50 finalists as the most beautiful, talented, poised young woman in the country.

Lee, in spite of her looks, hopes, talent and fears is only incidentally a celebrity. She is an industrial commodity which it is hoped, will persuade more people to buy certain fabrics, automobiles and television sets. Literally millions of dollars are invested in Lee Ann Meriwether and, like any other treasure, the investment is well guarded.

Principal watch dog is Leonora Slaughter, executive director of Atlantic City's Miss America pageant, which is a modern version of the old-fashioned bathing beauty contest, and was dreamed up in 1921 as a promotion scheme to attract more visitors to the New Jersey resort city.

NO GIMMICKS

In pre-chapter days, some beauty contests unmercifully exploited the "lucky winner." If Lee is exploited, it is mercifully, profitable and there are no concealed gimmicks.

She is under exclusive contract for a year to the Miss America pageant and gets scrutinizes every commercial undertaking—and insists that all cheques be made out to Miss America herself.

Bride-to-Be Honored By Shower

FRANKFORD.—A cup and saucer shower was given Miss Mary Morrow recently, at the home of Mrs. Wilson Rankin. During the evening a variety book was made after which Mary opened her gifts and thanked her friends for the many gifts.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Rankin, Miss Maisie Rankin, Mrs. O. Carlisle and Mrs. S. Sharp.

Club Activities

ENERGETIC CLUB

The Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church held its first autumn get-together in the church parlors, Friday evening. Original plans for a wiener roast at the cottage of Carl and Audrey Brethour were changed due to unfavorable weather.

President Lloyd Townsend opened the meeting with Dorothy Forward reading the Scripture followed by the meditation and prayer by Thelma Townsend. An instrumental group consisting consisting of Frankie Howard, Carl Young, Bob Brown and Richard Young.

Two films were then shown—one depicting some scenes in the Rope peninsula and one showing rescue work by RCAF.

Several selections by Mr. Tillbrook on his accordion were much enjoyed. He also accompanied the sing-song just before refreshments were served.

The friendship circle and benediction closed a very enjoyable evening.

Team of Artists Both Happy In Their Own Fields

MONTREAL (CP)—There is no rivalry between the only father-daughter team of artists in Canadian journalism.

"We are both happy in our own fields," says red-haired Julie Dale, younger half of the Winnipeg Free Press combination. The older half is Arch Dale, well-known political cartoonist.

Julie, vacationing in Montreal recently, said she is following Dad's footsteps to a certain degree—but not too closely.

"I like doing special cartoons but I have no ambitions to become a political cartoonist."

FREE ILLUSTRATES

Julie, whose work includes illustrating layouts, special story headings and photo retouching, says Dad rather hasn't any thoughts of competing with her either.

"He says he would never sink to the level of illustrating"—she said with a smile. "That leaves us both happy."

The only girl artist in her newspaper's art department, Julie is one of the few women in the field in Canada. She said she was lucky to be able to break into the work. "It's very restricted even for men."

Her ambition now? To start specializing in cartooning for women's pages. But "that's all very hazy at the present."

SINGER RECOVERING

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer-actress Jeanette MacDonald has early "passed the crisis" of a virus infection, her secretary said Sunday, but has been ordered to rest for 10 days and cancel a planned fall concert tour.

Marsh Hill WMS, Harmony Club Meet

MARSH HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell were guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw of Ivanhoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Breeze were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rousehorn of Bath.

Mrs. Frank Pinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pinkle and Jeanette were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Pinkle.

Miss Barbara Brown left Monday for Peterborough, where she will attend Normal School this year.

The members of Marsh Hill congregation are making plans for their anniversary Sunday, Oct. 3, when the Rev. R. F. Darke will be the speaker.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The September meeting of the Marsh Hill WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Allyn Pinkle with 13 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Pinkle, opened the meeting with a short devotional reading and prayer.

Mrs. Hollinger reported on the supply work and the articles for the Bible sale to be in for the next meeting.

Mrs. Campbell gave some interesting facts on Congress of Citizenship, quoting from Dr. Templeton.

Mrs. Searles gave a reading "Meaning of Stewardship."

Mrs. Fred Campbell presided over the worship service, the theme being "A Nation Before God".

Mrs. Frank Pinkle was in charge of the study book, "The Church in India", and was assisted by Mrs. Allyn Pinkle and Mrs. Leslie Pinkle.

After the closing worship the hostess served refreshments.

MARSH HILL HARMONY CLUB

The members of Marsh Hill Harmony Club met for their September meeting Friday evening in the school house with Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kugler and Basil as hostess.

The president, Mr. David Hollinger, opened the meeting with the singing of the hymn, "What a Friend We have in Jesus" and a poem, "The Guide".

During the business, the members decided to buy new hymnaries for the church.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Mitts presided over the worship service with Mrs. Mitts reading the Scripture and Mr. Mitts gave a reading on being "Hopeful"—an explanation of the Scripture. Melville Patterson gave a reading "The Purpose of Life."

As this was the 35th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mitts, Mr. Hollinger presented them with a gift from the members, wishing them many years of happiness.

The members hailed Miss Barbara Brown's birthday and presented her with a birthday cake.

The club then had a buffet luncheon.

Mr. Farley Lindenfield led in community singing with Mrs. Kuglin presiding at the piano.

Women's Activities

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

The September meeting of the Kingston Road W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. T. Logan, Hambleton Avenue.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. M. LaRue. The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. R. Lisle. The speaker for the evening was Mr. Morley who gave an interesting and informative talk on the Sacrament of Baptism. The annual counseling which it is hoped, will persuade more people to buy certain fabrics, automobiles and television sets. Literally millions of dollars are invested in Lee Ann Meriwether and, like any other treasure, the investment is well guarded.

Principal watch dog is Leonora Slaughter, executive director of Atlantic City's Miss America pageant, which is a modern version of the old-fashioned bathing beauty contest, and was dreamed up in 1921 as a promotion scheme to attract more visitors to the New Jersey resort city.

NO GIMMICKS

In pre-chapter days, some beauty contests unmercifully exploited the "lucky winner." If Lee is exploited, it is mercifully, profitable and there are no concealed gimmicks.

She is under exclusive contract for a year to the Miss America pageant and gets scrutinizes every commercial undertaking—and insists that all cheques be made out to Miss America herself.

WCTU MEETING

The September meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the YMCA with a good attendance.

The opening was a welcome by the president and reference to the recent gathering of the "World's Council of Churches," held in Evanston, Ill. Six years ago, the initial meeting was held in Amsterdam. It was one of the most widely represented religious bodies of the followers of Christ ever held.

The theme of the assembly was "Christ the Hope of the World," which is the hope all over the world are studying the hope for mankind, which is Jesus Christ and practised by His children in there hope.

And since the Reformation, has there been such unity of faith. This is a mighty mistake. It is not unity together, where all the world seems flying apart. Politically, economically and racially. Thus the Holy Spirit is drawing the churches, close and closer together. In it all, the ordinary church member is the key figure. Each has a part and we must pray for a mighty out pouring of Holy Spirit on the churches throughout the world.

The guest speaker was Mrs. R. C. Mundy whose special work is child evangelism, brought to us a splendid devotional period. Her thought was based on the attributes of Jesus, which makes Him a Loving Friend. "What Friend We Have in Jesus" was sung.

BIBLE CAMP

This was followed by a report of the "Y" Girls' Camp held at Consecon, where she served on the staff. There were 75 in attendance which is a record camp. Miss Edna Grant, field director of Toronto district, was also on the staff consisted of a teacher in Bible study, alcohol education, crafts, swimming and social work. It is a most desirable camp site of natural beauty with a cleared campsite, dormitories and dining hall. The interest is increasing each year and under the able management of a capable staff the girls lack for nothing.

The ladies were asked to save postal stamps and coupons in support of Canadian Aid. The union is responsible in Ontario for $2,500 which is raised in order for support and Community Chest in aid of travellers, "new Canadians" Claxie.

Woman Has to Give Password To Get Into Her Own Home

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Mrs. Phyllis Thomas, British housewife, has to give a password to get into her home. Her address is in the Tower of London.

Mrs. Thomas, slim, fair-haired and 46, keeps house in William the Conqueror's famous White Tower. She is the wife of Yeoman Warder Trevor Thomas, one of the Tudor-dress tourist attractions known as beefeaters, she pays five shillings a week for her four-room apartment, complete with ghost.

The Thomases live alongside the crown jewels and within haunting distance of the celebrated Bloody Tower where the babes of Henry VIII's second wife, Anne Boleyn, is said to walk. The families of 21 Yeoman Warders and 12 Royal Fusiliers also live in the grim Norman building under strict security.

WELL GUARDED

"At least we don't have to worry about burglars," says Mrs. Thomas, who admits her 12th century tower home, with its three-foot walls and arrow-slit windows, isn't exactly a dream dwelling.

She has a constant challenge, remember passwords which must be changed daily and adjust her family's privacy to the inconvenience of being shown preview.

"Like does have its drawbacks here," signs Mrs. Thomas, thinking of the heavy studded doors at the one entry to the tower, the inquisitive visitors to iron wall brackets that light her way home and the 90 steps—and the 43-step stairway leading to the battlemented roof garden where she hangs her washing on sunny days.

"Talk about washday blues—just imagine coming up and down that steep stone stairway to take in the clothes when it rains."

SOME ROUNDINGS

The section where the Thomases live is called the Well Tower, and it's believed to be 900 years old—a nearby well in which prisoners were left to die. The well is now 90 feet deep enough to drown them. Within the Thomas apartment are the 15-foot walls of the tower, used by one-time prisoners, dated around 1600 and covered by glass plates.

The glass plates are sacrosanct, which makes interior decorating somewhat of a problem.

The guest room has arrow-slit windows, a large wicker fireplace and a ghost. Guests go through a studded door on one side of the living room—it's arched kitchen, mount a spiral turret stairway to and girls travelling alone.

A Youth Temperance Council is being formed in Ontario. A ready six are in action and it is hoped to form one in Belleville. Full reports on "Educational Projects" was considered by the

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MARRIED 8 YEARS, HE'S STILL AN ADOLESCENT

Eight years of marriage have failed to mature one husband, of whom his wife writes:

"When we are out with friends, I am often very much humiliated because of his attitude toward other women. People take to him very easily, and usually, if there are any young girls around, he is soon teasing and scuffling with them. Sometimes I feel things go too far.

"My husband has never returned my love in a way to build my trust in him completely, and he has never made me feel I was first in his life, so that I feel left out so many times.

"What is right for me to do? Should I go along with things and pretend I don't care how much fooling he does, should I tell the young girls to leave him alone? I live in constant fear that one time things may get out of hand.

"I have tried to talk to him, but he can't have any fun or be himself if I don't mind his having fun in the right way, but I can't seem to make him understand that. I don't want to be a jealous wife, or have others feel that way about me, but I don't know what to do."

This problem of the husband who has not really grown up yet, and shows it by behaving like an adolescent when he is around girls, is by no means an uncommon one. A great many wives have suffered over it, and been greatly embarrassed, as well as deeply hurt by it.

I doubt that this one can accomplish much by talking with her husband about his behavior, for a man with his attitude is not adult enough to respond to reasoning, or to comprehend that he is making a fool of himself. Quite the opposite, in fact; he flatters himself that he is so attractive that young girls fall for him, never dreaming that, in all likelihood those young people are snickering together about him behind his back.

Also, it would be a big mistake for the wife to say anything to the girls themselves and start giving that there is friction between herself and her husband over his nonsense. Far better for her to keep her marital problems to herself.

The best thing for her to do right now, would be to put her attention on livening up her own personality. She can't do this by will power, of course. But if she makes a point of widening the scope of her activities outside her home to include as many new interests as possible, it will gradually, and certainly, come about itself. For the more people she knows, and the more actively she shares in various kinds of community projects, the more outgoing she will become, and hence more interesting to other people.

Then, when she goes out among her friends with her husband, she will automatically attract those present in a way that will help a lot to take her mind off anything her husband may be doing. This in turn, will be very likely to make him sit up and take notice of the fact that the friends of their own age find his wife more interesting and better company than they find him; that while he is cavorting about like a 16-year-old, the others are enjoying themselves in an adult way. Gradually, then he may begin to feel himself the one who is left out, which will be all to the good. Moreover he won't want to be overshadowed by her popularity.

So, let this wife stop concentrating on her boy husband for awhile and turn her attention to improving herself over in the way I have suggested. It may, as I say, bring about the very results she wants, and it will certainly make her a happier person than she is now.

'Against'

By Mary Moore

My uneasiness at writing that column two weeks ago, on table manners, was not out of order. I'm glad I denied being an authority. Being human though, I'm happy because J.H.K. wrote at once, agreeing with me. (I gave you her letter last week.) For today this reasonable and wistful letter from "One who remembers porridge" arrived and argued "against" my suggested discipline.

"Dear Madam: I have read with interest your column of August 31, 1954 on table manners, and while I agree that children must and need to learn good deportment at the table, I do not feel that the rigid methods or suggestions you made would prove satisfactory to all children.

"I object particularly to Rule 4 and Rule 8, at least, for very young children. Often they have accidents! They are clumsy, but not intentionally so. For a time I lived with a doctor's family, and I shall always remember the happy, easy, relaxed atmosphere of their meals! There were no reproaches, etc., if milk was spilled! No harping on manners! The three children in the family have all grown up to be fine well-mannered girls, and with fewer food dislikes than most persons. How? By their parents' good example at all times, and patience.

"I feel strongly about this because I myself as a child was sickly, with a poor appetite. Had I been sent to my room every time I "dawdled" would have been there most of the time. Why can't adults realize that children are not as a rule as interested in food as they are? Nor as hungry? Why must the children "like" everything when adults, as a rule, don't? I have seen rigid rules like yours used much more often than easy, relaxed rules, but having experienced the latter at one stage of my career, I much prefer these.

"Example: My parents made us eat hot cereal every morning for breakfast for eleven years. It spoiled my whole day as far as food was concerned and it is not without significance that when granted a reprieve, from porridge I gained weight. I still remember vividly, after more than twenty years, how awful it was choking down that horrible stuff; The same with egg yolk. I well remember once my father kicking up a dreadful row at a family Christmas dinner because I did not want any Devonshire cream. Just because he and the adult members of the family like this so-called delicacy, is no reason for a child of five to like it! To me, it was horrid—just like sour cream and lumpy!

"I am convinced that adults were forced to eat all food set before them, whether they liked it or not, for a period of a week every few months or so. I think this would be cruel! Sorry I must disagree with you. —One Who Remembers Porridge."

ANSWER:

My dear "O.W.R.P.": Aw shucks! I'm sorry. Sorry that I recalled those distressful days to your mind. Neither do I think all children should or can be forced to eat all food. Thank goodness there are plenty of little individuals who dare to express themselves. Anybody else want to get in on this argument?

ATTENTION J.H.K.:

(Re Dutch Oven)

Buy an aluminum Dutch oven. There is a 5-quart size, made by a well-known manufacturer, that retails at about $7.00, that will serve both your jam making and pickling needs, but don't brine your pickles in it—don't let pickles or other brine mixtures stand in it overnight. Of course it will serve dozens of other purposes too such as pot roasts, stew, chicken with dumplings, homemade soups, large quantity vegetables cooking.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

A DIVORCEE'S WEDDING SHOULD SHOW SURE TASTE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

In a few weeks I am going to announce my engagement, and I am in a quandary about certain questions. I was married before, I am a divorcee, and have a little girl three years old. My husband and I were together only six months; I had my little girl without him, I have raised her without him, he has never wanted to see the baby, and is not interested in either of us. I hate the sound of the word "divorcee," but that's my status, and under the circumstances I must make the best of it. Particularly now, in making the plans for this new marriage.

1. The man I am to marry wants to have a "real wedding," as much as is proper under the circumstances. I don't think this is proper. Is it? We want to be married in church. I would like to have my father give me in marriage, but I think this would not be correct. Am I right? What attendants may I have? And would it be correct to have a small reception?

2. I'd like to wear a pastel-blue ballerina-length dress. Would this be correct? May I wear a veil, or just what head-dress may I wear?

3. Under my circumstances, may my little daughter be allowed to attend the wedding?—Margaret

1. You must, to be right about your plans, keep those plans very, very simple. . . have a small wedding (and I mean very small) with only the families and possibly a few of the closest relatives and most intimate friends present. First, of course, before you make any plans, you and your fiance should consult with the minister as to the church regulations and the plans and the plans he suggests. Ask him if it is permissible that your father give you in marriage. No matter what type of wedding. You should have only one attendant, preferably a matron of honor. And you may invite the guests at the ceremony to an informal gathering, preferably at your house.

2. You may wear the blue ballerina-length dress . . . but it should be of very simple design. No veil, but a small, smart hat or a half-hat, of a light-weight material, and perhaps of the same shade as the dress.

3. You would show the sure taste I'm sure you really want to show if you do not have your little daughter attend the wedding or reception.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE ROAD TO LOVELINESS

It is every woman's duty to herself and her family to be well-groomed and to make the most of her looks. To present a pleasing appearance is to add to the joy of living, to have self-respect, to be on good terms with the reflection in the mirror.

One should choose clothes that will accent the good points of the figure, camouflage those which are not so good. A judicious use of make-up does wonders for the complexion. A clever hair stylist can give scanty locks the appearance of luxuriant growth. The possibilities are so many that there should be no Plain Janes among us.

But beauty involves more than surface attraction. There is an "inside job" that is equally important. This consists of the cultivation of intelligence and all the homely, kindly virtues that help us to get along happily with our fellow creatures.

Many a woman's reputation for good looks rests solely on the sweetness and gentleness of her facial expression, the good nature that puts sparkle in her eyes, the vitality and energy that give her grace of motion.

Observe little "Dead-Pan," who is self-centered and makes no effort to make herself interesting, she may have a complexion like the lilies and roses, and wear dazzling clothes, but she is a washout and people flee from her as they would from a virus.

We never tire of the company of a girl who has a gay word to offer, who is sympathetic, and understanding. We never notice if her mouth is a bit too large, her nose too small or her skin not strictly up to beauty standards.

If one desires to be beautiful one should have kindly thoughts. They make the face radiant.

SOMETIMES it's hard to make a rubber pad stay in place. If you sew a length of needle shooting firmly at each side of the pad, you can tuck it under the mattress. This is a big help when your baby squirms and crawls about in his crib.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.A.

The Holloway Street United Church Woman's Association held their first meeting for the fall term on Thursday.

There was a good attendance. Several items of business were attended to, including arrangements for the bazaar to be held in November.

Mrs. Alyea and her group has charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Kilbank read the meditation, taking for her subject "To Make Prayer Effective", and then led in prayer.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Buchanan who spoke on the work of the Red Cross Homemaker. Mrs. Fliegibon thanked the speaker for her interesting and informative talk.

Refreshments were then served by the group in charge and an enjoyable half hour followed.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The September meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Grant Kerr. Mrs. Fred Hall opened the meeting with the worship service from the Missionary Monthly, the theme being "A Nation Before God." The member representing India was Mrs. Jack Salmon and the member representing Canada, Mrs. Stanley Hazzard. Mrs. Hall read the Scripture passages and closed this part of the meeting with prayer for the statesmen of India and Canada. Mrs. Clarence Mansell gave a temperance reading and a thank-you card was read from Mrs. Robins.

Mrs. Hall was the leader for the meeting and introduced the new study book, "The Church in India." Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Sherman Parks led in a discussion on the church in India. Mrs. Blanche Emerson gave a reading and Mrs. G. Kerr, Mrs. G. Denyes, Mrs. S. Hazzard and Mrs. C. Triverton sang "I Need Thee Every Hour", with Mrs. Harry McCreary at the piano. Mrs. Hall closed the meeting with a few thoughts from the assembly of the World Council of Churches in Evanston.

The hostess and Mrs. Hall's group served lunch and a social half hour followed.

"I'm dreaming of my White Wedding"

"Isn't it going to be a beautiful dress? I've been daydreaming about my white wedding for years, but I hardly dared hope for this. You see, my father died when I was very small, and . . . well, there just wasn't any money to spare.

"But Mother managed to put me through school, and three years ago I got my first job. At first I just didn't know how I'd ever spend all that money. Yet at the end of three months I hadn't saved a penny.

"And then, Ted proposed. You can imagine how thrilled and happy I was. And I decided then and there to start saving for our wedding.

"So, on my uncle's advice, I opened a savings account at The Dominion Bank. Every pay day without fail, I deposited a few dollars. I was really surprised at just how quickly my savings mounted up. And now, thanks to that savings account, I know that I'll be a bride that Ted will be proud of in the wedding dress of my dreams.

"The wedding's in two weeks. Uncle Alec says he's giving away the happiest bride in the world . . . and Ted says the loveliest, bless his heart. We're planning to open a joint account at The Dominion Bank . . . and start saving for a home of our own. Isn't life wonderful!"

- Probably you, too, have a special goal in life. You'll find that opening a savings account at The Dominion Bank will help you to fulfill it. Come in and talk to the Manager. He'll be happy to tell you about the Bank's many special services. Remember, at The Dominion Bank, every account is an important account.

EXTRA MONEY—would it help you RIGHT NOW?

This is the time of the month when bills come in bunches. Our own experience is that the postman occasionally brings a few too many . . . but there just isn't enough in the pay envelope to cover every bill. If you are in the same fix, then . . . how would you like to get yours cleared away? Well, you can at a Niagara loan. We've a choice of loan plans at Niagara and many people can borrow up to $1,500. Payments again, up to 24 months, give you time to get back on your feet. Your family is protected because your loan is covered by a life-insurance policy, that costs you not one penny extra. But that's not the only plus you get at Niagara for, if you contact us, you find that on many amounts our rates are lower. A Niagara loan is a clean-cut way of looking after too many bills instead of just worrying about them. If a Niagara loan would help you put your budget back in shape . . . just drop in or call.

ST. LAURENT HITS

They also saw two powerful French - speaking Canadian leaders, both overwhelmingly popular in their respective political areas, coming to grips for the first time.

Union Nationale party circles say, Mr. Duplessis is planning a reply to Mr. St. Laurent's speech, believed the first ever made by a Canadian prime minister against a Quebec premier.

Mr. St. Laurent said he took glory, as did Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the late Mackenzie King, in working for a united Canadian nation.

Although some saw dangers for the survival of French culture in measures like family allowances, unemployment insurance and in taxation agreements, Mr. St. Laurent said he did not see French institutions in danger of being "assimilated or destroyed."

COMPLEX SPEECH

The whole speech—an estimated 9,000 words—was complex and cut through with a hazy disavowal about the Quebec government, but for a Quebec audience its significance appeared unmistakable.

The 72-year-old prime minister, looking fit and tanned after a vacation, made a brief reference to a speech he made in Montreal a week aboard the liner Saxonia.

The statement — that Canada's prosperity and growth pleased everyone except countries behind the Iron Curtain and some people in Quebec—misleads a province-wide controversy.

Saturday night Mr. St. Laurent referred back to that speech and said since then some people have insinuated that he tried to place Iron Curtain countries on the same footing with the people in Quebec "who do not like to see the Canadian nation grow."

Mr. St. Laurent smiled. He said in Ottawa there are many parties who disagree with the government but that does not mean compatriots can be made.

BELIEVES 'SINCERE'

The prime minister, under attack recently by Nationalist groups in Quebec, said he believes they are "sincere."

"There are sincere, honest, convinced nationalists who see the growth of this Canadian nation something which damages the ideals of Abbe Groulx (Canon Lionel Groulx of the University of Montreal) that there must be a French-Catholic state in America which would be sovereign and autonomous, and which should be separated from these cursed Protestants.

"And these people see what has been happening for the past few years, that population from Newfoundland to the Pacific coast is becoming a united people.

"Whether we like it or not, the people who are at the head of governments are only instruments in the hands of Providence . . ."

"INSTRUMENTS"

"As far me I am convinced General Montcalm and General Wolfe were nothing but instruments in the hands of an all-powerful Providence in September 1759 to create a situation whereby two races would be established on the North American continent."

The reference was to General Wolfe's victory over the French on the Plains of Abraham which gave Canada to Britain.

"As Mr. Gerard Filion (director of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir) said during these past few days, the province of Quebec cannot be a province like other provinces. But I do we believe that, I believe Quebec province can be a province like the others."

Mr. St. Laurent said that when there was talk between the provinces and the federal government about amending the constitution he always maintained nothing could change in the constitution without the consent of the provinces.

"But between true autonomy and autonomy as a screen to avoid talk about the administration of these who are responsible, there is a difference."

SNOUT IN REPLAIN

Mr. St. Laurent told his Liberal listeners it is their task to explain this to the people of Quebec.

" . . . To pretend as it does that the efforts we display to protect the unity of our nation from one ocean to the other amount to centralization, in the sense that provincial autonomy is diminished, is not the truth.

"And because it is not the truth it belongs to us to unveil the truth to the people."

Mr. St. Laurent spoke of the pipeline, expected to bring Alberta oil to Ontario and Quebec. Mr. Duplessis declined the move as another "encroachment" on provincial autonomy, he said.

But Mr. Duplessis was a lawyer and he "knows" that the Privy Council had handed down a ruling which makes the pipeline project constitutional.

"I have no doubt he knows, but if a ruling is not to his taste he prefers to ignore it," Mr. St. Laurent said.

Again the prime minister urged Liberals "to make the facts known."

"FRIGHTFUL ASSAULT"

Once, the prime minister went on, a revolt priest told him Quebec would refuse family allowances as a result of provincial autonomy."

"I asked him if he had any children," Mr. St. Laurent said.

"There are many children in uQebec province and I would be surprised if there were some who returned our cheques . . . I do not believe autonomy suffered much and even if it did I have no regret in having participated in the establishment of these allowances."

Mr. St. Laurent said there were some who talked of autonomy because that was a difficult thing to understand.

"They understand when a road costs four or five times as much as it should. But it is wiser not to talk about it."

Going over the tax question Mr St. Laurent said his government believes that it is necessary that the whole country remain "reasonably prosperous."

TAX QUESTION

To do this the federal government taxes corporations and revenue 17 per cent more than needed to balance the federal budget. He said $3 per cent of federal taxes on corporations and revenue go to the federal government and the balance is spread across the country in the form of subsidies under taxation agreements.

"Nine of the provinces find this all right but in the province of Quebec, a province that cannot be like the others, it was said: 'That is going to sabotage national autonomy, we will lose our Catholic schools, it is going to be terrible upheaval, you are not only going to hurt French survival but lead us to a terrible disaster.'"

Mr. St. Laurent said if Quebec does not want a taxation agreement that is all right but it is losing large sums of money.

To help things along Quebec income and income tax, it still loses out "but autonomy is saved." Quebec had a right to impose an income tax but Quebec could not ask the federal government to pay for it instead of Quebecers.

SEPTEMBER

The meadow's green with aftermath,
The harvest fields are bare,
And all along the dusty road
The golden-rod glows fair;
And on the lakeside hilltop
The sumach's turning red,
And from a pretty hanging-nest
The orioles have fled;
And through the mellow sunlight
The winds of memory blow,
They seem to speak of summer joys—
The joys of long ago.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—These lines give a picture of September in the country, but in this lakeside town there are few evidences of the approach of autumn, save a hint of frost in the air and here and there a cluster of scarlet foliage. However, canning factories are operating and loads of corn and tomatoes are passing daily while men and women are hastening to the calls of the factory whistles.

Mrs. Dahl, of Vancouver, spent last week-end with Miss M. Tozer and Gladys. She is now visiting her old home near Brockville after living some four years in the west. Mrs. Dahl relates many incidents of pioneer life in Saskatchewan, but in her opinion, Ontario is the finest province of the Dominion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wood of Oshawa, who have been enjoying a trip to New Brunswick, accompanied by Mrs. Debbie Bedell of Picton, were in Wellington last week and called on Mr. H. B. Anderson. Mrs. Wood (nee Freda Nease of Hillier) is the daughter of the late Lillie Nease, the well-known Canadian poet. Freda agrees with Mrs. Dahl that Ontario is Canada's finest province and that Prince Edward is Ontario's finest county.

Miss S. E. Blakely and Miss Marjorie Blakely spent the week-end guests of Mrs. Leona Whyte at her summer home near Bath. Mrs. Whyte has been entertaining her sons, Arthur of Montreal and Dr. Don Whyte of Ottawa and their families at the cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Vandewater of Belleville, attended the parade and demonstration put on by the Royal Black Knights on Saturday.

Miss Vaunga Brimley and Miss Joan Gair are attending Teachers' College in Peterborough.

Rev. and Mrs. Fowler in all Saints' New Brunswick attending council of the United Church.

Mr. Alex Tait Jr., will leave next week to resume his studies at the Ontario School of Art, Toronto. His many friends wish him continued success in his chosen work.

W.M.S. WELLINGTON

The September meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. Taylor, Hillcrest Road with a fair attendance. The ladies were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Taylor and enjoyed the glowing fire in the fire place.

With the president, Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg in the chair and Mrs. E. Maybee, pianist, the meeting opened with a hymn. After discussions of various items of business, the devotional was taken by Mrs. Fleming, assisted by Mrs. Creek, Mrs. Vandewater and Mrs. Greer. Mrs. Elliott gave an interesting report of the convention in Whitby in August. This report was both interesting and inspiring.

The study book in the hands of Mrs. Taylor proved instructive. Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Lewis were also heard with much interest. A social hour with refreshments completed an afternoon to be long remembered.

Mrs. C. L. McHenry, Wellington, accompanied Mrs. G. C. Elgie and Mrs. A. L. Howard of Toronto on a motor trip to Niagara Falls. They were guests at the Rainbow room, Hotel Sheridon, Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., and in the afternoon motored to Buffalo.

ADJOURN HEARING

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario municipal board Friday adjourned hearing of protests against expropriation by the province of farmlands in the suburban Malvern area for a low-cost housing development. The power of the province to expropriate the land will be challenged in the Supreme Court of Ontario next Thursday by one of the landowners whose 100-acre farm was taken over by the province.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn was hostess to the Women's Association Wednesday. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Ray Stewart. A reading, "His Brother Gave It to Me", was given by Mrs. Thomas H. McKeown, while other readings were given by Mrs. Leonard G. Weikljohn, Mrs. Lily Anderson, Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Fred McKeown. The meeting was brought to a close with prayer by Rev. E. B. Rees. Lunch was served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lily Anderson. A bazaar of homemade articles, suitable for Christmas presents, will be held at this meeting.

The Rylstone W.A. has been invited to attend an afternoon tea given by the Springbrook W.A. on September 24th.

FEELING SLUGGISH due to constipation?
Not me!
I'd never heard of a diuretic when my old Cougar neighbour suggested that was what I needed to get over feeling listless and run-down. But I tried Kruschen on her advice and it's made a new woman of me! Now I realize that a diuretic can be just as important as a laxative in ridding the body of clogging wastes. Kruschen is both a gentle laxative and a diuretic. Actually the salts in Kruschen are similar to those in famous healing Spas and they act in the same way to tone up a sluggish system. Get Kruschen and see how much better you'll feel.

Kakabeka Falls May Be Main Attraction of Provincial Park

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Famed Kakabeka falls, once a dangerous obstacle for voyageurs and coureurs de bois of two centuries ago, may be the main attraction of a provincial park in northwestern Ontario.

The 128-foot cataract on the Kaministiquia river 18 miles west of Fort William marked the last portage on the fur-trading route from western fur-trading posts to the headwaters of Lake Superior.

The trans-Canada highway crosses the river only a few hundred feet above the lip of the falls.

The park is one of the first projects to be undertaken by Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram following his appointment to the Ontario provincial cabinet this summer. He ordered a survey to be taken of the district and once plans are sufficiently advanced his department likely will engage to study the area and develop a comprehensive plan.

FINE SPECTACLE

"Kakabeka falls is one of the truly remarkable creations of nature and deserves development on a scale befitting its majestic size," said Mr. Mapledoram.

The falls, 600 feet wide, are not as high as Niagara by 32 feet. They are best seen during May and June at the peak of the spring run-off in the Shebandowan forest. From the falls, the Kaministiquia river swirls through a gorge to broaden out at Fort William where its mouth is lined with grain elevators and factories.

Kakabeka falls and the Kaministiquia—Lakehead residents shorten the tongue-twister to Kam—are colorful in history and legend.

Kakabeka is a corruption of the Indian word Kakapikauk or "high falls." Kaministiquia means "river of short bends and many islands."

The voyageur Jacques de Noon who travelled upriver in 1688 is the first recorded person to see the falls. The explorer La Verendrye spent the winter of 1731-32 at the mouth of the river.

TWO ROUTES

The Kam was one of two routes from Lake Superior to Lake of the Woods; the Pigeon and Rainy river route was apparently the more travelled. In 1789 Roderick McKenzie re-opened the Kam route and it was used extensively as part of the trans-Canada canoe route until 1850.

In 1890, the Kakabeka Falls Land and Electric Co., which owned a mining claim in the area, laid out land along the east-shore of the river as a new city with residential and industrial zones. But the proposed city failed to materialize. Today, approximately 300 persons live at Kakabeka falls.

The falls today generate 32,500 horsepower of electricity for Fort William and Port Arthur. Power experts estimate the falls could provide as high as 250,000 horsepower.

Old-timers still relate the Indian legend of the falls. An Indian tyrant, Chief Ogama Dog, attacked the head village of Ogama Eagle, chief of a peace-loving tribe near Nipigon. Old men, women and children were burned in their tepees or thrown into pits of huge man-eating snakes.

BEAUTIFUL HOSTAGE

Ogama Eagle escaped with a few braves, but his beautiful daughter, Princess Green Mantle, was captured. After many days of threshed torture, Green Mantle finally agreed to take Ogama Dog to her father's hideout.

The chief and his braves set out on the Shebandowan river with Green Mantle in the lead canoe. Entering the Kaministiquia the jubilant Ogama Dog and his warriors failed to notice the roughening waters and passed the usual portaging point.

One by one, the canoes, along with Green Mantle, were swept over the fall and the Indians were dashed to death on the jagged rocks below.

Legend believers still stand quietly at the gorge to hear the cries of Ogama Dog's doomed braves. And if conditions are just right they can see the spirit of the princess rise in the mists that swirl about the cataract.

OSHAWA HERE TOMORROW!

Weather permitting and the gods that rule over atmospheric conditions appear to be in a generous mood, the Belleville Bntas will clash with their Oshawa Transporter rivals tomorrow night at the Exhibition Park in the first of a best-of-three series for the Eastern Ontario senior baseball title. The winners of this series battle with the Western Ontario champs for the OBA championship.

Manager Jack Carsen and Coach Vern Goyer have their sights set on the title and they intend making the going as tough as possible for the Oshawa Viaduct Ontario League champions and are fit and rarin' to go. The second game is scheduled for Oshawa on Tuesday night with the third, if necessary, to be played here next Saturday.

Meanwhile the Oakville Oaks are playing Petrolia with the winner meeting the Niagara Falls District League champions for the Western Ontario title.

SOFTBALL

Along the softball rialtos Bob Temple's fighting Bobcats came through with a sparkling victory over the Kingston Alcans to sweep their OASA intermediate "A" first round playdown series straight. The Cats are proving themselves a "chips-down" club and are coming up with a fine brand of the pastime.

Frankford, too, swept aside their fourth barrier to the OASA intermediate "B" championship here on Saturday, defeating the Kingston Army club to take the best of three playdown two games to one. The Frankford squad now enters the quarter-finals. This club, too, has produced outstanding efforts winning eight of their nine games since entering the tough playdown trail.

BUT HE DID IT!

If you had your television set pointed towards the Hollywood Bowl and Eddie Fisher last night, you heard a behind the headlines story of the Marciano-Charles fight. The world's champion, his back in a bustle, was almost forgotten by the sweet-piped master-of-ceremonies, and asked jocularly, "what has a guy got to do to be remembered."

However, Mr. Weill, Marciano's manager, and "moiderer" of the Queen's English, was brought before the cameras and was asked "how about that fight."

"Well, Eddie," Mr. Weill said, fully cognizant of the fact that some forty million or more ears and eyes were upon him, "it was like this... At the end of the seventh when I saw Rocky's nose bleeding, I told him, 'This is it, Rocky, you git him this round, or I'll have to take you out.' The bleeding was terrific. But you know what my boy did". And the gleaming countenance of the wily Weill nearly blotted out the klieg lights.

THIS COULD BE IT!

Tonight the lights will be lowered in Flatbush. Tonight a solemn hush will fall over the blatroe and taverns. Loyal Brooklynites will sip their suds in silence, clinging to a hope that is slimmer than a spider's web strand spilt three ways. Their valiant "Bums" have their backs so deep into the well-known wall, you would think they have been roundtrailing. For they needs must win the rest of their games, some seven all told, or sink into baseball oblivion for 1954.

But not winning the National League bunting is but part of the woes of the Flatbush fusiliers. The knife that is turning in the wound is the fact that headed for the flag and the "world serious" is the hated arch-enemy from the shadow of Coogan's Bluffs across the river. Any other team but the despised "Gints" and the "Bums" faithful would have supported them against the American League opposition. Ah, but Brooklyn blood is thick. It's memories are indelibly printed on the minds of the "boigbers." They are praying for a "miracle" for needs of such a thing will rescue their beloved "Buma" from the second-place quagmire into which they have fallen.

Tonight tells the tale. The Brooks face the Giants in a death-or-glory series, and a loss tonight will close the door of the National League; limit the dying hopes of Flatbush and raise the new famous death cry, "Wait Till Next Year."

Meanwhile on the other side of the picture, a jubilant Tribe nailed its third flag in 54 years. The Cleveland Indians tucked it away on Saturday night with a win over Detroit and on Sunday repeated to notch their 100th league victory, two out the record. The Tribe went wild. They war-danced. They clobbered Early Wynn, victorious pitcher, and they dunked Manager Al Lopez' noggin' under buckets of fizzy firewater. "We're in," they murmured gleefully.

But wily "Ols Case" Stengel had the last word. Not to be outdone in sportsmanship, "Casey" wired Lopez, congratulating him on his fine leadership" and get this—"stand against such splendid New York Yankees' opposition." How about that!

FIGHT PICTURES AT McCARTHY'

You heard it—read about it—now you can see it. The now famous world heavyweight championship fight between Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles will be shown on motion picture film at the McCarthy Theatre for three days starting this Monday. All the color, drama and famous people usually connected with such sports events will be seen, as well the lethal fists of the champion dealing the knockout blow to the challenger. Remember, the picture starts today at the McCarthy. Fight fans should not miss it.

Streak to 10th Victory in Row With 4-2 Defeat of Detroit; Giants Almost in; Braves Out

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

This can become the gloomiest Monday night in Brooklyn's long baseball history.

For tonight the Dodgers' two-year reign as National League champions can come to an end. And barring a major miracle, the new champions will be Brooklyn's most hated rival, the New York Giants. Milwaukee was eliminated Sunday, losing 7-5 to the St. Louis Cardinals.

To make matters even worse, the Dodgers' burial can take place right in their own back yard, Ebbets Field, with Sal Maglie, an old Dodger killer, acting as chief executioner. Southpaw Johnny Podres will oppose him.

TWO IS MAGICAL

The Giants' magic number is two. One New York victory and one Brooklyn defeat will do it. Thus a Giant triumph at Ebbets' Field would officially stamp them as world series rivals for Sunday, Ireland's newly crowned American League champions. Rain caused the postponement of Sunday's Giant-Philadelphia Phillies game at the Polo Grounds.

It was the last place Pirates who set the Dodgers up for the kayoing. Until recently the Dodgers' best friends, the pernicious Pirates mauled the Flatbush Sunday, inflicting a 1-0 defeat to drop them 3½ games back. Then Don Newcombe, the postponement of Sunday's Giant-Philadelphia Phillies game at the Polo Grounds.

It was the last place Pirates who set the Dodgers up for the kayoing. Until recently the Dodgers' best friends, the pernicious Pirates mauled the Flatbush Sunday, inflicting a 1-0 defeat to drop them 3½ games back. Then Don Newcombe, acting as relief pitcher for the Giants, scored the only run the Giants have left to the Giants' scene. He must win all, while New York must lose all, to retain their title.

It was the Pittsburgh fourth straight victory over the Dodgers in the series this season. And to that, the Pirates had played dead for Brooklyn losing 12 of the first 13 games this season and 20 of 22 last year.

REST FRIEND

Victim of Bob Friend's six-hit shutout was Duke Snyder, whose five-hitter went to waste. An error by the usually reliable Pee Wee Reese in right in the fourth paved the way for the lone run. Preston Ward singled to right in the fourth inning and raced all the way to third when the ball rolled through Reese's legs. Ward scored on Frank Thomas' long fly to center.

The Cardinals overcame a 6-0 deficit to drop the third place Braves eight games off the pace Braves seven left to play. Harvey Haddix, fifth Card pitcher, was credited with his fifth triumph when Stan Musial doubled in the ninth, was sacrificed to third and scored on Bill Sterl's fly. The Cards pulled even in the eighth after two homers by Eddie Mathews (No. 38 and 39) and helped the Braves build up a 6-0 lead inside four innings.

A sacrifice fly enabled the Cincinnati Reds to nip the Chicago Cubs 7-6 in 10 innings. In the tenth Roy McMillan's long fly drove Nine Escalera home from third.

INDIANS TAKE PENNANT

The Indians, refusing to let up, streaked to their 10th straight victory, defeating the Detroit Tigers 4-2 on Hank Majeski's three-run homer in the fifth inning. Mike Garcia registered his 19th triumph, and the club's 108th of the season, only two short of the American League record of 110 set by the 1927 New York Yankees.

Scoring all their runs in the eighth, the Yankees came from behind to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics 4-2 for their 109th victory. It was the most the Yankees have won in any of the six years under the direction of Casey Stengel. Gil McDougald's three-run homer was the big blow.

The Boston Red Sox moved past Detroit into fourth place, whipping Washington 8-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Ike Delock.

Gil Coan drove in two runs with two hits to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-1 victory over Chicago's White Sox. Duane Pillette and Bob Chakales combined to limit the White Sox to three hits.

Petes Triumph Over Shamrocks To Even Series

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Trailermen took practically the whole of the first quarter to find the scoring range in the second game of the Canadian senior lacrosse final Saturday, but once they began connecting there was no stopping them.

The eastern champions didn't get their first goal until the final minute of the first session for the start. of a scoring assault that didn't end until they had emerged with a 11-4 victory over Victoria Shamrocks. They pumped in six goals in the second quarter without a reply and added another in the third before Victoria finally managed another goal.

In all, counting their first-period scarcher, the Trailermen scored eight straight goals before an answering tally by the Shamrocks.

TIED SERIES

The victory, coming on top of Victoria's opening game 8-4 triumph Friday night, tied the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior lacrosse title at a game apiece. The third encounter will be played tonight.

The Trailermen seeking to make senior lacrosse history by winning the Mann Cup for the fourth successive year, were behind 5-0 at standout in the Peterborough net. He had good support up front and on defence but after a shaky start was near unbeatable.

Leafs Defeat Chiefs 10-7 To Square Series

By The Associated Press

The first round of the International League playoffs was just as close as possible today with Toronto and Syracuse all square after four games and Montreal and Rochester too the same position in their best-of-seven series.

Home runs by Sam Jethroe and Elston Howard gave Toronto Maple Leafs a hard-earned 10-7 victory over Syracuse Chiefs Sunday as Ray Shore hurled two scoreless innings for his first playoff victory.

Tommy Burgess' home run and bases-loaded single gave the Red Wings a 5-4 victory over the Royals.

The Chiefs rallied for five runs to tie the score at 7-7 in the seventh inning but Shore pulled out of a bases-loaded jam.

LED OFF WITH HOMER

Jethroe led off the eighth with a home run that defeated the Chiefs' ace reliefer, Lynn Lovegnth, and Howard hit his 34 in the ninth.

Ed Mierkowicz got four of the Chiefs' hits, including a pair of doubles and a three-run homer, while Johnson had a two-run homer.

Burgess' three runs batted in helped defeat Montreal lefty Ken Lehman for the second time in the series. His bases-loaded single in the first and his bases - empty homer in the fourth featured a seven-hit Rochester attack.

Jack Fanshoki was relieved in the ninth with one out and two on by Tony Jacobs, who allowed the Royals only one run. Fanshoki gained credit for his second playoff victory over the Royals.

Handful of Fans Sees Last Game In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A handful of faithful supporters sat dejectedly here and there in Connie Mack Stadium Sunday to witness what may have been the last American League game in Philadelphia.

New York Yankees, the only team in the league who have won more pennantf (20) than the Athletics (nine), blanked the A's 4-2.

The announced attendance was 1,281, bringing the unofficial total season attendance to 305,362, far below the 600,000 the Mack family said it would need to break even this year and stay as owners of the franchise. One prospective buyer wants to move the team to Kansas City.

Lowly Lions Snap Loss Streak; Ti-Cats Edge Als; Argos Rout Riders

Defeat Calgary Stamps 9-4; Hamilton Nudges Montreal 7-6 As Toronto Scores 34-6 Win

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The law of averages caught up with a few senior Canadian football clubs in one explosive weekend burst, pointing up to observers that there isn't a sure thing in the game. Look what happened:

The fledgling British Columbia Lions, made up of a bunch of inexperienced hopefuls and a few established old pros, sent 18,786 fans nuts at Vancouver by snapping a six-game Western Interprovincial Union losing streak. They did it in the mud with a somewhat screwy 9-4 decision over the favored Calgary Stampeders.

At Hamilton the once-beaten Tiger-Cats stopped licking their wounds from three losses in four starts—two of them to Montreal Alouettes—and cut the Als' four-game winning streak with a tight 7-6 victory. All were favored to take this one, of course, and tied a modern club Four record established by Tiger-Cats in 1951—five straight victories.

ARGOS ALSO WIN

To make things just a little goofier for the experts, Toronto Argonauts unleashed the greatest offensive of the Big Four season to plaster the spiffy Ottawa Rough Riders 34-6 at Ottawa. And everybody had counted on Argonauts to was as powerful as a defused bomb and that they had little defence against the split-T.

At Regina, the apparently beaten Winnipeg Blue Bombers rallied in the front - running Saskatchewan Roughriders 10 points and then took advantage of a fumble by the dying minutes to gain a 16-10 tie. That left Riders still in front in the WIFU with 12 points, two up on the Bombers and four ahead of the Edmonton Eskimos.

A home-and-home senior Ontario Rugby Football Union double-header between the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Toronto Balmy Beach Beachers left both weekend action. Dutchmen came home behind in both to win 23-9 and 19-17 and take over the league lead from the idle Sarnia Imperials.

CATS SURPRISE

Hardly anyone expected Montreal to fold in Tiger Town. The league - leading Als had hardly worked up a sweat in beating the defending Grey Cup champions 26-6 and 21-6 earlier this season and Saturday's session at Hamilton was expected to be another two-point affair and a safe lead over the runner-up Argonauts.

But the Tiger - Cats, smarting under a public tongue-lashing from coach Carl Voyles during the week, held the Als to a 37-yard first-quarter field goal by Ray Poole, placekicking specialist from New York Giants, and then went ahead with a touchdown by Bernie Custis, nimble-footed back from Syracuse, and a convert by homebred Ted Gaan.

Poole kicked another field goal before the half to tie the score and Cam Fraser, 23-year-old product of Hamilton,- broke up the game in the last quarter with a single.

"The Lions roar in '54" is the slogan adopted by British Columbia Lions, admitted to the WIFU this season, and coach Annis Stukus' men produced nothing more than a yelp—until Saturday night. It was a weird setting and Lions accepted a helping hand from Old Man Weather in the final minute to wrap up their initial victory.

HELD LEAD

They led 3-0 on a first-quarter field goal by Al Pollard and held their margin until the final quarter when a single on a field goal by Tom Miner put the Stamps ahead 4-3. Then things started to happen.

With time running out, the Lions got to the Calgary one-yard line. Byron Bailey recovered a fumble by Gene Robillard in the Lions' backfield, was hit at the line of scrimmage and Bailey, tackler and Ball slid over in the goo for a touchdown—and the triumph.

Afterwards, Stukus said second-string against Ottawa's split-T formation a week ago, couldn't do much wrong this time out. Interceptied seven passes—three of them repulling it for Toronto scoring—and held the Rider ground attack to 104 yards. The only time Ottawa found a hole in the Toronto pass defence was in the third quarter when Bobby Simpson took a 31-yard touchdown pass from quarter John Gramlin.

North Bicker led Toronto's assault with 13 points on a touchdown, five converts and a field goal. Dick Shatto went over for two majors, Bill McFarlane and Gene Wilson for one each. Alex Denton kicked a single to round out

Letter to Sports Editor

Thank You Sir!

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Oshawa Woodview Park Kiwanis Bantam Softball team, Oshawa, I am taking this opportunity to express to you and the people of Belleville, that while your Belleville bantam boys recently lost out to our team, the good sportsmanship exemplified by your bantam boys club was such that they were a credit to your fair city.

Our manager Mr. Norman Roddy and myself have only the highest praise for the excellent sportsmanship and good fellowship exemplified by your coach Mr. Ray Reid of the Ballhurst fire station.

In the three game series just concluded Ray Reid proved to be the finest gentleman it has been our privilege to meet in competition.

We are especially grateful to Mr. Reid and other members of the Motra Street Fire Hall who will visit our visit to Belleville they went all out in a spirit of good fellowship by welcoming our team to the station immediately following the game, where they had prepared for the boys a light luncheon and cold drinks which were enjoyed by everyone and appreciated more universally.

You may assure the citizens of your fair city that we have a warm spot in our heart for Ray Reid and his boys and while they may have lost the series to our team, in effect they were the winners, because they created a warm friendship between two fine teams of 12 year old boys which will go a long way toward making these lads better citizens of our country and cities in the years to come. A worthy objective if ever there was one.

Our hats are off to coach Ray Reid and his bantam boys softball team for this sportsmanship throughout the entire series and it is our sincere wish that Belleville teams of the future will have the good fortune to be guided by as all round good sport both in victory or defeat as exemplified by Ray Reid.

Yours very truly,

A. E. Sailer,
Coach Oshawa Woodview Park Bantam Boys Softball Team.

Top American Grid Teams Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma, Maryland, Texas and Georgia Tech —four of the teams that should be up among the U.S. college leaders when all the returns are in — opened their football seasons Saturday with crushing victories.

Held to a 7-6 margin during the first half, Oklahoma erupted for three touchdowns in the second half to whip California 27-13 in the first of the NCAA nationally televised weekly games.

Maryland dropped Kentucky 30-0 and routed LSU 20-6 and Georgia Tech shut out Tulane 28-0.

The national schedule was rather slim and there was only one upset of any consequence. That took place when Oklahoma A and M defeated Wyoming 14-6.

Dutchies Whip Beaches Twice; Take Over Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen climbed atop the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union standings during the weekend with two comeback victories over the winless Toronto Balmy Beach.

Saturday they wiped out a 7-6 third quarter deficit with three touchdowns and a convert to dump the Beaches 23-9 and tie with Sarnia Imperials for the three-team league leadership.

Sunday the Dutchmen surged for two converted last quarter majors to edge Toronto 19-17 and take over the top spot for themselves.

CELERI TOPS

On both occasions it was the pitching arm of quarterback Bob Celeri that bailed out the Kitchener club. Celeri's passing accounted for five of the seven Dutchmen touchdowns.

Saturday he threw to end Gerry Mactaggert in the end zone for a second-quarter score and tossed a 15-yard pass to Dutch Holland in the final quarter to set up Ralph Wynn's 2-yard plunge for the winning line.

Mactaggert ran 17 yards and Hunter 30 yards for the other two Kitchener touchdowns and Paul Kelsey added a convert and a single point.

The Beachers, who tied the game 6-6 in the second quarter on Harvey Singleton's touchdown and Jack Kennedy's convert, fell behind 7-6 lead when Bud Obal scored a single point on a rouge in the third quarter. Jerry Tooke's field goal in the final period and were held to a single point by Earl Tooke's conceded safety touch.

BEACHE LED

Sunday it was Toronto all the way for the first three quarters. They grabbed a 12-0 first-quarter lead on Tooke's touchdown pass on a quarter sneak, halfback Bob Kemp's touchdown run and Tooke Kelvey's convert and a single by Obal.

The Dutchmen got a single point in the second quarter on a Celeri kick from the deadline.

Drake made it 17-1 for Beaches on another quarterback sneak before Celeri hit Ralph Wynn and Tooke to start the Kitchener comeback.

In the final period Celeri threw 15 yards to Mactaggert for a touchdown and then tossed a 20-yard strike to end Ed Siemon for a second score. Amodio converted all three majors.

SPORT IN BRIEF

MISS ROMACK WINS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barbara Romack won the first two-day match in the history of championship golf Sunday and took the 54th women's national Amateur title with a 4 and 3 victory over struggling Mickey Wright of La Jolla, Calif.

Miss Romack, a petite blonde insurance salesman from Sacramento, Calif., got off to a fast start Saturday, when lightning and rain limited them to 18 holes instead of the scheduled 36. She started to make it a runaway under Sunday's bright sun, but barely lasted to win out on the 34th.

It was the first such divided match in the tournament conducted by the United States Golf Association.

'We're In,' Chant Victorious Indians Pour Champagne on Manager's Head

By JIM SMALLEGAN

DETROIT (AP)—A single, silent figure sat in Cleveland Indians' locker room Saturday, his head buried in his hands.

It didn't look like pennant-clinching day for Early Wynn, veteran righthander of the Indians. It wasn't—at first moment.

Wynn just had been removed from the mound as Detroit Tigers made a bid to tie the score in the seventh inning. Wynn had wasted the distinction of pitching the game which sealed the doom of Cleveland's long-time tormentors, New York Yankees.

But his gloom was turned to joy about an hour later when his teammates stormed into the dressing room, shouting wildly and screaming: "We're in! We're in!"

The players jammed around Wynn, who threw his arms around his teammates.

Then they all turned to their manager—Al Lopez—while a battery of cameramen and newsreel photographers clicked away.

Two players held Lopez while the others poured champagne over his head.

"It was a great team effort," was Lopez' lone immediate comment. He mostly grinned.

First baseman Vic Wertz sauntered into the melee, doffed his hat and bowed. Written across his shining, bald head were those two big words: "We're in."

The celebration was particularly pleasing to Dale Mitchell, the veteran who had contributed little to Cleveland's pennant drive. The 32-year-old outfielder still was beaming about his two-run homer in the seventh.

"It was my first of the year," he enthused. "Man, what a time to hit it."

Indians' Scout Impressed by Giants, But Tribe Pitching Will Win Series

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The man from Cleveland who has been following the Giants around for some time looking for clues about the results of the world series admitted he was more impressed by Leo Durocher's club after he had expected to be. The slick fielding of the National Leaguers had especially struck him.

"If it wasn't for the Indians' pitching staff," he said, "I'd almost have to pick this team to beat us. But we do have the pitching and that's what decides world series."

Were not the new American League champions a vastly improved club over the one that finished second last year?

"I wouldn't say they're any better except in some personal pitching strength and a better bench" was the reply. The main thing is that the rest of the American League went back a long ways from the Yankees. We've had the pitching and nobody else did.

"If I was asked up the Indians and Giants man for man I'd have to say the Giants are two of the best outfield positions with left field a tossup. I'd give them first base and I'd have to take Bobby Avila and Al Rosen at second and third because of their hitting but they're good at field with Davy Williams and Thompson. Neither club has a hitting catcher.

"The Giants have a lot more speed. I've been watching Willie Mays make basket catches and Larry Doby wouldn't have reached a catcher's throw. Westrum is the only slow man on the Giants."

"Cleveland is a better club because of the second line pitching behind Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn. And Kid Ray Narleski has been a big help. So has Hal Newhouser in relief and Art Houtteman as a starter."

If manager Al Lopez will have no primary pitching worry except to point toward one of his big three what of Durocher's problem?

"Leo will . . . have to decide whether to lead with Sal Maglie and hope to get him back for another start in a long series or throw Antonelli at us the first day and hope to get the kid back twice more if it goes seven games."

Yankees Take 'Bad News' In Their Stride

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — New York Yankees heard the story of their expulsion from the American League throne with diffidence Saturday night.

Most of the players, warming up for a night game with Philadelphia Athletics, merely nodded at the expected news of Cleveland's clinching 3-2 victory over Detroit. Pitcher Ed Lopat grinned and cracked:

"It comes as no surprise."

Manager Casey Stengel then sent a wire to Al Lopez, Tribe leader, and the Yankee players forwarded one to the Indians.

Stengel said:

"Congratulations on your great management and leading of your players' determined drive for the 1954 American League pennant against such splendid New York Yankee opposition. Success to you, your coaches and the Cleveland ballplayers in your bid for the world championship."

Cockell Offered $50,000 For Charles Fight

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sam Becker Cincinnati fight promoter, Saturday night offered the services of Don Cockells, heavyweight champion of Europe, Africa and parts of fee of $50,000 for a 15-round fight here Dec. 22 with Ezzard Charles.

Charles, who was knocked out in the eighth round Friday night in a title fight with Rocky Marciano in New York, is willing to meet Cockells here, Becker said. He was offered by Tom Tanis and Jake Mintz, co-managers of Cockells, Saturday night.

Charles said Sunday he did not intend to quit the ring because Rocky floored him and still looked for another chance at the champion.

Batas, Oshawa Play Tuesday

There has been a change in the date for the senior game of the two-of-three baseball series between the Batas and the Oshawa Transporters, Manager Carson Sadler said today.

It has been reported that the game would be Monday but this is not the case, he said. The first game rose on tomatoes at the Oshawa Athletic Park, the second game in Oshawa on Tuesday and the third game, if necessary here's next Saturday.

DEFENDS LIFTON TROPHY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gale IV, owned by Joseph Schoenith of Detroit, was declared winner of the gale race distance, averaging 91-877 miles an hour. This bettered the $1,070 set by Slo-Mo-Shun V last year.

Indians End 3 'Frustration' Years With Third Pennant in 54 Seasons

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Cleveland Indians ended three long years of bitter second-place frustration Saturday when they clinched the American League championship with their 107th victory, a 3-2 decision over Detroit Tigers.

The Indians, in winning their third pennant in 54 years, brought to a decisive end the five-year rule of the New York Yankees.

The Indians sewed up the championship with a three-run rally in the seventh inning against Steve Gromek, Tiger veteran righthander who had been nursing a 1-0 lead.

After Dave Philley walked with one out, Dave Pope and Dale Mitchell, a bench-rider all season, was sent in to hit for George Strickland. RAIN GETS WORSE

The tempo of the rain, which had been falling most of the game, increased in the darkened stadium as the umpires left for a hurried huddle, decided to continue.

Mitchell took one ball, then lashed the next one high into the upper right field deck and scored behind Philley. It was his first homer of the season.

Hardly had the Cleveland bench gulled when Jim Regan, a dour figure in Cleveland's pennant surge followed with a home run into the left field seats. The ball was barely fair as it sailed over the 340-foot market. It was his first.

Making one final flurry in their half of the seventh, the Tigers scored once when Early Wynn walked Jim Delsing with two out and the bases loaded. Rookie Ray Narleski replaced Wynn and saved the game by getting the services of Don Lund, pinch-hitting for Gromek, and Ray Boone on a grounder to third.

Wynn received credit for his 22nd victory against 11 losses.

The final out, a half dozen or so players walked out to greet Narleski as the loud speaker from the scoreboard blared: "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Cleveland Indians, by winning today's game, have clinched the American League pennant. The Tribe's pennant winning was also the success in the coming world series."

COACH DIES

CHATHAM (CP)—John Stanley (Bud) Morrison, well-known baseball coach in southwestern Ontario, died Sunday after a heart attack during a baseball game in Dresden. He was about 45.

Freak Boxer Wins World Bantam Crown

BANGKOK (AP)—France's Robert Cohen, despite a sprained right hand, punched his way Sunday night to a 15-round split decision for the world's bantamweight title against Thailand's Chamrern Songkitrat, who took nine rounds with a broken nose.

Although all three ring officials marked it close, they gave the 24-to-1 nod to Cohen, European champion, at the end of a bloody opera-sir 15-rounder witnessed by 60,000 fans in Lumbini Park's King Phumiphot and Queen Sirikit.

Quebec Swimmer 'Does' 21 Miles In St. Lawrence

QUEBEC (CP)—Jacques Amyot, a husky 20-year-old Quebec swimmer, successfully fought the cold waters of St. Lawrence river Sunday and swam 21 miles up-river from the famed Ste. Anne de Beaupre shrine to Quebec City in seven hours and one minute. The gamy lad—the longest ever attempted in Quebec—started collected $800 and captured the hearts of more than 5,000 who disregarded a heavy downpour to cheer him on.

He entered the river at 6.15 a.m., EDT and climbed onto a yacht at Quebec at 1.16 p.m.

Two other swimmers, Jacques Lemelin, 18, and Raymond Rondeau, 17, of Rimouski, Que., entered the waters of the river, but quit halfway.

STANKY WILL STAY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — August A. Busch Jr., president of St. Louis Cardinals, said Saturday night Eddie Stanky will manage the team again next year, putting an end to speculation that Stanky might not be around for the 1955 season.

"WHY I Buy My Insurance From An Agent . . . !"
"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the bee, there's a good possibility that my lack of training, knowledge, and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?" So says an insurance buyer.
Yes "It's wise to buy your honey from the man who knows the bees — and even wiser to buy your insurance from the man who knows the business."

Angels Backstage Props Of Great White Way's Excitement

NEW YORK (AP)—Two kinds of thrill seekers crowd Broadway—folks out for a good time and accident gold hunters.

The latter are the backers—politely called investors, fondly known as angels—and as things sometimes work out, but unhappy suckers. Comparatively few in numbers, the backers of Lady Luck are the backstage props of the great White Way's excitement.

They put up the hard cash that enabled Broadway to have its dramas, spectacles, musicals and comedies. They don't want thanks; they hope for profits—in big, golden bundles. For aside from uranium mines or oil wells, there's no business like show business to dig for making a quick fortune. It's a question of which one is the riskiest.

Angels traditionally prospect alone, though once in a while there are partnerships.

5,000 FORTUNE SEEKERS

Right now 4,000 seekers of Broadway fortune are trying out a new way to the jackpot. They live everywhere from Shubert Alley to Alaska, from Paris to Venezuela. They call themselves Broadway Angels, Inc.

They are trying to apply Wall street's mutual investment fund idea to show business—taking small sums from a lot of people, then spreading the total capital along different investment baskets, so that not all the eggs get broken if one basket smashes.

Founder of the outfit is Wallace Garland, 33-year-old Yale graduate who previously developed a traffic signal company into big business. A financier and promoter, he got interested in show business five years ago.

"This is the first time corporation business principles have been applied to the entertainment field," says Garland.

With approximately $300,000—gathered at half a buck a share—Broadway Angels thus far has invested about half that amount in such shows as "Sabrina Fair," "Tea and Sympathy," "Oodine," "King of Hearts," and others.

Garland admits that not every investment has turned out well, and adds there will be no dividends until the operation is firmly squared away.

FLOWERS TO SAIL

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Eccles of Brampton, Ont., and Bob Timbers of Stafville, Ont., will sail Tuesday from Montreal to represent Canada at the second annual world bowling match near Killarney, Ireland, Oct. 8-9.

Of the 36 tables, six reached a small slam of six spades. Two of them made it and the other four went down one. Six probed for slam and stopped at five spades. They made it, one with an extra trick.

There were 20 that bid four spades and made no attempt to get beyond. Seven of these took 12 tricks and the other 13 came through with 11. They should not be expected to do so.

Using a convention that shows aces first and king next, where would they land? They would be in six before they learned that an ace and king was in opponent's hands. They could not back up.

Using our convention, in answer to four no-trump a bid of five hearts shows one ace and one king. West could bid that opponents have an ace and a king in time to stop at five spades, if desired.

Where two of the tables reached a bid of six spades, south opponents decided to sacrifice with seven clubs. Both were doubled and went down six tricks for a minus of 1100 points.

At one table there was a double of six clubs that went down five. At another table, there was a double of five clubs that took a sacrifice of 500 points when defeated three tricks.

East-west were vulnerable and north-south were not. So, the sacrifice of five clubs was a save. The six and seven club losses would be a save only if a small slam in spades were bid and made.

The opening lead of a diamond will defeat six spades. Any other opening lead gives west the timing he needs. By licensing hearts he has time to sluff a diamond on a good heart.

A sacrifice loss is often a toss.

Bobcats Edge Kingston 5-4 To Sweep Series

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

Overcoming a 4-1 deficit in the last two innings, the Belleville Bobcats squeezed out a 5-4 decision over the Kingston Frontenacs at the C.N.R. Park on Saturday afternoon to sweep their best-of-three O.A.S.A. Intermediate "AA" series in two straight games. They will now meet the Peterborough team later this week in the second round.

The victory appeared to be well on the way to tying the series on Saturday with two runs in the fourth and another pair in the eighth giving them a 4-1 lead. The Bobcats had notched their only marker in the fourth until they exploded for a trio in the bottom of the eighth to knot the score a 4-4.

Pinch-hitting Doug Thompson opened the winning rally in the ninth when he drew a walk bu Young popped up in an attempt to sacrifice. Bob Hatfield followed with a single to right-centre and Dick Fitzpatrick's bullet drive off the shortstop's glove filled the sacks. Ken Tweddle stepped in and lined a hard single into left-field, plating Thompson with the winning tally to close out the ball battle with a victory.

Buck Young buried the complete game for the winners; allowing seven hits while setting six down on strikes and walking three. A pair of double-plays aided Young's cause and saved at least one sure run.

Rudy Ruthowski twillered the distance for the Aircars and was pounded for 12 safe blows, with only one going for extra bases. He fanned six and walked only two.

Young ran into trouble in the fourth, after giving up only a walk in the first three frames, when Mills walked and Murray singled with none out. Pat Orr singled through the centre with the lead-runner scoring and Murray taking third. Ruthowski then drove one into right field that Nolan picked off and the relay threw, righ field to shortstop to catcher, nailed Murray at the plate in a lovely double play. Buck made it 2-0 with his double to left but that was all.

A two base error, stolen base and Duesbury's single plated Fitzpatrick for Belleville's third in fourth. The losers third and fourth markers came on a walk, sacrifice and two glaring errors but Temple's gang came up with their trio in the eighth and a 4-3 score. Fitzpatrick's double, a two-base error, a walk and singles by Yank McBride and Ed Temple netted the runs and set up the mixup.

Dick Fitzpatrick paced the local attack with a double and two singles while Jim Duesbury, Bob Hatfield, Bob Temple and Yank McBride each had a brace of singles. Rusty Logue claimed the other single, Harold Buck was top man in defeat with a double and two singles while Mills doubled. Melling, Orr and Murray also hit safely.

The line-ups:

Kingston—Salsbury 2b, Mills ss, Murray 3b, Orr cf, Ruthowski p, Buck lb, Melling c, Alarie lf, Moultey rf.

Belleville—Hatfield ss, Fitzpatrick 3b, Duesbury 2b, McBride lf, Temple c, Donovan cf, Nolan rf, Whalen rf, Logue lb, Thompson batted for Logue in ninth, Young p.

| LINE SCORE | R. H. E. |
|---|---|
| Kingston 000 200 020— 4 7 5 | |
| Belleville 000 100 031— 5 12 2 | |

The umpires are Mike Whalen (P) and Lum Carson (B) both of Belleville. Time 1.16.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 21, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You may find this an exciting day, with advancement difficult but, if you are willing to exert yourself more and be careful to handle important tasks first, you can have satisfactory returns.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus and some other planets' aspects now stress a need for fortitude, patience and ingenuity. But if you do use these traits, you can have pleasant surprising results.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Some favorable rays from the Sun should stimulate you to better thinking, productive doing. Facts, not fancies, will help you to solve problems and proceed in the right direction.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Opportunities often come in the guise of difficult tasks and situations and it is only when we work patiently and conscientiously that we find them. Work with faith today.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Be bold if championing good causes, aiding mankind to better his status. Each of us has his own responsibility; let us not fail.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Make your point but do not force it. Your natural kindness and willingness to aid others will be valuable now, especially if conditions, situations and duties are confusing, difficult.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You can give the most difficult situation a by-you treatment and, lo, and behold! you have willing co-operation, eager hands to help you along. Every day has fertile fields for those who try.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—The sort of day you love puzzle-solvers should enjoy. You must observe well and heed good counsel yet do your own biz thinking and self-doing by yourself. Hard work, "tough" tasks ahead.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—You can benefit by following the advice of Scorpio and Gemini now. The day has promise for the worthy and energetic but cautions against extremes and impatience with slow-moving projects.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Industriousness and understanding are your long suits and they can be of great aid in this mixed and, at times, uncertain period. Be cheerful, co-operative and seek God's help if troubled.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—In dealing with others be brief when and where you should —but not brusque. Attend to most important tasks first, then time and problems will move quickly, pleasantly.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Advice to Aquarius helpful to you now. Difficult work, sound business generally favored but forethought is necessary — also faith in your own ability and in God's help.

YOU BORN TODAY are thoughtful, conservative and meticulous. You may seem exacting with those who are careless and thoughtless but you really mean only to help. You have the talents and ability to succeed at a profession, trade or in a religious life. Many noted actors, public speakers and clergy were born in your sector. If true to the better you, you have consideration for those less privileged, are charitable, just, honorable. Retain a natural tendency to gamble, perhaps live beyond your means.

Birthdate: Girolamo Savonarola, Ital. monk, martyr; H. G. Wells, English author; Henry L. Stimson, U. S. Statesman.

Traffic Mishaps Claim Ten Lives Over Week-End

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway accidents accounted for ten more lives over the week-end in eastern Canada during the weekend.

Ten persons were killed in traffic mishaps. One person was drowned, a man shot himself to death after flying at a neighbor, another died from loss of blood when injured by an electrical burn and a man died suddenly of undetermined causes in a Jail kitchen.

There were seven fatalities in Ontario, three each in Quebec and New Scotia and one in New Brunswick, a Canadian Press survey showed. The accidental death was reported in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

CAR HITS TREE

The following were killed on Ontario highways:

Shirley Jackson, 18, when the car in which she was riding struck a tree near her home at Grimsby. 12 miles west of Hamilton; Mrs. Lois Hanley, 60, in a two - car collision on highway 11 at Orillia; Jill, just north of Toronto.

Peter Goldthorpe, 3, of Barrie field, when struck by a car while walking along Highway 2 just east of Kingston; Mrs. Frances Georgeas, about 65, of Detroit, when her car crashed into a shed near Tilbury, 15 miles southwest of Chatham.

Marvin Wilson of Detroit was drowned when his motor boat capsized in the Nottawasaga river near Ambersthurg, 13 miles south of Windsor. The boat upset during a squall while it was out of sight.

Felix Bell, 65, was found dead in his Toronto home with a shotgun lying nearby. Police said she fired at a neighbor while she was talking through a line, missed her, then shot himself.

ARTIST REVERED

John Lure of Windsor died from loss of blood after his electric bush saw severed a main artery in his right thigh. The six-inch blade apparently jammed in the wood and kicked back across his thigh when he pulled it loose.

Police said Adelie Lejour died shortly after collapsing in the kitchen of a Montreal jail. Cause of his death was not immediately known.

No Place for Us' In Atlantic Pact Tito Declares

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito says Yugoslavia should spurn any invitations to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization because the Atlantic Pact "is increasingly assuming a political hue — a struggle against communism."

"We are painted a socialist hue," he told a rally in the Macedonian village of Celje Sunday, and "there is no place for us in a bloc which has an anti-socialist character."

He added, however, that co-operation with the West is desired and will be continued by his government. In addition to receiving Western military aid, Yugoslavia is allied in a mutual defence pact with Greece and Turkey, both NATO members.

Referring to his Communist regime's relations with four Canadian countries, Tito said he would gladly accept any gesture of good will" by Russia.

Yugoslavia has been at odds with the Soviet and their satellites since Tito broke with the Cominform in 1948, but he has remained a staunch Communist.

(American informants in Rome said the Yugoslav leader's apparent overture to the Kremlin did not indicate a change of heart but he has made similar statements before. The sources said Tito actually has been trying to get current Russian friendship gestures because he feels the Kremlin still wants to interfere in the internal affairs of countries which come into its orbit.)

Tito said West Germany should be granted sovereignty and be armed as a "strong and vital country," but he cautioned that rearmament should be parallel to the point where "elements which are again intriguing" may "turn a future Germany into a power threatening other nations."

The Balkan alliance of Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece is a non-political treaty which is not directed against anyone but only to safeguard its frontiers and its peaceful life," the Yugoslav president said.

WORLD SCOUT JAMBOREE

FILEY, England (Reuters)—British Boy Scout chief Lord Rowallan announced here today a new world scout jamboree will be held in England in 1957 to commemorate the centenary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the scout movement.

MAINTAIN METHODIST HOME

LONDON (Reuters)—An anonymous donor has given $13,500 to enable the Methodist church to keep Epworth Old Rectory in Lincolnshire, once the home of John and Charles Wesley, founders of leaders of Methodism. Most of the building remains as it was when

Of Salk Poliomyelitis Vaccine Of Salk Poliomyelitis Vaccine

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The federal government has agreed to share with the provinces on a 50-50 basis cost of under-writing production of Salk poliomyelitis vaccine. The announcement was made Friday by Health Minister Martin in an address at the official opening of the new Woodstock General Hospital.

The text of the address was issued in advance to the press.

The vaccine, developed by Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, has been tested this year in large areas of the United States and in Canada. It is already being produced by Connaught Laboratories in Toronto.

Mr. Martin said any widespread use of the vaccine as an immunizing agent must await the results of the present trial, which will not be evaluated until early next year.

Meanwhile, the federal and provincial governments were taking steps to ensure that vaccine supplies will be available in Canada as soon as the vaccine's effectiveness has been confirmed.

At Ottawa, officials said there is every indication that the vaccine is effective).

Mr. Martin said;

"As yet, we have not conquered the problem of polio in Canada, but I feel we are making real headway and if the promises of the discoveries are realized in the form of effective preventives, we cannot be very far from our goal — the complete elimination of poliomyelitis as a threat to the health of Canadians."

Last year, Canada experienced its worst polio epidemic in history. There were more than 8,700 cases and more than 400 deaths.

So far this year, there have been 1,000 cases and incidence of polio has been fairly light except in Prince Edward Island and one area of Quebec, Mr. Martin said.

Last year, as many as 720 cases were reported in one week. The highest incidence in any week so far this year has been 145 cases and, if the present trend continues, we may consider that we have passed the peak of the epidemic season."

For the last two years, gamma Globulin, a blood derivative, has been used as the main weapon against polio. It has only temporary effects at best, Mr. Martin said.

U.S. Lists 39 'Acts of Piracy' By Red Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States has laid new groundwork for its annual fight to bar Communist China from UN General Assembly seating by listing Peiping regime of 39 "warlike acts of piracy" against ships and planes of seven nations.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge distributed the charges against the Chinese Reds to the United Nations Political Committee of the eighth General Assembly here and the United States Tuesday of the ninth assembly.

The list cited 27 attacks on British ships or aircraft, including the shooting down July 22 of a British airliner off Hainan Island in which 10 persons were killed.

"My purpose in making public this list," Lodge said in an accompanying statement, "is to show that the Hainan shooting was no isolated incident but part of a pattern of constant aggressive pressure against the free world."

There were five incidents involving the United States, including the seizure of a small yacht with three Americans released only last week, two involving Denmark, two involving Panama, and one each involving Norway, France and Portugal.

REASON FOR VOTES

The list offered the British, Danish and Norwegian delegations, whose governments have recognized Red China, new occasion for voting in the assembly to keep out Peiping's representatives.

Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru and outgoing assembly president, prepared only a brief statement about the work ended by the closing eighth session for this afternoon's meeting. The text of the China seating question was in prospect, but Mrs. Pandit in a brief statement yesterday retained her belief Red China should be denied now.

HONORS BOTANIST

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Duplessis Saturday unveiled a monument to a humble teaching brother who has gained world renown as a botanist. The premier unfurled the blue-and-white fleur-de-lys flag of Quebec from a huge bronze statue of Brother Marie-Victorin, founder of the Montreal Botanical Garden and Institute, at the Montreal's Botanical Institute and the vast, east-end Botanical Garden, where the ceremony took place.

Trustees Will Advise Board To Stand Pat

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario School Trustees Council decided Saturday to advise the Port Colborne school board to stand pat on a decision not to rehire a teacher it labelled recently by the Ontario Federation of Women Teachers' Associations.

"Pink-listing" is used as a bargaining weapon, prevents any teacher who is blacklisted by the federation from accepting a position with a listed board.

The Port Colborne school board transferred a woman principal to a teacher's job after the school there was enlarged, saying it wanted a male principal. The Women Teachers' Federation called the decision inflation, while the trustees council claimed the board was within its rights.

The council also approved its proposal to hold a meeting later this fall of school boards from Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor and Ottawa to combat "pink-listing" of boards by the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

P. M. Muir, the trustees council secretary, said:

"Teachers would not be so quick to pink-list if boards refused to hire teachers from listed schools."

Final Figures In Nipissing

NORTH BAY (CP)—Final figures in Thursday's provincial by-election in Nipissing announced Saturday:

John Chaput, Progressive Conservative, 8,997; Rene Bourassa, Liberal, 5,084; Jeff Hall, CCF, 2,008; Edgar Larabonde, Independent, 314.

In 1951, the Progressive Conservatives won the riding. The late William B. Harvey polled 8,219 votes, CCF 6,810 and Liberal candidate 2,561 for the CCF.

United Church Urges Settlement Of Cold War

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SACKVILLE, N. B. (CP) — The United Church of Canada international affairs committee called on "all statesmen" today to negotiate a settlement of East-West differences before mankind is overtaken by atomic annihilation.

The committee submitted for approval of the 18th general council, in session here since Wednesday, a 30,000-word review of the state of the world which it found to be barely threatened by military, economic and political cleavages.

TIRED OF WAR

"The church senses that mankind is tired of war and the threat of war," the review read. "There is a recoil from it and almost a hatred of those who tell about what's new in weapons of terror."

It took note of a world-wide "yearning accumulating almost to a demand" for more East-West trade, a better deal for under-dog countries, recognition of the Chinese Communist government.

But it also noted signs of "danger areas" in which were reflected in disunity among the Western nations, the growth of Communist influence and discontenting lapses in body and mind.

"The USSR is speaking more softly but carrying an even bigger stick," the report warned. "The gulf between Britain and the United States is not deep or even wide but it is there."

Then in one-two order the committee urged council support for a series of resolutions which:

1. Asked Ottawa to draft a "bolder policy" for getting some of Canada's food surpluses to countries whose people are starving.

2. Called on the Canadian government to "press for the establishment of every possible control over the production and use" of weapons of mass destruction.

WEAPONS DENOUNCED

3. Denounced fission and thermonuclear weapons as a threat to the "continued existence of man's basic obligations" as a "child of God."

4. Cited on "all statesmen urgently to seek by means of negotiations a peaceful settlement of all disputes, including agreement now on such limitations, reductions and control of armaments as may remove immediate threats of war and encourage the return of mutual confidence."

Second Largest Sugar Beet Crop To Be Gathered

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Harvesting of southwestern Alberta's sugar beet crop, adding weight rapidly following recent rains, is scheduled to start Sept. 27.

Officials say the crop may be the second largest ever gathered. More than 435,000 tons of beets should yield about 125,000,000 pounds of refined sugar and pour $6,000,000 into the pockets of the area's 1,600 beet farmers.

The 37,000 acres sown form an Alberta record.

The production high was set in 1953 when 479,840 tons of beets were dug from 36,741 acres to yield 143,174,000 pounds of sugar. Farmers then received $16.07 a ton. Last year's price was about $14.

Roslin WI, WA Hold Meetings

ROSLIN—The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Bates with 26 ladies present.

A committee was appointed to look into matter of securing street lights for the village, also school crossing signs for the highway.

The guest speaker was Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative from Stirling who gave some general comments on the work of the Department of Agriculture, and explained the difference between 4-H Club work and Junior Farmer organizations.

The average age of Junior Farmers is 18 to 30. There are five clubs in Hastings, and some of their projects have been names on mail boxes and home beautification.

The 4-H Club of s strictly local in nature and the average age is 12-21 for boys and 12-26 for girls. Club work helps young people in later life in public speaking. There are 63,000 in Canada now in club work. One of the three Canadian directors is Mr. Wesley Allin of Belleville. Awards given to members are trips to Ottawa and Toronto for highest honors in county. They learn value of good stock and how to keep records of costs. A number of slides were shown of club work, trips taken and award winners. A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for his interesting and informative talk.

The leader, Miss A. Wilson, was in charge of the program. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Sprague, Mrs. D. Chisholm and Miss H. Wilson, with community singing accompanied by Mrs. M. Fargey, pianist. A paper was given by the leader.

Miss E. Wilson gave a demonstration on arranging flowers.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants and a social time followed.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Purves. Opening prayers and Bible reading were given by the president Mrs. Geen. Some 15 ladies were present. The treasurer reported all the pledge money had been sent in. A circular regarding church calendars was read. September 29 was date chosen for quilting and dinner. The leader, Mrs. Slingerland, conducted the program. A reading was given by Mrs. Alexander. Musical numbers were rendered by Hazel Slingerland and Margaret Bates with further readings by Mrs. C. Sills and Mrs. Clare. During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

School reopened after the holidays with Mrs. R. Wheeler returning as teacher for the new term. Eight new pupils were enrolled in grade one.

Mrs. R. Clare and Mr. and Mrs. C. Chapman attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ketcheson, Belleville, recently.

Mrs. Stafford Colden attended meetings in London last week as delegate of the Eastern Star.

Several people from here attended Shannonville Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Seale of Inverness, Quebec, are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. Fargey and Mr. Fargey this week.

Anniversary services were held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday conducted by the minister Mr. J. McMurray.

ATTLEE DELAYED

MONTREAL (CP)—Clement Attlee, touring British Labor party leader, has been delayed a day at Honolulu. He was originally scheduled to arrive here today. However, an official at Trans-Canada Air Lines said it had been advised Mr. Attlee's plane was forced to touch down in Hawaiian capital because of engine trouble.

15 U.S. Chaplains Bail Out of Plane After Engine Fails

Disabled Craft Crashes, Burns in California

By HERBERT D. WILHOIT

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — Praying as they gripped each other in shirt-sleeves, 15 United States Air Force chaplains landed safely minutes before their disabled plane crashed and burned Monday. The three crew members also bailed out successfully.

"You can be sure there was plenty of praying going on," said Rev. Lertis R. Ellett of the Church of Christ, an air force reserve colonel.

This was an occasion "when, doubly, we were practising what we preach; namely, prayer," said Rev. Neville Z. Carlson.

LOAD WITH VIRUS

"The Lord was with us in many ways, even to the fact that the fire in one engine was on the right side of the plane and the door through which we jumped was on the left," said Rev. Bertil von Sydow of the Lake Presbyterian Church.

The group of chaplains, all from Southern California, had left Burbank field there for a regional chaplain's conference at Sacramento, Calif., scheduled for Monday night and today.

The chaplains and crew had been briefed before take-off on parachute drill, but none of the ministers had ever jumped before.

Minutes after the departure, smoke began boiling from the C-46. Vibration was felt in the ship, then the right engine caught fire. The pilot, Capt. Thomas E. Willson, sent a "May Day" distress call by radio.

ENGINE FELL OFF

Then as the crew carried the pilot's instructions to the chaplains to bail out at about 2,000 feet, the right engine fell away, Maj. von Norman was credited by his colleagues with calm heroism as he helped the chaplains adjust their safety belts and get out the door.

He was the last chaplain to bail out. The crew followed, with Willson the last to jump when the ship was probably at no more than 1,000 feet above the Los Angeles police rehabilitation farm for alcoholics.

The plane crashed and burned on the farm, only 75 feet from where the nearest inmate was working. The C-46 was reduced to a mass of twisted metal. Smoke was knocked down and suffered burns from the shooting flames.

The chaplains landed in pastures on mountain slopes and one on a railroad track. Half a dozen suffered cuts or bruises, wrenched legs or shoulders but none was seriously hurt.

Tired Attlee In Montreal Homeward Bound

MONTREAL (CP) — Former prime minister Attlee of Britain arrived here early today on his home after visits to Russia and Red China.

Mr. Attlee looked weary after leaving the plane and spoke of the rigors of his long trip. Accompanied by his attractive wife, he is scheduled to leave for London by TCA plane late today after recording a speech for broadcast over the trans-Canada network of the CBC and resting in a downtown hotel.

Puffing at a big briar pipe, Mr. Attlee, greeted by CCF and labor officials was met by a platoon of newspaper and radio reporters and television men.

He warned them immediately he had little to say, adding "We've been travelling a long time now and have spent two nights aboard planes."

Worker Survives 20-Minute Burial In Excavation

TORONTO (CP) — A workman, buried for 20 minutes in a sewer excavation cave-in, was rescued today by fireman and fellow workers.

Police said Ralph Luchetta, 28, was helping to put up wooden cribbing in a sewer in the east end of the city when the timbers gave way, covering Luchetta with earth. Rescuers dug with shovels and had to remove all of him.

Luchetta told rescuers an air pocket in the earth enabled him to breathe.

Racket-Busting Doctor Elected In Phenix City

By REX THOMAS

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — A young physician rode into office here Monday in a city commission election hailed by anti-vice crusaders as a triumph for reform by the people against racketeer rule.

Dr. Clyde M. Knowles, who had the support of the racket-busting Russell Betterment Association, was elected to the three-man commission with a majority of almost 2 to 1 over two combined foes in four opponents.

Armed National Guard troops stood watch at each voting place throughout the day and escorted election officials to the city hall where the ballot boxes were turned in after the polls closed.

POLICE VOTING

Governor Gordon Persons of Alabama ordered the guardsmen to police the voting places to prevent a recurrence of previous elections which reportedly brought scores of pistols of wholesale ballot frauds.

Complete but unofficial returns gave Dr. Knowles some 2,000 votes against a total of 1,250 for the other candidates. Runner-up was Judge John Freeman of the Russell county inferior court, who polled 941 votes.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Heavy showers and some severe thunderstorms hit southwestern Ontario this morning, as a low barometric system moved rapidly eastward. Brisk northwest winds will set in behind the low pressure area bringing fresh cool air and intermittent sunshine today Wednesday. Ontario north and east of Lake Superior will miss today's rain.

Frost is unlikely tonight in the southern two-thirds of the province due to strong winds and cloudy skies. But Wednesday night frost appears as a threat.

Will Test TV For School Use At Waterloo

WATERLOO (CP) — The Board of Education Monday night accepted a proposal by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation that an experimental series of eight telecasts be shown in classrooms of a Waterloo school.

The telecasts, to test the value of television as a teacher aid, will be shown during November to students in Grades five to eight.

Waterloo was one of a group of "specially selected school systems" chosen for the experiment, the CBC said.

GASPE OIL STOCK FRAUD ALLEGED BY N.Y. STATE

Court Order Puts Halt To 'Gigantic Swindle'

NEW YORK (CP) — Attorney-General Nathaniel L. Goldstein Monday obtained a court order to stop sales here in a "gigantic Canadian oil stock swindle" which allegedly took some 10,000 "gullible" investors, including 8,000 New Yorkers to the tune of $5,000,000.

The attorney-general called a press conference to tell reporters of "the largest fraud case in 15 years" handled by his office. He described it as a temporary injunction restraining nine persons and companies in Canada, corporations from further dealing in securities in New York. A hearing has been set for Oct. 20.

The attorney-general told reporters the case centered mainly about Paul Payette of Montreal, whom he described as chief promoter of the stock deal.

SAYS UNTRUE

Goldstein said Payette branded the attorney-general's charges as "untrue and...without foundation." Payette, he said, "has court papers and have a chance to contest the charges in a detailed statement," he said. "Meanwhile, development of oil drilling in the Gaspe area will go on uninterrupted."

Besides Payette, Goldstein named John Vanier, Lucienne Demers, Armand Boisclair and Roland Demers, all of Montreal; and Sidney Blue, Theodore Smutny, Max Kaplan and Raymond Buser, all of greater New York. The firms embargoed from further dealings here were Gaspe Oil, Quebec Oil Development, Ltd., Regal Investments, Ltd., and Consolidated Holdings, Ltd. Payette is listed as a chief officer in all of them.

Goldstein said Monday afternoon of the attorney-general's remarks drove the companies' stocks down to 10 cents a share before the market closed.

Goldstein said he feared the oil deal, which he said has been under investigation for a year, was made because weaker investment conditions between Canada and the United States and "tend to weaken the friendly atmosphere" between Canadian and American interests.

Goldstein told the press conference the promoters had watered their stock and issued millions of shares to themselves "gullible" stocks down to 10 cents a share before the market closed.

But the commission will report: "It would now appear that no marked progress can be reported, either in our ability to find through our conversations a deeper understanding and appreciation of each other or through our practical proposals."

Evergem union with the Church of England was brought up during negotiation in 1944 following overtures made by the Anglican synod of 1943.

The report of the commission probably will prove to be one of the most significant to be tabled at this 10-day conference which is scheduled to end Friday.

"A frank appraisal of our present situation has been made," the commission report adds, "in joint sessions with our Anglican brethren and we are agreed that no real advance can be made toward our accepted goal or organic union until we have set up clearly the pattern of the ideal reunited church in which we envisage and until each communion faces frankly the adjustments and modifications necessary in its own position and policy to achieve it."

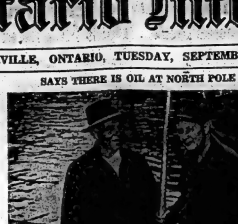
The 375 lay and clerical delegates waded into the international tension issue when report Monday gave approval to a series of recommendations for a broader government food-aid policy to under-developed countries but became stalled on a hydrogen and a missile bomb policy.

The delegates received but took no action on a revised pension plan which would give ministers superannuation benefits in proportion to their contributions.

Opposition to the new schemes was widespread.

The board of finance report disclosed the church enjoyed its best financial year since union in 1925 and total income for fiscal 1953-54 climbed an all-time high of $7,467,642. However, lay delegate J. E. McBride of Toronto, said wealthier members of the church were not contributing as much as they could.

The report estimated that $3,000,000 would be needed next year by the key missionary and maintenance department which finances church education, missions, benevolences, hospitals and administration.



SAYS THERE IS OIL AT NORTH POLE

Rev. Daniel J. Linehan, of Boston College's Weston laboratories, left, and Captain Wilbur E. Dow, Jr., arrive in Boston aboard the fishing schooner, Monte Carlo, after a two-month, 8,000-mile voyage to the Arctic. Father Linehan said scientific observations made the trip. Capt. Dow is holding a nine-foot whale tusk, souvenir of the voyage. The priest returned with a wealth of scientific data including evidence of possible huge deposits of oil in the remote North Pole area. Father Linehan said: "It's been a very successful trip. I would not say we pinpointed the magnetic pole but we may have been the first to have been so close making magnetic measurements." ## United and Anglican Churches Can't Agree on Organic Union

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — A special commission will tell the United Church general council today that talks toward union with the Church of England in Canada have bogged down.

The commission has met periodically with an Anglican committee on reunion since the 1952 United Church general council at Hamilton.

But, the commission will report: "It would now appear that no marked progress can be reported, either in our ability to find through our conversations a deeper understanding and appreciation of each other or through our practical proposals."

Paid for Smell

LONDON (Reuters) — Twenty British airline pilots—"The cinderellas of the procession"—have recently had a dollar an hour pay bonus to make up for the fact that they cannot home smelling like a barnyard. They fly livestock freighters.

HEAR APPLICATION

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Percy Spurgeon, Oakville's assessor, said Monday land is so scarce that only about 56 vacant building lots are available within the town boundaries. He spoke before an Ontario Municipal Board hearing on Oakville's application to annex 3,946 acres of neighboring Trafalgar township.

It Is Just Manslaughter in Brooklyn To Kill a Man by Jumping on His Head

NEW YORK (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Thomas Wysokowski, accused of kicking an inoffensive Brooklyn man to death, today was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz told the youth's lawyer, "he got away with murder."

The state had asked for a first-degree murder conviction. That could have meant the electric chair for Wysokowski. The maximum penalty on first-degree manslaughter is 10 to 25 years. No date was set for sentencing.

Originally two teen-agers were charged with killing Thomas A. Condon, 40, a father of four, last July 10.

But shortly the youths, who had been drinking beer by the quart, changed their stories. Condon, it was humming as he walked past them on the street.

The murder charge against Ronald Loesch, 18, was dismissed last fall for lack of evidence.

The prosecution charged that Loesch jumped on Condon, then agreed with his fist. Wysokowski holding onto an iron fence, then jumped up and down on Condon's head, the prosecution said.

REPORT OTTAWA TAKES DIM VIEW OF U.S. ACTION

Think Dulles Should Have Visited France

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Though officials here strive to keep up publicity, they take a dim view of U.S. State Secretary Dulles by - passing France on his flying visit to Europe last week.

Dulles ignored French Premier Mendes-France and conferred on the question of German rearmament with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

Reports from London and Washington have suggested that West Germany and the U.S. may be trying to isolate France and make Germany the main defence bastion on the European continent.

Informants here said no plan should be worked out, both from a political and military point of view. It would lead directly to the decline and fall of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It would also be of particular concern to Canada, which has a good part of an air division stationed in France.

SAY IMPOSSIBLE

Informants said it would be impossible to have any sort of worthwhile defence system in Europe without France. For one thing, France has nearly all the ports which would be used by the Allies in the event of a Russian land attack in Europe.

For that and other reasons, Ottawa believes that French demands for limitations of German armaments should be set, insofar as possible.

Canada has always been sympathetic to French fears at a recurrence of German aggression. France has been invaded three times by Germany since 1871 and twice Canada has gone to her aid.

PEARSON TO LONDON

External Affairs Minister Pearson plans to fly to London from New York, where he is heading Canada's United Nations delegation, for the nine-power conference Sept. 28 on German rearmament. The nine countries involved are Canada, Britain, the U.S., Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He had planned to be back in Ottawa Oct. 6 for the ministerial conference of the Colombo Plan, but apparently he'll find it necessary to go direct from London to Paris for the NATO conference of foreign ministers scheduled for early October.

Mr. Pearson has said that the only solution to the problem of German rearmament is German participation in NATO and that the place to thrash out a solution is the NATO council.

Will Hold Talks About Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation has invited shippers, shipping line operators and port authorities to come here Sept. 30 for talks on tolls, dredging and general cruisings to be constructed on the seaway.

Lewis G. Castle, seaway administrator, said in announcing the meeting that the corporation has received requests urging the enlargement of proposed navigation facilities. He said a more detailed study will be made before final plans are adopted.

Meanwhile, the advisory board of the seaway corporation will meet at Alexandria Bay Sept. 25, shot.

Cheap Move

WESTFIELD, N.J. (AP) — The public library wants its readers to help it move — borrowing eight books each and holding them until Oct. 11. The library figures it's cheaper just to move the cards.

SELL DAIRY HERD

OAKVILLE (CP) — A 71-head herd of holstein cattle owned by Lorne B. Field of Sunley was sold here Monday for a total of $52,723. Breeders from Canada, the United States and Argentina purchased parts of the herd which has produced top show animals and championship producers.

See French Plan As Starting Point For 9-Power Talks

Western Allies Are Taking Cautious Look at Proposal

LONDON (AP)—France's Western Allies today took a long, cautious look at her new plan to rearm West Germany. Two leading British newspapers termed it at least a starting point for the nine-power talks opening in London next week.

There was no immediate official reaction to the proposals outlined by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France Monday in a speech before the European Consultative Assembly at Strasbourg. They included tying West Germany to a tight European alliance that would limit the fighting force in any member states and control their arms production.

In Washington, a state department spokesman said the French plan is being studied but no comment would be made immediately. A few hours later the United States formally invited Britain's invitation to attend the Sept. 28 London talks, called to draw up a way to enlist West Germans in Western defence.

CALLS CABINET

Prime Minister Churchill called his cabinet to its regular weekly session today for discussions expected to centre around Mendes-France's proposals for arrangements for the nine-power conference.

The French memorandum to invited governments giving details of Mendes-France's proposal is still secret. The first British comment appeared in the Times, independent, and the Daily Telegraph, Conservative.

Both newspapers said the French premier had furnished at least the basis for possible agreement. But both expressed misgivings as to the extent of British military commitments in Europe which France might demand as the price for consenting to German rearmament.

The Times also questioned whether Britain would accept the loss of national sovereignty apparently inherent in the proposals to control the size of armed forces and armament production.

FORCE SUBSTITUTE

The French plan, put forward as a substitute for the defunct European Defence Community, is similar in many respects to proposals advocated recently by Foreign Secretary Dulles.

Both call for an expansion of the Brussels treaty pact into an alliance of at least Britain, West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. Instead of a common army as the latter would provide, members of the pact would rush immediately to the defence of any other partner attacked.

Although the full details of Mendes-France's plan remain public, the chief difference seems to be in the method of controlling the size of armies and production of arms. Mendes-France would do this through the enlarged Brussels group; Eden proposes that the North Atlantic Alliance set the limits.

Murder Attempt Charge Is Laid

CHATHAM (CP)—Victor Stanley 62, of Dresden, Ont., Monday was arraigned here on a charge of attempted murder.

He was arrested at his home moments after boat at about 4 p. m. Saturday. Soncrant was stricken and died at about 6 p. m., same day.

Unable to raise the anchor of the small boat or to start the motor, Mrs. Soncrant could do nothing but sit and wait for rescue.

There was no food in her boat. The only water she had during the harrowing experience was what she took from the lake.

Husband Dies, Toledo Woman Tosses For Two Nights in Boat on Lake Erie

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—A Toledo woman was rescued Monday after two nights of tossing helpless and alone on Lake Erie in a small skiff with the body of her husband who had died of a stroke.

Hysterical and suffering from shock and exposure, Mrs. Iva B. Soncrant was brought ashore by a fisherman who answered her cries for help after he saw her in the anchored boat about 4½ miles off shore.

She sobbed out the story of how she and her husband had gone out into the lake in their outboard motor boat at about 4 p. m. Saturday. Soncrant was stricken and died at about 6 p. m., same day.

Unable to raise the anchor of the small boat or to start the motor, Mrs. Soncrant could do nothing but sit and wait for rescue.

There was no food in her boat. The only water she had during the harrowing experience was what she took from the lake.

Eisenhower Asks Russians Pray for Peace

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower appealed today to the people of Russia and other Iron Curtain countries to join American people Wednesday in a day of prayer for world peace as "the true cure" for our unending tensions.

In a message beamed to the Soviet Union and its satellites over Radio facilities of the Voice of America, the president said:

"May the world be ringed with an act of faith so strong as to annihilate the cruel, artificial barriers erected by little men between the people who seek peace and the people who love spirit."

The national day of prayer for peace being observed in the United States was proclaimed by a resolution passed by Congress and approved by the president. Eisenhower himself will attend chapel here to pray for peace.

Berton Patrick, Rossmore, Dies Of Head Injuries

Berton Patrick, 33, of Rossmore, died in Belleville hospital early today from head injuries suffered when he was jammed between two cars while assisting to stop rails on the Canadian National Railways double track main line at the city.

The accident occurred about eight o'clock Monday evening, the victim was being taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance, where he died four hours later.

Patrick was assisting to line a rail being pulled by a winch, when one end of the rail struck, the opposite end of the rail then moved suddenly and Patrick's head was jammed between the moving rail and a stationary rail lined up for the track. He received a crushing and a deep laceration in the left temple.

Patrick was taken to hospital where he was attended by Dr. G. S. Cronk.

Overnight Frost

EDMONTON (CP) — Overnight frost in most parts of Alberta was believed to have caused a big slump in growth of grain crops, R. L. Rutherford, director of crop improvement for the Alberta agriculture department, said Monday.

Temperatures in Alberta north of Calgary, ranged from a low of 26 to the size of 34 degrees at 26 and 36 above.

Potash plain is believed to have suffered damage.

Snow fell in Alberta Sunday and briefly on Monday.

Police Blotter

City police apprehended two Western Ontario juveniles who have been charged with breaking and entering a general store at Amelisburg and stealing $183 in cash and other articles. The boys were turned over to Provincial Police at Picton.

Otherwise only routine matters came to the attention of city police.

A transient who became abusive when householders declined to give him a hand-out was picked up by police and detained.

The night patrol poured several washouts in sewer lateral excavations in the new section of the city on Montgomery Blvd. The matter was referred to the city public works department.

Slight Progress Shown by Three Injured in Crash

The condition of three of the four local teen-agers critically injured in Sunday morning's auto crash near Millbrook showed slight improvement it was reported today.

Johnny Meyers was said to have rallied well from his two operations Sunday night, was considerably brighter and was talking normally this morning. He will be taken to Kingston for treatment by specialists for his broken arm.

Ronald Batchelor and Marguerite Royal showed signs of regaining consciousness, the girl being reported to have seemingly recognized her parents. Mary Jane McNally was still unconscious.

Doctors, however, stated that in cases where concussion has been suffered the patient sometimes does not regain consciousness for several days.

YPU Members Hold Outing

Last Wednesday evening over 125 members of South Hastings District Y.P.U. were entertained at Foxboro. The evening's programs began with an All Star ball game, Eastern Section vs. Western Section. The game was called for darkness at the end of the first inning.

Immediately following the ball game a camp fire service was held which included a welcome by everyone by the president, Reta Christie, a sing-song led by Marion Brown and a vesper service led by members of the Bridge Street Y.P.U.

This year there were eight teams entered in the ball league. In the semi-finals in the western section Scotts and Wesleyville played off, with Scotts winning, and in the eastern section Hallowell and Gilead played off, with Hallowell being the winners. The two winners of the semi-finals, Scotts and Halloway, played off with Halloway being the winning team.

The South Hastings District Softball Trophy was presented to Roger Robinson, captain of Halloway team, by Reta Christie.

A social time was then enjoyed and everyone was treated to wieners and buns, soft drinks and marshmallows.

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE DAVIS MacDONALD
(Murray Township)

Thrown out of a car, when it was struck by a Canadian National Railways mixed freight train at Consecon, Mrs. Magdie Mabel MacDonald, 11, concession of murray township, was instantly killed Monday morning.

Mrs. MacDonald, with her daughter and daughter-in-law was riding with Mr. MacDonald on their way to a funeral at Picton when the accident occurred. She was in her 53rd year.

Born in Hungerford township, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Samuel Porter and had lived in Prince Edward county before moving to Murray township 15 years ago. She was a member of Stockdale United Church.

She is survived by her husband George Davis MacDonald, and 12 children, five sons, George, Stewart, Harold, Harry and Howard, all of Frankford, and seven daughters, Mrs. Rex (Lillian) Chapman of Frankford; Mrs. John (Marion) Hodgson and Mrs. Lloyd (Ada) Cole, Florence, Leola, Helen and Edith, all at home.

Also surviving is one sister Mrs. Lewis Stewart of Frankford. There are 16 grandchildren.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

LATE ROY CHESS LOTT
(Mladen)

"Funeral services for the late Roy Chess Lott of Minden were held from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, on Monday where service was conducted by Rev. G. A. Chilcott, Rev. Lawrence Hoselton and Eric Munby. Herbert Shortt, Gerald Dean, Jay Merrett and Clarence Juby. Interment was in White's cemetery.

Mr. Lott died at the Ross Memorial Hospital at Lindsay on Friday, Sept. 17th after being ill in bed for the past year. He was in his 47th year.

Born at Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lott of Trenton, he had lived at Toronto and Trenton before going to Minden 17 years ago where he worked as a mechanic. He was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Freda Aundrey, his parents, one sister, Inez Lott of Trenton, and one brother Harold Lott of Timmins.

NORVAL STANLEY BARKER

The funeral of Norval Stanley Barker was held from his late residence on Rossmore Rd., Foxboro, on Monday afternoon. The church was filled to capacity with sorrowful friends and relatives and the wealth of floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the young man in his community.

Rev. F. C. Beazer, a former rector of the church, conducted the service and also said the committal rites in Victoria cemetery.

During the service, Walter Chumbley sang a solo, "Good Night and Good Morning," and Mr. Bert Barker and Miss Pat Barker sang a duet "Beyond the Sunset."

The bearers were Arthur Marshall, Robert Burns, William McGuiness, Arthur F. Hall, Clare and Joseph Cockina.

Merchants Urged To Foster Ideal Of Service

The necessity for smaller communities to support local merchants and disregard the attractions of price-cutting business operators in metropolitan communities was emphasized here yesterday by Eric Hall, general manager of the Ontario division of Canadian Westinghouse Company.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte he warned it should be realized "all the gimmicks and 'come-ons' a merchant can offer 50 miles away in a metropolitan area do not take the place of service."

He also urged merchants to foster the ideal of service and maintain a high ethical standard in the community.

Among the causes for the present trend of modern selling he blamed price-cutting, high-pressure advertising fostered by some newspapers, and the decreasing importance of trained salesmen.

He described the trend as modern selling as a dangerous situation for small communities and said they "have been very fortunately and rudely affected and it is having a noticeable effect."

CONFUSION IN MINDS

He also said there was confusion in the minds of the public when the price war and that dangerous trend "has, of course, affected the trend of buying."

However, Mr. Hall said this situation "just did not happen."

"It is a very present problem back to the pre-war thirties when he said salesmen had to serve as salespeople.

"They knew what they were doing. They were rendering a definite service," and helping solve buyers' problems. Now, there are no problems, "today all you have is a whole string of complaints," he said.

During the war the salesmen disappeared and with them the art of selling. The emphasis moved to a buyers' market. At the end of the war production exceeded inventories increased but distribution did not revert to the pre-war methods, while the salesmen just waited for the buying public "to come to them."

HAD NO TIME TO TRAIN

Then developed the cut-price houses while the merchants had no time to train salesmen.

Small merchants failed to realistically understand the situation and appreciate it. he said. Loss to business failures.

"If your community is to prosper you must support its merchants and its professions. They, in turn, must support the community by the service they render."

The whole situation, he said, to resolve round one thing, he said.

"Are you going to get service when you buy" . . . "are you going to be protected?"

"Our dealers must handle our products might be well guided if we sent them this little excerpt," he said, and quoted the objectives to encourage and foster an ideal of service on the basis of worthy enterprise, encourage the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service, and the application of service to personal business and community life.

In the course of his address Mr. Hall also noted last year 40 per cent of the refrigerators sold in Canada were imported from across the border, that is not good business for Canada," he declared.

Teen-Age Club Planned By Recreation Com.

Under the sponsorship of the Recreation Committee a Teen-Age dance has been planned for Saturday, October 2, at the Prince Charles auditorium and that this fall frolic, it is the intention to organize a Teen-Age Club, which will conduct many activities in the city.

At a meeting held on Monday evening at which were present Bob Bateman, Don Cherry, Douglas MacIlrath, John Delong, Warren Frid, Betty Lou Harvey, Beverley Fox, Margaret Jarvis and the Recreational director, Lloyd Doran, an executive consisting of Bob Bateman, president; Margaret Kane, secretary, and Don Cherry, treasurer with other members to be added later was named to conduct the business of the organization.

Dress at the dance arranged will be semi formal with square dancing the principal fare. There will be prizes and other entertainment and the dance will be strictly supervised by the committee. There is a possibility that a band will be on hand for the first dance but it is the intention of the executive to have the dances to music of a recorder. Invitations to this dance can be secured from any member named earlier in the story and the committee is hoping that a large attendance will be on hand to start this club away on the right foot.

Boy Scout Assoc. Holds First Meet Of Fall Season

A review of the summer activities featured the opening meeting of the Belleville Boy Scouts Association held in the Thomas Publ Hall last evening. President William Hurst was in the chair.

Don Allan described the visit of the Ontario Boy Scouts, Point Anne gave the camping ground for their visit. They were taken on the 1000 Islands tripe and to Old Fort Henry amongst other places. Harry Ashton of Foxboro was responsible for the success of this affair and the boys enjoyed every minute of it.

The Scoutmaster's District commission or then reported on the Scout camp. He said it was a real outdoor Scout camp in every sense of the word—a work camp with very few games being played. Canoeing was emphasized. Scouter Phil Stewart was named as outstanding in canoe instruction. A letter of Education commented on the cleanliness of the camp and the general good behavior of the boys. Camp Chief Allan stated that Rover Scouts Roy Garland and Ralph Knowlton deserve special mention. The president and District Commissioner both visited the camp and said the camp was in very good shape and D.S.M. Herb Middleton and Col. Mulifield are to be congratulated. They made all the arrangements. The scouts are indebted to Mr. Harold Carruthers and Mr. Hall generously loaned his property.

Tests and badges just completed her fourth successful Cub camp. Swimming and artificial respiration were highlights of this year's camp. Many other activities, all teaching Cubs to be good Scouts were engaged in. Mrs. Ashley is justly proud of the high opinion of the educational inspectors of the turn praised her leaders for their good work. D.S.M. Allan remarked on the excellent spirit of Scout Scouts at camp and how well they acted. This reflected great credit on all Akelas and the packs.

Mr. Hurst gave an account of the bravery of Wolf cub Seymour who saved two boys from drowning in the Bay of Quinte. Witnesses stated that but for the prompt action of Tommy these two boys would not have been rescued. His gallant act has been reported to headquarters. It was noted that Tommy learned to swim at the YMCA.

During the past two years nearly two hundred Cubs and Scouts have learned to swim. Classes are held on Saturday afternoons during the winter months with the chairman of this committee appealed to all parents to encourage their boys to attend these classes. The Association is grateful to the YMCA for the donation of the pool and services of personnel. Special thanks are due to Mr. D. G. Dismandikes, secretary, Mr. Lloyd Skeaff and Mr. Waterhouse.

Apple Day, under the direction of Mr. G. Owen, will be on October 18, and the annual meeting will be October 29.

Business Quiet On Local Market

Business was quiet with few traders offering produce at the local market today.

Apples continued to form the main offering in the small fruit section with peaches also in good supply.

McIntosh, St. Lawrence and Wolf River apples brought 75c a basket, while the crab apples, Montreal Beauties, sold for 50 cents the basket. Bartlett pears were $1 a basket, and Flemish Beauties 90c. Plums, prunes, were 25 cents a berry box. Some grades from Niagara were 75 cents a basket while peaches were 75 cents for six-quart baskets, $1.50 for 11 quarts. Canadaloupes brought 10-50 cents, watermelons 25 cents to $1, while pumpkins ranged from 20 cents up.

Tomatoes were 40 cents a six-quart basket, corn 30-35 cents a dozen ears; cabbage, including some red cabbage, sold from 10-20 cents. Beans were 15 cents a basket, and Spanish onions 10 cents a bunch, 75c a basket. Cucumbers were 10-15 cents, 75c for dills, while slicers were 10 cents for three. Cauliflowers were 10-25 cents and marrows up to 25 cents. Carrots were 5-10 cents a bunch, turnips 10 cents each, and celery 25 cents for two hearts. Parsley was 10 cents and Chinese lettuce 15 cents. Broccoli was 15 cents a bunch, while squash ranged from 10 cents for pepper squash to 75c for pumpkins.

Eggs were 60 cents for Grade A large.

Gladiol formed the main flower offering, continuing at $1 a dozen, while smaller blooms, including marigolds, dahlias and baby zinnias, were 25 cents a bunch.

Kinsmen Hold Business Meet

It was strictly business at the regular bi-monthly dinner meeting of the Kinsmen Club held at the Hotel Quinte Monday evening. Among other items a financial report on the carnival held during the summer was presented.

President Don Thomas presided over the meeting with Newt Wilbur as song leader and Jimmy Corradi as pianist. Don Bacon acted as fine collector. Don Bacon

Charges Pending After Passenger Is Badly Hurt

CAMPBELLFORD (special)—A Hastings, Ontario, youth, 18-year-old Gordon D. Fisher, was critically injured and about a man on Sunday morning, when the pick-up truck in which he was riding in the front seat as a passenger, careened out of control and struck a telephone pole on the Warkworth-Hastings road, about a mile south of the village of Hastings.

Driver of the late model pick-up truck, owned by Irving's Dairy of Norwood, was David H. Mace, 18, of Norwood. He received only minor bruises, but the truck was completely demolished. Two other youngsters, who were riding in the back of the truck, were thrown clear and received only minor injuries, requiring no medical attention. They were Melvin R. Smullin, 18, and Carl J. Marsh; 17, both of Hastings.

Fisher was removed from the scene of the crash and taken to Peterborough hospital by McConnell-Warner ambulance of Norwood. Within a few hours, after his injuries had been determined, he was removed to Toronto for further treatment. He is believed to be suffering a broken neck, broken back and severe internal injuries.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight and when the driver, Mace, driving south, lost control of his truck, skidded from one side of the road to the other a distance of about 200 feet, clipped off a telephone pole and came to rest in a ditch. The scene of the crash on the road where the accident occurred had been resurfaced within the last few weeks.

OPP Constable Archie Eady of Campbellford investigated the crash and charges against the driver are pending.

CURRENCY SLIDES LOWER

SEOUL (AP)—The value of South Korea's currency skidded to a new low on the black market today while commodity prices continued upward. The Hwan, officially worth 18 to 31, sold on the black market at 740 to 31. South Korea's shaky economy was jolted by the recent announcement that most United States infantry divisions and many air units are being withdrawn along with Common-wealth units.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Th estock market turned easier in fairly heavy forenoon trading today after three straight sessions of gains.

Losses in western oils and industrials outnumbered gains about two to one. Also easier were junior golds and gold prospects, mining holding companies. Senior base metals were steady and junkers were narrowly ahead. Volume after the first hour came to 706,000 shares.

On the downside were papers, utilities, steels, refining oils and manufacturers. Foods were narrowly ahead and financial institutions, constructions and agriculture were mixed.

Senior base metal changes were minor fractions.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a steady demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in fibre cases; A large 56; A medium 55-56; A small 51; B 51-52; C 32. Wholesale: A large 61; A medium 60-61; A small 58; B 56-57; C 37.

Butter solids: First grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57-57½ (nominal), Western 56½.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was very slow on a plain quality offering at the Ontario stockyards today. The few good to choice slaughter cattle sold actively at the week's decline. Cattle grading medium and down was very slow. Receipts: cattle 1,000, calves 475; hogs 300; sheep and lambs 380; holdover from Monday 4300 cattle.

Choice steers, all weights, 21-22; good steers 20-21; medium down to 18; good heifers 18; medium down to 16; numerous common light boner steers and heifers down to 13; cows generally 11; heifery cows up to 13; good heavy light bulls 13-13; butcher bulls up 13; choice fed yearlings 22.50-23; medium down to 20; good stockers 18-18; stock calves 13-15; medium stockers to 16; common down to 12.

Good to choice veal calves steady at 22-24; mediums 16-21; common light dairy-type grass calves down to 10.

Hogs steady at 26.50 for grade A-B's 25.50; sows 17; 136 hogs sold out Monday at 26.75.

Toad Shortage In Britain, S.A.

LONDON (CP)—A toad shortage in Britain and South Africa is worrying the British Family Planning Association.

The toads—the male of the common English variety (Bufo Bufo) and the female of a South African species (Xenopus laevis) — are used in human fertility tests. Floods in South Africa and cold weather here are responsible for the shortage.

"If this world shortage continues," said Dr. Barry Carruthers, the association's medical secretary, "medical research and routine work are liable to be severely curtailed."

The toads are used by the association in connection with would-be but unsuccessful parents. Samples of a woman's hormones are injected into the female toad, which will lay eggs within 24 hours if the results are positive. Samples of male sperm are injected into male toads, which then produce sperm in three hours in a positive reaction.

Three Wolves Killed, One While Devouring Sheep

MARMORA (Special) — Three wolves were killed here during the week-end, one of them shot while devouring a sheep.

Everett Barrons, R.R. 1, surprised and killed a wolf devouring one of his sheep which it had killed. On the nearby farm of Peter Quinn, Ed Colden of Harold, set a couple of traps over the week-end and on inspecting them Sunday found a wolf was ensnared in each.

Several bears have been shot in the district in recent weeks, one of them killed about a week ago by William Snider junior on the Hugh Farrell property.

Brancombe Cup Still Is Held By Trenton Club

TRENTON (Special) — An attempt by the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club to wrest the coveted Brancombe trophy from the Trenton Country Club failed here on Saturday when Val Smith and Mike Aquefredo, of Belleville, suffered defeat by the able hands of C. Niddery and Cliff Mowsley, of Trenton. The Belleville challengers, however, put in a better showing than their first attempt, dishing one down in the 18-hole tourney.

ACCELERATOR STUCK

When the accelerator stuck on his truck as he travelled along Sidney Street on Saturday driver Robert G. Galloway reached to release it and the truck went out of control, crashed into the ditch by the side of the road. The vehicle then turned on its side, causing damage estimated at $175. The driver said the truck was moving at 35 miles an hour when he was faced with the predicament. His brother, Don Galloway, was a passenger.

TEAR UP ROAD

Workmen with jack-hammers today started tearing up a strip of pavement on Dundas Street, east of the C.N.R. track in preparation to eliminate deep holes in the roadway between Division and Front Streets. It is understood that the Public Utilities Commission plans to replace conduit under the roadway and install new lights on both sides of the street this year.

WILL ENTERTAIN COUNCIL

On Wednesday night town council entertains members of the Murray township council at the Clifford Hotel. At the meeting mutual problems will be discussed by members of both councils.

The Trenton council holds its regular second meeting of the month in the municipal office on Tuesday night.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

A report from the Trenton Memorial Hospital today said that the condition of all the three Brighton people in yesterday's train-car accident at Consecon was satisfactory.

Taken to hospital by ambulance were, Davis MacDonald, 60; Mrs. Rhea MacDonald, 20, Mrs. Lillian Chapman, 20.

Mrs. Davis MacDonald, the fourth passenger in the car, was killed when she fell out of the car underneath the train as it was pushed along the right of way by the locomotive.

Two Good Boosts Given Project

TRENTON. (Special.) — The Community Centre committee received two great financial boosts in the last week. And these came about two weeks ahead of the actual drive to raise $175,000 needed to build the project and put it into operation.

First R. E. Whitley a director of the Lions Club presented Cliff Baker, chairman of the central committee with a cheque from the Lions club in the amount of $1,125.

Last night the directors of the Trenton Recreation Commission voted to turn over to the Community Centre movement a total of $1,250.00. This was the balance left in an account set up by the commission at the time of the drive to establish a community centre in Trenton in 1950.

Hot Weather Not Lack of Food Caused Collapse of Navy Youths

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—J. R. Ryall, now chairman of the Navy League of Canada, said today hot humid weather Sunday caused some navy men and Sea Cadets to collapse at a drumhead service here.

He denied reports hunger was a factor. He said at least 85 per cent of the youths were fed at noon that day.

"Among those who fainted were regular navy personnel from HMCS Star in Hamilton, who had their lunch at one o'clock before leaving for this city, and several local youths," Mr. Ryall said in a statement issued in connection with an inquiry held Monday night at Navy League headquarters in Toronto.

Another statement, issued by the Navy League in Toronto today, disputed an estimate of St. John Ambulance Brigade workers that 30 to 40 cadets collapsed during the service held in connection with Niagara Falls' 50th anniversary as a city.

"Of the more than 500 Sea Cadets on parade, only 19 complained of feeling unwell and all these returned to their places in the parade route after being given a glass of nice water and a slice of lemon at the emergency tent," the Toronto statement said.

"No boy went hungry. Corps from Hamilton and other more distant centres were fed before the parade. Corps from Welland and other nearby points who had left their homes after lunch were fed later when all hands enjoyed a roast beef dinner."

Britons Will Present Wool Industry's Case

LONDON (CP) — A four-man delegation from the British wool industry is on its way to Canada to present Britain's case before a special tariff inquiry in Ottawa.

The hearings have been called in response to protests from Canadian textile manufacturers that the present rate of duty on cloths entering Canada is too low, and that the domestic industry is suffering.

The British delegation is expected to argue that a reduction in British dollar earnings from wool would eventually harm other Canadian industries, particularly wheat producers, who depend largely on a steady market in Britain.

Earth is Lot Older Than Anybody Thought

ROME (AP)—The earth is a lot older than anybody thought—probably 4,800,000,000 years, give or take 10 per cent, a Canadian scientist reported Monday.

Men who write the textbooks told more than 1,000 scientists at the 10th world conference on geophysics that this figure brings the earth's age "in reasonable accord" with revised astronomical estimates. These estimate are that the universe is 5,000,000,000 years old, plus or minus a billion either way.

The 4,800,000,000-year estimate for the earth's age was reported as the "probable best new figure" in a paper submitted by D. W. Allen of the geophysics laboratory of the University of Toronto, who was not present at the conference.

He, and other experts who made records in person, arrived at their figures by physics rather than geology.

The basis is the measurement of isotopic or radioactive factors in lead ores, and calculation of the rate of decay of naturally occurring radioactive isotopes.

ARTHUR GRENVILLE CHERRY
(London-Belleville)

Severely injured when the jigger on which he was riding was struck by a motor car, Arthur Grenville Cherry, 23 Everett Street, in Belleville, signalman for the C.N.R. died in Victoria Hospital in London, early this Tuesday morning.

Mr. Cherry was working in London about one week ago, when the car struck the jigger and he has been a patient in the hospital ever since. He was born in Belleville, 27 years ago, being the son of Cecil G. Cherry and the late Clara Smith. As a young man he joined the signal department of the C.N.R. and has been employed by that company for some years. He had been in London about a month before the accident.

He was a member of Christ Church and is survived by his wife, the former June Wright, twins, Susan and John Arthur, ages six; Brenda Eleanor, age two and three months; Gerald Cherry of Belleville; Kenneth Cherry of Burlington, Vermont; and Donald of Belleville.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Rally Called For Sunday Is Cancelled

LONDON (CP)—A mass rally of some of Germany's toughest ex-soldiers, scheduled for next Sunday in a Canadian-garrisoned German town, has been called off.

Sufvivors of Hitler's Waffen S.S., the picked troops who guarded concentration camps and had a hand in the wartime massacres at Lidice, Czechoslovakia, were to have held a two-day meeting in Iserlohn, Westphalia, Sept. 26-27. Part of the 5,000-strong 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade is stationed just outside Iserlohn.

Prbs reports published here suggest that the rally was called off on instructions of Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the West German Chancellor. The scheduled meeting would have coincided with talks in London on Western plans for rearming Germany.

The Iserlohn rally was officially organized to gather information about Germany's 20,000 former S. S. troops still missing. British correspondents in Germany, however, had warned that former S. S. generals might take the opportunity to form a political organization in view of recent reverses suffered by the Adenauer government.

ST. LAURENT SPEAKS PLAINLY

The peculiar place which Quebec holds in the field of Canadian political affairs is emphasized by the events of the week-end.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent assailed the Union Nationale provincial government and many political observers were amazed.

If the Prime Minister had criticized the Progressive-Conservative government of Ontario, the C.C.F. government of Saskatchewan or the Social Credit government of Alberta, nobody would have raised an eyebrow.

There is nothing unusual about a Federal prime minister who carries a Liberal label attacking the regimes of provincial premiers of other political affiliations.

What surprised political observers was not that a Federal Liberal leader would express his differences with a provincial premier who owed allegiance to another party, but that any Federal Quebec politician would criticize any Quebec government—or indeed anything connected with Quebec.

Quebec has been handled with kid gloves. We doubt whether this was a situation in the best interests of Canada as a whole or of Quebec in particular.

Perhaps Prime Minister St. Laurent holds something of the same view. If he does, it must have struck him that he was the man best equipped to change this state of affairs. An English-speaking Federal leader could not criticize a provincial regime in Quebec without running the danger of having his remarks misinterpreted. St. Laurent, however, being one of Quebec's own sons and a man who has proven beyond all question his devotion to the welfare of his native province, has the opportunity to speak out without being open to accusations of prejudice.

In three sentences the Prime Minister voiced his faith in Quebec, its traditions and its future. "I do not agree that Quebec cannot be a province like the others. I do not fear that if our culture is placed beside others it will wither and perish. I do not fear that we may be absorbed or annihilated in North America."

MORE SEEK TO TEACH

Enrolment at Ontario's teachers' colleges has increased 50 per cent.

This is good news. The best remedy for the present shortage of teachers is to train more of our own young people for this profession, not to import teachers from other lands.

It would be interesting to ascertain the reason for this increased enrolment. Is it primarily the result of the increases in teachers' salaries and the improvement in working conditions in the schools? Or is it a heart-warming evidence that young people today are eager to respond in an emergency, that they welcome an opportunity of dedicating themselves to a task which will meet their country's need?

Probably both factors played a part. Incidentally, when we referred to an improvement in "playing conditions" for teachers we were not being humorous. The poor school teacher was once required to be a model of propriety and was barred by public opinion from participation in many activities enjoyed by other members of the community. All that has changed. Today no more is expected of the teacher than of any other respectable citizen — which is as it should be. As a result, the teacher's influence is good in moulding the character of his or her pupils has, probably been enhanced, rather than the reverse.

WOMEN RETURNING TO BARBER SHOPS?

Saw a woman in a barber shop the other day, not just waiting while Junior got clipped but perched in the barber's chair receiving the full treatment.

It was a strange sight—and that is a strange statement.

When first women invaded the barber's sanctum this raised an outcry among the male of the species. Soon, however, men became resigned to their fate and waited for their shave while some flapper was shingled. There was nothing unusual about seeing a woman in a barber's chair.

Gradually, though, that situation was changed. Women deserted the barber shops for the beauty parlors, perhaps because they believed the beauticians did a better job of hair styling or perhaps because the beauty parlors provided a brand of gossip more suited to the feminine taste.

At any rate, for several years now, women have invaded the barber shop only when Junior needed a haircut.

Was that woman in a barber's chair the sign of a new trend? Perhaps. In this connection it may be significant to note that just as Bobbed Hair has trimmed out the bust, hair stylists have rediscovered the shingle. Many a haircut which looks as if it had been stock-piled since the late twenties is really the very latest 1954 fashion. Perhaps, if the shingle becomes firmly established once more, barbers will find their services once again in demand by milady.

THE QVER - PRIVILEGED

They are as sick, as Shakespeare they say,
Who surfeit with too much, as they
Who having little must depend
On others who may pass their way.

The under-privileged, with care,
May rise above their humble state.
The over-privileged, unaware,
May sink into a sorrier fate.

Born here without one hill to climb,
Supplied with every thing they need,
With too much money, too much time,
They're seldom eager to succeed.

The under-privileged from the street,
With aid may find the upward way.
The over-privileged have to meet
Temptations greater, night and day.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 21, 1934

Miss Lorraine Bradshaw has returned home after visiting friends in Carman, Manitoba, for three weeks.

Mr. T. Cannon of Detroit, Mich., is visiting friends here.

Mrs. J. Ross has returned to Toronto after visiting her sister, Mrs. George V. Bamber in Foxboro for two weeks.

Victoria Avenue Baptist church members have selected the Rev. A. G. Sinclair of the Baptist Church at Cobourg to be their pastor and he will assume his duties here Oct. 1st. Mr. Sinclair was an associate pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church two years ago.

Mr. George C. N. Maybee, of Madoc, has been appointed organist and choir master at Christ Church here and he will assume his duties on Sunday, October 7.

30 YEARS AGO

Sept. 21, 1924

Over five hundred pupils are enrolled at the high school and the accommodation is greatly overtaxed. An additional class room has been provided in the assembly room.

The business men's club in connection with the YMCA has organized for the season with the following officers: hon. president, Geo. P. Cole; president, A. L. Stillman; vice-president, Robert Brown; secretary, J. E. Fisher; chairman of volleyball committee, Stanley Nurse; chairman of membership committee, George H. Griffin; chairman of program committee, A. L. Stillman.

Mr. Ed. Thomas caught a blue pike which weighed seven pounds and measured 24 ins. while fishing in Long Lake. The fish measured three feet and four inches in length. It is now on exhibition in Bill Green's butcher shop window.

From our file copy at this time in 1884, we learn that the northwest corner of Front and Bridge Streets, is being remodelled and when completed the Dominion Bank will move from its present offices in the Metropolitan Block at the northeast corner of Front and Campbell Streets to the new offices.

40 YEARS AGO

Sept. 21, 1914

Mrs. E. C. Currie, John Street, is visiting friends in Woodstock, Ontario.

Miss Helen Farrow, Patterson Street, is visiting friends in Toronto.

Miss Mary Saunders, Dunbar Street, spent the week-end with friends in Trenton.

The Hon. H. Corby, member of the Canadian Senate, has arrived home after an extended trip to the British Isles.

Mrs. George Denmark, is in Ottawa, visiting her daughter, Miss Ida Denmark, who will leave shortly for overseas.

Mr. Stanley Corby of New York City, is visiting relatives here and renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. Charels King has left for her home in Chicago, Ill., after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elvins, Herchimer Avenue.

50 YEARS AGO

Sept. 21, 1904

This district was visited by a heavy frost last night and much damage resulted.

The members of the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were entertained last evening by Miss Grace Webster at her home on Bridge Street east.

Mrs. Charles Hudson, William Street, is visiting her son, Mr. Charles Hudson, Jr., in Freeland, Mich.

What do you think of the leg o' mutton sleeves the ladies are now wearing? They surely are the limit. What will the dear creatures do next?

Aid. J. C. Sinclair went to Toronto today.

Mr. William Kane, of East Machias, Maine, is home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kane, Catherine Street, after an absence of 14 years.

Welcomes Criticism

(Ottawa Journal)

Here is the Peterborough Examiner's reply to the charge that the world with so cool an eye as ours one giving its thanks to a visitor has referred to "your beautiful city." The Examiner admits that the phrase "your fair city" rolls out of a speaker's mouth "like oil from a sump" but is gratified by the "beautiful city" phrase coming from a judge of the annual competition for lawns and gardens "in our fair city."

We contend that "beautiful city" is just as tired as "fair city" and that luncheon speakers who use it should be censured guilty of lack of preparation and courtesy to their audience. The sincerest form of flattery may be imitation, but it is not conducive to originality. The speaker who said he enjoyed being in Ottawa because the city observed

Held Rope Around Neck Until Wife Was Still Said Statement

TORONTO (CP) — John Harvey Snider, 34, charged with murdering his wife, said he made a statement to police after her death that he held a rope around her neck until she was still.

The statement was admitted as evidence Monday at the opening day of his trial.

The nude body of his 32-year-old wife Shirley was found last March 1 by police after they had received a telephone call from Rev. Edward Madigan of St. Michael's Cathedral.

TROUBLE FROM START

In his statement Snider said he and his wife had domestic trouble from the time of their marriage and it gradually got worse.

He said on the night she died he asked her if there was anything he could do to save their marriage and she replied "no."

At the time his wife was in a back bedroom of their suburban Swansea home with her daughter, Lynda Marie.

Snider said he and his wife began to argue and woke the child, which made his wife even more angry.

". . . I grabbed her around the throat, pushed her down and pushed her back onto the bed. She began to struggle and I hung on to her throat until she lay still.

"I left the bedroom and she was still making funny noises. I got the rope from around her neck and pulled it tight. I held the rope around her neck until she was very still."

Snider, continuing the statement, said he put the body in his drove away in his car after he attempted to soothe the child and felt for a pulse and detected none in his wife.

He said he returned after thinking she might be alive and he could do something to help her, but found she was dead and went to St. Michael's Cathedral to see Rev. Madigan.

"He married us and had tried to help us keep our home together," said Snider's statement.

Crown counsel H. H. Rull said Snider and his wife were married in September, 1953. Last December they took his wife's three-year-old daughter, Lynda Marie, through the Roman Catholic Children's Aid Society.

NOTE TO BABY

Mr. Bull read a note police said they found on the kitchen table of the home. It read:

"Dear Lynda: You will never read this but I must get it off my chest. You were born with two strikes against you. I hope you will eventually get all the things I want for you. I hope you will never remember anything about us, your parents. Love, daddy."

Attlee Visits Vancouver On His Way Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Clement Attlee, a grandson of Lord Shaftesbury, arrived here Monday, his first visit to Canada in four years.

The former British prime minister, returning from a tour that led him to the inner offices of Communist leaders in Moscow and Red China, partied all but a few questions on international subjects.

When asked what he thought the chances were for closing the gap between the East and West, he said that he had "written a good deal on the subject," and planned to make a "broadcast from Montreal."

He said the subject was covered as far as he was concerned, but he added that the gap could be lessened if "we act sensibly."

MET OFFICIALS

He preceded his wife from the Trans Atlantic plane, and met Mayor Fred Hume and several political leaders.

He said he was impressed with Peiping. Everybody was clean and well-dressed, and showed no hostility to Britain or Canada. He said it was "possible" that the same cordial air was not extended to the United States.

Some parts of China could be considered almost a part of the Soviet Union, he said. During his visits to Communist centres he was unrestricted and given complete freedom of movement.

He was taken on a motor tour of Vancouver and late in the day left for Montreal by plane.

Pope Little Better

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — A Vatican source said Pope Pius, who cancelled a speech Sunday because of a "slight indisposition," was a little better today.

However, the source added, physicians have counselled the Pontiff to cut down on his strenuous work schedule for a while in order to recover from his fatigue. —

He is expected to grant a general audience at his summer residence here Wednesday for several thousand pilgrims.

Canada Likely Will Sit on Fence On Question

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada likely will sit on the fence when the question of Communist Chinese membership comes before the United Nations General Assembly, which opens its ninth session today.

Informants said Monday Canada will vote neither for nor against Red Chinese membership but, instead, likely will support a "deferring" nation, according to the UN charter. For this purpose it may mean at least a settlement in Korea—free elections and reunification of North and South Korea.

WANTS CHINA IN

At the same time, Canada wants to have Red China in the UN as soon as possible if for no other reason than that discussion of Asian problems—Korea and Indo-China, for instance—is rather fruitless without the presence of the Chinese Communists.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, who heads the Canadian delegation to the UN, has said the situation in the Indo-China force does not come under UN authority is to be regretted.

Canada, because Red China is not a UN member, the Indo-China armistice, which China is a party, had to be formulated outside the jurisdiction of the UN at Geneva.

State of Siege Decree in Chile Faces Criticism

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Opposition political parties throughout Chile called emergency meetings today to map strategy in the form of President Carlos Ibanez's declaration of a state of siege—modified martial law. Opposition leaders criticized the decree as unnecessary.

The 76-year-old chief executive imposed the state of siege Monday, charging that the country is threatened by violence and a general strike called by Communist elements. He said he also hopes to check Chile's acute inflation and soaring living costs.

His opponents maintain that no internal troubles justify the move. Strikes in the copper fields, which have crippled the country's economy for about a month, appear nearing a settlement.

His decree seems certain to draw fire when Congress reassembles Thursday in extraordinary session to debate the president's move.

Under Chilean law, a presidential decree becomes subject to legislative approval as soon as Congress reassembles. The legislators can either pass a law making the state of siege effective, or set the decree aside.

A group of demonstrators at the north Chilean copper town of Potrerillos ripped down the Chilean flag Monday shouting: "We are Communists, not Chileans."

Caches of dynamite were reported found at the mine, run by a subsidiary of the American-owned Anaconda Copper Company.

Communists obviously have been active in labor unions, especially among the copper workers. But it is also clear that the acute inflation and consequent rise in living costs have sparked the workers' walkouts for pay boosts.

CAMPBELLFORD

Hunter Struck In Head By Stray Pellets

CAMPBELLFORD (Special)—The first shooting accident of the duck hunting season in this district, was registered within a few minutes after the season was officially opened Saturday morning, when James D. Dalton, 40, of Sidney Creek, Ontario, was accidentally shot and wounded in the head by another hunter, Frank Sweet of 269 Albert Street, Oshawa.

The accident occurred at Bradley Bay, where the two men were shooting from two separate boats, and Dalton was apparently injured when he was struck in the head by three stray pellets from a charge fired at a duck by Sweet. Dalton refused to let Sweet take him to Campbellford, for medical attention, but later drove himself to the office of Dr. W. W. Baker, where the three pellets were removed. He was not seriously injured.

Sweet, meanwhile, had driven to Campbellford and reported the accident to OPP Constable Archie Eady. No charges were laid.

LEAVES HOME FOR LAST TIME

Joseph Robichaud, 82-year-old retired carpenter, packs his belongings in a sack and leaves the shanty home on Lewisville marsh near Moncton, N.B., where he has lived with his aged wife for 10 years. First a storm flooded the marsh by the Petitcodiac river and then the Westmorland County board of health condemned Robichaud's home and seven neighboring dwellings. (CP Photo)

Officials of Boys' School Say Incident Was 'Regrettable Misunderstanding'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Governors of swank Shawnigan Lake school for boys today announced they are inviting the mysterious Jamaican wife of one of their teachers to return with her father at their expense.

They termed her departure a "regrettable misunderstanding."

Olive skinned Dorothy Holtz Hewitt has alleged in Jamaica that she was turned away from the school because of her color.

The governors today blocked statements by Mrs. Hewitt that head master G. F. Kaye had told her to leave the school "before the boys come back and see a colored person here."

SHOWN COURTESY

In a prepared statement issued after a lengthy meeting with legal counsel, the governors said:

"At all times Mrs. Hewitt was treated with the utmost personal courtesy by Mr. Kaye and members of the school staff."

They denied that Mr. Kaye had given her "five days to get out."

Miss Holtz went to the Vancouver island school last month to marry English teacher John Michael Hewitt, whom she had met while he was teaching in Jamaica.

She went ahead with the wedding but Mrs. Hewitt returned to her home in Kingston last week.

Her husband, who is white, said he would remain at the school until the end of the spring term because of, "economic reasons."

WANT MEETING

Referring to a statement by the bride's father, a Jamaican government official, that he intended to take the matter up with Canadian authorities, the governors said:

"While we would co-operate fully in an impartial investigation, we consider that the matter could more properly be settled on a personal meeting between the parties concerned."

The governors concluded that "for them to comment further on the various statements attributed to Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt would only add bitterness to an already regrettable misunderstanding."

Chiang's Forces Step Up Blows At Red Bases

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist guns on Quemoy stepped up the bombardment of the Red mainland today and Nationalist sea strikes along the coast continued for the 19th straight day, the defence ministry announced.

A Nationalist army spokesman, asked how long the attacks might continue, replied noncommittally: "We receive orders and carry them out."

A communique said Nationalist planes and warships are patrolling the China coast in search of Red military craft. It claimed that planes Monday destroyed seven Communist motorized junks and damaged seven others and one gunboat.

The army spokesman said the fighting around Quemoy had crippled trade flowing through Amoy, big Communist port opposite Formosa. The spokesman said that so far as he knew only one British ship has called at Amoy since Sept. 3.

CCF Protests School Color Bar

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia executive of CCF today protested the reported refusal of an exclusive Vancouver island school to permit the West Indian wife of one of the masters to stay with her husband at the school.

Dorothy Holtz, daughter of the accountant - general in the Jamaican government, said seven paper men in Kingston, Jamaica, she was told to leave the school before "the boys come and see a colored person here."

The party fashion model said the order was issued by headmaster G. F. Kaye of the Shawnigan Lake School for Boys.

Mr. Kaye has refused to comment, but a meeting of the board of governors has been called. A statement may be issued following the meeting.

Miss Holtz came to Canada a month ago to marry John Michael Hewitt, an English teacher at the school. Shortly before her marriage, she said, she was told to leave.

Traffic Schools Suggested To Select Committee

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Better driving examinations, traffic schools for policemen and drivers, safety stickers for motor vehicles —these were among the suggestions made Monday to the Ontario select committee on highway safety.

The committee, headed by William M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston, held hearings here, at Kitchener, Guelph and Stratford.

At Stratford, members met with representatives of Stratford and St. Marys councils and Perth county council. Stratford police chief A. Day proposed a provincial-government backed safety sticker for vehicles.

Magistrate J. H. R. Kirkpatrick told the committee at Kitchener that legislation should be passed enabling magistrates to order drivers to attend a traffic school like the one in Kitchener.

EXPLAIN REASON

Crown attorney Harold Daffman of Kitchener said legislation should be considered whereby drivers involved in accident to which there were no witnesses explain the reason for the mishap. He said there two main causes of accidents: slow drivers and those who failed to dim their lights.

Establishment of schools where policemen could receive specialized training on traffic matters was suggested here by Dr. E. C. Pleva, chairman of London's traffic committee. He said universities would be prepared to entertain the proposal because they recognized the need for such training.

At Guelph, Sgt. Gordon Whetstone of that city's police, recommended that applicants for driver's permits undergo careful oral and written examinations, supervised by local police departments.

He suggested a "point system" would keep motorists on the alert. Points would be deducted for minor offences, and drivers would be notified periodically of his standing. Safety belts and directional signal lights should be made compulsory on all vehicles, he said.

APPEAL FOR ARMS

SEOUL (AP)—The chief of South Korea's armed forces today appealed to the United States for more arms to "keep the Communists from sweeping over Asia and then turning on America." Gen. Lee Heung Keun issued a statement asking the U. S. to "increase and equip our defence forces before withdrawing the strength that would leave us helpless before the enemy."

Stratocruiser Forced Down

LONDON (Reuters)—Four leading world diplomats and some 50 other passengers on a New York-bound flight missed disaster today when their Stratocruiser airliner developed engine trouble shortly after taking off from London airport.

The plane landed at Bartonwood airport, about 200 miles northwest of here.

On the scheduled flight were Prime Ministers Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, C. D. Deshmukh of India, N. Jayawardene of Ceylon, and Foreign Minister Sao Hkio of Burma.

Expecting Fight Over UN Seat For Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The fight over Red China's demands to seat Red China threatened today to delay, at least briefly, the organization of the United Nations General Assembly.

Russia, India and some other Asian countries were expected to launch the new struggle to replace the Chinese Nationalists with Peiping representatives shortly after the session's formal opening this afternoon at 3 p.m. EDT.

State Secretary Dulles was on hand to lead the American campaign for keeping up the bars against the Chinese Reds. The United States, backed by Britain, planned to ask the assembly to defer consideration until the end of the year. The same strategy was used last year before Peiping did.

Both the American and British delegates were confident of a clear winning majority. To strengthen their case, U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge in a weekend statement charged the Chinese Communists with 39 attacks in the last four years on ships or planes of Britain, Panama, Denmark, Norway, France, Portugal and the U.S.

The next major clash is expected after the 60-nation political committee, where Britain has promised great pressure opposition to putting Greece's claim to the colony of Cyprus on the agenda for assembly debate.

The expiring eighth assembly, in recess since last December, was closed out with brief formality Monday by its president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, she was the first woman elected to head a UN assembly.

New Book Claims U.S. Could Level Every USSR City

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new book says the United States could wipe out every city in the Soviet Union with a rain of atomic bombs today—and, within another year, could do the job with hydrogen bombs 30 times as destructive.

"The Hydrogen Bomb," a copyrighted book by Time magazine staffers James R. Shepley and Clay Blair Jr., warns at the same time that "within only a few years or even less" the Red air force "must be conceded the same capability against the United States."

MORE COMING

Shepley and Blair say that "within another year after 1954," most of the bombs the U. S. could drop in a mass raid would be H-bombs or at least 10 megatons' force—that is, the explosive power of 15,000,000 tons of TNT.

This compares with the estimated 500,000-ton force of the biggest existing A-bombs. The authors say the potential strength of the H-bomb is 45,000,000 tons.

"It seems doubtful," the book says, "that many people actually will be killed in any shock of say 1,000 'obsolete' 500-kiloton bombs. Even less than probable that no people could survive if one substitutes in the equation the potential 40 megatons of the new monuclear (Hydrogen) bombs. . . ."

The book was issued at least by U. S. strategic air command had the capability, if the president of the United States should so order, to rain down complete urban annihilation on the Soviet union.

"Within another year after 1954 will be such bombs in such a raid would be not 500-kiloton bombs but thermonuclear bombs of at least 10 megatons' force. One thousand Soviet targets wiped from the face of the earth would leave little else to hit even in such a vast land."

Calls Attlee 'Utterly Naive'

LONDON (Reuters)—The editor of The Daily Telegraph, a conservative paper, says Labor party leader Clement Attlee and his followers are "utterly naive" to support Communist China's claim to Formosa.

Editor Colin Coote writes in today's Telegraph that "to ask why the Communists should not have Formosa is like the stupid slogan in 1935—what would Hitler not have his own back yard?"

Social Credit Plans Expansion

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier Bennett said Monday night the greatest organizational campaign in Social Credit history here is due to start as the party intensifies its invasion of the federal field.

He told the annual election meeting of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association he is convinced there will be a Social Credit government in Ottawa "within three years."

Coastal Shipping Royal Commission Will Be Set Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal cabinet will soon revive plans for a royal commission on coastal shipping, shelved three months ago when Canada-United States negotiations on the St. Lawrence seaway were pending.

With a seaway agreement completed, informants said Monday the commission probably will be set up during the first half of October.

Main point before the commission will be whether the Canadian coastal shipping trade should be restricted to Canadian ships, particularly in the light of the seaway development which would give big ocean vessels access to ports in the heart of the continent.

The coastal trade to be studied is that between Canadian ports only, on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes. Cargo traffic in this trade amounts to about 25,000,000 tons a year.

In the last few years, the government has become somewhat concerned about the inroads into this business made by non-Canadian vessels, particularly British, whose wages and other running costs enable them to operate much more cheaply than vessels flying the Canadian flag. Varying degrees of restriction have been suggested.

Such moves would have the double-barrelled effect of protecting Canadian shipping companies and giving a stimulus to the country's shipbuilding yards, which already compete with shipyards abroad for merchant construction.

APPOINT CONCILIATOR

TORONTO (CP)—Judge H. E. Hazelwood of Welland county has been appointed chairman of a conciliation board to hear demands of the International Fur and Leather Workers, Ltd.'s an independent union seeking a 15-cent wage increase for the employees of 40 Toronto shops.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Digby, Victoria Avenue, have returned home after having spent the past fortnight in the Eastern United States and Maritime provinces.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. York, Howard Street, will be glad to learn of their arrival at Liverpool, England, on a two-months' vacation.

Miss Glenda Peets, Miss Natalie Cann, Miss Leonie DeWilde and Miss Shirley Sloan have just arrived at Ontario Business College, from Bermuda to take courses at the college.

Weddings

BROWN—KINGSLEY

PICTON—The United Pentecostal Church was decorated with gladioli with white flowers and ferns for the marriage at two o'clock Sunday, September 19, of Mildred Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kingsley, R. 9, Picton, Ont., and Norman Elmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown of Calumet Quebec. The Rev. Earl Malloy officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. E. Love and Miss Ruth Gore sang "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a long gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta and net, with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her veil fell from a bouffant pearl bead dress with lily-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

There were four attendants. Miss Isabelle Cowie, of Hamilton, wore a floor length gown of pink taffeta and carried yellow carnations; Miss Phyllis Kristmundson, of Tweed, cousin of the bride, was in yellow taffeta and carried mauve chrysanthemums; Miss Kathryn Kingsley, maid of honor for her sister, was in blue nylon and carried pink and white roses. Their headdresses with short matching veils were in matching shades.

As flower girl, Helen McNally, Toronto, wore a pretty frock of pink nylon with matching headdress and carried a basket of baby mums.

Mr. Robert Hale Kingsley, R. 9, Picton, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Laverne and George Kingsley.

The reception for seventy-five guests was held at Richardson Hotel. The bride's mother was in navy crepe trimmed with pink beads, black velvet hat and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose teal blue crepe with matching hat and corsage of pink roses. The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake decorated in pink and white. Vases of gladioli brightened the rooms.

The bride presented her attendants with rhinestone bracelet sets, the pianist and soloist with cups and saucers. The groom gave his bride a travelling case, and cuff links and tie sets to the groomsman and the ushers.

For travelling to points east, the bride donned a blue suit with red accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside at Eden Valley, New York.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Brantford, Galt, Tweed, Oshawa, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Ont.; Napanee, and Calumet, Quebec.

MOREAU—HILL

On Saturday afternoon, September 4, at three o'clock, a pretty wedding took place in Alliance Tabernacle church, when Eileen Velma Hill, Belleville, daughter of Mrs. John Hill and the late Mr. Hill, became the bride of William John Moreau, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moreau. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Eric Strain and Mrs. Marion Foster played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Kenneth Brant, who sang "Because", during the signing of the register. Baskets of pink and white gladioli decorated the church and home.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Joseph Hill, wore a gown of heavy white satin featuring a bouffant skirt and a three-quarter length sleeves. The portrait neckline was accented by a single strand of pearls, the groom's gift to his bride. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a coronet-style tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mary Hill, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a yellow strapless gown of Chantilly lace and net over taffeta. The bridesmaid, Vera Lloyd, wore a strapless waist-length gown of coloured lace and nylon net over taffeta. They wore matching jackets and scalloped Juliet caps and carried bouquets of harmonizing carnations and mums. Donna May Barnhart was flower girl for her aunt, dressed in baby blue with floral-trimmed bandeau and carried a nosegay of sweetpeas.

Mr. Lloyd Hill, Toronto, brother of the bride, was best man and Mr. Walter Moreau, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Glenn Hill, brother of the bride, acted as ushers.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Sager, the bride's mother receiving in a navy blue silk dress with matching accessories and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a navy blue suit with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Toronto, Lakeview, Shannonville, Brighton, Point Anne, Peterborough and Actinolite.

The bride and groom will reside in Belleville.

GIDDINGS—McGRATH

White gladioli adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Trenton, Ont., on September 4, at ten a.m., of Marjorie Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy McGrath of Grinsville, and Harry Albert Giddings, also of this city, son of Mrs. Harry Glen and the late Henry Giddings.

Rev. Peter Murphy performed the double-ring ceremony. Miss Dorothy Frost played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Helen Gafney, who sang "Oh, Promise Me" and "A Beautiful Mother," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a strapless cocktail-length gown of white Swiss embroidered net over taffeta with bolero and a pearl tiara headdress adding the finishing touch to her ensemble. She carried a white pearl prayer book with white streamers caught with red rosebuds.

Miss Justine McGrath was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a pale yellow strapless net over taffeta gown with matching bolero and accessories and carried a nosegay of yellow and blue carnations. Miss Arlene Glen, sister of the groom, and Miss Helen Reeve, as bridesmaids, wore gowns of pale blue in style similar to that of the maid of honor and carried nosegays of blue and yellow flowers.

Mr. Bob Kitchen was groomsman. Mr. Art Newman, Belleville and Mr. Claude Richmond, of Tamworth, were ushers.

For the reception at Toby's County Gardens and later at the home of the bridegroom's mother, the bride's mother received in rose crepe with navy accessories and wore a corsage of blue and white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in navy sheer with navy accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Watertown, Syracuse, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a beige suit with dark brown accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Tamworth, Erinsville, Cowansville, Quebec; Barrie and Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings will take up residence at 11 Albion Street, in this city.

Prior to the wedding the bride was entertained at a shower in the home of Mrs. Pat Richmond, Front Street.

MOUNTENY—BOYCE

PICTON—An interesting wedding was solemnized at two o'clock, Saturday, September 11, in the home of the Rev. J. C. Robins, Wellington, when Audrey Jean Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boyce, Wellington, became the bride of Ralph Claude, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mounteny, Hillier. The Rev. Mr. Robins officiated.

The bride wore a two-piece dress of pale blue nylon and taffeta with navy accessories with corsage of roses. She was attended by Miss Marie Thompson, Wellington, who wore blue and pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Richard Wilson was groomsman.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Stephen Derrick, Hillier. The bride's mother was in green crepe with corsage of brown mums. The bridegroom's mother wore wine crepe with corsage of white mums. Mrs. S. Derrick wore a navy nylon with corsage

Skating-Tennis Club Holds Meeting

The first fall meeting of the directors of Quinte Skating and Tennis club was held in the club house on Sept. 19, with the president, Mr. Robert Smith, presiding.

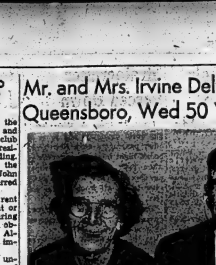
Regrets were expressed at the resignation of secretary, Mr. John Field, who has been transferred to Hamilton.

The club had planned to rent the Memorial Arena for eight or nine Sunday afternoons during November and December but observance of the Lord's Day Alliance Act will make this impractical.

However, negotiations are under way for the exclusive use of the Arena for certain week-day evenings previous to the official opening. These arrangements if possible, will be announced later.

Treasurer, Mr. Eric Whitfield, gave the financial statement to date, and a favorable balance was shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Delyea, Queensboro, Wed 50 Years



Keeping up with the Joneses through buying expensive automobiles and spending too much time on the road has spelled financial ruin for many present day farmers.

This is the feeling of 84-year-old Irvine Delyea, Madoc township farmer, who with Mrs. Delyea celebrated their first era of diamond wedding anniversary.

"Years ago every farm in the Queensboro neighborhood was occupied and the farmers were prosperous," Mr. Delyea said. "Now there are many vacant farms and automobiles were indirectly responsible."

Although claiming that autos have been the downfall of many farmers, Mr. Delyea, nevertheless, is not opposed to progress. He has driven a car since 1927 and the Model T Ford he purchased then still runs "as good as it ever did."

"But I never drove too much," he admits.

Although farmers all around him have installed tractors and other power machinery, Mr. Delyea worked his farm with horses and still has a team of them. He sold a quarter of a century ago he never will own more than when he was driving his spanking team of bays on the way to Madoc circ miles away to do shopping. Married also Mrs. Delyea's pride and she often hitched up the roadsters to drive into town.

But she never did get around to driving the car. "Irvine felt there were too many accidents for me to drive," she said.

NATIVES OF DISTRICT

Both Mr. and Mrs. Delyea are natives of the Queensboro district and have lived there all their lives. The farm on which they still live was purchased by Mr. Delyea's father, Nelson Delyea, of Belleville 60 years ago. Mrs. Delyea is the former Sarah Blakely.

Modern day comforts of oil heating, telephone and electric lights are a big improvement over the conditions of half a century ago, Mrs. Delyea admits. Their home is heated by oil "because it costs too much to have wood cut these days."

But one change which Mr. Delyea regrets is the decline of the cheese factory. "Years ago they used to make 8 to 10 cheese a day at the Madoc factory, just across the road. Now they only make four or five cheese a day."

Asked the reason for the decline of the factory, Mr. Delyea replied that many farmers don't send to the factory because they don't get up early enough to have their milk ready for the milk truck. Instead they separate their milk and ship cream to the creamery or else keep calves on the cows.

ONLY RECENTLY RETIRED

Until three years ago Mr. Delyea personally conducted the operation of his farm and that year retired to the position of manager. Now the farm is rented to a neighboring farmer.

Recalling that they have had "many ups and downs," Mr. and Mrs. Delyea recalled that their youngest daughter Nancy was fatally injured in an accident on the farm when she was only three years of age.

They have one other daughter, Mrs. F. (Grace) Tumelly, also of Madoc township. Their grandchildren, Mrs. Don (Sadie) Miller, and William Tumelly, who lives with his mother.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Delyea were "at home" to immediate relatives and friends at their comfortable farm home when they received the congratulations of a wide circle of friends and neighbors.

Warkworth Couple Wed Fifty Years

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Louis Findlay of R.R. 4 Warkworth, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Sunday, when guests called on the couple during the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Findlay were married 50 years ago at the home of the bride's parents in Fenella, Haliburton township, on September 21, 1904. The Rev. Wm. A. Bunner, who was then a Methodist minister, performed the ceremony. Witnesses at the ceremony were Mrs. J. Bush and Leslie Findlay, Mr. Findlay is the youngest son of the late James Findlay and Margaret Nicholson. The bride of years was the former Ida Maud Marks, daughter of Isaac Marks and Loyda Young.

Following their marriage, the couple farmed for nearly three years at Castleton, then moved to Brighton township on the Percy Boom road, where they have lived ever since. They have three children, Floyd Arnold, who lives on an adjoining farm; James, resident of Peterborough and Clifford Loula, who lives at the homestead. Two other children Ruth and William, died at birth.

On Tuesday, the actual anniversary of the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Findlay were surprised at a dinner given them by their family. The couple, thinking the celebration was over when they left their host home on Sunday night, were surprised to find themselves in the limelight again on Tuesday. The entire family was on hand for the occasion.

ALFRED JONES

Soap Box Derby winner for 1954 is 11-year-old Alfred Jones of Campbellford, who won the title after piloting his homemade racing car down the specially built Clinton Bridge street and coming in ahead of nine other contestants.

The Campbellford Rotary Club sponsored the derby Friday night, at they do each year. A reception with a mammoth bingo and a draw for a new car. The project provides the club with funds to carry on their community welfare work.

Second place in the derby was won by fourteen year old Terry Baker, and Gordon Holmes, 13, placed third. First prize was a Pack canoe; a set of golf clubs; second was a complete fishing outfit and third prize was a ball, bat and glove. Each of the unsuccessful entrants received consolation prizes of hunting knives.

At the mammoth bingo, held in the community arena, Mrs. Harold Howe won the door prize, a clock radio, and Mrs. William Hollings won the $100 bingo game.

An elimination draw for a 1954 car was held, with tickets being drawn one at a time. As each name was drawn, the name of the holder of that ticket was removed from a huge blackboard, until one name remained. Holder of the last ticket drawn, and winner of the car was H. Ferguson of Northbrook.

MUST BE MODERN

HALIFAX (CP) — A Halifax clothing manufacturer said Monday the Canadian textile industry was blame its troubles to a large extent on itself. for not keeping up with the times. Alban M. Murphy, one of the Maritimes' biggest wholesale drygoods manufacturers, told a textile club that goods today have to be glamorized. Even overalls must be "dressed up."

Gilmour Couple, Married 25 Years, Receive Gifts

On Sunday afternoon, September 19th, the families and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sprackett of Gilmour, met at the home of the bride and groom of 25 years of service with them.

It was a complete surprise to them.

There were 53 present, coming from Stirling, Belleville, Foxboro, Peterborough, Coe Hill and Gilmour.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprackett were taken for a ride in an old truck, decorated in a fitting manner for the occasion. On their return they were seated at a table, and an address was read by Mrs. Percy Spirckett, of Belleville.

They were presented with a silver tray, and silver tray, carried in by Joan Aide, niece of Mrs. Sprackett.

Mr. Sprackett thanked all the relatives for their kindness.

An anniversary wedding cake was served by the ladies during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sprackett have two sons, one daughter and one grandson.

St. Julien Plans Season's Work At Fall Meeting

Members of St. Julien Chapter met Thursday evening, Sept. 16, at the home of the Regent, Mrs. L. Fonger, Forin Street. A large number of members were present some who had not attended for some time and the Regent expressed her pleasure.

At the opening of the Regent member, are planning a full agenda for the coming year. Letters from Mrs. A. B. McMahon, Provincial Secretary and Provincial Chapter were read, regarding St. Julien's intention of adopting a school in a remote district of Ontario, providing that school annually with books, literature and games for the children. Chapter also decided to do more welfare work locally.

DISBURSE MANY DOLLARS

During the war years, I.O.D.E. Chapters throughout Canada have raised and disbursed millions of dollars to help the armed services at home and abroad, and helped out needy families of veterans. They are still doing it, wherever that need may be found, but now quite so great in peace time, so their efforts are being directed into other channels of need in our growing educational. Thousands of dollars are being spent every year in bursaries, scholarships and assistance to students who wish to further their education and needed do so on their own. The Chapter's Lucy Memorial fund, is for this purpose and at the meeting members voted $100 to help out in this project. One hundred dollars was also voted to the Korean project, helping to clothe and feed many children and orphans in Korea. One hundred dollars was also voted to the British Convalescing Home for Sick Children in Toronto.

Members also voted money to the British Overseas Relief Fund, Seamen's Amenities Fund, Overseas Maintenance and Shipping Room Funds.

AREA CONFERENCE CALLED

Regent reminded members of the Area Conference to be held in Brockville next month and hoped some would be able to attend.

Members of the Social Service are planning a joint get-together at a banquet and special meeting for more members when the guest speaker will be Mrs. R. B. Bennett, provincial Chairman of Citizenship.

St. Julien is also planning a Military Whist party in November and Mrs. H. Thompson, convener of the Chapter's Bridge Section announced that the bridge would start on September 30th.

Members are sending a card daily to a sick member in hospital.

At the close of the meeting members enjoyed refreshments and a social half hour.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

GRADUATE FROM COLLEGE FIRST; THEN ASSERT YOURSELF

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old and a senior in college.

During my school years I have gone out on quite a few dates, but I never have taken any of them seriously, mostly because I don't want to get interested in anyone while away from home.

When I am home, during holiday periods or vacations, some old boy friends always ask me for dates and I want so badly to go out with them. But it seems as if my parents believe that nice girls don't have dates. I go to dances but can only go with my oldest brother. I live outside of town and am pretty far from the church I belong to, so I never get a chance to go to any of its social meetings or parties. Also, my father doesn't quite like me even to have girl friends.

I have tried every way I can think of to persuade my parents to take a different attitude but it has been useless, so please tell me what I could do. I have no relatives, for they all live in the mother country. M.G.

Dear M.G.:

Your last sentence tells the real story. I think, for a great many parents with an old country background they so bring up their children in this country as they were themselves brought up before they came here. That never works, of course. All it ever does is to make sons and daughters very unhappy and cause friction in the family.

I suggest that you argue with your parents as little as possible during the coming year, and leave all the dates you like while you are away at college. When you are home during holidays, invite the old boy friends want to come and see you or take you out. Be quite honest with them and tell them just how your parents feel. Avoid criticising your parents to them, but simply tell them that you are sure they will understand that your mother and father feel as they do, and that you believe if they will only be in a nice polite way if they may take you out, they would be more chance of their giving permission than if you just asked yourself. It is easy for parents to say no to a daughter, but much harder to refuse someone outside the family who shows enough respect for, them to ask their permission to have a date with their daughter.

If you will just ride along with the problem in this way until you are out of college, your parents may have gradually changed their attitude by the time you graduate. Or, if not, you will then be in a better position to insist, gently but firmly, on having friendships and dates just like other American young people.

RENEWING AN OLD FRIENDSHIP

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About 8 years ago, when we were only children, the boy who lived next door to me moved to a state far away.

Recently, he came back here and is living with his grandparents just a short distance from me. At first I didn't remember him and he didn't remember me, but after we started talking about old times we became friendly again, and soon I was dating him.

Then one day he just stopped coming around, and I would like to know what I can do to get him to keep up our friendship. S.G.

Dear S.G.:

Have you ever thought of getting up a little "Welcome Back" party for this boy, inviting as many as possible of the girls and boys who knew him when he first lived in your town? I think this would be a very nice thing to do, and it would give you a perfectly good reason for getting in touch with him without appearing over-interested. He should appreciate such a thoughtful act on your part, and perhaps it would prove the thing that would give your renewed acquaintance just the push it needs.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

PUTTING ON CURVES

Ideals of beauty are ever changing. Once upon a time "bones" were fashionable. That was in the "flapper" days, when, if a girl was thin enough to slide through a crack in a door, her pulchritude rating was high.

When your great grandmother was a girl the plump girls had their innings. In that remote period a man didn't want to embrace a half portion of a woman; he preferred an armful. Lillian Russell, the most famous beauty of that time weighed a good 200 pounds. Fancy that!

Now the beauty seekers endeavor to cultivate the normal figure —which makes sense. Unfortunately, not all of them will take the trouble to do what is necessary to remodel a figure that does not qualify.

The heavyweights are over-eating or eating the wrong kind of food; they're not burning up their calories through the expenditure of energy or participation in muscle-toning exercise. The thin ones think they can live on nothing a day and still tear around like one nothing a day and still tear around like crazy. But if the latter would only stoke up to attain normal weight and measurements, they would not only look better, but feel better.

When a girl has sharp elbows and collar bones and can count her ribs, it is high time for her to do something about it for she may be suffering from a mild deficiency that could lead to serious trouble.

If her physician finds that her scrawniness is not due to illness he will encourage her to drink a quart of rich milk a day. Milk is not just a beverage, but a food, containing many elements that are necessary for well-being—especially calcium. A glass of milk with each meal and one at bed time is the prescription.

Breakfast should consist of fruit or fruit juices, a hot cereal, an egg and toast. This will probably appall the young lady who is a breakfast-skipper, but in time she will enjoy it. More butter on the bread, more cream in the coffee, a sweet dessert for dinner will help round out the curves.

Main Course Egg Dishes

By Mary Moore

Since Doreen T. would like to make a Spanish Omelette and since I would like to tell you about Chicken Liver Omelette and since I still can buy pullet eggs for 3 dozen for one dollar (and hope you can too or that eggs are still low-priced in your area)—indications are that a column on eggs is coming up, if your youngsters wear out their shoes as fast as mine did when they were in public school you will be glad of these few ideas to help you economize on the food bill, so you can transfer the saving to the shoe bill.

SPANISH OMELETTE

(For Doreen T.)

(I make my Spanish Omelette by the "puffy" method, but I know many people prefer plain omelettes as I will give both cooking methods. The sauce (see below) is the same for both types.

PUFFY TYPE:

Four eggs, 1-3 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon butter. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and foamy and add seasonings and milk. Beat whites until stiff but not dry. Heat an omelette or heavy frying-pan, put in butter having sides and bottom of pan well buttered. Cut and fold whites into yolk mixture. Have pan very hot; turn in omelette, spread evenly, reduce heat. Cook slowly until omelette is set on bottom; transfer to moderate oven to slightly dry off top. (Spread filling or sauce on half of it, if used.) Fold over, carefully slip out on hot platter.

PLAIN TYPE:

Mix 4 eggs together until mixed and only slightly foamy then add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 cup milk or hot water and just mix. Have 4 tea spoons butter hot and nearly gold brown in heavy frying pan. Turn omelette in. As it cooks lift up with egg turner and allow liquid to run underneath. Turn once, repeating this lifting until whole mixture is lightly cooked. (Put sauce or filling over half.) Fold over and carefully transfer to hot platter.

SPANISH SAUCE;

(This is sometimes called Creole or Mexican.)

Melt 3 tablespoons butter and in them saute 3 tablespoons each chopped onion and green pepper until soft but not browned at all. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour and 1-8 teaspoon baking soda. When blended add 1 cup tomato juice. (If desired you may use 1-2 cup tomato juice and 1-2 cup Italian Tomato Paste to make sauce richer and redder.) Stir until thick. Season with salt and pepper and if desired paprika. See above for pouring over omelette before folding. Or serve folded omelette on platter and pour Spanish sauce over all or pass sauce.

CHICKEN LIVER OMELETTE

Make Puffy or Plain Omelette as above. Meanwhile saute very gently 1-4 or 1-3 lb. fresh chicken livers which have each been cut in half in 2 tablespoons butter. Do not overcook livers—they should just be "set" Sprinkle with salt and pepper. If desired Plain Omelette may be cooked in same pan as soon as chicken livers are nearly set and thus mixed in with the livers. Of fold cooked chicken livers in centre of Puffy Omelette just before transferring to hot platter. Garnish generously with parsley. If you have a pressure cooker this is lovely with waterless pressure cooked small potatoes and crumbled grilled tomatoes. quick, easy and economical dinner.

Want To See Marilyn

TORONTO (CP) — Two Niagara Falls, Ont., boys—John Clary, 11, and Jack Mercer, 8, left home here without telling their parents and hitch-hiked to Toronto to see actress Marilyn Bell. They checked into a downtown hotel just to be near their idol.

Hotel officials said the youthful autograph hunters paid $5 in advance for their ninth-floor room. But police were called anyway just in case there was something wrong.

APPLICATION DELAYED

HAMILTON (CP)—An application for retainment in a $2,000 bond posted for the appearance of Richard Latta, 19, of Hamilton was delayed until Friday when it was learned he was in Welland county jail. Detective Ernest Jackson told the court that Latta was arrested on a charge at Port Colborne, two days before he was to appear in court here.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE W.I.

UNIONDALE — The September meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Keith Fox, 4th concession of Sidney with 17 present.

It was moved by Mrs. Grills and seconded by Mrs. Farmer that $28 be paid to join the Flim Council for one year. Moved by Mrs. Fox seconded by Mrs. Burkitt that all dishes be replaced that had been broken at Belleville Fair. A thank-you goes out from all members to those who helped make Belleville Fair day at the Institute tent a decided success.

Mrs. Geo. Striker demonstrated grape drink, lemon drink which can be put away for use in Winter.

October 14th an afternoon meeting will be held at Mrs. Milton Grills, 4th concession of Sidney with an extension service Oct. 27th and 28th, the area convention will be held at Belleville with Mrs. Geo. Pollard as delegate for one day.

A paper on Newfoundland was given by Mrs. H. Frost, a reading on the "Women of Newfoundland" was given by Mrs. Geo. Burkitt. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Fox for her hospitality with them to buy a gift c o n s i d e r e d important enough. What do you think about all this, Mrs. Beeckman? You are, I'm sorry to say, too, too optimistic to think that anyone but a fool will be taken in by calculating schemers think, would you, Reader? Each answer will set me straight about the propriety of their plans. Of course it is not proper for a member of the bride's family to give a shower for her. Mut this "gimme" mother and sister would scorn this idea of good taste . . . they are interested only in gathering in the loot. "Good and Expensive" Loot. In my experience of hearing about showers planned with bad taste, this is the lowest taste. I find myself wondering how the relatives and friends will respond to these schemes and strategy . . . will they cooperate, either through win or fear, or will they shrug it all off, with "what a colossal nerve! I wouldn't think of going to such a shower!" Will this bride's family have enough relatives and friends who know what's what, who have good taste and enough bravery, that reserved hall may not be as big as the bride's mother and sister hoped!

WOMAN GUEST WEARS HAT AT HOUSE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a small home wedding, is it necessary for women guests to wear hats and gloves? G.

To be correctly dressed, a woman guest at a house wedding would wear her hat and gloves. She dresses appropriately for the ceremony, wherever the ceremony takes place.

LETTER FOLLOWED TO THE STORY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a person tells a story twice to the same, do you think it's rude to say you've heard it before? —Ida.

Yes; I do think it's rude, sir, I don't think it's asking too much to ask the person to tell you the story, . . .and it's mean to spoil the other person's fun and fun in telling a story. And, after all, you don't know how often people may have heard the story before. One of the gracious attention to your telling a story they may have heard many times!

BRIDE'S MOTHER AND SISTER PLAN STRATEGY FOR SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our young lady whom we know, is getting married very soon. Now I've been told that her mother and sister are planning to give a very big shower for her. They want one shower for her, to which I would be invited all of her relatives and the relatives of the groom, her friends and friends of the family. The mother and sister are not telling anyone about the plans. They wish to make all the arrangements first: such as set the date, rent the hall, choose the food, then they will approach members of the family, asking them if they want to be one of those giving the shower and if they do, tell them how much it will cost each one. Then they are to be invited to the others letting them of the shower. They intend telling what gifts are to be bought, and want nothing but the best. They say if we invite cannot get a good and expensive gift, that person should ask someone to help her with money with them to buy a gift c o n s i d e r e d important enough. What do you think about all this, Mrs. Beeckman? I hope you will print your reply in your column. Each answer will set me straight about this, and I am sure the people here will reap added benefit by it if they are in the wrong (which I think they are). —R.S.V.

Woman Turns Herd of Goats Into Business

AVONDALE, N.S. (CP)—A genial grandmother who once licked a bout of arthritis by drinking goats' milk for six months has turned a herd of the animals into a thriving business.

Mrs. Mary Gill has 12 goats. She bought a farm a year ago to provide room for the rapidly growing herd she started some time previously in Halifax county.

Mrs. Gill says that contrary to popular opinion goats don't eat everything including tin cans. To prove it she waved an apple under the nose of a goat that turned up its nose.

She says she has received testimonials from people who have enjoyed relief from various ailments or a general rundown condition through drinking the butterfat-rich milk.

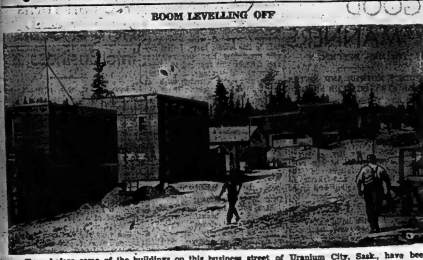
BOOM LEVELLING OFF



Even before some of the buildings on this business street of Uranium City, Sask., have been finished the boom which brought them about shows signs of ending. The community, tucked away in the northwest corner of the province, was hewn from the rock and forest three years ago when a prospecting rush for uranium began. With the staking rush apparently ended, the town's 700-odd citizens are finding the going tough. Note the sheathing paper still shown on the building second from left. (CP Photo).

Canada's Uranium Hotspot Loses Some of Midas Touch

By WILF CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Canada's uranium hotspot has lost some of its Midas touch.

Everything turned to gold for hundreds who flocked here—until this year. Now the boom shows signs of ending.

Gus Hawker, Uranium City's first citizen, is pulling up his stakes.

"This place is for the birds," he says.

WAITS FOR BUYERS

The wife of a storekeeper waits in vain for business while her husband works at another job to earn a living.

"If we'd known what if was like up here, we'd never have come," she says.

Uranium city, hewn from the rock and water of Saskatchewan's far northwest in 1951, was a boom town just last year. This year some of its 700-odd inhabitants are finding the going tough.

Business men say there's no activity in the town. Building has dropped to almost nothing.

A weekly newspaper lists five houses for sale. No one wants to buy, though.

Lakehers who earned up to $30 a day last year for rush jobs have to look for work—at $1.50 an hour.

NATURAL TRANSITION

Various reasons have been suggested for the sudden decline in the community's prosperity. Provincial government officials say it has been caused by a natural transition from boom to mine development.

Last year activity in the Uranium City region received special emphasis. Claims staked totalled 15,000. This year Provincial mining officers predict the total for all Saskatchewan will be about 10,000.

Prospecting is done but no one knows by how much. Diamond drilling, main part of claim development, has dropped—as much as 60 per cent, says one drilling company official. Government officials say drilling is down, but not that much.

This levelling off has brought a corresponding loss in business—and Uranium City lives on business. There isn't enough to go around although some firms without competition aren't affected.

Claim staking never did amount to much because of the cost involved. Food stores, however, made a good share of their sales to prospectors. Most other firms depended on the following up of claims.

ONTARIO BOOM

Nobody is certain why activity has slackened.

The most popular theory, advanced by citizens and government officials, is the uranium boom in Ontario, a province with far better transportation and closer to the "big-money" interests.

The people of Uranium City also blame part of their troubles on the two big mine outfits in the area, the federal government's Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. and the Gunnar Uranium Mines, which employ nearly half the district's population.

Both companies have housing and operate private stores for employees, selling necessities at cost, plus transportation. Merchants say the business should come to Uranium City. They see in mine stores a dangerous trend—mine towns independent of Uranium City.

Residents and government officials also blame the glowing reports published by newspapers and magazines which drew adventurers from all parts of the world. The department of natural resources administrative office in Prince Albert says thousands of inquiries were received after the first articles appeared. People moved in without investigating opportunities.

Hawker, the saddest-faced man to who failed at farming and trapping and then made $100 by selling the claims he accepted for goods bought at his store, typifies the pessimism.

"I'm moving as quick as I can get out of here," he said. "There isn't a dollar in the town."

TAKEN BIG LOSS

He says he's lost $50,000 in the last year, the $15,000 worth of stock, he did only $7 in business one day.

Hawker says he sees no hope for the town. He predicts a big and permanent exodus this fall.

Bill Lawson of Edmonton takes another view. He hopes to set up a distributing agency to bring factory service to drilling companies and mechanics. But even he is uncertain of the future, which he describes as "by guess or by gosh."

Despite the present slack, the people are here. Most of them expect will pull out of the doldrums and grow. Ben McGuire, a young Albertan who manages the only hardware store and is president of the Chamber of Commerce, believes the population will climb to at least 3,000.

"I imagine we'll see 2,000 in the next two years," he says.

He and others see the shift in interest from Uranium City as something temporary.

FIRST CITIZEN

Gus Hawker, store-keeper and first citizen of Uranium City, Sask., says he is leaving the town where he made a fortune. Gus sold goods at his store for uranium claims, then sold the claims and made 200,000. But he says now that the uranium staking rush has ended, he is losing $50,000 a year on his store. (CP Photo).

REMOTE BOOM TOWN

Tucked away in a corner of northwest Saskatchewan, Uranium City is 665 miles away from the nearest large community, Prince Albert. The settlement on the shore of Lake Athabaska became a boom town three years ago when uranium prospectors began staking the land around it. Now the boom is showing signs of ending. (CP Photo).

Fiddler Crabs Tell Time Simply By Changing Color at Dawn, Dusk

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—Mysterious "clocks" operating in living things are a challenge to some of the scientists at the massive biological laboratory here.

Certain humans can "set mental clocks" to waken at a certain time of morning. How do their clocks work?

Many kinds of living things behave as though regulated by inner or biological clocks, ticking off time with amazing accuracy.

Take fiddler crabs, the inch-long beasts named because of their fiddle-holding shape. They are being studied by Dr. Frank A. Brown Jr., Northwestern University, who spends his summers here.

At dawn or just before they turn dark in color, the better to run on dark beaches where they live. At night they turn pearly-grey in color. Is it just a response to sunlight or lack of it?

RESPOND TO TIDES

No, Dr. Brown finds, for if the crabs are kept in a photographic dark room, under a steady amount of light and temperature, they will still change color at dawn and dusk, telling time as well as a man-made clock.

The crab responds to tides, too, turning darkest at low tide. Even in the closed room they will change color according to actual high and low tides on the beach where they once lived. They are perfect tide charts.

Is their biological clock something which is built-in, running at constant speed according to metabolism or the speed of their life cycles? Or is it governed by physical forces connected with the earth's rotation, perhaps by some force which man doesn't yet know can affect living things?

CHILLING STOPS CLOCKS

Dr. Brown subjected the crabs to different degrees of temperature.

An astonishing thing happened if he chilled them down to near freezing for six hours, then warmed them up again. The clocks stopped their clocks for six hours. When they were warmed up again, they began following the same cycles of regular change but now were nearly six hours slow!

That makes it look as though their clocks are built inside. But that's by no means the full strange story.

Not long ago one of Dr. Brown's assistants flew to San Francisco with a batch of crabs, and put them in a room there with constant light and temperature. Another batch was packed up the same way for travel, but kept here and placed in the same kind of room. Those down in the west coast became three hours late in time compared with those remaining here.

On the first day, the crabs on both coasts changed color at exactly the same time according to dawn and dusk, and tidal rhythms here. The next day, the crabs in San Francisco millipped a half-hour behind their east coast "cousins." But this was only temporary. During the next seven days while they stayed in California, they continued to get darker or light almost simultaneously with the crabs in Woods Hole.

They didn't adjust their "clocks" to the west coast, and while they stayed in California, they kept on signalling the time of low tide on their native beach on Cape Cod.

BEERS OUTSIDE INFLUENCES

This proved they could still measure the 12½-hour tide cycle and 24-hour sun cycle accurately even though they had been flown to the west coast and had, by flying, changed by three hours in sunlight time the same gain your watch would show if you flew from east to west coast.

In the long run their clocks may be influenced by outside forces, Dr. Brown believes. He is devising experiments to learn the possible influence of slight barometric changes, differences in gravitation, even differences in cosmic ray radiation, to which all living things are exposed.

Some kind of harmonics or vibrations definitely seem to affect these biological clocks, Dr. Brown believes. Earthworms, salamanders, fruit flies and even potatoes give evidence of having biological clocks. The potato, for example, shows daily and lunar rhythms in oxygen consumption. When kept under steady temperature and light, they show, on the average, a high peak of oxygen consumption at 8 a.m. and 3 p.m., in the daily cycle.

Rhythms and cycles are observed in many kinds of human behavior, even in economic cycles. Mental patients are reported to show swings of improvement or worsening with phases of the moon. Is it really the moon affecting them? Do the rhythms in human behavior have any connection with biological clocks? If so, how do they operate, how are they controlled?

The studies of clocks in crabs and other animals can lead to answers.

Think Stevenson Wants to Seek Presidency Again

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Top party leaders carried away from a campaign kickoff rally here this weekend the impression that Adlai E. Stevenson is prepared to fight for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson, who became the 1952 standard-bearer with reluctance because he may have foreseen his subsequent defeat by President Eisenhower, maintained his usual public silence on future plans.

But there was some evidence that the former Illinois governor is coming to major his role as titular leader of the Democratic party more than he ever believed he would. Despite the vexations of almost continuous travel in this year's campaign, he has confessed to friends that he has definitely taken of rebuilding the party fascinates him.

Stevenson has maintained in talks with party leaders that it is too early even to discuss the presidential race two years from now. Although he believes Eisenhower has slipped in popularity, he is inclined to think that no president could retain the level of the 1952 sweep.

Nevertheless, it is evident Stevenson feels that if the record of the first 30 months of the Eisenhower administration is a criterion, a Democrat will have a good chance of winning the presidency two years from now.

Stirling

STIRLING. — Rev. W. H. V. Walker officiated for the recent marriage of Ivy Jean Ireland, of Pontypool and John R. Elliott, of Dunsford, at the Presbyterian manse.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conley attended the Woodley-Hooper wedding at Lindsay and spent the week-end with relatives.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker attended a presbytery meeting in Picton last week.

The Cubs held their first meeting at the public school with almost fifty boys in attendance. Stories and games were enjoyed.

St. Paul's Mission Band and their leaders entertained St. Paul's Baby Band, Wednesday afternoon. A special graduation ceremony was held when the Mission Band members welcomed a large number of new members who were graduating from the younger group. Refreshments were served at the close.

Mr. Frank Hastings has 42 Boy Scouts in his troop. The patrol leaders chose their boys and all enjoyed games at the high school.

Mr. Paul Packman, who just recently returned to Stirling, attended this meeting. Mr. Tom Wells is Troop leader and Ronnie Woodbeck was appointed ASM.

The interment of a former resident, Mrs. A. J. Reid, of Oshawa, was made in Stirling Cemetery on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. H. C. Secker, Rural Dean of Hastings, is attending an Alumni meeting at Trinity College.

Mr. Glenn Whitehead has purchased the double house owned by Mr. Kenneth Belcour, Henry Street. Mr. and Mrs. Belcour are moving at an early date to their new home in Belleville.

Mrs. A. Packman gave an address on the theme "Harvest Home", at the Ladies' W.A. for their September meeting.

Dr. A. Pedneau and his son, Paul, organized a Young People's Union on Monday evening at the church. Many parents were in attendance and all were invited to attend a wiener roast at Foxboro.

All members must be attending Stirling high school or be 14 years of age. The officers are, president, Bryce Philp; vice-president, Joan Bradshaw; recording secretary, Ruth Brady; correspondence secretary, Marilyn Wright; treasurer, Don Campbell; pianist, Donna Stapley.

Conveners, Fellowship, Grant Richardson; Missions, Ruth Duncan; Citizenship, Allan Munroe; Culture, Ron Williams; Leadership Training, Laura Lee; Recreational and Transportation, Helen Irish, Marg. Ketcheson, Bob Eggleston and Bob Jeffrey; Publicity, Glenn Belcour and Bob Palmer.

Mrs. Helena Wickett has left for her home in Saskatoon, Sask., after spending the past 13 months with her sister, Mrs. A. Clendenning.

The Board of St. Paul's United Church recently interviewed Mr. E. Death of Neepawa, Manitoba, and engaged both Mr. and Mrs. Death as organist and choir leaders for the coming year.

They hope to move to Stirling about the middle of October, with both Mr. and Mrs. Death teaching piano and organ and Mrs. Death teaches vocal lessons. She will direct the senior and junior choirs of St. Paul's.

TO ENTER RED PORT

KOBE, Japan (Reuters) — The Japanese freighter Kobe Maru sailed from here Sunday for the Manchurian port of Dairen, where she will be the first Japanese ship to enter the harbor since the Communist regime came to power in China. Peiping gave permission last month for Japanese ships to enter the port.

You know all those little concealed knobs and gadgets at the front of your TV set? And the adjustable things at the back?

Well, here's some friendly advice: leave 'em alone!

Playing with those controls seldom results in a better picture. But it often does lead to the spoiling of your enjoyment and resulting in a hefty service bill.

Use the set-on switch, regulate the volume and adjust to your hearty content, but unless you're electronically qualified, don't monkey with the concealed controls.

Your TV service representative is the best qualified person to make adjustments. He knows what those controls are for, how to use them and how they have on the rest of the mechanism.

Today's TV receiver is a pretty sturdy affair. With normal use, it'll give you maximum performance for years. You won't be bothered with unnecessary and part replacements. So leave the tinkering to the experts.

And speaking of experts, why not pay us a visit? We've got a lot in common. We're both TV fans.

The ultra-smart Hallicrafter is factory-intended so you don't have to find a place for it in your living room. It's TV, but it's furniture. Take one home. There's no charge. Hitchon Radio and Television, 4 Bridge St. East.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was weighing pop smoking to himself behind his newspaper, and she said, After all, William, 3 pounds a month is nuthing to get wildly excited about.

Are you speaking of English money? pop said, and ma said, I'm speaking of human pounds. That's the amount I lost during the past month, and as I say, I'm not going around bailing the news from every roof top, because 3 pounds in one month is certainly no world's record, she said.

Just the same, it's 3 pounds, pop said, and ma said, Exactly, William, I mean that's what I mean. There are very few things that can't be improved by moderation, and weight reducing is no grand exception. You cant lose a pound a day without losing your belt with it, and that's certainly not a fair exchange, she said.

On the contrary, it's robbery, pop said, and ma said, After all, 3 pounds a month doesn't sound like a grate deal, but take your time and multiply it by 12, and you have 24 pounds a year, all with moderation.

You're going to injoy taking your dresses in, pop said, and I said, Hay ma, how is it you wayed yourself the first thing this morning instead of waiting for after dinner?

Yes, gods, have you been bragging about your morning weight? pop said, and ma said, Well, what's the difference, as long as I way myself at the same hour every day. I've meerly changed my waying time from evening to morning, she said.

It's a woman's world, and it's growing lighter all the time, pop said.

Being partly sourcastic.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

OSHAWA HERE TONIGHT.

There will be no horseplay at the Exhibition Park tonight when the Batas tangle with the Oshawa Transporters in the first of their best-of-three senior baseball playdowns series. Both Manager Carson and Coach Quesnel realize the importance of this first game and they will be out to win it with all flags flying. We have no idea whom Coach Geyer will give the pitching nod, but it will likely be his ace righthander and lead off batter and hard hitting outfielder Ari Wright. Should be a good diamond battle and a large crowd is expected to see the fray. Game at eight o'clock.

GALLANT SHIP.

Paul Mercier has had some interesting, intriguing colorful displays in his popular Front Street jewellery store windows but one that brought a strong touch of nostalgia to this corner is the handsome model of the famous fishing schooner "Bluenose." The prize-winning model made to scale by Norman P. Langford, secretary treasurer of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company is a masterpiece of the modelling craftsman's art. It is 54 inches in length and is correct down to the minutest detail. It will remain in the Mercier window for the next week and those interested should not miss seeing it. And if you want to see the actual Queen of the Atlantic in racing action, there are two handsome pictures in the Eddie Thomas Tobacco Shop.

We had a particular interest in the model and pictures for it was abroad Skipper Angus Walter's famous racing schooner, that we wrote our first newspaper story. In fact the story was judged one of the best on non-sporting events (sensational guys) and one of the loudest on schooner racing.

In fact the reportial mug was greener than the water that reared over the scuppers as the gallant "Bluenose" heeled over in her trial runs on a thirty-mile triangular course off Halifax.

The champion of the Atlantic fishing fleet, undefeated in international schooner racing, now lies resting in a sea grave off the coast of Brazil. At one time she lay at the government wharf here in Belleville while en route to the World's Fair at Chicago.

The "Bluenose" was "born" in a dusty cobwebby office in a small soft-drink factory on a waterfront street in Halifax. Its designer, William "Billy" Roue, little dreamed that his "one-of-a-thumb" schooner would one day become world famous.

The "Bluenose" was designed to beat the American champion which won the first international races in 1920. The Yankee Queen "Esperanto," had defeated the Canadian "Delaware" in two straight races in the Halifax classic.

The graceful streamlined ship slid into the water, we believe it was at Lunenburg, N.S. But Billy Roue was not satisfied. There was something about the figurative "cut of the jib" he did not like. He changed the lines of her knife-like bow without disturbing the required 105 overall length demanded by international racing rules.

Skippered by the famous Captain Angus Walters, the new schooner raced to a decisive two-race victory over the American "Elsie" on October 21-23, 1921. She won a $4,000 purse the Halifax Herald Trophy and the fishing schooner championship of the North Atlantic which she carried to her watery grave.

Billy Roue's fame mushroomed. It grew by leaps and bounds. He received requests for yacht designing from all parts of the United States and Canada. He received offers from American fishing interests to design a schooner to whip the saucy, cocky "Bluenose." The proud Gloucester, Mass., skippers' prestige had been hurt. They were not going to stand for their upstart "Bluenose," whether human or ships, to take away their salt-water honors.

But Roue failed to satisfy their desires. Try as he may he could not put on paper the design to whip his first nautical brainchild. The "Henry Thibeault" came into being, round by "Bluenose" and was defeated. Feelings grew bitter between the Canadian and American fishermen over the question. The first prize money was held up.

Then, the story was told, the fiery Walters challenged the Americans to a match race from Halifax to Rio de Janiero, and return, a cargo race at that. The challenge was not accepted.

The gallant "Bluenose" had a colorful career. She braved the "Banks" on fishing forays. She ran from St. Pierre et Miquelon with valuable "cargos." She knew the "twelve mile limit" as well as the salty harbors of the island of Saint Pierre.

She had red mahogany flooring in her skipper's cabin. She faced and braved the worst the stormy Atlantic could offer. She was the showpiece of the Maritimes, and the pride of the eastern seaboard. Hard-bitten Gloucester skippers grudgingly admitted her superiority when the racing signals were aflutter.

She was invited to the Chicago World's Fair and as was mentioned before, paused at Belleville en route. Hundreds of citizens visited her and thousands inspected the trim Canadian schooner in Bowerbird's in the Windy City.

But in 1942, we are told, the gallant ship went to her final nautical resting place in the blue waters of the Caribbean off the island of Haiti.

We recall those colorful days in Halifax when "schooner-racing" time rolled around. What the world series is to New York, so was this great international racing classic to Haligonians. The water front was packed with people on race days. The "Citadel Hill" was the mecca for thousands. News of the races was sparse and unreliable. There were no "walkie-talkies" in those days. Radios were "crystal sets."

But when the gallant "Bluenose" was reported entering the long Halifax harbor, running all out with a foaming "bone in her teeth" well ahead of the American challenger, a tall-throated roar echoed over the city. For these "Bluenose" are intensely loyal, far more so than we "Upper Canadians." About the only equal we would say is that near-fanatical feeling the Flatbushers have for their beloved "Buma," the Dodgers.

Razor-Sharp 'Barber' Maglie Flings 5-Hitter for Victory; Indians Score 11th Win in Row

By BEN PHILBRICK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians and New York Giants open the world series in the Polo Grounds a week from Wednesday and the flags in Flatbush probably are flying at half mast.

For the first time since baseball magnates became convinced their athletes would be better conditioned for the 154-game grind within the help of warm sun and palm trees in the early spring, Florida doesn't have a world series entry.

The Indians and Giants shunned the orange juice circuit for the sands and sun of Arizona. With only the Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles around for league companions, the two clubs played each other often enough to scout the players by heart.

On their barnstorming tour back to the majors the Giants and Indians played the same 13 times in 21 games, often by such scores as 20-14 or 15-9.

AFTER WIN HIGH

Al Lopez flatly predicted a pennant for his Indians and made good on at least half of that. The Tribe has a new all-time high in victories.

Leo Durocher never predicted a pennant. He said his Giants, with the return of Willie Mays, "will be a ball club."

"Brooklyn is the team to beat," Leo said in April. "Philadelphia and Milwaukee will be the best them opening day with Mays hitting a 425-foot home run. Brooklyn, with the Ebbets Field, home of the Dodgers, Durocher's men clinched the pennant. Sal "The Barber" Maglie was razor sharp as he scattered five Dodger hits. Brooklyn's Carl Erskine and Duke Snider with two out. Gil Hodges followed with a single and Snider will be a routine fly. Then it sank rapidly in the murky night and fell just in front of Mays, who made a belly slide on the slick turf.

TWO-RUN LEAD

The Giants jumped off to a two-run lead in the first inning on a walk to Whitey Lockman, Al Dark's single followed by a sacrifice and singles by Mays and Hank Thompson.

Don Mueller's single and doubles by Thompson and Monte Irvin produced two more in the sixth and wrapped up the flag for sure.

Durocher called his team a better outfit than the 1951 pennant winners who caught Brooklyn and won in a playoff after being far behind in mid-August.

While the Giants were clinching their flag, the Indians won their 11th straight and ran their victory total to 100. They are on target for American League record set by the 1927 Yankees.

Bobby Shantz pitched the Indians to a 7-4 triumph over the Chicago White Sox with the help of two home runs by Larry Doby and Vic Wertz.

The battles for fourth place, and its share of the world series loot, tightened in both leagues. Cincinnati split with Milwaukee, winning 3-1 after losing 6-2, and holds a two-game lead over St. Louis. The Cardinals defeated Chicago 7-2 with five runs in the 10th inning. The idle Philadelphia Phillies are but a less than half a percentage point behind the Cardinals.

BOSOX HOLD FOURTH

Boston held fourth in the American League with a 5-2 triumph over the Athletics. Detroit, half a game back of the Red Sox, defeated Baltimore 4-3 and Washington, another half game behind, shaded the Yanks 3-2.

Warren Spahn pitched the Milwaukee victory and became the first lefthander ever to win 20 games in six different seasons in the National League.

The Giants' triumph climaxed a three-month defense of first place. Off to a slow start the New Yorkers, who had finished 5 games behind the Dodgers last year, caught fire in late May and pulled into the lead on June 12.

It was theirs from then on although the rivals shaved the margin on four different occasions. The most narrow escape came on Aug. 19 when their edge over Brooklyn was cut to a mere half game.

The Giants roared back with seven straight victories and capped their pennant drive with their straight over third - place Milwaukee last week.

GARY SCHREIDER

Fleet-footed Gary Schreider scored three touchdowns and kicked a convert for the Queen's University senior intercollegiate football team against St. Lawrence University in the Golden Gaels 41-6 victory over the American college team. Gary ran 90 yards for one major score, and 64 yards for another. . . . the well-known umpire-athlete, Ed Schreider, formerly of this city and now of Toronto, Gary received his early gridiron training here under Coach Jack Doran at St. Michael's Academy. Later he starred for St. Michael's College, Toronto, and was leading point scorer in the Catholic Conference.

Bedlam in Brooklyn Monday Night But Nary a Dodger 'Hove' in Sight

BROOKLYN (AP)—There was bedlam in Brooklyn Monday night but not a Dodger was in sight.

Under the stands in Ebbets Field, the Giants were going wild, celebrating their 7-1 victory over Brooklyn that clinched the National League flag. While players were congratulating each other and slapping everybody within hailing distance on the back, the flash bulbs and champagne corks were competing with each other to see which could make the loudest pops.

In the middle of the future. Leo Durocher, whose astute managing was largely responsible for the Giants' second flag in four years was showering every Giant player with praise.

LEO GETS HOARSE

"Great, great," he kept repeating, "they were all wonderful. This was a team victory, make no mistake about it. Everybody played a part. They never let down. The tougher the spot, the better they played. They are one any credit it's all theirs."

One by one the players, first Whitey Lockman, then Hank Thompson, then the coaches popped their way toward Durocher to shake his hand.

"Congrats, Leo," they said, "you did a great job."

"Not me," Durocher replied hoarsely. "You're the fellows who hit the ball. You're the guys who did the throwing and fielding."

Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' personable president, and his quiet and gentlemanly manager, Walter Alston, managed to break through the mob of Giant players to congratulate Durocher.

"The better team won," said Alston. "Now I hope you go out and beat those Indians."

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—It was all over, even the shouting.

The victorious Giants, a jubilant gang of merrymakers, had long since departed after celebrating their pennant victory in true style, complete with champagne and more sober refreshments.

There was not much life in the Brooklyn clubhouse either, although a group of Dodgers were still sitting around, trying to put the pieces together. It was so quiet, you could hear the pennant drive.

Walter Alston, the freshman manager, sat silently in a chair, dejected and still bewildered. The fellow said he had been sitting there for nearly an hour.

As if suddenly aware that he was expected to say something, Alston looked around and began to talk.

"It wasn't just one thing," he murmured. "It was a combination of things. It wasn't Campanella alone. We might have won despite Roy's bad hand. But Furillo didn't start to hit until mid-season. Newcombe never did get started. Erskine failed to take up the slack. Oh, so many things. We just didn't play good ball.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE

"There is quite a difference between the two clubs," he continued softly. "You could see it out there today. Everything the winners did, we played like losers. They had that feeling. We didn't. They did everything right. We did everything wrong.

"Don't underestimate the Giants. They've been a great club in the clutch all year. I don't see why they shouldn't be just as tough in the world series. They've got good relief pitching and a good bench."

One player who refused to concede himself was Roy Campanella.

"Nobody hurt the team more than I did," the greatest catching hitting .300. I should have done better—even with one hand."

Campanella didn't bother to add that most of the time he was swinging a bat with one hand.

Plan Merger NY Race Tracks, Would Eliminate Private Gain

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A plan designed to rehabilitate New York racing tracks at the cost of some $18,000,000 through the merger of the four New York racing associations and the closing away of all private profits was under consideration today.

The plan, drawn up by a special committee representing the Jockey Club, calls for the probable concentration of all racing in the metropolitan area, at a rebuilt Belmont Park and extensive improvements to the ancient Saratoga track all operated on a non-profit basis.

Belmont Park, the newest and most modern of the New York racing plants, would be reconstructed at an estimated cost of $15,000,000. A stake of $3,000,000 would be spent in modernizing Saratoga, which operates during August. Aqueduct would be torn down and the land sold.

Aqueduct would be retained as it is, at least until work on Belmont has been completed. If the need is great, a track for winter would be built in the reasonable future at a cost of between $40,000,000 and $40,000,000.

To finance the project, The Jockey Club would raise funds through long-term borrowing. The net profits, now estimated at more than $2,300,000 in 1952, would be put back into improvements.

The plan, announced by Chairman Ashley T. Cole, chairman of the state racing commission since 1951, has advanced to the extent that The Jockey Club has options on 85 per cent of the stock of the Westchester Racing Association, which operates Belmont Park. Residents of the other three associations said they would discuss the proposal with the boards of directors before making any announcement.

Also under consideration is a reduction in the size of the track at Roosevelt Raceway, the largest oval in the country. It is a mile and one-half track and the proposal calls for reducing the distance to a mile and an eighth.

American League Opens Oct. 9

NEW YORK (CP)—The American League of Professional Lacrosse will open its 1954 schedule Oct. 9, with all eight teams in action, it was announced today. The teams will play an unbalanced schedule, worked out according to geography.

The league reopens this year to Springfield, Mass., after a lapse of three years during which the franchise was operated in Syracuse. Springfield will be at home on the Thursday before the first night, while Montreal plays at Hershey and Buffalo at Pittsburgh and Hershey and Rochester and Springfield.

The regular season will end March 20 to be followed by the Mann Cup, emblematic of which the first four teams will qualify.

SPORT IN BRIEF

CABLES FIGHT OFFER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said today he has cabled an offer to newly - crowned bantamweight champion Jimmy Cohen of France to meet the winner of the Raton Macias-Willie Toweel fight in a match this winter. Brooks, North American Caribbean champion from Cleveland and Macias, of Mexico, meet in Mexico City Sunday.

ORDER REPLAY

MITCHELL, Ont. (CP) — A replay of an Ontario Baseball Association intermediate B playoff series between Mitchell and Dublin has been ordered by the league. Mitchell won the best-of-five series 4-3 and 3-1 but Dunham protested the first game, claiming a 12th inning error when a Mitchell batter bunted foul and the ball was caught. Two Mitchell runners on first and second advanced a base and were not forced back. The league ruled the runners should have gone back.

The replay was set for Wednesday in Dunham.

Bowling

MEN'S COMMERCIAL LEAGUE

The Men's Commercial Bowling league commenced league competitions for the new season at the Bowl-O-Drome on Friday night, with Fed-Ups teams defeated in the Ontario Intelligencer entry by a 7-0 score. Quinte District—Emmerson, Stephens-Adamson, Bostaks and Alemite were 3 to 2 winners over Weaver Glass, Bell Telephone, Barrett's Jewellers and the ACT club respectively.

The high total triple was rolled by Quinte Distributors with a 3429 score.

The individual scoring honors were shared by Joe Valchuk with a triple of 738 and Art Whalen topped the singles with an even 300.

Other good scores were rolled by Mark Storms 728; Earl MacDonald 715; Bill Hall 707; C. Whalies 697; J. Boyd 684; A. Whalen 681; G. Corbett 677; R. Peoples 667 and Dave Batchelor 661.

WILL MISS OPENING

NEW YORK (CP)—Wally Hergesheimer, New York Rangers right winger who suffered a broken leg last season, will miss the opening of the National Hockey League season, it was learned Monday. A report from the Rangers' training camp in Vancouver said the fracture was healing slowly.

CANADIANS LEAD

AMSTERDAM (CP)—Canada defeated Finland 10½-½ with two matches adjourned in the consolation play of the world chess championships Monday. The Canadians increased their first-place margin in the eighth round of the consolation table in which 14 countries are competing. Canada now has 21½ points, Switzerland 20 and

Wooton Stars In Petes Win Over Shamrocks

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Lloyd (Mickey) Wooton, the lacrosse goalie who has played on the last four Mann Cup winning teams, appears headed for his home again unless Victoria Shamrocks can stage a weak spell in his netminding.

The husky, genial goalie for Peterborough Trailermen once more came through with a brilliant performance as the eastern champions whipped the Shamrocks 7-4 here Monday night to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven final for the Canadian senior lacrosse title.

Wootton, who picked up his nickname because of a smiling, moon-shaped face, has bounced back from a uninspired effort in the opening game on the west coast errors 8-4 to spark the Trailermen to two straight victories.

TOP GOALIE

He is generally recognized as the top goalie in lacrosse. He played for Owen Sound when it won the Mann Cup in 1950 and in the following three years sparked the Trailermen to their victories for the championship.

The fourth game of this year's series will be here Wednesday.

A crowd of 2,900 in the outdoor Millen Road Monday night saw the Trailermen and Shamrocks at bay until 13:58 of the second period when goalie Jack Bionda got their first goal. As in the second game, the Trailermen quickly responded to scoring their initial goal until the final minute of the first period. Then on Saturday night there was no stopping them after that.

They clicked for five more goals before Bionda got the first of his three goals in the match that winter. Brooks, North American Caribbean champion from Cleveland and Macias, of Mexico, meet in Mexico City Sunday.

'Gentlemen Jack' And Baillargeon In Main Bout

Gentleman Jack Claybourne, one of the cleverest wrestlers to grace a Belleville mat, will battle with popular Paul Baillargeon in the main bout at Memorial Arena Friday night. The card will mark the final wrestling feature of the 1954 season.

Claybourne and Baillargeon are two of the fast, clean school. There is no rough business in their collective heads, so the bout looms up as one of the most entertaining clashes seen here this season.

And the midgets are back to help wrestling list its seasonal zizzy. Little Beaver and pal Brown Panther will team up against Fuzzy Cupid and Tom Thumb in a pint-size tag team bout that needs no introduction to the Belleville faithful.

The preliminary will be a Battle of the Pals, with Flanagan of that name and Fraley ditto ushering in the night's fun.

Royals, Chiefs Hold 3-2 Edge In Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs and Montreal Royals each need only one victory to advance to the final round of the International League playoffs.

The Chiefs took a 3-3 lead in their best-of-seven series Monday night with a 1-0 victory over the pennant winning Toronto Maple Leafs while the Royals took the same margin over Rochester Red Wings with a 3-2 triumph.

Jack Meyer checked the Leafs with three hits and permitted only one runner to reach second base as he notched his second victory of the series. Eddie Blake, Monday night pitcher, held the Chiefs to five hits.

The Chiefs scored their only run in the sixth inning when Benny Valenti singled, stole second on Bob Bowman's sacrifice and tallied on Marvin Blaylock's single. Ed Bouchee went all the way for Montreal against the Wings. Dick Williams drove in 2-2 runs in the eighth inning when he singled home Gino Cimoli, who had singled and stolen second and third respectively.

The other runs all were the result of homers: Rookey Nelson hit one for two runs in the first of Wing starter Henry Lone but Bill Virdon came right back with another two-run round-tripper in the sixth to tie it.

Ezzard Charles Might Have Won By a Nose

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, said Monday he intended to stop the fight if Marciano had not knocked out Ezzard Charles in the eighth round of last Friday's title bout.

Weill said the cut nose Marciano had suffered earlier in the bout was only an inch long "and he couldn't handle it in the corner."

"After further rounds would only have worsened the wound 'and my main concern now is that the fighter be repaired for fighting again."

Rocky visited doctors here Monday and said afterwards: "They didn't take any stitches and they said they will heal. So, the doctor is mainly concerned about infection now. I'm going back to see him tomorrow."

Weill said that Nature will probably heal the wound better than anything else, but it will be some time before the nose is back to normal.

SETS NEW RECORD

LONDON (Reuters) — A British prop-jet Viscount airliner set a record Sunday by flying from London to New York and back in 48 minutes at an average speed of 533 miles per hour. The plane, on a scheduled British European Airways passenger flight, cut 37 minutes off normal flying time in establishing the unofficial record.

Warren Spahn Wins Twenty For Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The first lefthanded pitcher in National League history ever to win 20 games in six different seasons figures to keep right on going.

Warren Spahn, only the fourth National League pitcher in modern annals to hit the 20 mark that many times, fanned eight batters as he posted a 6-3 win over Cincinnati for the Milwaukee Braves that he helped pace to their second straight pennant.

"I feel I can win maybe 25 next year if everything goes right," he said. "I don't think any pitcher ought to win 20 games a year if he's with a last place club."

Spahn, 33 years old last April and an old man as major league pitchers go, looked any place but that he is nearing the end of the line.

NAME LACH COACH

MONTREAL (CP)—Elmer Lach, former star with the Montreal Canadiens' famed punch line, Monday was named to coach Montreal Canadiens of the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

Appointment of the 37-year-old Lach, a veteran of 14 seasons with the National Hockey League Canadiens, was announced at a meeting of the junior Canadiens. Lach was voted three times to the NHL first all-star team and twice led the NHL in scoring during his career. He retired at the end of last season.

Ray Poole Leads Big Three In Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — Ray Poole, placement-kicking specialist with Montreal Alouettes, has depended on his accurate kicking to boost him into the Big Four scoring leadership.

The veteran import from New York Giants kicked two field goals to Als last 7-6 victory Thursday night. Calgary to give him a 25-point total made up of four field goals, one single and 13 converts. He is one up on Toronto's Norb Hecker, first-year import from Los Angeles Rams who climbed two notches with a 13-point day as Argonauts walloped Ottawa Rough Riders 34-6.

Dick Shatto of Argonauts, from the University of Kentucky this year, and Chuck Webster of the Als are tied in third place with 20 points each. Webster, formerly with Carolina Cardinals and last week's leader, heads the Big Four in rushing with 358 yards on 65 line smashes.

In other individual statistics, Bobby Wirkowski of Argonauts took over the lead in pass completions, connecting on 42. Sam Etcheverry of the Als, last week's leader, was held to 13 completions in 31 attempts for 413 yards and now has a mark of 55.1.

MOST YARDAGE

But Etcheverry leads in yards gained with 984 and number of completions with 65.

Bill McFarlane, former University of Toronto star playing his first Big Four season, leads in pass interception with seven. Here are the scoring statistics, compiled by The Canadian Press:

Batting—Willie Mays, New York Giants, collected three hits in five times to bat as he took over the National League batting lead with an average of .344.

Junior Leagues May Interlock

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Officials of Thunder Bay and Manitoba Junior Hockey Leagues Monday indicated the two leagues will have an interlocking schedule this year. Delegates from Winnipeg Monarchs, Winnipeg Barons and St. Boniface Canadiens of the Manitoba League and Fort William Canadiens, Fort William Hurricanes and Fort Arthur Bruins of the Thunder Bay League attended a meeting here Sunday to work out the schedule.

The Thunder Bay team, Port Arthur North Stars, was not represented, as the agreement will not be signed until the team is heard from, officials said.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union race has tightened up.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers moved into a first-place deadlock with Saskatchewan Monday night by virtue of a 28-7 victory over the Roughriders in Winnipeg.

On the coast, Edmonton Eskimos tamed British Columbia Lions 23-13 before a record western conference crowd.

Winnipeg and Saskatchewan have 12 points each, followed by the idle Calgary Stampeders with eight. Edmonton has six points but the Eskimos have played two games less than their Alberta rivals. The Lions bring up the rear with the two points they earned with an upset win over the Stampeders Saturday.

Winnipeg made 345 yards rushing against the Saskatchewan line. The losers, however, netted 179 yards passing compared with 27 for Blue Bombers.

Bothered by weak defensive work, the Lions had an inkling of what to expect after Mcwhinney took a pass deep in the Lions backfield and ran from his own 75-C. The Eskimos completed eight out of 15 passes and the Lions 15 of 29 attempts.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Specialists in baseball's freakish disappointing Brooklyn Dodgers miss-ply now report that the defending league champions threw with the slows under their new manager, Walt Alston.

If the Brooks continue for the remainder of the week at their present pace, they will finish the season with approximately 45 stolen bases, half as many as they racked up for Chuck Dressen last year.

They will have grounded into about 25 more than the 113 double plays against them Dressen was signalling for the hit and run. Their opponents during the season have committed almost 25 fewer errors than they did last year. Which may explain the decline of the Dodgers' running game.

There is no disputation in Manager Alston. The highest club which had aged one year, and he probably was glad of it when he sat down and let his veterans drive the runs across.

A citizens Olympic committee, numbering 100 of Melbourne's civic leaders, has been organized to arrange the bedding down of the thousands of visitors expected for the 1956 olympics.

Edmonton's new stadium promises every visitor will have an airy room and running water.

Willy Mays, at 23, is only the fifth highest batter in the National League history in his misery as at 23 home runs in a season. Only three other who have equalled or bettered the figure are Hack Wilson, Johnny Mize, Rogers Hornsby and Ray Campanella. All were comparative veterans when they did it.

Only two National League right-handers, Warren Spahn and Curt Furfio of the Dodgers — have posted season batting averages higher than .333 in the last 10 years. The phenom from Alabama is one to be scored first figure, and he's still a growing boy.

"WHY I Buy My Insurance From An Agent . . . !"

"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the insurance company, knowledge and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?"

So says an insurance buyer.

Yes "It's wise to buy your insurance from the man who knows the bees — and even wiser to buy your insurance from the man who knows the business."

Point Anne Blanks Brockville 6-0 Behind Maracle's One-Hit Hurling

(BY GARRY ALEXANDER)

A bent single in the first inning robbed Pat Maracle of a no-hit, no-run ball game in Brockville last night as the Point Anne Cementmen racked up a 6-0 victory over the Brockville George and Dots' Intermediate "A" nine. This was the first game in a best-of-three O.A.S.A. series with the second date agreed upon for the return fixture.

Maracle allowed only four base runners during the nine innings with one reaching second and the others dying on first. Don Easter, second man to face the dusky-hurler in the initial frame dropped a bunt down the first base line and beat Gilmour's throw by half a step. He stole second while walks to the third, sixth and ninth were the only other men to reach first. Maracle whiffed 14 while his mates played errorless ball behind him. Clat Collison tallied the distance in the sixth second while the Cementers to one run over the first two innings. They scored a pair in the fifth both unearned, while sowing up the decision in the seventh with a trio. Collison was touched for 12 safe blows, fanned once and was while walking only one.

Leo Coyer recorded the victors' initial marker in the second frame when he sliced the loser's first pitch over the leftfield fence for a homer but Collison settled down and it looked like a keen pitching duel. In the sixth, Jake Wade pulled a single through short and Coyer drove through again. He liked a single to left centre that went through Moran for an error allowing Wade to score. Moran fired the ball into third, wild for another error with Coyer going home and the 2-0 score.

Sam Mulholland opened the seventh inning rally with its second bunt-single of the ball game and Doug Hull beat a slow-roller to second for another infield hit. Roger Mallory promptly delivered a line triple over the right fielder's head to plate both runners. John Green then made the first out of the inning with a liner to left but Jake Wade singled to centre for the sixth marker.

Brilliant catches in the outfield by Sam Mulholland and Frank Moran were the best defensive plays of the game while the Pointers handled everything with ease. The losers had the only double-play of the fixture in the fifth frame when Collison grabbed Hull's sharp bunt and doubled Mulholland at first.

Leo Coyer starred on offense with a homer and single. Sam Mulholland had a brace of bunt-singles while Doug Hull, John Green and Roger Mallory had one two-bagger apiece.

The lineups:

Point Anne: Mulholland lf, Bill Strahan lf, Hull ss, Mallory rf, Green c, Wade cf, L. Goyer 2b, Gilmour 1b, Maracle 3b, Bob Strahan lb, Maracle p.

Brockville: Moran lf, Mc Kay 2b, Easter c, Collison p, R. Easter 3b, Chevrier lb, Robertson rf, Pearce rf, Johnson ss, Hoy ss, Thom 3b, Kyle cf.

Line score:

| | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Point Anne | 010 002 300—6 | 12 | 0 |
| Brockville | 000 000 000—0 | 4 | 2 |

Umpires: Ethier (Belleville), McKay and Christopher (Brockville). Time 1.25.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning pop started to bite his toast slow and then stopped biting at all, saying to ma, I've got a tooth ake, my dear, let's face it.

I've been facing it ever since last nite, ma said, and pop said, The conventional thing for me to do in a situation like this would be to stop in at the dentist's on my way to the office.

In fact it's the one and only thing to do, ma said, and pop said, Not at all. A strong minded man can turn pain into an asset instead of a liability. The Yogies of India think their loftiest thoughts while lying on a bed of nails dressed only in a pair of shorts, he said.

You must of dreemed you were trying it last nite, the way you tossed and turned and moaned and groaned, ma said, and pop said, A famous French novelist wrote a masterpiece after masterpiece, although his constant companions were a raging head ake and a berning fever. His name was Marcel Proust, pop said.

Are you sure it wasn't Lais Mayo ceasles? ma said, and pop said, It's simply a question of point over matter. Is there any reason I cant go strake to my office as usual and ignore my tooth ake so successfully that it will vanish from sheer neglect? he said.

I called up the dentist while you were shaving, and he made an appointment for you at 3 thirty, ma said. So if you dont keep it, he'll charge you for the time just the same. So now the best you can do is ignore pain for a while and stare in his chair, she said, and pop said, I'll make him give me a shot of something.

Meening to keep him from feeling two singles each. Mallory contributed a two-run triple and Pat Maracle aided his own cause with a single.

Trade Officials Resign, Protest Re-appointment

GRAND BANK, Nfld. (CP)—Some government and trade officials on the nearby French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon have resigned in protest to the re-appointment of Governor Davier for another term, regular trading with south coast town said Monday.

Many islanders had expected appointment of a new governor when Master was recalled to Paris for consultations recently. There had been objections to several taxes imposed during his term of office.

The reports said members of town and general councils and the Chamber of Commerce walked out when Governor Davier returned with the blessing of the French colonial office.

The exact number of resignations was not known here but was reported to number several. Most significant revenue is limited to fishing and tourists, is highly subsidized by France.

The colony is France's oldest and smallest and is populated by 5,500 persons who live off the fishery, the many stores, or the government.

It is administered by a governor, directly responsible to Paris and three French representatives in the French Parliament; one in the Chamber of Deputies, one in the Senate and one in the Council of the French Union.

Discuss Pensions For Disabled

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial welfare officials met Monday to discuss negotiations for payments to disabled persons, and Health Minister Martin said later substantial agreement was reached on most points.

The discussions conclude today. They deal with pensions to be paid under legislation passed at the last session of Parliament, whereby the federal treasury will contribute provincial contributions up to an aggregate of $40 a month for the totally and permanently disabled.

Legislation still has to be passed in some provinces, and the minister said agreements have also to be signed between federal and provincial governments.

Leaves Trail of Bills

TORONTO (CP)—Police said a bandit robbed a downtown jewelry store of $20 Monday, then escaped —leaving a trail of $1 bills.

Proprietor Morris Wasserman told officers the holdup came after the man asked to see some wrist watches.

Police said the bandit must have lost his grip on the packet of bills as he ran out. One by one they fell to the pavement behind him, leaving the robber with less than $20 by the time he escaped.

SETS WORLD MARK

DELAWAR., O. (AP) — The $1,800 Walnut Hall Farm Stake for three-year-old pacing fillies produced a world record Monday and nine starters for Thursday's $70,000 Little Brown Jug as a week of grand circuit activity opened. Phantom Lady, owned by Walnut Hall Farm of Lowell, Ky., won the second heat in 2:01 2-5 to lower the former record of 2:01 4-5, set by Miss Bonnie Bayover in 1952. Custom Lady was upset in the first heat by Ky Scotch Belle. The two will start in the Jug.

The logical bridge policy is to reach the highest safe contract in the most satisfactory tramp suit, if any. Masters of the highest rating, however, seem to use such a situation for a football.

They kick it back and forth between their partnership. Now and then their opponents enter the melee. Before they settle down it looks as if somebody is trying to get blood out of a turnip.

From the rationals you see here deal number ten:

As my fool can plainly see, In a heart game contract it should be. That a heart game contract can be defeated with a club lead is unfortunate. Good bidding takes it there regardless of result.

Of the 36 tables in this match, one lone exception was a final contract of three no-trump. There is at least one in every den where big shots congregate, the no-trump bound incurable.

Frequently he has a chance to torment his opponents by putting to a better score he got by luck. But most of the lower than a four heart contract even though he took his needed nine tricks.

At the other 35 tables there were no contracts other than game or over, in hearts. But with game so evident, there were the usual few who stepped it up to five or a number of six hearts.

In any game contract an opening club lead from west is a fast killer. In hearts it means the loss of two club tricks and a ruff. Loss of two diamonds at many tables, however, a club was not led.

In game of four hearts, were 22 tables. Four made five and 20 made four exactly. The other five went down one. There were in five hearts; one making six, another five, a third went down one.

One table kicked it into six and went down two. One, in a double of six also went down two. One south player who was reluctant to bid, he managed to go down three. Just to be different, I suppose.

Truck Driver Killed, Nine Cars Derailed

MATTOON, Ill. (AP)—A speeding diesel-powered New York Central streamliner plowed into a gravel truck and careened from the rails Monday in a wreck that killed one person and injured 35 others.

The Southwestern Limited's second diesel unit leaped from the tracks and the next nine cars slid on their sides to a halt 200 yards beyond the crossing. The last two cars remained on the tracks.

Windows were smashed but the overturned cars did not splinter. Rescue crews said this saved many lives.

The train, eastbound from St. Louis to Minneapolis, hit the truck at Mission crossing—a point where the train reaches a speed of 70 miles an hour on a schedule stop at Mattoon five miles west.

The truck driver was killed.

"Hobson's Choice, Big Comedy Hit

David Lean's new comedy production, "Hobson's Choice", starring Charles Laughton, John Mills and Brenda De Banzie, is proving a big hit wherever it plays, recently finishing a 26 weeks' engagement at the Towne Cinema, Toronto.

The film tells the classic story of how Henry Hobson, a prosperous Lancashire bootmaker, is left with three daughters when his wife dies.

They look after his welfare, Hobson lives a contented life. He has plans for marrying off his two younger daughters but when he discovers that they have already chosen their future husbands (and that he is expected to provide handsome dowries, he refuses. Maggie, his eldest daughter, unprompted, goes against her father's decision and decides to marry Willie Mossop and makes the shoes for Hobson. Together, she and Willie set up a business of their own in opposition to Hobson.

The hilarious situations that follow reveal Charles Laughton in the role of Hobson, and John Mills as Willie Mossop, at their brilliant best. There is also a clever and appealing portrayal by Brenda de Banzie as Maggie. Here, indeed, is a fine picture of "Hobson's Choice", showing tonight, Wednesday and Thursday at the Belle theatre, matinee daily, it's a gem of a comedy if ever here was one.

TOULOUSE LAUTREC, COLORFUL

A special added attraction on the same program, is Toulouse Lautrec, depicting the life of the famous painter, with narration by Conrad Nagel, as it shows his paintings. The beauty of this 25 minute interesting featurette is enhanced by its presentation in Technicolor. Performances daily at 2.00, 7.00 and 9.10 p.m. Regular popular prices prevail.

AT THE CAPITOL — Esther Williams is seen with Jean Peters and Vivian Blaine in MGM's happy Technicolor hit "Skirts Ahoy" showing today and Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program Red Skelton in "The Great Diamond Robbery" now having its first showing.

Nelsons to Continue TV Show But Radio Show Dropped

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—An 11-year-old radio institution is going off the air, all because of the school plans of a couple of boys.

"The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" will not be heard on ABC radio this year. But the Nelsons will continue with their delightful capers on TV—as long as the show doesn't interfere with the private lives of sons David and Ricky.

Probably in no other instance does a million-dollar enterprise hinge on the activities of two young boys. But that's the way Ozzie and Harriet want it, and that's the way it will be.

10-YEAR CONTRACT

"We have a 10-year contract with ABC, which still has five years to go," Ozzie explained. "The boys' contract, as with all minors, is unilateral. They can back out of the show any time they want.

"That's the only way we would have it. After all, we don't want to impose on them anything they do not like. If at any time the work becomes an unpleasant burden to them, they are free to quit.

"Last spring we noticed that the work was cutting into David's activities. He was getting ready for high school and like all graduates had a lot of things to get to. He was free during the week, but on Saturday we had to shoot the TV show.

"Then on Sunday we had to record the radio show before an audience. Even though there was not much work involved, it still represents a strain on any performer.

"Now David is a college freshman. We want him to devote plenty of time to his studies and whatever student activities he wants to participate in. Rickey will be a sophomore at Hollywood high and a candidate for the football team. Between this and their weekly television chores, I think it is just about all any kid can handle.

INTEGRAL PART

"We hate to give up radio after all these years, but the boys have become such an integral part of the show that we wouldn't want to try it without them."

Production of the Ozzie and Harriet show is geared to the convenience of David, 17, and Ricky, 14. The parents and other members of the cast film their scenes on Friday, or other days of the week. All of the boys' scenes are shot on Saturday. This requires a lot of juggling. On some Saturdays, the company may be shooting scenes from the fifteenth shows.

The schedule is also planned to take account of school holidays at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter. The boys catch up on their filming then.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Encouraging influences for new endeavors and for completion of important unfinished matters. You can expect co-operation from friends, relatives during the day.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Generous indications, similar to those of Aries, now. Minor interests and major operations can both advance. Extend yourself to meet demands of your position; good results will follow.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A day in which you can better your status if you use your innate capabilities to their utmost. Subtle matters and those requiring close personal attention and clever management are most favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't act too quickly or too recklessly if you would accomplish all that is possible today. Advancement can be achieved in your job if you think clearly, are accurate, conscientious.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — No haphazard methods now. You will have to act astutely, with keen judgment and decisively to achieve good results. Handle domestic affairs with extreme care, kindliness.

AUGUST 22 to September 22 (Virgo)—Matters pertaining to the sea, dealing in oils, chemicals, drugs, beverages, etc. Should be carefully handled. Detectives, investigators, all those engaged in confidential work should gain.

September 24 to October 23, (Libra)—Affairs pertaining to home, family, your work and other interests need extra vigilance. Constructive measures, routine business under friendly rays. Your individual cleverness will help.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Lawyers, teachers, writers, all professional workers may have to go slowly, proceed with more care. Take no foolish chances with money or valuable assets.-Conservative.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Today may bring a new opportunity to exploit your executive and managerial ability. Difficult situations and problems could become easy of solution with your fine business sense.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Use your capable self and you can solve problems and tasks easily. Artists of stage, screen, radio, also producers and playwrights especially honored. Be considerate of all.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You can do a great deal of good with your persuasive gifts if you use them honorably, intelligently. Keep your promises, strive for accuracy and the day should yield fine results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Either it will be a productive day (and in an unusual way) or just mediocre—depending upon your initiative and management. Be careful in confidential matters, especially those of a personal nature.

YOU BORN TODAY have strong traits from both Virgo and Libra, having been born at the Sun's leaving Virgo to enter Libra. Idealistic, clever, usually pleasant, you may be inclined to overindulge in pleasure, be extravagant. However, don't follow an all-work-no-play system. You can succeed in a profession, science, law, medicine, or in carpentry, writing. You usually have knowledge of what you are going to do before you start. Try the unusual occasionally even if only for diversion. Birthdays: Michael Faraday, Eng. chemist, physicist; Philip Dormer Stanhope, Earl of Chesterfield, orator and author.

KILLED IN CLASH

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi authorities Monday reported that two civilians were killed and a police sergeant was wounded when demonstrators clashed with police in the northern city of Sulaimaniya. A communique gave no reason for the demonstration, but the official newspaper of the Nationalist opposition Independence party said it was held in protest against the results of Iraq's parliamentary elections last summer which the government of Premier Gen. Nuri Said won an overwhelming majority.

POLE'S RECEIVE ASYLUM

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Eleven Polish crew members from the seized steamer Independent Gottwald have been granted political asylum by Nationalist China, the foreign office announced today. The 5,000-ton freighter was picked up by Nationalist warships while en route to Red China May 13. The Gottwald men join 12 Poles from the 8,200-ton tanker Sagaing and 10 Russians from the 8,840-ton Soviet tanker Tuapse, who asked political asylum earlier.

No Major Decisions Expected By Quebec on Recent Speech

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—No major decisions on federal-provincial fiscal matters are expected to be taken by the Quebec government until the report of the Tremblay royal commission on constitutional problems is published, sources close to the Quebec administration said Monday.

That was the only reaction that seeped out from the provincial House as an uneasy calm prevailed over the Quebec political scene after a weekend storm—built up in recent skirmishes between Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis—shattered the lull prevailing since the quarrel over the Quebec income tax earlier this year.

The weekend clash was marked by Mr. Duplessis' rejection of federal aid to universities for the third consecutive year, and a two-hour speech by Mr. St. Laurent in which he told Quebec he frankly disagreed with Duplessis on what is best way to keep Canada united and prosperous and invited the province to vote against the party if it feels this is "a bad policy."

NO COMMENT

Liberal party circles refrained from any comment on the effect of Mr. St. Laurent's speech.

At Mr. Duplessis' office, Finance Minister Gagnon and Transport Minister Rivard, the Quebec solicitor general, met privately to discuss the prime minister's address.

On leaving, Mr. Rivard told newspaper men: "For this province, there is no danger of a provincial general election."

Mr. Rivard is scheduled to speak today to the Quebec Truckers Association, but there was no indication that reference would be made to the current controversy.

What Mr. Duplessis plans as a reply to Mr. St. Laurent is anybody's guess. He is due to speak next Sunday at the inauguration of a new bridge at Valleyfield, Que. It is not known if he will hold his regular weekly press conference next Friday.

There has been little talk about the Tremblay commission or constitutional problems since it ended a series of public hearings in all regions of the province earlier this year.

But the flat statement of Liberal party policy with regard to federal-provincial problems made by Mr. St. Laurent Saturday—focused attention back on the commission whose five-deals precisely with the subject at issue.

Its job will be to make known to the public some 400 Quebec groups and institutions, comprising municipal bodies and trade associations. It also has the power to make recommendations which the Quebec government may or may not accept.

The five-man commission, presided over by Chief Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec, was set up in March, 1953, by provincial statute at the suggestion of the Quebec province Liberal party caucus. It must hand down its report by March 1, 1955.

The commission report, expected to be a voluminous document on federal-provincial relations, is to be handed down during the last weeks of the forthcoming session of the legislature, opening Nov. 17.

Ford and Union Resume Talks As Strike Looms

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ford Motor Company of Canada and Local 200, United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO-CCL) Monday resumed negotiations in a bid to avert a strike scheduled for the union of strike action in a vote Sunday.

Following the brief afternoon session, it was announced company and union would resume talks today. The announcement came from union sources.

NO DATE SET

No date has been set for a strike but a union steward committee Monday recommended that the deadline come within two weeks. Ultimate agreement Monday could no deadline will likely be set in advance. This will leave the negotiating committee free to let the men out on short notice or to keep them on call if there is some hope of settlement.

Negotiations between Ford and its 8,000 employees resumed started last December. The union is asking for an hour increase above the present basic of $1.81 to about $2.10. It also asked fringe benefits. The company offered 9½ cents but withdrew it when the union refused to insist. There was no further company offer.

The contract expired Feb. 15 and a conciliation board has since recommended no wage increase and denied the company demand for allied seniority rights.

Shortly after negotiations resumed, the union presented new demands to 15 cents an hour plus extra fringe benefits.

In spite of the reduced union demands, no further offer was forthcoming from the company and the union then held its strike vote.

OTHERS AFFECTED

In Toronto Monday, Local 240, UAW, representing about 2,500 Ford Windsor workers, also rejected its rebuttal to the company argument in a conciliation board hearing. The union is asking pay increases and fringe benefits approximately equal to those asked by hourly-rated employees.

In event of a strike by Local 200, members of Local 240 would likely be forced off the city picket lines. It is possible the new Ford assembly plant at Oakville would be closed by the lack of parts although these could be imported from the United States.

Netherlander Likely to Head UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— A Netherlander with 35 years of experience in international affairs was the leading choice for president of the United Nations General Assembly as delegations got set for their spring session since 1950.

Unofficial discussions of the election this afternoon.

The election of Dr. Eelco Nicolaas van Kleffens to the top assembly post became a virtual certainty when his only announced opponent, Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, withdrew Monday.

Van Kleffens, 58-year-old Netherlands minister to Portugal and head of the Dutch delegation to the UN assembly, began lining up his support on a visit here last December.

A lawyer and the son of a lawyer, his long career has often alternated between the law and diplomacy—or combined the two.

WORKED WITH LEAGUE

He once served in the legal branch of the League of Nations secretariat in Geneva, and in 1924 was assistant director of the legal department of the Dutch ministry of foreign affairs.

From 1933 to 1936 he appointed minister of foreign affairs. During the war he served his country in the diplomatic corps in London, Washington, and then in Lisbon.

The minister, a thin, angular man just under six feet, he speaks fluent Dutch, English, French, German, and some Portuguese. His friends describe him as thoroughly resourceful, endowed with a sense of a phenomenal memory, tremendously industrious, a virtuoso of undertakes, and a man with a fine deadpan sense of humor.

Oliver Foresees Bright Future For East Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, said Monday he—chairman of the Pride of Israel Sick Benefit Society that the future industrial possibilities of Eastern Ontario are "most no bounds."

"In 15 or 20 years," he said, "I can visualize the land built up solidly between here and Hamilton and, in Northern Ontario, a seaway going through, great development in eastern Ontario as well."

Mr. Oliver have received the art of production better than any country, I think," he said. "But we have to obtain a better knowledge of the art of distribution so that those who live in this country can earn enough to buy the products of farm and machine."

ATOMIC POWER FORECAST

OTTAWA (CP)—A scientist from Canada's Chalk River atomic energy plant said Monday night that atomic power installations will be producing electricity economically in Canada in the 1960s. Dr. W. B. Lewis, research director for chemistry and reactor engineering at the chalk river plant, made the statement in a dinner speech at a scientific gathering.

Madoc

TRINITY UNITED W.A.

MADOC—The September meeting of Trinity United Woman's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Will Parks on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 25 ladies. Mrs. Jackson opened the meeting with a poem and prayer and gave a warm welcome to new friends of the church. Minutes and roll call followed, with a list of discussions and business.

It was decided to forward to the Unitarion Fund for Korean children $50 and plans were made for holding the "reception" dance and tea on Thursday, November 25, with further announcements later.

Mrs. Percy Bronson conducted the worship service the theme, "The Work of Our Hands" with Mrs. W. J. McCoy reading the 90th Psalm; Mrs. Bronson giving a brief talk on the Bible story.

Mrs. Albert Empey was in charge of the program and chose for her theme "Stewardship" pertaining to the several organizations of the church, including the Woman's Association. Assisting Mrs. Empey were Mrs. Lane, who read a poem, and Mrs. Kenneth Work on the Mission Fields", Mrs. Carman gave a poem by Edna Jacques "Something New." Mrs. L. Bennett gave a brief talk on Stewardship in Korea"; Mrs. Tanner a poem "My Needs" and Mrs. Empey, a poem "Build Or Destroy." The program concluded with the reading of a hymn "Only Trust Him." After further announcements by Mrs. Jackson, president, closed with prayer. A social hour followed.

MADOC W.I.

On Friday evening, the members of Madoc W.I. motored to the home of Mrs. Allore to hold their September meeting, which was opened by a piano greeting to the members and a warm welcome to the visitors by the president, Mrs. A. Herrington.

The president reported that an interesting summer had been held and appointments made for the booth and hall at Madoc Fair.

After general business had been conducted, Mrs. Albert Bailey took charge of the program and read a poem, "Kindness is Like a Grain of Wheat". Mrs. W. Forestell gave a paper on Canadian industries and who was unable to be present, Mrs. Allore read a paper "Aluminum" and it was read by Mrs. A. Woods. This paper was entitled "Interesting and Unusual". Mrs. J. McGowan gave two interesting and humorous readings "The Reminiscences of the New Clerk" and "The Career Wife's Dilemma". Mrs. Bailey gave a very informative paper on "Conservation", covering the most important points, namely forest, soil, water and wild life. Mrs. A. Woods read "Current Events" as prepared by Mrs. Pigden.

Mrs. G. C. Moon moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and to the members who took part in the program. Lunch served and the meeting a pleasant half hour was spent, with the hostess and her assistants serving lunch.

CORN CROP COMPETITION WINNERS

Sponsored by the Madoc Agricultural Society and the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the following are - the winners of a corn competition with Alan Curle of Campbellford as judge, Will Rollins 93; R. A. Woods 92; Russel Empey 90; Cordell Blackburn 89; Allan Thompson 88; G. Chapman 84; D. Chapman 83; James Miller 81.

ST. PETER'S WOMEN'S CLUB

Mrs. Robert McCaffrey was hostess to the St. Peter's Women's Club when they met for their September meeting.

The president, Mrs. Ken Nicol, in charge, read an article on "What is a Presbyterian?" A short business period followed, and plans for the publication of a new cook book similar to the old one, were discussed. It is hoped to have this ready by Christmas. It was also decided to have a rummage sale in the near future.

Mrs. R. R. Beatty entertained with colored slides which she photographed during her vacation in the Maritime provinces.

A pleasant social hour followed.

On Sunday morning the members of Madoc Chapter No. 142, O.E.S., attended Divine service at St. John's Anglican Church. The rector, the Rev. Mr. Wm. Glover said grace an inspiring address to the members of the order. The choir rendered an anthem "Sweet Sabbath Morning," and Mr. Robert Arlesworth read the first lesson. Beautiful flowers in memory of Mrs. Charles Smith, Oakdale Rebekah Lodge held a successful home-cooking sale, afternoon and banaar on Wednesday afternoon in the Parish Hall under the name of the "Sewing Circle." Local ladies visiting Rebekahs were present from Tweed and Stirling, which meant a long way to making the event such a success.

Mrs. Frances, Mrs. Blanche Alexander and Mrs. Robert Bristol poured tea and Mrs. V. Empey served lunch at the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Kilb of New York, are spending a few days visiting friends in Madoc and vicinity.

Miss Margaret Wellington left on Monday for Miami, Fla., after spending the summer with relatives in Madoc and London, Ont.

Miss Helen Johnston of Toronto, is spending her holidays with her mother Mrs. Ida Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Reid spent the week-end in Brantford, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lashaffel, of Ottawa, are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baalim.

HOT SPOT OF THE FAR EAST

Located only a few miles from the Red Chinese mainland is the island of Quemoy, the number one "hot spot" of the Far East. In recent weeks, the Communists have bombarded Quemoy and have given every indication that they are preparing to stage an amphibious assault on the Nationalist stronghold. At top, a long-range cannon on Quemoy lets loose with a shell directed at Communists junks along the Chinese coast. At bottom is a scene in the main street shopping centre of the island of Quemoy. ## Concern Over Education Rights Aroused After Court Judgment

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Concern over education rights of minority groups in Quebec province has been aroused following a Superior Court judgment involving Jehovah's Witnesses—a religious sect—and a Protestant school board in northwestern Quebec.

Net effect of the ruling has been to confirm the ousting of children of a family of Witnesses from a Protestant school at Rouyn, bustling mining centre 35 miles from the Ontario border.

In dismissing the case Mr. Justice Eugene Marquis said the plaintiff "is a member of a sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses whose religious belief is so different from Catholicism, Protestantism and Judaism and opposed to all other religions (that) it cannot be considered a Protestant religion."

COMPLICATED MATTER

The inference among many people outside Quebec has been that under Quebec law a child who is neither Roman Catholic nor Protestant has little of any right to public education.

However, government officials assert that the right to be educated belongs to everyone in Quebec and that this exists in spite of any appearances to the contrary. But they admit the question is complicated.

Public education in most Canadian provinces is on a non-sectarian basis and the religious aspect does not enter into the picture. Children of any denomination may attend any public school. Quebec has a two-religion school system which has its roots in laws dating back to 1774.

BROAD SUMMARY

1. Every child regardless of religious background is required by law to attend school under 14 years of age.

2. In every community the majority group—whether Catholic or Protestant—forms a school board.

3. If there is no other board in the community, then all property owners pay school taxes to that board and the schools must educate all children in that community regardless of their religious background.

4. Any religious minority group may form a school board of its own. This is called a "dissenting" board.

5. In the case of a dissenting board the provision is that all dissenters must be of the same faith, that is either Roman Catholic or Protestant. Strictly speaking the dissenting group is under no education except to its own group. The majority board alone is obliged to educate all other groups.

FORMER DISPUTE

The Rouyn case is the first in 26 years to arouse concern over Quebec's school laws. At that time the Jewish minority became embroiled in a dispute that went to the Privy Council.

The council's conclusions changed many things in Quebec's school laws.

Fundamentally, however, the two-religion system was left intact, with the difference that in the cities of Montreal and Quebec Jews were entitled to have their own schools while in the rural areas they were exempted from the obligation to take religious instruction in either Catholic or Protestant schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Perron and their three children are the persons involved in the Rouyn case. The parents and children were baptized into the Roman Catholic faith. The parents ceased to practise their religion "four years or more" before officially abjuring their faith Dec. 10, 1952.

Mr. Perron claimed that the Rouyn Protestant school board fa' refused to admit the children to the school and asked $1,000 damages.

RULES REJECTION LEGAL

In simple language Mr. Justice Marquis ruled:

1. The Protestant board acted legally in rejecting the Perron children from school.

2. Mr. and Mrs. Perron could not claim damages from the board for refusing to educate their children.

The Judge appended 10,000 words of notes to support his four-page judgment.

Government officials see in the case an effort on the part of the Jehovah's Witnesses to be admitted as Protestants, whether that group happens to be a majority or a minority in a Quebec community.

As a privilege, the provincial officials say, the Protestant school board could have accepted the Perron children. But, Judge Marquis has ruled, there is no obligation on the part of the minority group in Rouyn. The obligation falls on the Catholic majority.

Under Quebec's two-religion system the question facing the court was whether the Perron children could be considered Roman Catholics or Protestants for school purposes since there is no other type of public school in Quebec.

Judge Marquis' conclusion was that they were Roman Catholics under the Schools Act and were legally entitled to education in the Rouyn Catholic school, not the Protestant one.

Quebec government officials point out that to understand the meaning of that decision one has to transpose it to mean that the Perron children are legally entitled to be educated by the school operated by the majority group in Rouyn as opposed to the minority group.

For instance, if the Perron case had been raised in a municipality where the majority of residents were Protestant, the legal obligation to educate them would have fallen on the Protestant school board and not a minority Catholic school board.

As things stand in Rouyn the Protestant board represents a minority while the majority group is Roman Catholic.

Glen Howe, lawyer for the Witnesses, argued that the sect should be considered Protestants for education, purposes. The Protestant board denied the contention.

Mr. How is carrying the case to the Quebec Court of Appeals and the matter now is at a standstill.

Starling Shoot Not Successful

TORONTO (CP)—The sound of gunfire echoed through a section of north Toronto Monday night as 22 hunters engaged in another starling shoot.

Marksmen fired at will accompanied by shouts of direction by police and officials.

Light was poor and foliage on trees thick but one group of men teamed as two dead starlings dropped to the ground. Others had no such success.

However, two optimistic men with bushel baskets weren't overloaded by the kill.

Norwegian Ship Grounds, Founders With 203 on Board

One Drowned, One Missing But Rest Reported Rescued

LEAVES OFFICE TO HELP HIS SON IN MURDER CASE

OSLO (AP) — The Norwegian coast express steamer Nordstjernen, with 187 passengers and 46 crew members on board, was aground and foundered in the strait of Raftsund, off the Lofoten Islands, early this morning.

Newspaper reports said one passenger was drowned and one crew member is missing, while all the rest were saved.

The Nordstjernen, of about 2,000 tons, hit the bottom while steaming at top speed at 2 a. m. Most of the passengers were sleeping in their cabins, and were roused by the alarm signals.

Although the ship was sinking quickly, there was no panic aboard. The Nordstjernen foundered within a quarter of an hour, it was reported.

Signor Piccioni said he took this action so that he would be free to help his son Piero, who has been involved in the mysterious death of Wilma Montesi, Roman playgirl, a year and a half ago. Young Piccioni has staunchly denied any connection with the case but has now been arrested.—Central Press Canadian.

Montreal Portion Of Seaway To Start Oct. 25

MONTREAL (CP)—Construction of the Montreal portion of the St. Lawrence seaway will probably begin about Oct. 25, Lionel Chevrier, president of the Lawrence seaway authority said Tuesday.

Tenders for part of the excavation will be called for today and opened Oct. 18.

The announcement followed a meeting of members of the seaway authority with a civic committee on the seaway development of which plans for the project were made public.

They call for construction of a 27-foot deep waterway between Lacoste Carrier bridge in the east end of Montreal and the Caughnawaga Indian reservation, some 17 miles to the west.

The waterway will follow the St. Lawrence river south shore along most of the route, cutting inland for about five miles near the west end to by-pass the Lachine rapids.

BANK SPANS

It is also proposed to raise spans of the Jacques Cartier and Mercier bridges to give clearance to ocean going vessels. Engineers have not yet decided what alterations will be needed at the Victoria bridge.

Locks 857 feet long and 80 feet wide will be provided at the Montoria bridge and near the eastern end of the route rapids to take in drops of 18 to 20 feet and 36 feet respectively.

A guard gate is planned near Caughnawaga where the waterway becomes an inland canal to avoid the rapids.

Mr. Chevrier did not comment on his talks last week with Premier Duplessis believed to have centred around development of hydro-electric power in the St. Lawrence near Montreal.

Mr. Duplessis reported to have said Quebec is in no hurry to develop the power resources and will study the matter before taking any action.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Although the high low out Tuesday night passed its peak early this morning the weather will continue windy until evening.

Winds in southern Ontario this afternoon will fall off at 5 to 10 m.p.h. with gusts to 35 and by evening to 10 to 15 m.p.h. Cloudy skies and widely scattered showers will clear tonight with the prospect of pleasant weather for Thursday.

Although frost will be general in northern Ontario tonight, in the south it is likely only in low lying areas.

Lance Corporal Given 2 Years On 13 Charges

QUEBEC (CP)—Lance Corporal Denis Gauthier of Montreal, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on 13 charges under martial law after being found guilty of 13 charges of fraud in connection with an alleged $13,000 furniture-moving racket.

Gauthier, a 24-year-old orderly room clerk at nearby Valcartier military camp, had pleaded not guilty to 13 charges of knowingly approving illegal bills totalling $3,000.

He was one of 25 soldiers arrested by the army when the alleged racket was uncovered last July. So far he is the only one to be committed for court martial by the military court of justice hearing the case against the soldiers at Valcartier. The prosecution presented 33 witnesses in the two-day trial to corroborate a confession they said Gauthier signed after he was arrested in July at the new offices of the Transport Company, a Quebec furniture moving firm.

MAY BE SHORTENED

Lt.-Col. Dollard Menard, a Dupuy lawyer, who sentenced Gauthier said it is possible prison term will be shortened. He will be released in the civil prison early.

Maj. Guy d'Artois, counsel for Gauthier, said in his plea an accused could not be convicted only on the testimony of witnesses and added whether the fraud charges would be dropped if Gauthier broke his pledge to talking bribes from the furniture firm.

D'Artois also said Gauthier had received only his share and was being forced to move from her Montreal home now that there is no one to support her.

Louis LeRoche, for the prosecution, said Gauthier was punished enough to assure the Canadian taxpayer . . . that there will be no more such frauds."

'Get Rid of Chiang and His Troops' Attlee's Recipe for Peace in Asia

LONDON (CP) — Labor leader Clement Attlee, returning today from his visit behind Iron and bamboo curtains, said he believes "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be."

The former prime minister told reporters at London airport after an overnight flight from Canada the "biggest problem of all" in the Orient is Formosa, island headquarters of Chiang's Chinese Nationalists.

Attlee, who has talked with top Russian and Red Chinese Communist leaders, said he felt there had been a relaxation of tension in the Orient following the Indochina truce agreement at Geneva.

Attlee led a Labor party delegation which visited Moscow and Peiping and took a fairly extensive tour through Communist China. Other members of the party included left-winger Aneurin Bevan.

Attlee and his wife, who joined him in Singapore, were greeted at the airport by their two daughters and a grandchild.

But no high-ranking members of the Labor party turned up. The party's leader, Hugh Gaitskell, declined, preparing for the annual party conference next week at Scarborough. He was represented at the airport by Rose Attlee, wife of Clement Attlee's plane landed.

Attlee himself was expected to be met by members of his family today.

The German rearmament question strikes at the basic moderate-leftist split within the party. The left-wing opposition on Tuesday night Bevan and his followers were determined to "put questions who want to bring a carefully worded resolution before the Scarborough conference supporting the principle of a German contribution to Western defence but also stressing the need for top - level talks with Moscow.

Attlee, leader of the moderates, is expected to reinforce their views by Bevanites want an unqualified expression of opposition to arming the Germans.

WASHINGTON GLOOMY ABOUT FRENCH PLAN

London Parley Unlikely To Provide Solution

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Study of French proposals for solving the German rearmament dilemma has left official American circles in a gloomy mood about the future of European defences.

The general conclusion is that any satisfactory solution of the German problem will require substantial adjustment of national limits of several countries. In particular, it is said, there must be concessions by France from the plan circulated last weekend by Premier Mendes-France.

Next week's nine-power conference at London is more likely to be a kind of preliminary discussion of the whole issue than a conference which will produce final decisions.

MUST BE SOON

Yet high American officials are hopeful that final decisions can be reached that will avert imminent chaos if they are inescapable. Some are confident in saying decisions must be reached soon because of a conviction that West German sovereignty and full rearmament can not be held in suspension much longer without fostering a spirit of extreme German nationalism.

The critical issue presented by the Paris French memorandum, as officials here analyze it, is whether the Germans are ready willing to let West Germany re-arm without seeking some safeguards which would prevent Bonn being her a kind of second-rate power status.

There is great concern here, for example, that the French plan would mean a definite delay for West German membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The implication of public statements by Mendes-France and the provisions of his still-secret memorandum have been taken to mean he would prefer to stall off an equal role for West Germany in NATO while working out plans for a regional West European defensive alliance.

Every other member of the Brussels pact, revised to provide Germany and Italy associative membership in the pact of any member, would be kept out of NATO by this.

The possibility foreseen here is that Mendes-France would like to get the Saar question out of the Brussels setup and then put up to the French electorate the question of time the NATO issue. France would have a veto over German membership in NATO as would each of the other 13 members including Britain. The Saar is a central issue of German association with the whole Western alliance system which has tied up in Parliamentary knots for a long time.

USEFUL STEP

Britain and the U. S. have agreed that linking Germany with a strengthened Brussels pact would be a useful step in the solution of the German armaments problem, but they have looked on the main solution to be found most quickly in the NATO arrangement.

Chief value of the expanded Brussels pact as seen here is that it would lead to a gradual fusing of a revived Germany by balancing British power on the continent against future German arms.

Railroads' Agreed Charges Will Be Subject of Battle

OTTAWA (CP) — Preliminary battling over the railways' controversial "agreed charges" will be here next month in advance of a royal commission inquiry into the issue.

The Alberta government, the national organization of Canada's truckers and some auto dealers and other firms will go before the board of transport commissioners Sept. 30 to oppose plans of the three big railways to extend this form of rate-making.

Agreed charges are special freight rates negotiated by the railways with individual shippers and embodied in contracts. They are lower than normal, in return for a guaranteed share of the shippers' carrying business.

The federal government this year launched an investigation of them with Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, mission on transportation, as a royal commissioner. He is to open one-man commission. He is to open hearings at Winnipeg Oct. 5.

Meanwhile, the railways are trying to put into effect the largest series of agreed charges they have undertaken at one time, and it is those which will be thrashed out before the board next week.

They cover transport of automobiles from General Motors and Studebaker plants in Ontario to the whole West—the first of their kind—and miscellaneous steel products to the west coast from several of the biggest steel producers in Ontario, including the Steel Company of Canada, Algoma and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Alberta is fighting the proposed steel contracts, on the contention that the low rates to the west coast destroy the effect of Parliament's then 1-3 the coast rates.

Truck produce a share in low, competitive "transcontinental" rates to the coast. The rule set out that intermediate points such as Alberta could not be charged more than 1-3 less than the coast.

However, the transport board ruled in January that agreed charges do not violate the rule. It was largely because of Alberta protests that this decision that the royal commission was set up.

Other examples of the agreed charges on automobiles will be Canadian Trucking Associations, chief spokesman for the $200,000,000-a-year for-hire truck business, the Automotive Transport of Canada and the Saskatchewan Automobile Dealers' Association.

Railways have been cutting into the railways' long-haul business for years and are expected to lose business under lowered rail rates. Chrysler and Ford auto companies contend that taking traffic away from the trucks will be bad for the automobile industry generally.

Harriman Wins Democratic Nomination for Governor

NEW YORK (AP)—Averell Harriman was nominated early today for governor, of New York state by the Democratic party, and began immediately to plan a vigorous campaign.

The wealthy 62-year-old former Republican who became a leading official of the Democratic party under administrations easily defeated Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. in the first big test of strength in the most acrimonious state convention in the history of the party.

The remainder of the ticket was to be selected later today. The convention met in Albany.

The Republican state convention is expected to nominate Governor Irving M. Ives for governor Thursday, Thomas E. Dewey, fourth-term Republican governor, will not enter the race.

Roosevelt conceded defeat shortly after 1 a.m. EDT when Harriman had rolled up 541 votes to the young congressman's 474. A majority of 510 was needed to win the nomination.

Harriman, with Roosevelt at his side, thanked the delegates for their "expression of confidence" and Roosevelt for his pledge of support.

The harmonious scene contrasted sharply with the angry battle the Roosevelt and Harriman forces had fought for the nomination.

The struggle, in progress since the Democratic coalition from New York City with more than enough votes to nominate had agreed the nominee had come out for Harriman early this month, reached a climax Tuesday when a floor fight developed.

Delegates backing Roosevelt, most of them from upstate, staged a 35-minute demonstration after the convention name had been placed in nomination.

They shouted, sang cowbells and whistles and shouted, "We want a winner." A brass band played "Happy Days Are Here Again," a 1932 campaign song of Roosevelt's father.

A demonstration for Harriman, almost equal in noise, was staged after the former mutual security administrator's name was placed in nomination.

The Harriman marchers were largely delegates from the five New York City counties which formed the core of the coalition's strength.

Fate of All of Us Depends On Success of UN Says Martin

ATLANTIC CITY (CP)—Canada's Health Minister Paul Martin told the annual convention of the United Steelworkers of America today that "the fate of all of us in the long term depends on the success of the United Nations."

Speaking as a member of the Canadian delegation to the UN General Assembly in New York, Martin said: "In this tempestuous and shrinking world, no man and no nation can 'go it alone.'"

Despite the many recognized achievements of the United Nations, particularly in its assistance to underdeveloped countries, there had been disillusion of the world organization in the United States and in other countries "because very seldom and some of them, I believe, not justified."

DISCUSS CHARGES

To discount three principal charges against the United Nations.

The noisiest, he said, is the charge that the UN, with its membership including underdeveloped tries, in some way threatens the safety and independence of the United States.

On the contrary, he said, the "small and junior nature of UN proceedings "exposes the nature of Communist policy and propaganda and gives all the world an opportunity to see and form its own judgments."

Against the charge that the UN is, or is trying to be, a "supergovernment," Martin said the UN is prevented by its charter from such a course.

"What the United Nations can do and most often successfully does, is to give an opportunity for focusing the collective will of the nations and peoples of the world."

Back at School, Marilyn Greeted By Classmates

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell went back to school today.

But the students from other of Lake Ontario stepped out of her new convertible at Loretto College school for girls at 8:30 a.m., 40 minutes before her first class. She clutched her Latin and French books in one hand and carried her lunch bag in the other.

Her fellow students crowded the hall when they heard of her arrival. They hugged her and welcomed her back. Her teacher, Sister Chabanel greeted her warmly.

"It is the most heroic thing she has ever done," Sister Chabanel said of Marilyn's return to school.

When she returned to her Grade 12 classroom, Marilyn was surrounded by students from other grades who wanted to join in the welcome.

But Grade 12 girls were the envy of their grandma when they lined up before a blackboard to pose for a class picture, with Marilyn in the centre.

Marilyn's teacher said she isn't worried about the possibility of her grades slipping.

"After the dramatic year she has been with us was 58," she said. "After swimming Lake Ontario, Marilyn can conquer anything she sets her mind to."

ITALIAN DOPE AND SEX SCANDAL EXPLODES AGAIN

Son of Former Foreign Minister Is Arrested

ROME (AP)—The sex and dope scandal of playgirl Wilma Montesi's death has exploded again with the arrests of Piero Piccioni, son of Italy's former foreign minister, and self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna.

The case, involving lurid allegations of drug and sex orgies attended by prominent Italians, has rocked official Rome and threatened Premier Mario Scelba's government. Piero's father, Attilio Piccioni, resigned his cabinet post last Saturday to help in his son's defence.

CHARGE MANSLAUGHTER

The young Piccioni, 32, is charged with aggravated manslaughter in connection with the death of the shapely 21-year-old party girl, whose half-nude body was found on a beach a year ago last April.

Montagna is accused of aiding and abetting. He has repeatedly denied any connection with Wilma's death.

The charge against Piccioni carries a sentence of up to four years.

The Italian news agency ANSA also reported that an order to appear in court Saturday was issued to Saverio Polito, former Rome police chief. Polito was said to have been called in answer charges of wrongful exercise of authority and "aiding Piero Piccioni in avoiding investigation."

Although Wilma's death has produced Italy's hottest scandal in a decade, there was little indication in the city after body was found. Police investigated, conducted an autopsy and announced that the pretty brunette girl had died of natural causes, probably heart failure.

Later a 25-year-old magazine editor, Silvano Muto published a letter in which he charged Wilma had been dumped on the beach to "die like a dog" after given an overdose of drugs at a wild party attended by notables.

Muto was ordered to trial on charges of spreading false and alarming reports. Branches Montagna's ex-mistress, Anna Maria Moneta Caglio, testified that Piccioni and Montagna were concerned about Wilma's death. She wrote a letter, entered in court records, terming Montagna the "brains of a dope ring that preyed on young Italians and Piccioni its "assassin."

Shortly after Anna Maria's testimony, the government halted Muto's trial and ordered an investigation.

CORRUPTION CHARGED

Communists and fellow-travellers in the Italian Parliament seized on the scandal to charge the government of corruption and to demand the resignation of Scelba, a battling anti-Communist. The premier promised to make public the results of the police probe, asserting the government had "nothing to fear in the case."

'Baby Tornado', Whipped by Heavy Rain, Strikes Western Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Western Ontario was whipped by heavy rain and winds up to 80 miles an hour Tuesday.

A sudden violent storm — described in places as a "baby tornado"—struck southwestern sections, uprooted trees, backed up basements, ripped off barn roofs and tore small boats from their moorings in a southeast sweep from Port Stanley on Lake Erie to upper New York state.

Hardest hit was the London district. Winds there in some areas tore trees and knocked out several 13,000-volt power lines. Some areas reported streets flooded.

Winds ripped the frame roof from a barn on the farm of Leslie Hunter east of London.

At the height of the storm, small flannel-shaped twister swept in off Lake Simcoe and cut across 100 acres, ripped part of the roof off a shoe store and snapped off three chimneys.

Lightning struck and burned a 44,000-volt hydro pole south of Shelburne cutting power to Collingwood. Power was also knocked out when battered against rocks on the north shore of Long point in Lake Erie.

Most of western New York was buffeted by 30-mile-an-hour winds and sheets of rain.

The weather bureau said the gale reached 54 miles an hour at times.

The Coast Guard reported a 810,000 cabin cruiser washed ashore at Wasaga Beach and several moored off the lake crashed 15 feet above the harbor's breakwall.

UN Defers Action On Question Of Seating Red China

Dr. Van Kleffens Elected President of Assembly

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

U.N. PRESIDENT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly, opened its ninth session Tuesday, elected a new president and postponed for the third straight year any action on the question of seating Red China.

Just before it adjourned for the day the assembly elected Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens, former Netherlands foreign minister, as president for this year.

Andrei Vishinsky, chief Soviet delegate, brought up the Red China question shortly after the session was called to order by the outgoing president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India.

Vishinsky said the UN could not succeed in its work until representatives of the Peiping regime were admitted to membership.

QUESTION SHELVED

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief United States delegate, countered the Soviet move with a resolution asking the assembly not to consider during the current year any proposals to exclude Nationalist China from its seat. Red China.

This proposal last year was approved by a vote of 44 to 11. Canada voted with the majority. Six countries abstained.

Delegates of Burma, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia spoke in support of the Soviet motion to admit Red China.

India's chief delegates, V. K. Krishna Menmon, at one point attempted to delay the debate until later in the session. He argued that the tremendous agenda of the assembly was prevented from debating the matter and that the U.S. resolution was "out of order."

This was overruled by Mme. Pandit, who said the assembly, by voting to take up the U.S. resolution, had already decided what it wanted to do.

TRIED TO DELAY

Going over the chair, the new president urged efforts through international co-operation to avert the fear and anxiety of the world.

"We are seated not on a mere keg of gunpowder, but on a thermonuclear bomb," Van Kleffens declared.

Outside the assembly hall, the U.S. delegation made public a letter Lodge had written to Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations chief, conclusive UN disarmament talks in London last May and June. It said the Soviet Union at present has no serious desire to negotiate on the issue and that the Soviet proposal as a platform for "glib distortions to support the propaganda slogan 'ban the bomb.'"

The talks were held by the U.S., Britain, France, Canada and Russia as a subcommittee of the UN disarmament commission.

The American statement said the meetings served these "construction purposes":

1. Agreement of the Western four on "establishment of an international control system and disphrasing and timing of the various elements of a disarmament program." This was contained in a broad new Western plan which the Communists rejected.

2. The four Western allies showed complete unity and the Russians failed to divide them.

3. Russia by taking "more rigid positions than ever before," made "completely clear . . . that it will not permit a control organ to take any effective action."

The Western delegation will complete its explanation with the election of seven vice - presidents and several committee chairmen to serve as its steering body.

CHESS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The annual meeting of the Belleville Chess Club was held last evening at the Y.M.C.A. Perhaps because of the inclement weather, the attendance was small. Officers elected were: president, Dick Payne; secretary, Victor DePaul; treasurer, Timothy Mason; tournament convener, Lev Hart.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring president, Eric Carter, for his leadership since the organization of the club last January, with 48 members. The executive was instructed to draw up a schedule of play and also to endeavor to locate a room where members could meet weekly. Consideration will be given to entering a team in the Ontario Chess Federation's provincial tournament.

FIREMEN CALLED ON THREE ALARMS

A chimney fire, an over-heated stove and a blazing hydro pole, caused a busy time for the city fire department yesterday and this morning.

Tuesday afternoon firemen were called to Hillside street for an overheated stove, while this morning the reels were called to Murray street for a chimney blaze. Again this morning a hydro pole on Water street was reported ablaze at the base, and the fire reels were called.

L. GLADWELL NAMED NEWS DIRECTOR OF SUDBURY STATIONS

The appointment of Lloyd Gladwell as news director of CKSO radio and television stations in Sudbury was announced today. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gladwell, 107 Lingham St., Belleville. Mr. Gladwell attended the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute, where he edited a weekly column about for the Ontario Intelligencer. For the past year he has been on the news staff of the Sudbury Daily Star.

The Sudbury stations are setting up a news department, consisting of seven persons, in the organization of this staff that will be Mr. Gladwell's first responsibility.

COTTAGERS' DOCKS TORN AWAY BY WIND

High winds wreaked havoc with cottagers' docks at Rossmore yesterday and last night with several small docks reported torn away by the wind and waves. But there is one consolation—the bathing season is now almost over for another year.

CCF Leader To Speak Here

DONALD C. MacDONALD

CCF candidates to represent East and West Hastings ridings in the forthcoming provincial election will be nominated September 29, at a party convention in Oddfellows Hall, Belleville.

Guest speaker at the convention will be Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader.

A banquet, commencing at 7 p.m. will precede the nominations.

Mr. MacDonald who began his political career in 1945 as CCF National convention secretary, was elected provincial leader of the party last year.

A veteran of five years service in World War II, he enlisted in the RCN as an ordinary seaman and later became an intelligence officer. He served as editor of Canada Digest, a magazine circulating among Canadian servicemen overseas. In 1952, he was chairman of the Service Radio Forum, a CBC national network program

First Ballot For Kiwanis Officers Held

The Kiwanis Club opened balloting for new officers for the coming year by casting first electionballots yesterday. Twenty members were elected on the first ballot. Two more eliminating ballots will be held before the required number of the club executive will be returned.

Elected on the first ballot were: Jim Allan, Harold Craig, Al. Drysdale, Len Fozard, Hal Floyd, Harry Fuke, Howie House, Bob Ivamy, Addison Lloyd, Charlie Lusk, Staff McKenna, Abe Macnr, Hugh Murray, Ken Pudden, Bill Riley, Bud Punchard, Don Stanton, Harry Trenaman, Vic White, Bill Wills and Arnold Wolfenden.

The club also is organizing a new project to raise funds necessary for the continuation of its community work. Tilted "Gasorama," the project, which will get under way in a city gas station, calls for the Kiwanians to man and operate a city gas station for one day. Operations will be located at Kiwanian Charlie Ancher's gas station on Front Street. Tokens will be sold to the public who will receive their value in service at the station.

A question period, conducted by Staff McKenna, was held after the luncheon to discuss the pros and cons of the project, with a panel of Ways and Means committeemen, whose responsibility it is to find ways and means to funds for the club's community efforts.

Introducing the discussion Al Drysdale noted that "Gasorama" besides the club's World Youth and Adventure series would be the only other fundraising campaign staged by the club this year.

Tickets for the World Travel and Adventure series will go on sale to the public this week. The series begins October 14.

Balloting yesterday was supervised by past president Frank Creegan.

Shirley Aman, Formerly of City, Killed in Crash

GRIMSBY — Shirley Aman, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Aman, of North Grimsby, was fatally injured on Saturday night when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into a tree beside No. 8 Highway at Book's sideroad just east of the Park Road entrance to G. T. R. at 9 p.m. Beach. She died in the emergency room at West Lincoln Memorial Hospital shortly after being taken there by ambulance.

DRIVER ESCAPES

Albert Buckbenden, 21, of Grimsby, driver of the car, escaped with bruises and a shaking. He and Miss Aman were to have been married within a few months. The car had travelled a considerable distance along the shoulder of the highway before it hit the tree and he said later that he had been blinded by glaring headlights of an approaching car.

First aid was given the injured girl at the scene by Provincial Police Constable Ivan Elliott, of 36 Niagara Street, Hamilton, a member of No. 80 Division, (Stelco) and Miss Aman was taken to the hospital where a home across the road from where the accident occurred had been the result. Assisting him in releasing her from the car was her brother, Emerson Aman, of 23 Imperial Street, Hamilton. Mr. Mori also had a doctor and ambulance called immediately.

IN MANY ACTIVITIES

Since graduating from Grimsby High School, Miss Aman had been on the local staff of the Canadian Bank f Commerce.

Born in Belleville on July 6, 1936, she came to Grimsby with her parents eight years ago. She was a member of Trinity United Church choir, and of the Grimsby Players' Guild. While attending High School she had been a member of the Student's Council, the Writers' Club, the school choir and also of school drama club.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a brother and sister, Thomas and Ruth Ann Aman.

Provincial Constable Jack Bowen is in charge of the investigation, and Dr. A. F. McIntyre is the coroner.

Advertising, Sales Life-Blood Of Economy Says Speaker

The Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville opened its fall season at the Shrine club last night.

Guest speaker was Fraser Fraser, vice-president of Crawley Films, Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal.

In his address, Mr. Fraser outlined the fundamentals necessary for operating successfully and the importance of publicity.

He also took a stand at the price-cutting and said "there are only two answers to it.

"One is service the other is quality."

"They are hackneyed words," but "those are the only answers I know, and anyone else, knows, to price-cutting."

He emphasized the necessity to make the public aware of the importance of advertising and quoted results of a gallup poll held across Canada to determine whether the nation cut advertising help cut costs.

"The statistics are frightful," he said.

Some 81 per cent of those interviewed thought advertising added to the cost of things they buy, while 25 percent believed it had no effect on costs. Just 14 percent held advertising actually cuts costs or most goods.

Mr. Fraser held advertising reduced costs by increasing production.

"Advertising and sales are the life-blood of our whole economy," he said.

He blamed unfavourable results of the poll on the fact "we have not told the story of advertising" and added very few bodies are doing anything actively to tell the story.

He gave a four-point formula of business fundamentals to the club: "(1) Keep employees with you, (2) Keep the public with you (3) sell effectively, and, (4) Promote, promote, promote."

Employees he said "...are obviously in almost every case, your most important asset."

PUBLICITY AUTHORITY

An executive must assert authority, he admitted, "but at the same time any executive is worth his salt must serve the people working under him."

He stressed the need for business operators to maintain good public relations—not to be confused with publicity.

"Public relations is a way of life. . . publicity is only a phase of public relations."

He held public relations should not be a "one-man job" but should have a wider scope with other employees taking an active part.

Mr. Bruce mentioned the necessity for maintaining a high standard of quality in selling products.

"People forget price but they remember quality. They remember satisfaction."

Concluding he said: "People are more important than things and working smoothly with people is the most important asset of business promotion."

Mr. Bruce was introduced to the club by Fred Msund and thanked by Bill Stovin. The meeting was chaired by Al Littlejohn, president of the club.

LEAVES FOR PARIS

ROME (Reuters)—State Undersecretary Robert D. Murphy of the United States left here by special plane for Paris today. During a weekend visit he talked with Premier Minister Mario Scelba and Italy's new foreign minister, Gaetano Martino. Negotiations for a Trieste settlement between Italy and Yugoslavia were believed to have been the main topic.

| TORONTO STOCKS | |
|---|---|

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved irregularly with fairly heavy forenoon trading today.

The downtrend that covered the whole market Tuesday appeared to be arrested in most groups and slowed down in others.

Western oils had a majority of penny gains. Base metals, steel manufacturers and agriculturals were offset by earlier losses in distilleries and refining oils.

Junior base metals and uraniums eased somewhat and golds group were mixed. Trading over the whole list was quiet and narrow-range and there were few features.

| PRODUCE MARKET | |
|---|---|

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged this week.

The egg market was steady with offerings adequate for the demand.

Quotations provided by the Commission department of agriculture: Eggs, in dozen cases, graded: A large 56; A medium 35; A small 22; B 32; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 61; A medium 42; A small 28; B 31; C 27.

Butter prices: One-pound prints, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57-57½; western 55¾.

Hermit's Shack Burned by RCAF

TRENTON (Special) — Alarmed residents on the 8 R.D. road called Trenton firemen to a fire on airport property yesterday.

When the local firemen arrived on the scene they found firefighters from the RCAF keeping watchful eyes on a burning shack in a gravel pit north of the repair depot.

It is reported that a hermit lived in the building and RCAF officials had ordered the place destroyed.

The burning shack attracted attention, prompting nearby residents to turn in alarms to Trenton fire protection unit.

Driver Impaired, Pays Fine of $50

TRENTON (Special) — Earl H. Fry, Echo Lodge, Belmont Lake, paid a $50 fine and $25 costs for driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

He was originally with drunk driving, but Magistrate T. Y. Wills reduced the charge after hearing the evidence police court here yesterday. Fry also paid a fine of $10 and costs for having liquor illegally in his possession.

The crackdown on speeders continues. Yesterday six fast drivers paid fines and costs.

One victim of the red light law paid, while three drivers not adhering to stop signs suffered the penalty.

Two RCAF aircraftmen, Norm R. Mitchell and Robert Purdy, were found guilty of attempted theft of gasoline and each was ordered to pay $10 fines and costs of $19.50.

Bicycle Is Damaged But Rider Uninjured

TRENTON (Special) — Garry Fillion, 13, of 188 Victoria St., had a narrow escape when his bicycle was in collision with a car driven by Robert Walsh, of 241 West Street, Trenton. The boy was unhurt.

In the accident, which happened yesterday, the youth's bicycle was damaged to the extent of $10.

According to the report received by police the car travelling west of Dundas St., was making a right turn into the CPR freight sheds. The driver did not see the cyclist passing on the right between his car and the curb.

Meet to Discuss Church Addition

It has been announced that the Board of Directors and Conference Trustees will meet this evening with the local building committee of the Wesleyan Methodist Church to discuss the call the plans for a new wing on the Everett Street church building.

At the anniversary services held this year $22,000 was raised in cash and pledges for the new extension.

Tonight it is expected that plans will be approved by the conference officials thus making it possible for the actual building program to get under way in the near future.

A devotional service will be conducted by the Conference President, the Rev. H. Kielty, at 8.00 p.m. to which the public is cordially invited.

Boat Theft Ring Believed Cracked

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — With the recovery of two stolen cabin cruisers, police were hopeful today they had cracked the $100,000 boat theft ring on the Great Lakes.

The two cruisers, found at commercial anchorages here Tuesday were identified by police chief Andrew B. Davis of Riverview, Mich., who said the boats had been stolen there this summer. The craft were valued at $3,000 each.

Davis said about 40 boats in the $1,000-$5,000 class had been stolen this summer from ports between here and Detroit.

Western Tire And Auto Supply Store Opened

One of a chain of 69 associate outlets throughout Ontario and Eastern Canada, a Western Tire and Auto Supply store has opened for business in Belleville in the former fireball building on South Front St. The location is just off Fireman's Park.

Offering a full line of automotive supplies, including tires, mufflers and batteries, the new store also carries carpenters' tools, sporting goods of all kinds, kitchen appliances and power tools for the home hobbyist.

Store owner is Jack Colden, who claims Belleville as his home town, having gone to high school here. He has been in the automotive business for the past ten years and is well qualified to know requirements in motoring accessories and sportsman's needs.

Western Tire and Auto Supply with headquarters at London, Ont., is well known throughout Eastern Canada for its quality auto and other accessories.

Besides the usual varieties the local store handles Indestro mechanics' tools and a full line of garden supplies. Also carried are series of all kinds to fit almost every car, truck as well as seat covers. Millers' Falls carpenter' tools are featured, while saws and other power tools are available both for the professional and the home hobbyist.

Equipment for the sports minded, including the hunter and fisherman, as well as equipment for baseball, hockey and other seasonal sports, is handled as well as cycles and tricycles and wagons for the kiddies are also carried.

Belle Haven Club Officers Are Installed

Howard Ackerman was installed as president of the Belle Haven Club for Disabled and Handicapped Persons when the organization held its first meeting of the fall season Saturday afternoon. Other officers are: vice-president, Fred Cook; recording secretary, John McGuire; financial treasurer, Jim Simpson; welfare chairman, Sid Galpin; chaplain, Hugh Reid; entertainment committee chairman, F. V. Grandmie; building committee chairman, Bill Bailey; waste paper collection and used furniture committee chairman, William Grant; membership committee chairman, Helen Ackerman; social committee chairman, Mrs. J. Simpson; refreshments committee chairman, Mrs. S. Galpin; citizens' home service committee chairmen, C. Fox and Miss Helen Ackerman.

In the past two months much time had been spent in finding a suitable place in which to hold meetings and other activities of the club, which is now entering its second season. Members were delighted when they learned that the Moose Hall at 52 Victoria Avenue had been secured for use by the club.

President Howard Ackerman acted as chairman. Prayer for all shut-ins was conducted by the chaplain, Hugh Reid. Several items of business were dealt with during the meeting. Refreshments were then served by the ladies of the club under the direction of the refreshment committee chairman, Mrs. S. Galpin.

ARMS AMPUTATED

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—A workman with both arms amputated Tuesday in a cutting machine accident dashed out of a factory and along busy broad street until two men knocked him down. The men applied tourniquets to John Vagelist, 22, and rushed him to hospital. Doctors said the prompt action of John Beaver, 22, and Leo McKenney, 21, probably saved Vangelist's life.

Student Sets School Record In Wellington

WELLINGTON, — (Special) — Principal Joe Scott, of the Wellington Consolidated School, is wearing a proud smile these days.

It is a justifiable smile, for two of his Grade XIII students graduated not only with honors but established a school record, and probably a county mark.

Miss Helen Foster, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Foster of this village set a new academic high with eight firsts in one year. Miss Anne Dorland, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dorland, also of this village, finished with four firsts, three seconds and one credit.

Miss Foster registered firsts in English Literature; History; Latin Authors; Latin Composition; Chemistry; Geometry; Botany and Zoology. She has been awarded the Student Provincial Aid bursary valued at $400; the Atkinson Foundation Bursary, $400 and the McLean Rural Bursary, $125.

Miss Foster has enrolled in a Nursing Education course at Queen's University, Kingston.

Her academic achievement is the more outstanding because of the fact that last year she underwent a serious operation in Toronto that necessitated her staying out of school for a month. At that she passed her year's examinations.

Miss Dorland registered first in English Literature; Modern History and Latin Composition; seconds in Geometry, Zoology and Latin Authors and a credit in Botany. She has been awarded the Student Provincial Aid Bursary of $400 and the Atkinson Foundation Bursary for a similar amount. She has enrolled in first year honor arts at Queen's.

Both students have attended the Consolidated School here for the past five years.

Miss Foster is the first student to register eight firsts in a year in the history of the school. It is believed also, to be a county record.

JETS CRASH

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Capt. Dale Slater Air Force fliers were killed and three others escaped injury in the crash of three jet airplanes after landing in foul weather Tuesday night. Air Force officials said the crashes came on a flat tire and a torrential rainfall which shut out visibility and made radio communication between the planes and the control tower so erratic that messages could not be understood.

Youths Spend Harrowing Night Clinging to Barge

HAMILTON (CP)—Paul Pigott, 22, of Hamilton and an unidentified companion were rescued today after a harrowing night spent clinging to a huge abandoned barge nine miles east of Port Rowan on Lake Erie when they were caught in what local residents said was the "fiercest storm in years."

The two men left Port Rowan Tuesday in a 16-foot outboard motor boat to go fishing. When the storm broke in the afternoon they headed their craft to an old barge about 100 yards offshore to sit the gale out.

The wind and waves broke the chain securing their boat to the barge, and drove it down the lake. The waves were too high for the men to attempt swimming to shore.

FATE OF ALL

He said there is only partial truth in the charge that the UN has failed to assure peace and that it has not brought the expected military security.

"The failure is not that of the United Nations which . . . can only do what its members collectively want it to do.

"The collapse of the wartime partnership among the five great powers has robbed much of its force and efficiency but the machinery set up by the charter for the maintenance of peace and the halting of aggression, has not been robbed the United Nations of all of its usefulness in this sphere."

As examples he cited the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Organization of American States, the ANZUS pact and the South-east Asia Treaty Organization.

He said there is little doubt the UN was not its purpose "if we really want it to.

"That is of course the main point. The United Nations is an instrument, not our master; the means, not an end."

RAWDON

85th Anniversary Wellman's U.C. Is Observed

RAWDON — Wellman's United Church on the Rawdon circuit held their eighty-fifth anniversary on Sunday, September 19th. The church was a bower of beauty with baskets of autumn blooms and potted plants. Rev. A. C. McCallum, Trenton, gave the morning message. Mrs. Frederick Beckett presided at the piano and Wellman's choir rendered two anthems, "O Be Joyful" and "Blessed Gospel." Mrs. Jim Pollock and her sister Miss Patsy Wallace rendered a duet.

At the evening service the church was filled to capacity. Rev. F. J. Crawford, Marmora, gave the special address. Mrs. Gerald Clancy presided at the piano and Hastings Junior Farmer choir sang two anthems "Thou Crownest the Year" and "O Lord How Manifold Are Thy Works." Mr. Gerald Richardson sang the ninety first psalm, "He That Dwelleth in the Secret Place of the Most High". Mr. Wm. Aylsworth, Madoc directed the choir.

Following the service the members of Wellman's church served refreshments to the visiting choir.

ON DIMMING HEADLIGHTS

The Napanee Beaver suggests that the law should require a driver to dim the headlights of his car when driving behind another car going in the same direction, as well as when a car approaches from the opposite direction.

It is a sensible suggestion. Not only may a driver be blinded by lights reflected in his rear view mirror, but frequently high headlights from a car in a line of traffic pose a problem for the driver approaching from the opposite direction. Blinking his headlights may fail to catch the attention of the offending driver, sheltered as he is behind the car in front of him.

While we are on the subject of headlights, though, may we mention another problem? How many readers have been guilty of inattention and have discovered, to their dismay, that they have switched their lights up, when they thought they were turning them down? It is simple to make this mistake, when driving on a heavily travelled road. After switching lights down and up, down and up, for mile after mile, the moment comes when the driver forgets to turn the lights up again after passing a car travelling in the opposite direction. Generally this error of sight is remedied within a few yards, but if the road should climb sharply immediately after the error occurs the guilty driver may find himself suddenly confronted with the bright headlights of a car topping the rise—and switch his own lights up in the belief that he is turning them down.

More care is the answer to that problem, of course. But a safer solution would be to equip all new cars with the electronic eye which some cars possess, thus turning the lights down automatically when another car is approaching.

Perhaps the automotive engineers could also devise an automatic method of dimming lights when a car approaches within a certain distance of red taillights, thereby solving the Napanee editor's problem, also.

TOO MANY "SMOOTHIES"

Are there too many "smoothies" running our affairs?

I. D. Klein, of Woodstock, in a letter to the editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, intimates there are.

"Why can't we breed politicians with some guts in this wonderful country?" he asks.

Then he adds, in parentheses, "The Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe excepted."

A few more exceptions ought to be listed, for Mr. Howe is not quite alone in the art of plain-speaking. The example, however, is well chosen. Even those who dislike Mr. Howe, and some dislike him intensely, still have a certain admiration for him.

The "smoothie" labors under the delusion that he can accomplish things without offending anybody. That is an impossible task, and must eventually result in what eventually. Then comes the crisis. They have to choose between getting things done and offending people—and not all of them select the former course.

Perhaps the real "smoothies" are men like Mr. Howe, who realize that the man who makes no enemies also fails to make any friends. Mr. Howe also probably knows that a man's enemies will give him an even break so long as he frankly and honestly voices his opposition to them, takes his stand and defends what he believes is right.

RAILWAYS CUT RATES

The decision of Canada's two major railways to slash freight rates between Montreal and Toronto will interest many residents of Belleville and district.

While the railways have ample capacity to handle more freight between the two cities, only a small percentage of it, presently, according to a joint statement by the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways.

Residents of this district, watching the parade of transport trucks on Highway No. 2 will not find it difficult to credit this statement.

It will be interesting to see what effect the railways' rate-cutting move will have on the movement of freight between Canada's two biggest cities.

As for Belleville, Trenton, Belleville is vitally interested in any development which affects the business of the railways and, therefore, the welfare of their employees.

At the same time it must be noted that in this instance, if the railways get more freight to handle, the highway transportation companies will get less, and trucking firms, too, provide many jobs.

In this respect, there will be loss to be balanced against gains.

If, however, the railways' move results in goods being moved more cheaply, then consumers may benefit. At least we may reasonably expect that any reduction in the cost of moving freight will act as a deterrent against any increase in prices.

AS I WAS TOLD

"Keep him out of the room," he said to me;
"From start to the meal time's end."
But it seemed to me that wasn't the way
To treat such a faithful friend.

But I wondered, too, if a friend I would
Out of my way, as he,
If down through the years would
I be loved
As much as my dog loves me?

"You must teach him the meaning of come and go
And obedient he will be,"
But I wondered how strong would our friendship grow
If a friend did that to me?

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 22, 1934.

The Board of Education has decided that the Collegiate and Institute and Vocational School grounds are not to be used as a campus for sports, but are to be made into an attractive lawn. Several members of the board have been fighting for some time to save the ground as a lawn, as campus, but when put to a vote recently it was again defeated. Some Bleecker residents, who objected to the school being placed so close to John St., were told that the grounds facing Church St. were needed for a campus and now this is not the case, was one argument of the members in favor of the ground being used for sports and plans are being made.

Miss Alice Bowen returned home after visiting friends in Syracuse, N.Y., and Bradford, Pa.

Shade Trees Are Valuable

(Wall Street Journal)

We know all about shade trees. But we didn't know that they are as valuable as a recent article in Baron's reported. Americans spend $2,000,000,000 annually, or some 2,000 firms engage din trimming, spraying, repairing, storing and pruning trees, and much of this work has to do with shade trees.

But the tree surgeons think that people don't fully realize the value of the backyard oak, so they have devised a formula; a tree, with a six-inch diameter, is worth $56; one 12 inches across, $226, and one four-feet, $1,624. Tree Growers' Institute official, for example, has 60,000 trees worth $12,000,000.

Some may differ with this rather arbitrary valuation, for nobody is going to put a price for your tree in case you're thinking of selling it. The idea is that the backyard oak is worth that and it would cost that much to put them in if they weren't already there.

Victoria Cross 100 Years Old

(BBC Bulletin)

The Victoria Cross, the rarest and most cherished military decoration in the world, is to be awarded just a hundred years ago. Peter Munn, broadcasting in the BBC's European Service, said that the principles of the decoration which is simply known as the V.C., were laid down in the first V.C. warrant in 1856 by Queen Victoria, who had been moved by the act of courage performed during the Crimean War, which began in 1854." The Queen insisted that the decoration should be made of comparatively worthless metal and until the supply ran out in 1942 the Victoria Cross was made from guns captured at Sebastopol; now the metal is supplied from the Royal Mint. No Victoria Crosses are kept in store and each one is specially struck

Lieut. Charles, a Petty Officer in H.M.S. "Hector", won the first V.C. when an unexploded shell from a Russian fort fell into the still burning, landed on the deck of his ship. Lucas, another hero of the Crimea, was safely picked up the shell and threw it overboard, where it exploded without harm but touched the water. Winners of the V.C. since then have ranged from soldiers, sailors and airmen to a young bugler of sixteen who, mortally wounded, sounded the call to Trafalgar, remained at his gun on board ship waiting for orders. Nearly 1,300 V.C.s have been awarded this coveted distinction are Spencer Bent, a regimental drummer who won his decoration in 1914, the Earl of Gowrie, who won his when a Flying Officer's life in 1939, a native Pilian, Indians and a Negro. Only three women have been awarded them were doctors in the Medical Corps and one was a nursing sister, officer. Foreigners serving with the British Forces are eligible for the award and it has been awarded to women, but no woman has won it yet and only 247 men have won it in a hundred years. On occasions when decorations are worn the Victoria Cross precedes all others but all that onlookers can see to mark the possession of the decoration is a plain, dark-red bronze Maltese cross and, embossed on it, a lion over a crown and scroll which are the words "For Valour".

Carry Salt To Goderich

(Goderich Signal-Star)

A boat loaded with salt from a mine in suburban Detroit is scheduled to bring about 4,000 tons of it to Goderich during the immediate future. Two or three more boats will be here before the end of the year. How the first one early this fall. Before the snow flies from 12,000 to 15,000 tons will be brought in. Goderich is the only Canadian district observer is concerned!

Everything appears to be a reason for it. The salt produced at Goderich is brought up as a brine and evaporated to the dry product. salt brought from Detroit is rock or fine salt and is unloaded at the site of rice or a little larger. This rock or mine salt has been found to be more economical for use in melting ice on the highways in winter. Consequently the Ontario Department of Highways is using more and more of it each winter.

That may seem to have to come from the United States when there is so much salt in Canada! Canada has plenty of it and there is no shortage. Only mine in Canada producing rock salt at the present time is at Malgash, Nova Scotia. Hence the economical move of securing it from nearby Detroit. Right now a salt company at Windsor is busy constructing a plant for production of this particular salt, and it is expected that late this fall it will be available there. When it is the rock salt there will be supplying not only Goderich and Ontario but also in nearby parts of United States now partially serviced by the mine at Detroit. Only rub is that the salt company of Windsor is controlled by United States interests. United States capital will be producing the rock salt for sale in Ontario as well as to United States. However this setup has its counterparts in so much industry in Canada.

The Sudbury philosopher says it takes the cool days of early fall to remind the average citizen that it's nicer to clean furnace pipes in September than the night before Christmas.

Zimbabwe Enigma

(Manchester Guardian)

The massive ruins of Zimbabwe in Southern Rhodesia are one of the great problems of African archaeology. How old are they and who built them? The hearing of the answer is more than academic; for if it can be shown that the castle as one may call it, was built by men of African race, then a point is reached from which those who say that Africa's culture has never risen above the peasant level.

Some authorities attribute the ruins to Arab invaders of relatively recent date. Of two archaeologists who have studied the site, Dr. Randall Maciver puts its age as "not earlier than the fourteenth and fifteenth century," which would make Arab origin plausible; Miss C. Caton-Thompson suggested the ninth century A.D.

Now some new (but not conclusive) evidence is available. In 1934 Mr. Gervase Matthew and Mr. S. D. Sandes, noticed some pieces of wood wedged in the walls of the Great Enclosure. These were submitted in Chicago to a radio-carbon test, and also to a similar tests in London. These show that the wood, which appears to have been laid when the lintel must be 1,200 or 1,300 years old. The Battle of Hastings may must have been occupied as a site not later than A.D. 750, which is much too early to be ascribed to Arab initiative. On the other hand, there is no way of proving that the building in time the wooden lintels had to the was as they stand today. They may have been a relic of a much older and more primitive building, and the great enigma remains unsolved.

Now Sister Is a Big Girl

(Portland Oregonian)

Monday night the red corduroy jumper, chalky white cotton blouse and the brown shoes were laid out one there faster, were all set out at the foot of the bed.

Tuesday morning the rutual of brushing sister's hair and listening to morning's exciting adventures. Two bouffant bows tumbled on the rug, like bear cubs, stepping now and then to listen and echo the long parts of the story.

Yes, there would be orange juice, peanut waffles, bacon crispe, honey, butter and milk in the big glass mug. Yes, it would be better to wear a pinafore at breakfast; it would be sad if the big girl's clothes got soiled. Yes, caressed the silky strands as sister combed the flavor of a great tomorrow.

Yes, the school bus would stop for her. Yes, there was a kind driver she knew how a six-year-old behaved. Yes, when she came home, she'd step was back until the bus had gone. Look both ways, too, before the street was crossed. Now another chapter of the favorite story, a prayer, and lights out.

Then, Wednesday, the breakfast done, sister gathered each brother and sister in the family for a kiss. These little ones had to wait so long before they went out in the world. Mother had her hug, too, and the big girl set out for first day in the first grade.

Sun crowned the mountain as the yellow school bus grew in the distance. Big sister walked straight up the lane, to the highway's edge. The bus door swung open and she was gone. Like all first graders so big, yet so little.

Still Not Out of Debt

(Woodstock-Ingersoll Review)

That conscientious middle-aged man in Burton-on-Trent, England, who paid a penny for a storekeeper a penny for a candy bar when he was a little boy, and he was, 43 years ago, worth a penny, are other aspects to consider.

Money, roughly, at legal interest doubles itself in about 20 years; so that the debt should, at the end of 42 years, be around four-pence.

In the alternative, the conscientious debtor could liquidate his ancient debt by paying for a similar candy bar at today's current price; which would, of much more than a penny.

If, however, he were to pay the original penny, plus legal interest, he might consider the fact that today's penny is seriously depreciated; and an addition should be made to cover the depreciation.

IMMEDIATE DENTURES

Dr. Brady

From what readers tell me it is evident that many dentists practice nineteenth century dentistry, which is good enough for people who don't know it would rather have a tooth extracted than spend money to save it.

From what dentists tell me it is evident that Tom and Dick tell me the dentist they want and if the dentist ventures to suggest that dentistry has made vast strides in the past fifty years and there is now a much better—and not a great deal more—way of looks for another dentist! Only Harry is interested in new fangled methods.

One can excuse people for their ignorance. After all, who devotes thought, time and money to teaching them?

As for dentists who supply what the customer wants, well what he needs. The Herald they themselves do not know the value of good teeth.

Most high school and college graduates did not learn in school how to take care of their teeth. They learned only to brush 'em everlastingly after the last piece, twist of the wrist, the latest style of brush and a pretty tube of glorified soap containing a dash of secret magic.

Yankee dissacres—there are millions of 'em—know little and care less about that part of digestion which begins in the mouth during mastication and continues in the stomach for from half an hour to an hour after the food has been swallowed.

The old dinners extracted teeth and then waited weeks or months to install plates or other dentures. During this toothless period the victims lost what little good looks they may have had and declined or aged so rapidly that their friends and associates wondered about them. Finally, when and if they got new dentures, as likely as not they couldn't or wouldn't get used to wearing 'em."

All that is vaudeville now, the good dentist today makes the denture in advance, and installs it immediately after extraction of the teeth. The patient wears it home and continues to wear it, with less discomfort than he or she would have without it; may indeed go out to dinner that evening and no one will be aware that he or she has lost several teeth.

Immediate denture service, this is called. If your dentist doesn't offer such service, change dentists.

THE PACKSAK

By GREGORY CLARK

She was sitting in the crowded bus. I was standing almost above her, where I could not help but see her: indeed could see the top of her paper bag full of chocolate caramels, likely a half pound of them.

She was a large, grey-haired woman of rugged build. I was sorry, for women eat candy, those doll-faced chubby women whose pink skin is as full of meat as a balloon is full of air. You expect them to sniff themselves into chewed them with a sort of ravenous concentration. She would juice, chew, chew, her mouth and jaws working muscularly and she would pause an instant in her chewing to take a long, deep appreciative breath, as though coming up for air.

While she chewed, she kept her fingers inserted in the paper bag, toodling the next one. Block after block she ate, as one reads a book. I watched in fascination this extraordinary spectacle, which did not inside me instant. As the crowd reduced in the bus, I was sorry to see her go, sorry, for fear I might lose the view. But from where I sat, I could see her jaw working with the same mechanical speed as before.

When my stop came, I went forward and leaned over my friend the bus driver.

"Have you noticed that big woman back there, the one chewing candy?" I . . .

"Sure," he said, "Her family will meet her out there at the end of the line and just got her out from Europe somewhere. She goes into Europe every day, I do walk around and rejoice. Seems she was in a concentration camp and was starved there, for five years, Russia, Hungary, some where. Found in a DP camp, they tell me. Stay on another dozen blocks, and see her two sons meet . . ."

I didn't. I got off at my stop, and lifted my hat as the bus went on.

TODAY'S TALK

THIS THING CALLED LUCK

I have always been of the opinion that luck in life is always the overestimated. Gracian, the Spanish philosopher, had this to say about luck. He said: "Half the bits of luck do not characterize one who can digest still bigger ones." He takes out and characterize to handle luck in any form big or little, but as Gracian has said, the able person is not embarrassed by the "still bigger bits" of luck that come his way. Luck is one of the more difficult task to handle than failure or poverty. Only few are the great strugglers with big hearts. They discount luck.

Luck is something that we can't plan on, nor can we invite it to visit us at any specific moment. Luck is always elusive until it perches upon your nose, as you might say. It is that strange world unexpected. You can't count on it. Wise wants to wait, like Micawber, for "something to turn up"? Luck is something like the healthy dividend that just comes with a diligent stock. If you work and never worry about luck coming your way, it is the best way. Opportunities are when you least expect it!

The late Henry Ford had the right idea. He believed in helping people to help themselves. Each year he would become a stockholder in the organization which, no doubt will call "Opportunity, Unlimited." No one could lose in such a company. And Luck would be forever around the corner"!

Edison was once a telegrapher and newsboy. He was full of curiosity. He was always thinking of improvements—and how? His hands touched and wrought scores of useful inventions. When he died nearing the age of 90 years, he was known around the world as its greatest inventor. Edison created his luck and made it his ally!

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

JUST WHAT DO WE NEED?

Would you like to be dead sure about religious truth? You think you would, but the chances are that many decidedly would not. You think how happy you would be if some of the mysteries of the Bible were just cleared up. But what good would that do you? In what way would it add to your moral force? What problems would be solved? Thought that what means would it confer peace to soul and mind?

Many things in the Bible are left uncertain, mysterious, and paradoxical. It is evidently the divine intent that they should be so. Our faith is increased by uncertainties where we cannot see. There is not the slightest likelihood that we would be any happier if our curiosity about certain divine mysteries were completely satisfied.

A great scholar said some time ago: "Some people are always looking for dear certainty. Well, when they get it, the outstanding fact about it is that it is dead."

All we need to know for our soul's salvation and our peace of mind is fully revealed in the Word of God. We should not be happier by knowing more; in fact, we should probably be a lot more miserable. What we need are more facts but more faith; not more light but more love.

It is not necessary to have everything in the world in order to be happy. Neither is it necessary to know everything there is to know in order to be happy. If we practice half of what we know, right, most of us would be twice as good as we really are.

The exceptions are an old Spitfire and an equally ancient Hurricane, veterans of the Battle of Britain. (Central Press Canadian).

PICTON

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baxter, Picton, Wed for 50 Years

PICTON — One of Ontario's best known canners, J. E. Baxter, and Mrs. Baxter, yesterday marked their golden wedding anniversary. A family party was held last night but the observance was a quiet one as Mrs. Baxter is not in good health.

In the afternoon, employees of the Baxter Company, numbering more than 200, presented the couple with an electric lamp and other gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter have spent all their lives in Prince Edward County. He has been with the canning industry for 39 years and since 1930 has operated the Baxter Canning Co. at Bloomfield. He has been prominent in the Ontario Canned Foods Association. A sports enthusiast, Mr. Baxter has sponsored hardball teams which won Ontario titles as well as hockey teams.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Baxter are active in the United Church and community work. Mrs. Baxter was formerly Gertrude Burt, member of a pioneer family.

Their family consists of three sons, J. Donald Baxter, ex-MPP, associated with his father in the canning business; Ronald Baxter, magistrate at Port Hope, and Earl in Winnipeg.

ASK BETTER TESTS

Attlee Believes Free World Can Live With China

MONTREAL (CP) — Britain's former Labor prime minister, Clement Attlee, says it's up to the Chinese to decide if they want to be Communists but that shouldn't prevent the free world living in peace with them.

"Some people think there is something wrong in the belief of co-existence of the Communists and the free democratic countries," he said. "Some people think we should not have visited China—on the ground, apparently, that it is wrong to understand China's point of view."

"I dislike communism intensely," the Labor chief added in a parting message before winging home on the last leg of a globe-girdling tour that took him to Moscow and Peiping. "But whether the Chinese go Communist is a matter for them. We cannot dictate to them and they cannot dictate to us."

RECORDED SPEECH

Mr. Attlee's speech was recorded for the CBC and also carried over the ABC and Mutual networks in the United States.

Communism had taken advantage of a rising feeling of nationalism in China to seize power and although the regime had "very close relations with Russia" it was "no mere satellite."

"Our feeling was that rulers of China have a very distinct will of their own," he said. "But almost inevitably when a country is attacked she will fall back on what help she can get. Therefore, the more action taken against China by the Western powers, the more closely will she cling to Russia."

He said Red China was denied a seat at the United Nations "not on the ground of aggression" but because it was Communistic. To deny recognition on grounds of ideology alone was to fall into "the totalitarian error" which the free nations wanted to fight. Recognizing the effective regime but not necessarily approving it was the best policy.

Canada's Population Likely To Reach 16 Million in 1956

By ALLAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population may reach 16,000,000 in the summer of 1956.

Government statisticians say their forecast of mid-1956 depends on a continuation of the recent fast pace at which natural increase and immigration have been adding new people to the country.

Natural increase—the excess of births over deaths—has accounted for the biggest part of the population boom, roughly two-thirds of the post-war growth. It is also the steadier factor.

MANY NEWCOMERS

Immigration, although it could vary sharply in the future, has accounted for the other third of the increase from 12,072,000 in June, 1945, to 15,236,000 on July 1 this year.

Canada's 1,000,000th post-war immigrant arrived in the late spring. However, not all immigrants have remained in the country. Future variations in the influx of new Canadians depend on the workings of the government's stated policy of keeping immigration in line with the economy's ability to absorb new people.

Arrivals in the last two months reported by the immigration department have declined. June arrivals were three per cent below a year earlier, and July arrivals 20 per cent lower than in July, 1953.

In recent years population has been growing at about 2½ per cent a year, a faster rate than the United States and one of the fastest in the world. The rate was 2.8 per cent in the last year. Births, which averaged 286,000 during the war, have topped 400,000 in each of the last two years. The death rate has fallen slowly but steadily.

NO RECORD

The impact of migration is difficult to determine, for although arrivals are counted no record is kept of emigration.

A total of 505,000 immigrants entered Canada from the start of 1946 to June 1, 1951, when the last census was taken. The census, however, recorded only 385,891 who had entered in that period, leaving 120,000 unaccounted for. Statisticians say some died and more returned to their home countries, but many probably entered the United States.

Immigration has had its largest effect on the populations of three provinces: Ontario, which has taken about half of the influx, British Columbia and Alberta. Most of the post-war arrivals have gravitated to the cities; the census found three-quarters of them in urban centres.

The census showed that at June 1, 1951, one in every 36.3 persons had entered Canada since the start of 1946. Three provinces were above the national average. In Ontario it was one in every 21.8 persons; Alberta, one in 27.9, and British Columbia, one in 28.5.

For the other provinces: Manitoba, one in 55.7; Yukon and Northwest Territories, one in 53; Saskatchewan, one in 69.9; Windsor, one in 74.9; Nova Scotia, one in 115.6; New Brunswick, one in 122.4; Prince Edward Island, one in 136.3, and Newfoundland, one in 319.2.

The presence of new Canadians was shown even more strongly in the cities, especially in Ontario where in 1951 Toronto had one immigrant for every 12.5 persons; Hamilton, one in 15.7; Windsor, one in 17.3; Kitchener, one in 17.8; St. Catharines and Sudbury, one in 18.7, and London, one in 21.

The proportion in other cities: Winnipeg, one in 21; Edmonton, one in 21.7; Calgary, one in 25.2; Vancouver, one in 27, and Montreal, one in 30.9.

Those proportions very likely have increased since then, statisticians say.

Railway-Truck Rate War Has Been Proclaimed

OTTAWA (CP)—A railway-truck rate war has been proclaimed on Canada's busiest freight run between Toronto and Montreal, and truckers today geared themselves to meet at least part of the railways' newest rate slashes.

Sharp cut freight reductions went into effect Tuesday on the heavy-volume route—latest in a succession of cuts by the rivals—and president G. M. Parke of the Canadian Trucking Associations said they average 35 per cent.

The Toronto highway transport executive, chief spokesman for the $200,000,000-a-year for-hire trucking industry, said in a statement here that a rate war is on and predicted its continuance will lead to an "economic debacle."

Meanwhile, other informants in the trucking industry said road operators won't be able to match the full amount of rail rate cuts without courting bankruptcy but will try to bring rates down on a restricted scale.

One estimate was that the truckers may be able to match the new rail rates on about 25 per cent of the Montreal-Toronto traffic.

This business is among the most lucrative in the country because it consists largely of high-valued goods on which freight rates normally are comparatively stiff.

Mayor Whitton Suggests System Of Signals

OTTAWA (CP)—Maybe, Mayor Charlotte Whitton suggested Tuesday, members of board of control could make signals, as in school. Miss Whitton preceded her suggestion by expressing annoyance when Controller Paul Tardif left the board room hard on the heels of Alderman Alex Roger.

"We will adjourn the meeting until councillor Tardif and alderman Roger have completed their conference," the mayor said.

Then she sent board secretary Edgar Pierce into the corridor to ask Con. Tardif if his "conference" was completed.

Con. Tardif returned almost immediately and told the mayor:

"You don't have to send people after me when I am on business that only I can do. And I wasn't in a telephone booth."

"It's too bad you and alderman Roger have these simultaneous attacks," commented her worship and suggested the signals system.

HOWITT—SMITH

PICTON.—Baskets of summer flowers decorated Wellington United Church for the marriage of Irene Luella Smith, Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Smith, Wellington, and the late Wilfred E. Smith, and Leo Clarence Howitt, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Howitt, Orangeville. The Rev. J. U. Hicks officiated. Mrs. Jack McNeill presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert L. Smith, of Moscow, Ontario, the bride wore a ballerina-length dress of white onion-skin with full pleated skirt with embroidery of pearls and sequins around the neckline. Her fitted jacket was of the same material. A shoulder-length veil of white lace was held by a small white hat with pearl and sequin trim, and she carried pink carnations.

Miss Christina Sayers, Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing a ballerina-length dress of the same material as that worn by the bride in blue. Her small blue hat with pearl trim held her shoulder-length veil and she carried pink carnations.

Bruce McKenna, Toronto, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the Legion Hall in Wellington. The bride's mother was gowned in royal blue and the groom's mother in a navy blue suit. Their corsages were pink carnations.

Summer flowers decorated the hall.

For a trip to Kingston, Moscow and Tamworth, the bride donned a sand coat with black accessories. They will reside at 20 Bergravia Avenue, Toronto.

SAGRIFF—WALSH

On Saturday, September 4, in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, Marion Lucille Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Walsh, of Belleville, became the bride of James Vincent Sagriff, Belleville, son of Mr. Patrick M. Sagriff, Belleville, and the late Mrs. Sagriff.

Very Rev. John J. V. Buckley officiated.

The altar was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and fern.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a fairy-book froth of nylon tulle ascending into an exquisite bodice of hand-clipped Chantilly lace, highlighted by a delicately tucked yoke and tiny lace collar. Her fingertip veil was gathered to a headdress of matching Chantilly lace, and she carried a cascade of Sweetheart roses, feathered chrysanthemums, and little ivy leaves.

Mrs. Gerald Corrigan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a full length gown of grey and shrimp nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of yellow and bronze baby 'mums.

Mrs. William Trumpour, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a full length gown of yellow nylon tulle over taffeta. She also carried a cascade of yellow and bronze baby 'mums.

During the Nuptial Mass, Miss Carolyn Forhan sang Shubert's "Ave Maria," "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Panis Angelicus," and "Blessed Be This Day." She was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Grant.

Mr. Laverne Sagriff, of Havelock, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Charles Sagriff, Belleville; Mr. Austin Walsh, Montreal, and Mr. John Walsh, Belleville.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at Golden Arms Inn. The mother of the bride received the guests, attired in a gown of midnight blue silk crepe with insets of lace. Her corsage was pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a princess line navy blue bengaline dress. Her corsage was pink Sweetheart roses.

Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City, North Bay, and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a powder blue suit with beading trim on the Peter Pan collar, and on the cuffs, with navy blue accessories.

The couple will reside in Belleville.

Thurlow Teachers Hold First Meeting

First meeting of Thurlow Rural School Teachers was held at SS 9, Thurlow last night under chairman Mrs. M. Harrison. The following new teachers were introduced —Miss Jean Moore, Miss Margaret Franks, Mrs Margaret Coulson, Mrs Dorothy Reid.

The new officers for the year were elected: president Mrs. K. Wheeler; vice-president, Mrs. M. Harrison; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Coulson.

A discussion was held respecting study of science, health and social studies with particular emphasis on the most suitable books for the various grades.

The Rev. Mr. Kersey, Plainfield, gave an interesting talk on religious education and the use of the flannelgraph as a teaching aid in his subject. The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY STREET W.A.

The Evening Group of Holloway Street United Church W.A., held its first fall meeting, Thursday evening.

Ruth Bailey, the convener, opened the meeting. A devotional service followed with Elfreda Vader reading the Scripture followed by the meditation by Kay Dickens. Fay Duff led in prayer after which Elfreda Vader gave a reading.

The business period followed with plans for the November bazaar.

Refreshments were served and the evening came to a close with the friendship circle and benediction.

Kimono Cabinet Trying to Change Things in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—A 13-woman "Kimono Cabinet" has taken a look at Japan's problems and decided a womanly house-cleaning is in order.

Woman's Forum, leading Japanese woman's magazine, Tuesday reported the results.

The self-appointed cabinet includes authors, civil servants and politicians. Some members described themselves as critics. Males quickly agreed.

An emphatic recommendation urged the setting up of several reformatories for geisha girls, the traditional paid companions or hostesses of Japan.

SOME PLANKS

Here are the women's planks:

"Prime Minister" Raicho Hiratsuka, women's rights leader, urged realism in naming ambassadors. "Send a dairy farmer to Denmark, send a good-sense housewife to the United States, send a rice farmer to a country that grows rice."

"Finance Minister" Ayako Ishogaki" will slap prohibitive tires on any entertainment involving geisha girls."

"Good Minister" Fumiko Funada limits drinking hours to 6 to 10 p.m. and arrest all drunks on sight.

Rawdon Couple, Wed 25 Years, Mark Anniversary

RAWDON.— On Saturday evening, September 18, the family of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dunham, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, tendered them a surprise party on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary with over fifty relatives in attendance.

Mrs. Dunham was formerly Gertrude Pounder, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pounder, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon and Mr. Dunham is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, of Wellman's.

They were married September 18, 1929, by the Rev. Fred G. Joblin, Port Perry, at that time pastor of Rawdon United circuit. They resided for a few years north of Wellman's and 19 years ago, they came to Mount Pleasant to live at the bride's former home.

They have three daughters, Grace, Mrs. Glenn Bush, Stirling, R.R. 4, of the River Valley Community; Ruth, Mrs. Roy Wedden, Toronto and Jean at home and two granddaughters and one grandson.

The guests included their immediate family and the brothers and sisters and their families and guests were in attendance from Sarnia, Toronto, Malone, Peterborough, Belleville, Brighton, Ivanhoe and the communities of Wellman's, River Valley and Carmel.

Carl and Gertie were the recipients of a large array of individual gifts and the family enjoyed a delightful evening together.

Refreshments were served which included a decorated anniversary cake.

WEDDING BECOMES CITY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. James D. MacKay of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., found themselves the focal point of interest of Niagara Falls' citizens when their marriage coincided with the city's golden jubilee, following the marriage ceremony they made their departure in a 1904 surrey complete with driver dressed for the role.

Women Can Do All Civil Defence Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—There is not a single job in civil defence that women cannot do in an emergency, from warden service up, Air-Marshal T. A. Lawrence says.

The civil defence director for Toronto and York told the local council of women Tuesday that their chief civil defence jobs should be concerned with medical and welfare aspects which would include such matters as registration and information centres, feeding and temporary housing of injured and displaced persons.

Maj. K. B. F. Smith, senior civil defence administrative officer, said that of Ontario's 9,000 civil defence volunteer workers, 4,000 are women.

New President Of Soroptimists Takes Office

The Soroptimist Club of Belleville resumed activities following vacation at their regular dinner meeting at the Town Room.

Following dinner the new president, Laura McLauchlin, welcomed the visiting guests and club members.

Soroptimist Miriam Collins led the party in a few group of popular songs and contributed two delightful solos. Mrs. Kenneth Bird added a happy note in her sympathetic piano accompaniments.

Music and good fellowship created the setting for a series of beautiful colored pictures thrown on the screen by Soroptimist Dorothy Matthews, depicting the grandeur of the Canadian West and taken by Dorothy during the trip to Banff Springs for the biennial convention of Soroptimists in June.

Soraptimist Loiletta Stirland and Tillie Mazer contributed highlights of the trip.

Soroptimist Georgia Smith in her usual gracious manner, thanked the soloist and Mrs. Bird for their contribution to the evening's enjoyment.

The members are enthusiastic with plans for the future in work and service for others.

In October the Belleville Club will meet with sister clubs from Cobourg and Peterborough at Cobourg.

The following officers were elected in June for the coming year—immediate past president, Laziletta Stirland; president, Laura McLauchlin; 1st vice-president, Tillie Mazer; 2nd vice-president, Marshal T. A. Lawrence says.

For Comfort, Wear Oxfords Is Advice

TORONTO (CP) — For comfort, ladies, wear oxfords—as the Queen often did during her 1951 visit to Canada.

That's the advice of Florence Lavion of Toronto, one of 60 chiropodists attending the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Chiropodists.

"If the housewife would wear oxfords while doing the housework and the shopping, she'd find that her feet wouldn't get so tired and she would be better able to cope with dress shoes for evening," she said in an interview.

SLAYS MOTHER-IN-LAW

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A 37-year-old mill worker killed his mother-in-law Monday night and stabbed his wife three times with a carving knife, police reported. Robert J. Lusch, 37, admitted slaying Mrs. Pauline Schluter, 48, his mother-in-law, and slashing his wife, Loretta, 34, during a family argument at their home, police said.

When you are buying a refrigerator, be sure that the one you choose is large enough. If you eat a size larger than you think you need, it probably will be none too large. The larger size will cost more, but in the long run you will probably save money because more food can be properly stored.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS A MOTHER REALLY "SOCIETY'S FORGOTTEN WOMAN"?

From a woman who signs herself the "mother of four pre-schoolers" comes the explosive charge that "the mother of small children is society's Forgotten Woman."

"Not that we don't live through it," she says, "but we get so few of the things which are regarded as all-important for various other groups." Then she proceeds to marshal her ammunition:

"They build playgrounds and plan projects and activities for the children. The old people have their clubs, with parties, meetings and entertainment. People worry about the children's exercise and their social development, and the mental well-being of the old.

"A father can go out at night or over the weekends, and while he may be entitled to the thoughtlessness, few will say he is actually shirking his duty and if a man does take over for his wife on an evening or for a day, he's held up as a wonderful and exemplary creature."

Mothers of pre-school children, however, she goes on, "must go through a seven-day week, four weeks a month, 12 months a year steady grind of continuous responsibility.

"No one comes riding up to the door to take us down to the Mother's Special Friday Night Party, with a baby-sitter thrown in for nothing. No union says we must have at least one day off a week, preferably a weekend. No one cares much if the mother's figure goes funny from lack of exercise, or if her brains and personality are all rusty from lack of mental and social stimulation.

"Fortunately, we mothers usually do come through it all, though it takes only a look at the middle-aged remains of the lovely, slim young girls we once were, to see exactly just how well we do or don't emerge from it."

Well, no one will deny that there is much truth in what this mother writes. But, at the same time, I think if she would take her mind off her self-pity and put it to work instead, on devising ways and means of getting out of this seven-days-a-week, four-weeks-a-month, 12-months-a-year routine, she might be surprised to discover that it is easier to do than she has ever imagined.

Let me give her just one suggestion, and then let's see if she has the initiative and the imagination to follow it through.

What I would suggest is that she get together a group of mothers who like herself, are tied down with small children and make themselves a plan for getting out of their rut. Let them all bring the children along with them and park them in whatever room of the house is usually given over to the young ones, putting a baby-sitter—even two of them, if necessary—in charge for a couple of hours. If the cost of the baby-sitters were divided among the mothers, it surely could be met without overtaxing any of them.

Then suppose they decided to form a Young Mothers Club, which would meet, say, one afternoon a week, devoting itself to some project of interest to all of them. The members of the club, two at a time, would take turns being the baby-sitters for the children on the afternoons of the weekly meetings.

Further than that, the mothers might baby-sit for each other on a carefully planned schedule, without charge of course, so that each could have a regular afternoon off to go shopping, or to the movies, or to do anything else she likes.

There's no need whatever for a mother with young children to be a "forgotten woman." If she has the pep and the spunk to assert herself, take her problem in her hands and do something about it in some such way as I have suggested, she will be, instead, a woman who is remembered with admiration, respect and affection.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

EXPRESSIVE HANDS

Pretty faces are a dime a dozen. You see them wherever girls and women gather. What nature has not contributed in the way of an exquisite complexion, cosmetics supply. But beautiful hands are a rarity.

Just as lipstick calls attention to mouth contour and teeth, so does nail polish attract notice to the hands. Therefore hand care is essential.

Hands—especially those of the home maker who has heavy work to do—may grow old before their time. To avoid a dry, aged appearance it is necessary to use a rich cream freely and often. It helps to supply a substitute for the natural oil which is constantly being removed by frequent use of soap and water.

The really effective cream smooths on easily, prevents chapping, roughness and redness. Don't miss the wrists and the webs between the thumb and first finger.

If the fingers feel muscle-bound, as happens when one is at edging along toward middle-age, it is wise to exercise them after the cream has been frictioned into the flesh. Make a tight fist, finger tips in the palms. Spread out the fingers full shape, stretching them as far as you can, then bend them into the palms again.

For graceful hand movements, wrists must be flexible. Bend your hands backward as far as you can, then move them forward. Rotate the wrist clockwise and counterclockwise.

Place your hands on a table, lift each finger separately, do five finger exercises, using the tips like little hammers. Go through this ritual once a week, every day, all year round, a hand lotion should be used. Those semi-liquid milky preparations are nothing; do a disappearing act in no time at all, so household chores can be continued after application.

Manna from Heaven

By Mary Moore

You are going to laugh over this one and find it hard to believe.

I was standing in the middle of the kitchen wondering what to prepare for dinner. My sister had telephoned asking what we were having —for she would be here.

I had worked at my desk until 5:15 p.m., and dinner-preparing time was short.

A pounding sounded at the side door. It was the postal-delivery man. He handed me a parcel. Then I looked down. Standing on the step outside the door was a big basket filled to the brim with tomatoes and green peppers and corn.

When I opened the package it contained a jar of pickles—and a letter and the recipe for them —from K.P.

I suspect Barb had left the vegetables and that I was typing so hard I had not heard her knock.

With all that manna from heaven preparing dinner became a cinch, for I stuffed some those tomatoes and peppers with meat and which I ground and mixed with some cooked rice and seasonings, boiled the corn, and a cabbage salad, served K.P.'s delicious pickles, picked some peaches from our own tree and served them for dessert.

Is it any wonder I love my sister? Thank you K.P. and Barb.

SOCIETY CHIP PICKLES

(Courtesy K.P.)

And is new to me.

Fourteen dill-size cucumbers (any size ones may be used but you must have enough to nearly fill a 1-gallon crock). Four fresh boiling water over them for four mornings. On the 5th morning slice about 1-2 to 2-4 inch thick slices. Let drain. Have ready this syrup to pour over hot: 1 quart vinegar, 8 cups sugar, 1-2 cup pickling spices ( not too many red peppers), 2 tablespoons salt. Bring this to a boil with spices tied loosely in a bag and pour hot over the cucumbers for five mornings. Drain off the syrup each morning and reheat to boiling point. On 5th morning, pour syrup in pan, reheat and drop sliced cucumbers into it. Heat through, fill in jars and seal.

Between what you readers ask me for and what I want to give you we've been in this pickle business for two months now—and we still are!—for Mrs. O. A. wants

PICKLED GHERKINS

Clean 300 very tiny gherkins. Place in preserving kettle, sprinkle 2-3 cup salt over them and pour over boiling water to cover. Let stand overnight. In the morning, drain well and dry each gherkin. Boil the following mixture: One-half gallon vinegar, 1-3 cup mixed pickling spices, 4 tablespoons mustard seed, 4 tablespoons white sugar. Cool mixture, then pour over gherkins. (If the pickles are desired quite crisp add a pinch of alum to the vinegar mixture.) Stand in cool place. Weigh out 4 lbs. granulated sugar and each morning add 1 cup of sugar to the pickles, stirring well, until all sugar is used (approximately 8 or 9 days). Keep this mixture in a covered crock. When the sugar has been used up, put pickles in sterile jars and seal.

IT'S STILL DRY

COLDWATER (CP)—This village 15 miles west of Orillia voted Monday 56 per cent in favor of a beer warehouse and liquor store, but failed to get the required 60 per cent necessary to establish the two outlets. The warehouse voted was 211-162 in favor and the liquor store question 207-173 in favor. The village has been "dry" since 1907.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. REECKMAN

WIFE SHOULD APPLAUD HER HUSBAND'S ACHIEVEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband has recently been elected president of a fine local group. Every month a dinner-meeting is held, and at the next one my husband will preside for the first time. When he is installed as president with the other officers, should I applaud when the other guests applaud, or just smile proudly (and I shall feel very proud indeed)? Should a similar occasion-for-applause happen at future meetings, which do I do? I certainly don't want to just watch everyone else applaud, yet I don't want to applaud if I'll be criticized.

2. Later at any meeting during the year when the gentlemen all rise to greet a guest speaker, do the ladies also rise, or simply applaud while sitting?

— Engaged girl

I do hope that you and your parents will carry out the plan to give this party. . .they to announce your engagement, as is their honor and privilege. The happy fact that you are engaged is the thrilling important idea. . .It is really of no importance that you haven't engagement ring. I heartily approve of the plan to give this party, to have your parents announce your engagement (your father might make the announcement by proposing a toast to you and your fiancé), to have the two families meet, to introduce your fiancé to your relatives and friends and, if you wish, also to announce the date of your forth-coming wedding. This will be a charming and memorable occasion!

It's far wiser, much more timely, to give this party now. . . then, in the meantime, this significant relationship between the two families may be recorded" by correspondence, sharing the news of the wedding plans and arrangements. Every good wish to you!

Secret of How Nerves Work Being Tackled at Laboratory

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—Messages speeding along your nerves are part of the wondrous machinery by which you can read these words. Or light a cigaret, or lift your fork.

But exactly how do nerves work; where do they get their electric energy?

This secret is being tackled at the marine biological laboratory here, where each summer 400 scientists and students work to fashion a host of nature's puzzles. Here where waters of the warm Gulf Stream and cold Labrador Current meet, the sea supplies a rich variety of marine life as tools to study the engines of life.

SQUID PROVIDES ANSWER

A curious jet-propelled fish, the squid, is a perfect tool for the nerve studies directed by Dr. Kenneth S. Cole of the Naval Research Institute, Bethesda, Md.

From the squid he takes the large main nerve, the axon, which is part of the nerve control system of the squid's jet action.

The squid, a fish 10 to 16 inches long, commonly used as bait and seafood, sucks in water and squirts it out through a special tube behind its head. It can use the tube as a jet brake while it's in forward or reverse motion.

The squid axon is a long nerve, but no thicker than a half-dozen threads interwined. Still it is large enough so a tiny electrode can be inserted inside to measure electric currents or potentials. The electrode detects activity when a small electric current is applied.

ELECTRONIC ACTION

The current along nerves does not consist of electrons, as in an ordinary electric wire. Nerve current is generated by electrically-charged atoms, ions of sodium and potassium.

When a nerve is resting, there are more potassium ions inside the nerve than outside. There are a lot more sodium ions outside than inside. Sea water and all body fluids are rich in sodium, which is part of ordinary salt.

In the resting nerve, the electric potential inside the nerve is smaller than that outside the nerve.

But when the nerve is stimulated—by a message from the brain, by pain, or an electric stimulus applied to the scientist —there is a lightning-fast interchange of ions from outside to inside.

Sodium ions come pouring in through the nerve membrane, and supply the energy for transmitting the message. Potassium ions start flowing outside.

WAVE-LIKE MESSAGES

The electrical potential changes in a wave-like motion along the length of the nerve, and the wave movement carries the message.

When the current has passed, the original balance between sodium and potassium ions is restored, and the nerve is ready within a few thousandths of a second to send another message.

Dr. Cole and associates are engaged in difficult experiments and measurements to learn precisely what controls this flow of ions.

The objective is to learn how a normal nerve works. That might bring important knowledge for treating human nervous ailments or preserving normal health longer, or for improved electronic equipment.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking at the movie page in the paper, saying to pop, William, I know you have an unreasoning prejudice against the acting abilities of Travers Sidney.

You wrong me, my dear, I have a dozen reasons pop said. Would you like to hear them? he said, and ma said, No thank you. I'm sure I've heard them. But what I was going to say, William, even the critics are raving about him in Inside the Reef, she said.

Then he ought to be satisfied, pop said. I'm sure he wouldn't trust my judgement even if I added my lukewarm voice to the chorus of praise, after the many heartfelt nocks I've given him, he said, and ma said, Now William, the least you can do is give him a final chance, just to be fair to your own broad mindedness.

Well, I'm still prejudiced, but I feel forgiving, and I'd expose myself to him again if other things were equal, I mean if I felt it was safe for me to go out, pop said, and ma said, How do you mean, dost you feel well?

Oh, it cant be serious, pop said. I dont think you'd have to stand up at the movie and shout, "Is there a doctor in the house." I just feel vaguely uncomfortable, he said, and ma said, How long has it been going on?

Ever since I finished my 2nd helping of liver and onions, and that's what makes me suspect my belt is too tite, but I dont seem to have the energy to let it out a notch, pop said.

Not being the end of the subject, the general result being pop exchanged his slippers for his shoes and they went to see Inside the Reef.

LONSDALE—Miss Luella Reid has returned home after spending the past week with friends in town.

Neighbors of Mrs. McAuliffe Sr., of the village are sorry to hear she is a patient in Kingston hospital for the past week.

Mrs. Jack Farrell and Mrs. D. J. McHenry called on Mrs. Mike Whalen and family one afternoon last week.

Miss Joan Walsh, 2nd Line, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital following an appendectomy operation on Tuesday of last week.

All her friends and neighbors wish for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wringe were Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Garland.

Quite a few from the community attended the Mohawk Fair on Saturday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Legg entertained relatives from England over the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jenkinson and family were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Reid.

CONTAMINATED RAIN

TOKYO (AP)—Radioactive rain, presumably contaminated by recent Russian A-bomb tests, fell Saturday in northern Japan, the newspaper Asahi says. The radioactivity was far below the danger level. The paper quoted Prof. Hiroomu Watanabe of Miigata University as saying the rain showed more radioactivity than any tested so far in northern Japan.

TO DISCUSS BAN

MONTREAL (CP) — A government ban on selling liquor to Indians is scheduled for discussion at the annual convention of the North American Indians Brotherhood Organization opening today at Caughnawaga reservation across the St. Lawrence river from here. Some 75 Indian chiefs from across Canada will attend the three-day convention.

DE CASTRIES RETURNS

PARIS (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries, French commander at Dien Bien Phu, left Paris by plane early today for Saigon. Following the release, by the Communist-led Vietminh early this month, the general flew home incognito 18 days ago, and had interviews with Premier Pierre Mendes-France and defence ministry officials.

Accused Admits Firing Two Shots Into Victim

GUELPH (CP)—Jeffrey Robertson, charged with manslaughter in the death of his uncle, John Mackie admitted at his trial Tuesday he fired two shots into Mackie's body on the night of Sept. 5, 1953.

Defence counsel Harry Wills put Robertson in the witness box after a statement Robertson made to police following the shooting was ruled admissible by the court. Robertson corroborated the details of the statement, read by Insp. Alex MacLeod of the Ontario provincial police.

The trial is expected to conclude today after several more defence witnesses are called. Robertson, 22, originally charged with murder, was sentenced to seven years on a reduced charge of manslaughter last year and was granted a new trial following an appeal.

Western Allies Cannot Afford To Be Choosey on German Rearmament at Conference

By STANLEY FRIDDLE

LONDON (Reuters)—The problem of how to rearm West Germany, a problem which has been plaguing the Western powers for four years, comes up again next week at a nine-power foreign ministers conference here.

This time, the Western Allies will try to avoid the method of giving arms to the Germans which will be an alternative to the European Defence Community treaty—killed by the French National Assembly last month.

Under EDC, West Germany would have been asked to contribute 500,000 troops to an integrated European army, headed by Gen. Alfred Gruenther, American supreme commander of the Atlantic pact forces in Europe.

KEY ISSUE

The key issue facing the conference is how to rearm the Germans in such a way that they can share the anti-Communist defence burden, while preventing them from:

1. Menacing their European neighbors once more.

2. Dragging the Western Allies into a war for return of the territories Germany lost to the Communist bloc in the Second World War.

But in the search for a new formula, the Western Allies are not afford to be as choosey as they were four years ago.

The West German government of Dr. Konrad Adenauer has gained tremendously in stature and influence since 1950 and all the governments grappling with the problem are agreed that West Germany is selected must in no way show any discrimination against Bonn.

RED TEMPTATION

The Soviet Union, for whom the collapse of the EDC project was a great diplomatic victory, again is holding out to the Germans the tempting prize of the reunion of West Germany and the eastern zone she controls if only the West will be "reasonable" at the conference table.

A Russo-German alliance is one of the West's biggest nightmares, and all efforts now are concentrated in maintaining West Germany's willingness to co-operate with the Western democracies.

Under the British plan, Germany would be made a member of the Atlantic pact and brought into the smaller, 50-year Brussels organization of the British, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg in 1948.

Military limitations restrict the strength of the German forces to 500,000 and prevent the German republic from manufacturing atom bombs and major conventional weapons on the ground that its territory is in a strategically exposed area.

GAVE SUPPORT

The West German, Belgian, Dutch, Italian and Luxembourg governments supported the proposals when Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain toured in continental capitals last week. Premier Mendes-France has given a conditional acceptance.

His principal condition, which he says is the minimum the French Assembly will accept if it agrees to rearm Germany at all, is that the Brussels group, enlarged to include West Germany and Italy, should set up a European arms control agency. This would fix maximum limits on the size of all the members contributions to the Atlantic pact defence pool. All Germany's forces would go to NATO.

The United States position as it is understood here, is one of support for the British plan, but showing little enthusiasm for the supplementary arrangements sought by Mendes-France.

There is big diplomatic interest in the final position the U.S. will adopt at next week's conference.

DEFENCE ATTITUDE

Diplomatic quarters here believe that much will depend on the attitude of the other European states to the French plan for an arms control agency.

If the other nations accept the plan—and its implications are now greater than those they agreed to in the EDC project—and if the U.S. concurs, the main job of the conference may be to reconcile the British and French plans.

But there already have been enormous rumblings against the French proposals from several quarters in Europe, including Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian prime minister, and a pioneer in the crusade for European integration.

The general feeling here and in most European capitals, however, is that the London meeting stands a fair chance of reaching an agreement to put before the conference of the ministerial council of the Atlantic pact, called for mid-October.

Oakville Plant Workers Will Hold Strike Vote

TORONTO (CP) — Some 2,000 Ford assembly plant workers in Oakville will hold a strike vote Sunday.

The vote was called by the executive of Local 707 of the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL), which holds bargaining rights at the new plant, 20 miles west of Toronto. Jack Taylor, international representative of the UAW, said the vote will decide whether the workers want to back their demands with a strike.

Oakville workers seek a 15-cent-an-hour increase the same as those of Ford workers at Windsor with an additional five-cent hourly increase to cover transportation costs to the plant. Most of the workers, the union says, live from 20 to 30 miles from Oakville.

Ford workers at Windsor voted last Sunday to strike. Negotiations at the Etobicoke parts depot are deadlocked.

IRON CURTAIN YELLOW

OTTAWA (CP)—The Iron Curtain is yellow. That's the color Canadian map makers have assigned the curtain in a new edition of the map of the world. The map, first since 1938, comes out this week.

Quebec Will Continue Its Jurisdiction

QUEBEC (CP)—Transport Minister Antoine Rivard of Quebec announced Saturday the Quebec government will continue its jurisdiction over interprovincial and international transport despite a Privy Council decision that placed it in federal government hands.

The statement was a new shot in the volley of federal-provincial controversy that has been mounting for two weeks.

In political circles it was felt the statement by Mr. Rivard, who is also solicitor-general of Quebec and very close to Premier Duplessis, means the Quebec government will go interprovincial and international transport to the provinces.

Control was awarded to the federal government by a Privy Council ruling which was announced as appeal against it by Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Alberta. British Columbia, New Brunswick and Quebec supported them in the appeal.

SNATCH GOLD

LONDON (AP) — Fast working thieves crashed their truck into the rear of another truck Tuesday and snatched two boxes containing gold bullion worth £46,000 as it was being loaded into an airline parcel. The gold had come from the royal mint and was consigned to Amsterdam.

Indian Brotherhood Studies Tax and Border Regulations But Praises Assistance Given

CAUGHNAWAGA, Que. (CP) — The North American Indian Brotherhood today began the study of income tax and Canada-United States border regulations at its 11th annual convention.

Andrew Paull, president of the brotherhood, said "Indians have no vote and therefore should pay no income tax."

He is one of 80 Canadian Indian chiefs attending the three-day convention of the brotherhood which opened here on the Caughnawaga reservation on the outskirts of Montreal.

At present Canada's Indians pay tax on money earned outside the reservations, said the chief of the Squamish Indians of north Vancouver.

FAIRTAL TO SOME

"This is partial to Prairie and West Coast Indians who live on their reservations by farming and fishing," Chief Paull said. "Those who live near cities—like the Caughnawaga Indians—are forced to work in industrial employment. They shouldn't have to pay income tax."

He said a treaty between England and the United States signed in 1794 gave Indians the right to travel freely across the Canadian-American border and to transport personal property.

Yet an Indian was forced last year to pay duty on a refrigerator and heater brought into Canada from the United States, he said. The convention will decide whether to appeal the judgment.

The brotherhood also expects to decide at the meeting — the first ever to be held outside Ottawa—whether to ask the federal government for a relaxation of liquor laws in all provinces. At present only Indians of Ontario and British Columbia are allowed to patronize licenced establishments.

CONDITIONS BETTER

Despite the issues to be studied at the convention, Canadian Indians are better off now than ever before, Mr. Paull said. The Canadian government spent $30,000,000 last year in family allowances, pensions and other benefits to help better living conditions of the Indians.

Canada budgeted about $5,000,000 annually for her Indians before the brotherhood was formed in 1943, he said. The Indians of 400 years ago might have welcomed the white man as the "great taxpayer" if had they been able to see into 1954.

Chief Paull, founder of the brotherhood, said Canada's Indian population now increases by 1,500 persons every year although it once seemed doomed to extinction.

The official census registers 136,000 Indians in Canada, but he said he believes the actual number is almost 180,000.

Indian children were taught three or four subjects in their schools less than 30 years ago, he said.

SMILES AT AILMENTS

Suffering from a recurrence of hiccoughing attacks that made him severely ill last winter, Pope Pius XII insists on continuing with his work but at a reduced tempo. He is shown here speaking to doctors of the congress on the history of medicine who came to see him at Castelgandolfo. The pontiff told them that his present illness is but a continuance of last winter's. His holiness smiled cheerfully as he discussed his ailment with the doctors.

—Central Press Canadian

Today they study a regular curriculum of subjects and the government pays everything from tuition to bus fares for Indians attending high schools and universities.

Today there is an Indian doctor in Quebec City, a lawyer in British Columbia and nurses and teachers in Indian hospitals and schools across the country.

HAVE BEST JAIL

Canada's luckiest Indians are those living above reservations where oil has been discovered, Mr. Paull said. But Indians of a Blackfeet reserve near Calgary boast of the "best jail in the world," with spring-filled mattresses and running water.

It was built after a member of the tribe told a meeting: "I've been in jails all over the country. They are a white man's institution, but if Indians are going to have jails, let's make them comfortable."

YEP, THEY SURVIVED

TORONTO (CP)—The starlings survived the shotgun offensive. Scores of them were back Tuesday night in the Lawrence Park area, scene of a Barrage Monday night by the Toronto Anglers and Hunters Association with the city's blessing. Controller Roy Belyea, driving force behind the attack, admitted he was disappointed with the results.

Jamaica Government Is Urged To Protest 'Discrimination'

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP) — The Jamaica House of Representatives has urged the government to make a "most vigorous protest" to Canada over the treatment there of Mrs. John Hewitt, a beautiful young Jamaican model and swimming star who says she was given five days' notice to leave a British Columbia school where her husband is a teacher.

The House Tuesday recorded unanimous resentment against the "discrimination" against her and requested that the protest be made through Britain's secretary of state for the colonies, Alan Lennox Boyd.

Mrs. Hewitt returned here last week from Canada, where she had gone to marry an Englishman, John Hewitt, a teacher at an exclusive private school on Vancouver Island.

She said on her return that just before the wedding the headmaster at Shawnigan lake school gave her five days' notice to leave the school "before the boys come and see a colored person here." They were married ahead with the wedding but she was not allowed to live at the school with her husband, she said.

(The school's board of governors meanwhile had issued a statement saying Mrs. Hewitt has been invited in return from Jamaica with her father to talk things over with the governors. Two leading members of the board later emphasized that Mrs. Hewitt was never asked to leave the school, but did not explain the discrepancy in the earlier statement.

(Brig. W. G. Road, a member of the board, said a cabin to have been occupied by the couple after their wedding is still available for them. The board member also was asked that his name not be used said "the color question does not come into it," and "he (Hewitt) is entitled to bring his wife here.")

The resolution of protest in the Jamaica House of Representatives was moved by Edwin Allen, education and social welfare minister, and seconded by Norman Manley, leader of the Opposition. Both referred to color discrimination as a world-wide problem and one which must be faced and fought.

The House resolution said it regretted the treatment meted out to Mrs. Hewitt "not only as an insult to colored Jamaicans and colored British West Indians but to colored people throughout the world."

Bandit Takes Taxi to and From Bank Holdup

KEEWATIN, Ont. (CP)—A bandit took a taxi to and from the scene of the crime Tuesday in robbing a bank at this northwestern Ontario resort town of between $18,000 and $15,000.

The cab driver said he was unaware that his passenger was a bandit until the man prodded him from the taxi with the sawed-off shotgun he had used in the robbery.

Later, the car was found abandoned on a side road one mile west of the town.

Road blocks were being maintained on the roads out of the town: the highways to Winnipeg, Fort Frances and Fort Frances. Keewatin is 140 miles east of Winnipeg.

The robbery occurred in the afternoon at the Keewatin branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

DAY BEFORE

Manager Harold J. Roiston said the bandit first appeared at the bank Monday. He asked how long it would take to check on the validity of a cheque issued against a Halifax bank. When told it would take about a day, the man said he would return the following day. He didn't produce the cheque.

On his return Tuesday to Mr. Roiston's office the bandit whipped out a shotgun which he had apparently concealed under his jacket and told the manager: "This is a stickup. Get that cash from the vault. Make it fast."

Mr. Roiston said the gunman followed him through the bank to where the manager opened the vaulting. There were no customers. The manager gathered the cash in the teller's wicket and handed it to the bandit.

Police said the youthful bandit—he was described as being about 20—ordered a taxi to take him to the bank and told the driver to wait outside.

HURT ON MIDWAY

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)—Jeannie Semerniuk, 18, of Sherbrooke, Que., and Bruce Pickersgill of Hanson, Ont., were admitted to hospital Tuesday night after they were hurled 50 feet when a seat arm broke loose from a midway airplane ride. Miss Semerniuk was suffered a fractured right arm and chief injuries. Pickersgill and her companion received a fractured breast bone.

United Church Body Finds Quebec Catholics, Protestants Enjoy Friendly Relationship

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP). — The United Church committee of civil and religious liberty reported today that "for the most part" the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches in Quebec province enjoy "a friendly and tolerant relationship."

The report was submitted to the general council's 375 lay and clerical delegates by Dr. Ernest E. Long of Toronto, the newly elected permanent secretary. Dr. Long was chosen for the post last week but only arrived in this university town Tuesday.

The review ranged over domestic and foreign conditions. Under a section titled "The Situation in the Province of Quebec," it said:

"In the previous report of this commission reference was made to religious intolerance in the province of Quebec which terminated in incidents of mob violence.

NO INCIDENTS

"It is good to know that no such incidents have occurred in the past two years, and that indeed, for the most part, friendly and tolerant relationships exist between Roman Catholic and Protestant churches and between French and English-speaking people."

The committee sought council approval for the statement that "it is" traffic on the highways.

It is also concerned about "racial and perpetuate this wholesome relationship and to work in harmony with our neighbors for the interests of Christ's Kingdom."

The introductory paragraphs said most of mankind lives in the grip of poverty or under the shackles of regulated thought and speech.

HITS McCARTHYISM

The report found "recent events" closer to home which brought the people to face a situation "which would formerly have been dismissed as inconceivably remote."

It dwelt at length on McCarthyism, the "ism" to which U.S. Republican Senator Joseph R. McCarthy is credited with giving birth.

It said "fear and hysteria have powerfully reinforced the surge of irrationality and, though in Canada we have been largely exempt from its worst effects, there are signs that we are not entirely beyond its reach."

STUDY PROBLEMS

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems of provincial control over trans-border highway traffic will be dealt with by provincial roads ministers at a conference opening next Monday in Winnipeg. The conference, called by Premier Campbell of Manitoba, arises from 1954 federal legislation turning over to the provinces jurisdiction over interprovincial and international commercial traffic on the highways.

MOOSE PASTURE

"Moose pasture" is the term the prospector contemptuously applies to this land of lakes, fir trees and granite outcroppings north of Lake Athabaska in Saskatchewan's northwest corner—unless he happens to find uranium. It has been in country like this in the Uranium City area where thousands of claims have been staked in the province's uranium rush of the last three years. But now, as the staking rushes and mining promotion give way to solid mine development many unproductive claims are being abandoned. (CP Photo.)

Thousands of Uranium Claims Will Return to Moose Pasture

By WILF CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Claims by the thousands are to return to moose pasture in Saskatchewan's uranium belt.

A change in pace is evident as the region passes through a razzle-dazzle era.

Speculation, officials say, is starting to ease, following the pattern in other mining-boom areas.

The big staking rushes except for the occasional burst are gone. Now, as many as 1,800 claims a month are being abandoned.

GOVERNMENT STEPS IN

Until this year many had no trouble selling their claims to mining promoters, whether the property was a possible strike or just another piece of unproductive ground—moose pasture.

The claim-owner finds it hard to make a sale now unless he really has something, provincial government officials say. Facing stiff development commitments imposed by the province, the claim-owner has to pull up stakes.

Promoters are expected to start moving out of the area any time now, government mining men report. Some promoters already have left for Ontario where there is a big boom in uranium.

Saskatchewan hasn't had run-ins with promoters and doesn't expect any because the majority of promoters are considered honest.

Securities commission officials have misgivings about some operators, a spokesman said. But the province can't—and won't — do much about investigating.

For one thing, it's hard to draw the line between the quick-buck artist and the legitimate promoter. Speculation is a part of mine development.

"We can't write off any effort," a provincial mining official said.

WITHOUT JURISDICTION

The province is unable to curb activities of suspected companies because most are registered in Ontario and outside Saskatchewan's jurisdiction.

To control companies registered in Saskatchewan, the legislature last spring revamped the province's Securities Act. The new act was aimed expressly at companies operating in the north.

Effective Sept. 1, it enabled the securities commission to investigate firms before shares are sold. A prospectus must be provided to potential shareholders. High bonding and penalties ensure unscrupulous salesmen will be kept out.

During the uranium rush, the commission has been working closely with the Ontario securities commission, providing information from provincial geologists when possible.

1954 STAKING

There were two main staking rushes in the Uranium City district this summer, one at Grease bay about 30 miles west of the townsite and the other on Laird island in Tazin bay to the north.

E. E. Bellingham, resident provincial geologist here, says "everyone" went to Grease bay. Laird islands maps were latticed with claims marked off.

Some stakers are said to have reaped small fortunes. One party of three is reported to have sold one set of claims for $500,000.

Pat Hughes, an Irishman who came to Canada six years ago, with three others this summer sold nine claims on Laird island for $100,000.

But in the main, provincial geologists say, the average staker has little chance of selling his claims. One mining authority predicts that 21,000 of the 28,000 stakes in Ontario last year will have returned to moose pasture by 1955.

Stakers generally tie on to another reported find and hope they've hit the mother lode or are next to a neighbor who has. / great deal of staking around Uranium City was indiscriminate, staking first and prospecting, if any, last.

New Webbing Cleaner Will Replace Blanco

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Tommy Atkins bids goodbye in December to an old barrack-room companion—and he probably won't be sorry.

The British army is issuing a new smear-proof, waterproof webbing cleaner to replace the powdered blanco used for more than 60 years.

The cleaner, which looks something like brown boot polish, will do away with a nightly chore involving brushes, blanco blocks and water. It will be easier on Tommy's pocketbook, too, in the long run.

Army spokesmen say once he's removed all the blanco from his 18 separate pieces of webbing, he'll find that he needs to touch it up far less often and with less paraphernalia.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

Webbing belts, which required a daily dipping with blanco, should last a week the new way. Other items should last a month.

The Royal Air Force was first with the improved cleaner and has been using it about a year. There are several versions of its origin.

One such says that British troops spotted Canadians using a liquid type in Korea, which led to the change. Another says that military medical officers complained about cases of skin irritation caused by the powder cleaners.

The British history of blanco extends to the 18th century when pipe-clay was used to whiten buckskin trousers. In 1793, the militia was given an annual allowance of 6d a man to buy pipe-clay. Blanco itself seems to have made its first appearance about 1890 and was white as the name implies. Khaki blanco arrived in 1900.

ROMANS HAD INK

BRISTOL, Eng. (Reuters) — A third-century letter in ink, the earliest ink writing yet found in Britain, has been excavated from a Roman well at the Somerset village of Chew Stoke near here. Parts of two or three wooden writing tablets were unearthed bearing ink inscriptions in Latin.

105th BIRTHDAY

SASKATOON (CP)—John Wesley Doull, who lives at the Provincial Convalescent Home here, has celebrated his 105th birthday. He was born in Prince Edward Island and graduated from Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., in 1873. He attributed his long life to moderation in all things.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop telefoned to ma to tell her he would be late for dinner on account of his secretarry being home in bed, and when he came in ma said, Goodness, William, you poor man, it must be terrible to have to keep track of all your own engagements and not have a sole to dictate your letters to.

Oh, that part of it is a relief, pop said. My secretarry never got in my engagements right, and it take me more time to correct the errurs in her letters than it did to dictate them. If there's one way to spell a word wrong, she knows it, and if there's no way, she invents one, he said, and ma said, But William, when you want something from the files, she's there to whisk it out for you in the twinkling of an eye.

On the contrary, my dear, she seems to be there to bring me the Kinsey file when I ask for the Carter file, although I must admit she has a reasonable explination, pop said. She thought Carter was spelled with a K, and there wasn't any Karter with a K, so she brought me Kinsey, he said, and ma said, Well then for land sakes you should of saved time today instead of losing it.

And so I would have, my dear, if the typewriter hadn't needed a new ribbin pop said. It took me an hour and a half to change it, and that's the only thing she can do in a hizzurry-like way. No secretarry will tell you this, but they'd all be out of jobs if typewriter ribbins didn't need changing, he said, and ma said, Oh, come and eat.

Which he did.

Lawyers Will Meet

FOLKESTONE, Eng. (Reuters) — A Commonwealth and Empire legal conference will be held in London July 20-27 next year, it was announced Tues., at the annual conference of the British Law Society.

President Frederick Jessop said the suggestion had found "instant approval" among commonwealth law societies and bar associations.

An executive committee to make arrangements for the conference will include two representatives from Canada, Australia, Ceylon, New Zealand and South Africa, as well as four from the United Kingdom.

NINE INJURED IN DIESEL-TRAIN CRASH

One of nine persons injured in a collision between a passenger train and a diesel yard locomotive at Ling of Calgrevi, is taken to hospital on a stretcher. The passenger train jumped a switch and rammed into the small diesel and ran the slow speed of the train prevented a major disaster. Forty-five others were shaken and bruised. ## RAWDON

Safety Precautions On Farm Implements

RAWDON. — In a recent issue of "The Countrywoman" which is published by A.C.W.W. in London, England, was a column on "Safety". There were many items pertaining to road safety and around the home. Two special items were labelled "On The Farm" and came from Canada and New Zealand. The Union Farmer of Saskatchewan had written a lengthy article about children playing around on farm machinery, and this is applicable to this part of Ontario. The writer said:

"Driving throughout prairie countryside we often see father driving the tractor and a chubby youngster riding beside. Safety experts will tell you that pride and affection, and the desire of breaking youngsters early to the feel of farming, betray many farmers year after year into killing or maiming their own children. The kids ride with daddy on powerful machinery before they are old enough to have adequate knowledge of danger, and they hang around moving machinery, sometimes without proper supervision. All these situations contribute generously to make youngsters fourteen years and under, victims of seventeen per cent of farm accidents in the United States. So every farm father should begin early to teach youngsters how to handle farm machinery with respectful caution. Let us all give our youngsters a safety training lesson on the powerful, ingenious equipment that is helping a great deal towards keeping smart and enterprising farm youngsters following pop's footsteps, instead of drifting off to city lights. But let us not just take them for a ride in dangerous places at too tender an age. Don't let kids operate tractors without supervision at ages far below what the law allows is safe for automobile drivers."

The New Zealand Home and Country also endorses this warning and this magazine gives figures showing a heavy increase in tractor fatalities several of which involve children. A district coroner at an inquest on a five-year-old girl, who fell off a tractor and under the blades of a rotary mower said the accident had occurred through "little short of criminal negligence." Although some of the fatalities to tractor drivers were due to pure mischance still several deaths in tractor accidents were because of "lack, or care, or the taking of undue risks with the machines on steep country."

Blood Stream Used to Combat Rheumatic, Arthritic Pain; No Pills

Penetrant Dilates Capillaries, Flows Fresh Oxygen-Rich Blood Through Afflicted Areas

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. This new method applies, for the first time, a well-known medical principle of pain relief to a product now readily available to Canadians for home use. The discovery literally calls upon the blood stream to bathe away pains of rheumatism, arthritis, sore muscles and joints of most kinds.

Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB," this new cream is odorless and greaseless. InfraRUB has the unusual ability to penetrate the "skin barrier"—go to work to relieve pain deep down in sore muscles and joints. The bloodstream carries the soothing medication right to the seat of trouble where it actually helps drive away pain-causing congestion and pressure. Users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Another feature of this new product that appeals to many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent, objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

InfraRUB is now sold at all drug counters. No prescription is necessary.

Even on to "leg up" to a knight in full armour? In a recent film about Joan of Arc the movie makers got over this weighty problem by dressing the actress who played the title part in a suit of armour made of aluminium. Result: shooting, including scenes showing Joan mounting her horse, proceeded on schedule.

Canadian manufacturers use a lot of weight-saving aluminum not only because it makes things lighter to handle and cheaper to ship but because it makes up into more products per pound. Helps them market their products for less. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Yankees Set New Record, But Pennant-Winning Indians Miss The Boat

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

MUSH, YOU HUSKIES!

It is not known if Manager Jack Carson of the Belleville Senior senior baseball club, carries snowshoes, skis, snow shovels, sleds and a team or two of Arctic huskies with his diamond equipment, but the way this Ontario Baseball Association senior playdowns picture looks, the finalists are going to need the wintry gear before the umps waves the last man out, and the title is decided.

Ah, me, what could be finer than going to a nice ole ball game in the dinner duds just before you take off for the New Year's Eve festivities. Or to see on Christmas morning the old man down on his hands and knees all dolled up in a baseball uniform dealing out the presents to Junior and Janie.

It would be interesting to see what Art Wright, Bobby Sexton, Johnny Mowat, Sammy Malhalland and the rest of the Belles' hurling corps could do on the mound wearing fleece-lined gauntlet mittens, or Tony Petitti, Keith MacDonald, Mervee Mowat and big boy, Geyer himself, and the rest of the crew with the hitcher batting averages, trying to clout zingies swathed in cozmskin coats.

And would our friends the umps, be comfortable in electrically-heated belly-pads and masks. George Whitman would, perchance, have to invent his bewhiskering "scrabble" with anti-freeze to prevent amber icicles from making his chin look like a bush dancer's skirt.

Seriously, it looks as though the battles for the senior baseball championship are destined to extend well into autumn. At the moment the Belleville Senior and Niagara Falls are tied up with two wins each in their best-of-seven Niagara District Senior Baseball League titular series.

The bloom on the Niagara peaches will be a memory, and the frosty rime will be on the frontier "punkins" before a western Ontario champion is decided, for the winner of the Cornwall-Brockville series is scheduled to meet the winner of the Petrolia-Oakville joust, the survivors meeting up with the victors of this Belleville-Oshawa clash for the title.

It might not be a bad idea for Messrs Frank Buckland, OBA secretary, and his schedule making buddies, to confer with the OBA before finalizing that Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League sked, so there will be no conflicting of dates.

And speaking of baseball, it was amazing, though perhaps coincidental, to see Toronto Ed Schreiber, who was pinched through the clip the other day, Don Thomas and George Williams conversing on a street corner. They were smiling (baseball umpires are human, too) and apparently enjoying the cordials. As a matter of fact they were indulging in a little back-slapping, and passing friends wondered "how come?" It was a mystery until somebody pointed out that it was a Tag Day for the National Institute for the Blind.

Incidentally, that game between the Batas and Oshawa scheduled for last night was rained out and the clubs will go at it in Oshawa Thursday night with the second tilt set for Exhibition Park here Saturday.

* * *

STILL GOING STRONG!

Agriculturists will tell you that a turkey improves with age, but there is no proof that venerable Pat Maracle, the Bob Lemon of the Point Anne intermediate "A" softball squad, spent his middle days with a block of gobbler. However, it appears, has that characteristic of the feathered Christmas dinner, for the years thus far have taken none of the "sap" from that "rubber" arm.

The dusky hurler's powerful right flipper seems to glory in those "white-over" years. Thus far he has won all of his five starts in OASA playdown battle, and each game has been a hurling masterpiece. What he does to it nobody seems to know. Maybe he takes it off at night and wraps it in cotton wool, then puts it in the oven to warm up before going to the mound. In any event, Mr. Maracle's star-board-side appendage has been one of the potent factors in not only the Ox Pointers winning the city championship but thus far along that tough playdown trail.

In Brockville the other night, he set down the prides of the riverside city, conquerors of Ottawa and other points east, with a measly bunt. Another six inches and Pat would have cut another notch on his cuticle "six-shooter." He is bidding fair to repeat his sterling mound record of 1953 and that was good enough for any man's team.

We're not trying to infer that the Ox Point aggregation is a one-man team. Far from it. Jack Elliott and Phil Lott have rounded out a powerful, well-balanced combination that has just annexed its second straight Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" title. In hitting and defensive ability it compares favorably with any club to carry the Belleville District League's banner into playdown battle, and it's more rabid supporters freely predict a provincial title this year.

Incidentally the Brockville George and Dot's club will not play the second game with the Pointers. It has defaulted the game, which reminded us of a similar occurrence a few seasons ago when the Glen Roy Junior "A" squad shellacked a Brockville team 13-2, and the down-easters promptly declined the series.

'TIS TRUE!

Just to substantiate stories written about him, Paul Baillargeon, Quebec strong man, who meets Gentleman Jack Claybourne here Friday night in Memorial Arena, actually lifted a horse during a bout in one of the neighboring villages the other day. Yup. Oom Paul hoisted the Dobbin high in the air, thereby qualifying for endorsement of a breakfast food. The Paul-Jack match winds up the wrestling season, and if you like fast, clean action-packed bouts, don't pass this one up. Then there's the midgets and the two Pats, Flanagan and Farley, to round out an entertaining card.

PARTICK QUALIFIES

GLASGOW (CP)—Partick Thistle Tuesday qualified for the Glasgow Cup Soccer final by defeating Celtic 5-4 in the second replay of their semi-final. The Division A Scottish League club meets Glasgow Rangers in the final Sept. 25.

Triumph Over Washington 3-1 For Runners-Up Mark of 101; Chicago Hands Tribe 9-7 Loss

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Franklin Roosevelt was president and Leo Durocher was managing Brooklyn when a 15-year-old high school boy from Hamilton, Ohio, took the mound for the Cincinnati Reds one gray afternoon in June, 1944.

The youngster missed the catcher completely with eight of his first nine pitches and finally staggered through one inning with five runs scored against him on five walks and two hits.

Ten years later Joe Nuxhall has made the grade in the big time after a long stay in the minors.

The lefthander, who was the youngest player ever to wear a major league uniform and probably the wildest, has conquered his control problems and has a tidy 12-4 won-lost record for the fourth-place Redlegs.

His 12th victory came Tuesday and was the best of the dozen. He gave the Milwaukee Braves only six hits, struck out six and walked but two in winning his third straight complete game, and his first shutout, 5-0.

In the past two seasons on the Reds he won only 7 and lost 15.

YANKS SET RECORD

In the American League Tuesday the New York Yankees set a record and the Washington Senators, Cleveland Indians didn't. The Yanks beat Washington 3-1 for their 101st victory, the most games ever won by a runner-up in the junior circuit. The Indians, needing only one game to tie the all-time mark of 110 victories in the league, lost to Chicago 9-7.

Bob Grim, a 24-year-old bartender from Brooklyn, became the first Yankee rookie in six seasons to win 20 games. He gave up only four hits, all singles, in running his record to 20-6.

In other action the New York Giants continued their winning ways with a 5-2 triumph at Brooklyn. Chicago took a double-header from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3 in 10 innings and 3-2 in 6½. The Boston Red Sox beat the Philadelphia Athletics twice by 4-3 scores. The first game ran 10 innings.

The double loss and a 4-3 Baltimore victory over Detroit consigned the Athletics to the American League cellar.

CLEARS SACKS

Bobby Hofman hit a grand slam homer in the first inning for the Giants and Ruben Gomez and Jim Hearn held the Dodgers to five hits.

The Indians committed five errors as their 11 - game winning streak came to an end. Larry Doby drove in six runs but it was not enough to overcome the leaky defence which allowed three Chicago runs to score on a wild pick-off play, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Bob Turley drove in one run, scored one and struck out five as Baltimore clinched seventh place, one notch higher than the club finished a year ago when it was the St. Louis Browns.

Big Ten, Others Under Fire From Pro Boss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League has blasted Big 10 athletic officials and others as "isolationists and selfish men" intent on severing years of harmonious relations between college and professional football.

Bell said Tuesday that Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, Big 10 commissioner; Theodore M. Payseur, Northwestern University athletic director; Tom Hamilton, Pittsburgh Athletic Director and Fritz Crisler, head of athletics at Michigan, are leading an attempt to cause a rift between college athletics and professional sports.

"They're not kidding us. We know what the real reason for their sudden attack on pro football is our elaborate nationwide television program. They're sore because we televise on Saturday nights.

WILL CONTINUE

"Well, we're going to televise on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. We've went through a lawsuit alone for eight weeks in federal courts at a great cost. We won and we're going to give the public all the television we can," Bell said.

The portly commissioner said Wilson, Hamilton, Crisler and the rest are afraid to allow unlimited television in college football because their figure Notre Dame would sell their games sight-unseen next year and year out, freezing the rest of them out of the picture.

Bell's ire was aroused by a letter from Wilson and a report he received on the conference of athletics heads and public relations men at Purdue University last week. Bell said Wilson "misquoted ways and means of sharply differentiating between college and pro sports.

Giants' Infield Said Smoother Than Tribe's Inner Gardeners

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants, with a solid defensive performer at each position, will take a smoother-working and healthier infield than Cleveland into the 51st world series next week.

With Whitey Lockman, Davey Williams, Alvin Dark and Hank Thompson, the newly-crowned National League champions have the edge over the Indians' quartet of Vic Wertz, Bobby Avila, George Strickland and Al Rosen. Only at shortstop, where Strickland is considered a shade the better fielder than Dark, does Cleveland shine.

That's defensively. At the bat, the Giants cannot match the power of Wertz and Rosen or the consistency of Avila, the American League's leading batter.

HOW READY?

Whether Rosen physically will be at his peak is questionable. The latest report has Al's fractured finger of mid-June thoroughly healed. But he's now suffering from multiple ills—a charley horse in his right thigh, calcium deposits in his left foot and muscle spasms in his back. He'll be ready for the opener in the Polo Ground next Wednesday. But how ready?

At first-base, there's little to choose between Lockman and Wertz. Both are converted outfielders, but Wertz, a home run threat, is more consistent.

Avila, with a .336 batting mark to Williams' .225, is the better hitter by far. Bobby's strength lies in his ground-covering and pivot-making abilities, no small factor in the Cleveland infield's defense. Avila, too, has improved considerably in the field this season.

HIT-AND-RUN THREAT

Dark, with 186 hits and a .295 batting average, presents a hit-and-run threat in the No. 2 spot in New York's batting order. Strickland is hitting .215 for the year. Of his most valuable player performance of 1953, Rosen has had a disappointing season. His .300 average is sprinkled with 8 home runs and 101 runs batted in is nothing to sneeze at. But last year, he hit .336 with 43 circuit blows and 145 RBI's.

Thompson, the Giants' third baseman, is a first-rate glove man. He's come on strong the last month and currently shows 26 homers and 86 runs batted in.

Both clubs have versatile infield reserves.

SETS TRACK MARK

NEW YORK (AP)—Summer Tan threw a monkey wrench into the two-year-old championship ambitions of Nashua Tuesday by speeding to an Aqueduct track record in the $30,025 Cowdin Stakes. Owned by Mrs. Russell A. Firestone of Akron, Ohio, Summer Tan ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:16. Nashua was second and Col. E. P. Bixter's Rose's Babe third. Ip-1949 Hill Prince ran to a 1:16 3-record in this same stake race.

Major Baseball Leagues Face Multi-Million-Dollar Suit; Minor Leagues Support Action

By ROBERT MOORE

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A minor league club owner for many years, Frank Lawrence, today charged the major leagues with invading minor league territory through radio and television broadcasts and identified himself as the key figure behind a multi-million-dollar damage suit to make them pay for it.

At the same time, Lawrence accused Commissioner Ford Frick of being "a commissioner of the New York big league clubs only — not commissioner of baseball."

Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth club of the Class B Piedmont League, said he had the support of most of the 16 independent operators in the minor leagues in his plans to file suit against Frick and the 16 major league clubs.

"Many of these minor league clubs already have mailed in their checks to pay the suit," he said. Lawrence, a banker who has made "a hobby of baseball for 47 years."

HAD BEEN ASKED

Lawrence said these minor league clubs had been asked to contribute to the cost of the proposed suit.

"The response has been very good," Lawrence said. "There are still some, of course, who are afraid of the big stick—the major leagues. They're afraid the big league clubs will send them some ball players. Well, I'm not going to sell my birthright for ball players. I'll go it alone if necessary."

Lawrence said the big league clubs collect millions of dollars annually through radio and television broadcasts and are "trying to put the minor leagues out of commission."

"The big leagues violate the 'most sacred agreement in all of baseball,'" he added. "That's the respect for territorial rights. The big leagues have thus invaded your territory. They send it down by radio and television to the fans —free of charge—and collect vast sums for it.

"Now don't get me wrong. The big leagues should go ahead and get all of the money out of radio and television they can, but we want them to share it with the minor league clubs."

Lawrence said he had no idea how much would be involved in the proposed suit, but he hinted it would run somewhere around $50,000,000.

ALBANY LOST

The veteran club owner said the Albany, N.Y., club of the Class A Eastern League had lost $250,000 "since radio and television broadcasts of baseball have become so prominent. That means during the last five years. Albany's attendance has dropped 416,000 during these five years.

"Also during the past five years, 25 leagues in 200 cities have been killed by radio and television. Multiply $250,000 by 200 cities and you get $50,000,000.

Lawrence plans to confer with an attorney, identified only as one of America's most famous attorneys, about the suit Thursday.

"Whether the suit is filed or not will be predicted on the advice of my attorney, who has been making a study of the major-minor agreement," Lawrence said. "If he takes the case, we'll go to court."

Frick said in New York he had not heard of the proposed suit and declined comment. Advised of this, Lawrence said "Frick does know. He's known how I feel for a long time. I've told him I thought he ought to resign. He's a commissioner of the New York big league clubs only—not commissioner of baseball."

Lawrence said he was a member of a baseball committee set up to study major-minor league relations but Frick had ordered the committee not to discuss radio and television.

Gene Dopp Retires From Lacrosse Hockey

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Gene Dopp, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Lacrosse Association since 1949 as player, coach and official of the game for 40 years, has announced his retirement.

"I think I've served my usefulness to the CLA from the beginning until the end," he said Tuesday at the annual meeting. "I still want to co-operate, but I haven't had a holiday in 25 years."

After helping to direct lacrosse in Ontario and Canada for 28 years, he announced his retirement at the meeting in which Victoria Shamrocks' protest over the use of Jim Bradley of Hamilton Tigers by Peterborough Trailermen in Monday night's game was disallowed.

McNulty scored one goal and two assists in the game which the Trailermen won, 9-4. Trailermen now lead the best-of-seven final Mann Cup games for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

"There wouldn't be lacrosse today if it hadn't been for Gene Dopp," said Jim McLeod, past president of the CLA.

Dopp played hockey and football besides lacrosse. He started playing lacrosse for Brantford in his youth, later shifting to the Toronto Lacrosse League and finally to St. Simons, one of the best-known lacrosse teams of more than 30 years ago.

After four years as coach of St. Simons, he retired in 1925 to become secretary of the Ontario Association, a position he held for 24 years. In 1943 he became president of the CLA and in 1949 became treasurer.

Leafs, Chiefs Wings, Royals Play Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the International League playoffs started, the fourth place Chiefs were not given much of a chance of getting past the semi-finals. After they were to meet the powerful pennant winners, the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Tonight the Chiefs will have a chance to reach the finals of the Governor's Cup as they lead the Leafs 3-2 in the best-of-seven series.

In the other semi-final playoff, the Montreal Royals faced the Rochester Red Wings with one more victory needed to reach the finals.

Toronto and Syracuse were rained out Tuesday night and if the Maple Leafs win tonight they will play the seventh and final game in Toronto.

The sixth game between the Red Wings and the Royals was postponed after an inning and a half because of rain. They will play at Montreal tonight. If a seventh game is necessary that also will be played in Montreal.

Westerner Is Lacrosse Head

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Dr. Frank Snell, of New Westminster, B.C., Tuesday was elected president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association at the annual meeting. He succeeds James McLeod of Ottawa.

Other officers include A. E. Hall, of Montreal, first vice-president. Tommy Gordon, New Westminster, was elected secretary-treasurer to replace Gene Dopp. Dopp was named to the new position of honorary secretary-treasurer.

Score Twice For Hawks

PEMBROKE (CP)—Jack Price and Jack McIntyre each scored twice Tuesday night to the Tech Blacks a 4-4 tie with the Whites in the annual meeting, "1 still want to co-operate, but I haven't had a holiday in 25 years."

After helping to direct lacrosse in Ontario and Canada for 28 years, he announced his retirement at the meeting in which Victoria Shamrocks' protest over the use of Jim Bradley of Hamilton Tigers by Peterborough Trailermen in Monday night's game was disallowed.

SPORT IN BRIEF

WIN LOW NET

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Mrs. J. M. Fraser of Montreal and Mrs. G. A. Downey of Toronto, former Ont. champion, net award in the two-ball foursome event at the annual national tournament of the Canadian Women's Senior Golf Association.

Mrs. Fraser, president of the Quebec branch of the association, and her partner posted a low gross score of 90 for a low net of 37 to lead the field of some 60 Ontario and Quebec golfers in the nine-hole event. Mrs. G. E. Hackney of Seigniory and Mrs. A. Black of Toronto, share low gross honors.

MOVES UP

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Lulu Perez, fifth-ranked featherweight, moved into the lightweight class successfully here Tuesday night when he came from behind in the closing rounds to gain a unanimous 10 - round decision over Jerry Drouin of Montreal. Drouin, weighing 134, made good use of a sharp left jab and an occasional right hook to give his Brooklyn opponent plenty of trouble and take an early lead. But he slowed down in the middle heats and did a lot of clinching from then on. Perez weighed 132.

SEE STRONG ENTRY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A strong field of professionals and amateurs is in prospect for the Niagara parks commission's $1,000 open golf tournament Friday and Saturday, Fred M. Cairns, tournament chairman, announced Tuesday. Canadian pro entries include Al Balding of Toronto, winner of the Millar Cup and the Ontario PGA title and Stan Kozmik of Hamilton. Amateurs include Grant Sherk of Kitchener, Ontario Amateur champion and Moe Norman, Kitchener's colonel performer.

Kansas City May Be New Home Of Philadelphia Athletics

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The current owners of the Philadelphia Athletics called a series of closed door "let's make up our minds" meetings today amid reports the ball club will be moved to a new center of hours.

Almost everyone but the principals involved seemed ready to concede the A's would be sold to Arold Johnson of Chicago and the franchise moved to Kansas City, now an American Association city. The big question appeared to be "when?"

The Chicago Tribune reported Tuesday night it had learned from high authority the A's would be sold to Johnson within 24 hours. Johnson declined to comment on that time element but said his previous offer to buy the ball club still stood.

Roy and Earle Mack, who own the controlling stock interest in the A's along with their father, Connie Mack, Sr., gave indirect credence to the general belief something was afoot by scheduling a series of meetings today.

CALL ATTORNEYS

Roy, who has been hoping to raise Philadelphia capital to keep the club here, called a meeting with his attorney, Earle, declarolly ready to sell his share in the A's and get out of baseball, also summoned his attorney to a secret session.

Both attorneys and the two Mack boys then were reported planning a get-together in an apparent effort to find a way out of the impasse.

The whole deal showed every sign of still being in the talking stage but reaching the limit of that phase. A major league rule forbids the transfer of a franchise except between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1. That gives any interested parties slightly over two months to wind things up.

CONTRACT FOR HACK

CHICAGO (AP)—Stan Hack will be given a new contract in the age the Chicago Cubs in 1955 after the world series, club owner P. K. Wrigley said Thursday. The Cubs spent most of this season deep in the second division and will finish seventh for the second straight year.

Big 'Reserve' Gives Welcome To Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bits of confetti by the basket whirled through the Cleveland air Tuesday and fell on the heads and shoulders of the town's leading citizens—the Indians.

The local heroes moved in a motorcade along an 18-mile parade route from the east side to the west side to the whistles and cheers of an estimated 250,000 Clevelanders.

School children were released early to watch the 28 open cockpits carrying the team that brought to Cleveland its third pennant in 54 years.

First baseman Vic Wertz topped his bald head to show the crowd his lipstick inscription, "we're in." Each time he did that, his companion Jim Dyck held up a sign reading "The Egg and I."

Melbourne Heads Darts League

Stan Melbourne was the unanimous choice of the Belleville Service Darts League for its 1954-55 president at the annual meeting held the other night. Other officers are, vice-president, R. Winslow, and secretary treasurer, Bill Salter.

Seven teams have definitely entered the league with a strong possibility that four more will join the fold.

A meeting of the executive and team captains has been called for next Monday, September 27 for the purpose of team registration and arrangement of schedule. All team captains are requested to be present. The meeting will be held in the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans club on Front street.

The league expects to get under way on October 4.

Galt Hawks Open Training With 52 Players

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks opened their training camp Tuesday with 52 players on hand.

Thirty of the candidates are the property of the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks, and the other 22 are holdovers from the Boston Bruins' junior camp held here last week.

Coach Gerry Brown, who coached Quebec Aces to the Quebec Hockey League championship last year, promptly split the list of hopefuls into two training shifts in preparation for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League season.

Heading the list of holdovers from last year's Galt team are John Sleaver, Rec Lalonde, Ron Stelstad and Art Stote.

Nella Bullock, the experienced trainer at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, arrives Tuesday to begin duties as conditioner for the Hawks.

Veteran Teepees last season, failed to report back here Monday. Bullock, the publicity director from Boston, faces indefinite suspension if he continues to stay away from camp, Brown said.

Denies Charges Laid by Bell

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson said Tuesday his conference has no grievance with the National Football League as contended by the pro loop's commissioner, Bert Bell.

Wilson said a "bill of particulars" filed by Bell in Chicago against Big Ten officials and athletic director Tom Hamilton of Pittsburgh was "not factual."

"We are trying to build college athletics for its own interest," said Wilson," and I have previously said Mr. Bell is more willing to talk over the matter."

"We have no grievance with the pros and prefer to make an issue with the pros."

Alex Delvecchio Centres Top Line

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Coach Jimmy Skinner of Detroit Red Wings said Tuesday that Alex Delvecchio will start the season between Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay as the National Hockey League club's top line.

The reunited line of Marty Pavelich, Glen Skov and Tony Leswick will probably be the second line.

"This line was a key one for Detroit during the march to the championship last season and from the looks of things today is going better than ever," Skinner said.

Pavelich said he was confident he could score 20 goals if he worked on a line with Skov and Leswick. Skinner called Skov the most improved player in hockey.

Meanwhile, general manager Jack Adams signed some of his top men in what was described as the quickest contract ceremony in the club's history.

Nine players signed up, including Pavelich, Delvecchio, Howe, Terry Sawchuk, Benny Woit, Johnny Wilson and Bob Goldham.

BREAKS LEG

MONTREAL (CP)—An x-ray examination Tuesday showed that rookie Don Marshall suffered a fractured left leg Monday while training with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. The speedy centre, leading scorer in the American Hockey League last season, is expected to be out of action for five weeks.

Sandy Saddler Must Fight Or Lose Title

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Tony Petronelli, president of the National Boxing Association, said Tuesday night that Sandy Saddler of New York will be deprived of his world featherweight championship if he doesn't defend against Percy Bassett of Philadelphia by Dec. 14.

"We have given Saddler ample time for a defence," Petronelli said. "He's had five unsuccessful fights in the six months since he left the service and will have nine months at the designated deadline."

Petronelli said the NBA will declare the title vacant and sanction a championship match between Bassett and Ted (Redtop) Davis of New Haven if Saddler doesn't comply with the order.

Saddler made his last title defence May 26 with Willie Pep in New York Sept. 28, 1951.

REMEMBER WHEN

New York Americans of the National Hockey League 15 years ago today signed Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson from the Toronto Leafs, plus six other experienced players, in a move to revitalize the New York club. But the Americans did not even top the playoffs in the 1939-40 season and New York Rangers won the Stanley Cup.

"WHY I Buy My Insurance From An Agent!"

"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the bee, there's a good possibility that my lack of training, knowledge, and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?"

So says an insurance buyer.

Yes "It's wise to buy your honey from the man who knows the bees — and even wiser to buy your insurance from the man who knows the business."

Ninety Killed In Motor Cars During August

TORONTO (CP)—Ninety persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents in Ontario during August, the Ontario highways department said Tuesday. In August 1953, 104 were killed.

Fourteen of the victims last month were 16 years old or under, and seven were past 65. Twenty-nine drivers and 27 passengers were killed.

Biggest killers were collisions between vehicles or accidents in which drivers lost control of their vehicles.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Frank Ross must have been the happiest husband in Europe this summer. His wife had no yen for the Paris gowns.

His wife is a bouncy blonde named Joan Bentley, who also serves as spouse to Barry Nelson on CBS-TV's "My Favorite Husband." She screen-Schlaparelli and says phooey to Fath andDior.

"Ridiculous!" she scoffs at the flat-chested look. "A girl should look like a girl, not a boy. Why should she be what she isn't?

"Oh, I know that the American dressmakers are going to take Dior style. But why don't they have more courage? Just because A fashion comes from abroad the Atlantic, that doesn't make it good. I think it's awful.

NOTHING FOR ANYBODY

"I know Dior is a smart cookie who realizes how to make news. And his 'new look' was all right for women with fat hips and plano legs. But this new style does nothing for anybody."

One thing horrified Joan on the Riviera: The Bikinis.

"They were terrible," she exclaimed. "Nobody but a 12-year-old girl should wear one. But here were people with old, tired bodies parading around and looking horribly uncomfortable. The men were there, too, and they were completely unattractive.

"I was so embarrassed I couldn't wear a bathing suit. I spent the day in shorts."

AT THE BELLE

Charles Laughton and John Mills Score Heavily in "Hobson's Choice," Comedy Hit

Davis Lean, one of Britain's top-line producer-directors, has concerned the idea of making a film based on the popular Lancashire comedy "Hobson's Choice," and a great success he has made of it, too.

His most popular ingredients for success are Charles Laughton and John Mills, who give the most brilliant performances of their careers. They are aided by the well known Brenda de Banzie and Brenda de Banzie, who makes a brilliant starring debut in the picture.

The story of "Hobson's Choice" is concerned with a wealthy Lancashire bootmaker, who refuses to give dowries to his three daughters when they get married. The eldest, Maggie, rebels against her father and marries Willie Mossop, who works in the shoes for Hobson. Hobson is furious and Maggie leaves her father's home and shop to set up a rival business with Willie, in opposition to her father.

This is the basis for one of the most hilarious stories ever to be seen on the screen, and Charles Laughton and John Mills are at the top of their form in a picture which is guaranteed to give all kinds of audiences hours of pleasure.

"Hobson's Choice" can currently be seen at the Belle Theatre, where it is showing today and Thursday, matinee daily.

Technicolor Lustrous Color

A special added attraction on the same program, is Toulouse Lautrec, depicting the life of the famous painter, with narration by Conrad Nagel, as it shows his paintings. The beauty of this 25-minute interesting featurette is enhanced by its presentation in Technicolor. Performances start daily at 2.00, 7.00 and 9.10. Regular popular prices prevail.

SMASH VAULT

RUSHFORD, Eng. (AP) — The family mausoleum of Foreign Secretary Eden was found smashed open Monday, apparently by thieves seeking lead. One coffin, bearing the remains of nine-year-old Robert Eden, who died in 1856, was carried outside.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ekibitzer

It is a pleasure to report a bridge deal in which the highest rated masters made so few mistakes. Of course it had to be one in which even two babes in a wood could not go astray.

Even so, one fourth of the tables went wrong in some way with the most obvious spread you ever saw in your life. It was number 11 deal in the last winter nationals. Here it is:

NORTH

If you stood on your head the hand could not lose more than three tricks in four spades where it belongs. You could lay your hand down and claim the rest if you never saw the back of your head again.

Major elect is off to the 27 tables that big four spades and took their needed ten tricks exactly. It was really very nice of them. A blind man could have done no better.

What helps me fill up this space are the floorings at the other nine tables. By falling asleep to dream of a white Christmas, two tables gave up 12 tricks to four spade declarers.

They are not the only ones who let declarers haul in 12 tricks. Two other tables did it where the contract stopped at three spades. It was not easy to give up 12 tricks by normal tactics.

Two tables found a way to go down one trick at four spades. It could have happened to a palooka. In case it was going to rain cats and dogs, two decided to stop at two spades.

These two that stopped at two spades made four. So did another table that stopped at three spades. This leaves two of the 27 tables unaccounted for. I can report what happened there, too. One did at three clubs that made. Somebody must have had a feather at the last table. There, north was permitted to go down at an undoubled contract of two hearts.

Nobody was in three no-trump. I wonder how that happened?

PICTON
Agricultural Activities In P.E. County

PICTON — Fifteen 4-H Calf Club members exhibited their calves at Milford Fair this year, this being one of the largest crops of calves in some time. The quality of the calves shown was very good, with some of the top calves having considerable dairy type.

Every member of the Milford 4-H Calf Club completed their 4-H project by showing their calf at the fair. The club members and their club leader, Keith Walker are to be congratulated on this achievement.

In the judging of the calves the top five were as follows: 1st, John Hughes; 2nd, James Hughes; 3rd, Louis Creasy; 4th, Bill Creasy and 5th, Ethel Murray. The first five in Showmanship were 1st, Kea Kennington, who won the Cecil Miller trophy, 2nd, Bill Jones; 3rd, Bill Creasy; 4th, Bob McKenna and 5th, James Hughes.

The results for the complete club standings have been finalized and are as follows: 1st, Bill Jones; 2nd, Kea Kennington; 3rd, James Hughes; 4th, Bill Creasy; 5th, Ethel Murray; 6th, Bob McKenna; 7th, John Hughes; 8th, Louis Creasy; 9th, Gary Brummell; 10th, Betty Bongard; 11th, Hugh Hicks; 12th, John Gannon; 13th, Judy Hicks; 14th, Jackie Parsons and 15th, Larry Langmuir.

Mr. Keith Matthie, secretary-treasurer of the marketing board in St. Catharines will be heard in an interview with John Bradshaw, Farm Reporter, over CJBQ, Belleville at 1.15 p.m. on Thursday, September 23, discussing grapes and the grape festival at Niagara Falls.

James Alexander and James Denard attended the Maple Leaf dispersal sale at Oakville on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Alexander purchased a cow, Maple Lea Buttercup Wayne, graded very good at the sale. The Maple Leaf herd has been one of the best herds in the province and its dispersal created wide interest.

Prof. R. W. Forshaw in charge of swine work at the Ontario Agricultural College, will be guest speaker at a special swine meeting to be held on Thursday, next week, September 30th, at the County Buildings, Belleville. All hog producers interested in the Hastings - Prince Edward Yorkshire Club and swine in general are invited. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Harold McCaul...sales manager, a member of the Ontario Livestock Branch will be in the county next week looking over cattle sampled in the Quinte District Holstein sale. A good lot of cattle has been entered making the sale a place to pick up foundation animals for a pure bred herd.

Apple growers are busy this week getting ready to harvest the Macs. Some growers located in the northern sections of the county have begun harvesting their McIntoshes while growers in the more southerly areas will start the latter part of this week. The apple crop is good this year and it appears now that the crop will be larger than estimated earlier in the season.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, SEPT. 23, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A big improvement over the past few days for most undertakings and for new and adventurous ideas, methods. Mercury's fine position stimulates the mentality, favors ingenious plans and management.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A fine outlook. Be hopeful, ambitious, rarin' to go. Arrange your schedule so as not to overlap or crowd too much into one period. Avoid strain, worry. Have faith in you.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fine prospects with Mercury, Moon, Jupiter and other planets in benefic aspects. Don't rush, causing ill temper or "nerves". Maintain a steady pace and you will attain a great deal.

June 22 to July 2 (Cancer) — Personal affairs, occupational interests and new propositions that can aid your advancement are under fine configurations. Study, needed improvements, industrial trades sponsored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A day for action, achievement, making new contacts of value. Hold conferences, seek earned or due favors and grant them, too. A day for which we should be thankful.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Rosed Gemini since your indications are similar. Why not forget past worries and problems. Start this promising day with renewed faith in God and in your own capability. Large and small matters equally favored.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You can benefit by heeding advice to Taurus and Cancer. Whatever your work, if it is honorable, is favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Sound business and financial interests, industrial trades, mercenary building, manufacturing; engineering, shipbuilders, mines among sponsored. You in ladies'

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your personal and business matters under fine Jupiter and other aspects. Prepare your schedule in advance to avoid waste of time, material. Recreational activities okayed.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Saturn's aspect points to a progressive and productive tomorrow. It is important, therefore that you plan and attend to careful details, contracts, all needed preparations today.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarous)—Don't be satisfied with mediocre returns now. It's really up to you, and your management, how much you accomplish. The right start and a continued progressive pace will surely win.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your Neptune is among the planets that are well positioned in favors of private interests, healthy sports, sea travel, shipping, handling medicines, chemicals, beverages. Confidential matters honored.

YOU BORN TODAY are just, friendly, truthful and strong in defence of weaker persons; are usually well liked and trusted. Must turn to you when distressed or ill. You have shrewd business sense, great talent and general ability; a natural know-how for doing things even though you don't always follow orthodox procedure. However, where this latter characteristic is concerned, be careful not to lose patience with those who are trained to follow specific rules and patterns. Study and keep improving since you can succeed until late in life. Birthdate: Wm. Archer, Scottish author, critic.

DIPLOMATS FIND ALTERNATIVE TO EDC

Collapse of the European Defence Community has brought a flurry of activity in Western diplomatic circles. In London, John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state, left, conversed with Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, on the problem of granting sovereignty to Germany.

CCF Leader Says Conservatives Not Telling Truth

HAMILTON (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, told Tuesday night that Progressive Conservative pamphlets in recent by-elections claimed the provincial treasury pays more than half the over-all cost of education whereas it pays one-third.

Speaking at a nomination convention of the riding of Hamilton Centre, Mr. MacDonald said the provincial treasury is meeting a smaller percentage of education costs each year.

The statements were contained in a text issued to the press before delivery.

"It must be met by the provincial treasury from sources of revenue to which it has access."

He said the government meets 75 per cent or more of education costs in some of the outlying districts, but in others where population has risen sharply, it pays less than 25 per cent of education costs. The province's share has dropped as low as 17 per cent in Toronto and 15 per cent in London.

SEEKS ASYLUM

Wounded Man Praises Pal For Ingenuity

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Goudie says if it weren't for his pal he'd be in pretty bad shape.

The 19-year-old machinist said Tuesday his friend Ronald Dunnell, 23, carried him across his shoulders, then brought him by canoe and truck more than 300 miles in hospital here after he was injured in a hunting accident.

The two Stouffville, Ont., youths motored to the Lake Nipissing area for the weekend. When Dunnell suddenly slipped from a rock his shotgun went off and part of the charge struck Goudie in the left foot.

Dunnell carried Goudie a mile to their canoe, bound his foot, then paddled 10 miles downriver to a hospital at Sturgeon Falls. But a tempest of power failure prevented nurses from taking x-rays. They bandaged the foot and Dunnell drove his injured friend to Toronto. Here, 18 pellets were taken from Goudie's foot. His condition is reported good.

Women Stoned, Others Beaten In New Violence

DETROIT (CP) — Two women were stoned and seven other persons beaten Tuesday as new violence exploded at Detroit Square D plant.

A car carrying five men, all from Square D or members of sympathetic United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO) locals, was stopped as it chased another car and Cosmetics, and tenderizing chemicals supplied by the Department for that purpose. Contractors may tender on one or more of these projects, but a separate tender must be furnished for each project.

The drawings specifications and other documents will be examined at the following prices: from 400, 500 and 600, 15th, 1954, until OCTOBER 15th, 1954, inclusive.

1. Regional Superintendent of Indian Agencies, Room 225, Austin Building, 167 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario.
2. Superintendent of Indian Agency, Deseronto, Ontario.
3. Superintendent of Indian Agency, Christian Island, Ontario.

General instructions to Tenderers, Drawings and Specifications are obtainable at the above offices at the cost deposit of $10.00 for No. 1134A and $5.00 for No. 1134B, payable in the form of a certified cheque or bank draft, payable to the Receiver General of Canada, which will be refunded upon return of the drawings and specifications in good condition to the Chief, Engineering and Construction Service, Indian Affairs Branch, Department of Citizenship and Immigration, Ottawa, Ontario, within one month from the date on which tenders close.

The Department reserves the right to reject any tender not on the tender form provided and any tender not accompanied by a certified cheque drawn on a chartered bank in Canada, payable to the Receiver General of Canada in an amount equal to ten per cent (10%) of the tender price or $10,000.00, whichever is the lesser.

Canadian National Railways, Crown and its constituent companies, are specifically not to be tendered.

The Department reserves the right to reject any tender, and the lowest tender will not necessarily be accepted.

LAVAL FORTIER,
Deputy Minister.
Department of Citizenship and Immigration,
Ottawa, September 9th, 1954.

Wage Dispute Slows Work On Project

CORNWALL (CP)—A wage dispute in which 30 independent truckers are involved with a local grain firm has slowed work on construction of cofferdams for the St. Lawrence power project.

The truckers have staged a wildcat strike, first labor trouble to be experienced since the start of the $600,000,000 power development. The strikers are part of a force engaged to haul fill for one of two cofferdams being built near the site of the international powerhouse.

The truckers, through a spokesman, said Tuesday they are seeking 60 cents a yard to haul gravel. They claimed they were losing money at the 45-cent rate at which they were hired.

A company official said he expected the dispute will be settled either today or Thursday. The walkout has been in effect since the weekend.

May Move Seat

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Lincoln county council decided Tuesday to investigate the possibility of moving its seat of government from this city here to its original site at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The decision, after minor disagreements with city council in recent months, coupled with city council's refusal today to permit reserved parking for county councillors' cars near the county building here, caused the motion to be presented.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Rally Day Service At White's Church

WHITE'S DISTRICT. — Rally Day service was held at White's Church on Sunday morning with the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton and the superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Young, in charge, assisted by the choir and the pianist, Mrs. Floyd Dudley.

A baptismal service was held for Stephen Garnet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jones.

The Scripture Luke 8:4-15 was read and explained by the minister. Hymns used in the service were "I Think When I Read that Sweet Story of Old," "In Christ There is no East or West" and "Lord of Lands, Beneath Thy Bending Skies."

A promotion service was held for Miss Gail Gingras and Masters John Hunt and Gary Gingras from the Junior grade to the Intermediate grade. They were welcomed by their new teacher, Mrs. Lorne Hunt. The superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Young presented each with a certificate.

Mr. Middleton gave a talk on the lowly spider who finds that his home topples down if the supporting threads are broken. So it is with people who do not attend church and have not the supporting background for every day life.

Sunday School will be held at 9.45 a.m., next Sunday so that the members may attend Wesley Anniversary services.

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. B. Westover opened her home on Thursday, September 16, for the regular meeting of White's Woman's Association with a good attendance.

President, Mrs. Frank Sandercock opened the meeting with the theme song and Mrs. Middleton led in prayer.

The ladies decided to have some work done on the church before anniversary services on Sunday, October 10.

Mrs. Middleton and Mrs. R. Ketcheson made birthday donations.

Mrs. Middleton brought greetings from friends in England and Mrs. Jones extended greetings for Mrs. George Bilham and a letter of thanks for good wishes was read from "The Bilhams" in England. "A thank-you" card was received from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock and a "thank-you" note from Miss Doreen Middleton who has been ill in hospital. An invitation from Grace United Church to attend a special meeting there on Wednesday, October 6th, was accepted.

It was decided to charge $5 for quilting a plain quilt. Bills for catering for a wedding were to be paid ..... White's Church will be held on Thursday, November 18. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ernest Curtis, is to send invitations to a number of Women's Associations to attend the tea and bazaar. Many have been working during the year at various articles for the sale.

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton closed the meeting with prayer. The prize winner's served refreshments and a social time followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reid, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson of Picton, were last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Reid and family.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock and baby, George Donald, were the Misses Heslips and Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mr. George Asker, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cunningham, Miss Shirley Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie, Middleton Park, and Mr. Donald Ostrander of Cherry Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reid spent last week-end in Kemptville.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Cecil Jeffery in the loss of her father, the late Mr. Bruce Ellis of Wooler, whose funeral was held at Wooler on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Eddis Barter of British Columbia, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Ernest Reid, Mr. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reid, during the past week.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery has been the guest the last few days of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery and Sharon.

Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth is staying with her mother, Mrs. William Yateman, who has been ill. Her many friends hope she will soon be well.

BEFORE SPEECH

Prime Minister St. Laurent, surrounded by Liberal party members at Quebec's new Reform Club, talks with his wife before making a speech attacking the government of Premier Duplessis. The prime minister's speech, a blast against his government if it feels his federal subsidies program is a bad policy, was one of a series of skirmishes between Quebec's premier and Mr. St. Laurent. # NATO Exercises Will Stimulate Atomic Conflict

SENNELAGAR, Germany (CP) The largest North Atlantic Treaty Organization manoeuvres held in Germany since the war began today under conditions simulating an atomic conflict.

About 137,000 British, American, Belgian, Dutch and Canadian troops are taking part in the seven-day exercise called "Battle Royal," which extends over an area of some 100,000 square miles. American atomic cannon will be used.

At dawn today, "Northland" aggressor forces invaded "Southland" and launched the beginning of a simulated third world war.

IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE

Both "Northland" and "Southland" forces are equipped with atomic bombs and atomic shells, but there is one significant difference. The "Northland" atomic stockpile is limited, but they have far more troops than their "enemy," which has an almost unlimited supply of atomic armaments.

Gen. Sir Richard Gale, commander of the NATO northern army group, who is in charge of the exercise, said the main theme is a study of the tactical employment of atomic missiles.

"I want to find out how a comparatively small force with a superiority of atomic missiles can deal with a force which is numerically superior but which also has some atomic missiles," he said at a press conference.

Britain has the largest force in the exercise—45,000 troops. There are 45,000 Belgian, 37,000 Dutch, 5,500 Canadian and 1,600 American troops in action.

Among the American forces are heavy atomic battalions with six 280-millimetre atomic guns each.

While the simulated land warfare rages, jet fighters from nine countries will protect the West German and eastern France in three-day manoeuvres to test how air forces of the NATO powers can defend Western Europe from aggression. The air exercise, held under the operation name "Shooting Star," will be the largest of the year.

THIRD EXERCISE

At the same time, sea-going planes will start 13-day convoy defence exercises in operation "Mariner" in the Atlantic, English channel and North sea.

British, French, Dutch, Canadian, Norwegian and Danish fighters will take to the skies to repel attacks of an enemy force composed of American bombers and fighter-bombers flying from England and bases in Western Germany.

Turkish fighters will land on some American bases in Germany. French bases will receive squadrons of Italian fighters and the Canadian bases will welcome squadrons from Greece.

$975 Collected At Tag Day For C-P-T Fund

PICTON — The pencil tag day held on Saturday was a most successful venture, the Cancer – Polio and Tuberculosis committee chairman, Phil Dodds, stated today.

With some returns yet to be made, a total of $975.61 was collected. Of this amount, $70 came from Wellington, $54 from Milford and $54 from Bloomfield, the remainder from Picton. The C-P-T Fund is sponsored by the local Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges, and is administered in Prince Edward County regardless of class, race or creed, the chairman said, as he noted that nearly $1500 has been expended so far this year on helping sufferers of these diseases and others in distress. Also $567 was raised for the local Memorial Hospital Fund.

CHOIR TO PAY VISIT

Plans are being made for a visit to Picton on Wednesday evening, October 13, by the boys' choir of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. The choir, which recently returned from London, where they sang in Westminster Abbey, will sing an evensong service with additional anthems, under the direction of the leader, George Maybee. Rector of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene here, Rev. W. G. H. Swayne, announced that tickets for seats will be issued due to the seating capacity being limited to 500 seats.

HAD TWO WIVES

QUEBEC (CP) — Louis-Philippe Dube, 48, of Quebec, pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy Tuesday and testified he had 13 children by two wives. He said one bore him 15 children, the second, three. Both women were in court when Dube was sentenced to 12 months hard labor.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ben Gerber (Mother of 5)

Most young parents are concerned about finding the perfect baby sitter. But sometimes, in expecting the utmost from the sitter, we forget that we owe a certain amount of consideration to the part-time parent. How to make a good sitter want to play repeat performances? A snack or soft drink is always welcome. When you set a time limit, try not to abuse it. Outline sitter's duties clearly... don't scold her for negligence when you're to blame. And remember, a bit of praise makes any job more desirable.

Repeat performances are usually in order when you serve baby Gerber's Strained Fruits. Tempting true colors and appetizing true flavors combined to make baby beckon for seconds. Made from pick-of-the-orchard fruit, specially prepared to preserve color and flavor, as well as for high retention of wholesome food values. A choice of 8 for meal appeal.

Handy idea. This from a bright young mother! To cut down the wiggles while dressing baby, she gives him 2 small, bright-colored rubber balls to hold . . . one for each hand. Really works, says she.

Sturdy growth needs a helping hand from wholesome foods. That's why so many doctors suggest meat as an early age. Gerber's Strained Meats provide plenty of the complete proteins so vital to growth, and the development of all body structures. Made from juicy Armour cuts, they're carefully processed for minimum fat and fiber . . . are easy as milk to digest. All solid meat, with just enough broth added to give a smooth, appealing texture. For youngest babies: 6 Strained Meats. For tots with a few teeth: 3 Junior Meats...

RED PREMIER WANTS ANOTHER PARLEY ON KOREA

Chou-En-Lai Asks Talks On 'Geneva Pattern'

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Chou En-lai, the Chinese Communist prime minister, stated today that another conference on the "Geneva pattern" to try again to settle the question of Korea, Peiping radio said.

In a speech to the Communist Chinese National People's Congress he was quoted as saying that in the course of the Geneva conference, which resulted in a ceasefire in Indochina, the "peace-loving countries" will overcome American obstructions.

The Chinese Communist prime minister declared the "liberation" of the Nationalist island of Formosa is a completely internal affair for China and can "in no way be sabotaged" by the United States.

NO UNDERSTANDING

He said continued U. S. "occupation" of Formosa is completely intolerable and its "enslavement" will not be allowed.

Chou said: "Formosa must be liberated.

"Every day that Formosa is not liberated peace in the Far East cannot be consolidated."

He described as "absolutely unacceptable" any attempt to place Formosa under United Nations or any other pattern of trusteeship.

Chou declared that Chinese Nationalist leader, Chiang Kai-shek, must not be allowed any part of Asia but of the whole world.

He said the U. S. has plotted with Syngman Rhee, the South Korean president, and Chiang in organizing another military alliance in line with SEATO, the Southeast Asian defence pact.

The communist premier noted that the U. S. 7th Fleet is still occupying Formosa and is "attempting to obstruct Chinese determination to liberate Formosa."

RACES RISING

What Asia wants is peace, not war, he said, but the U. S. "is persistently attempting to enlarge the scope of war."

The Chinese Communist leader also lashed at Russia's proposed disarmament policy of a total ban on atomic weapons.

"We want to liberate Formosa and we want to associate with countries which have proven to the cause of peace," Chou said.

"Our victory of the past five years is a victory of the five people. This victory will forge further ahead in the future by the joint efforts of our people."

Chou said Sino - British relations had improved since Geneva, but he thought more had to be done for further improvement. He challenged Britain for following what he called American policy by concluding the SEATO pact at Manila, and by admitting Communist China to the conference.

CALL TO ARMS

Chiang's "bandits" were flying American-built planes to bomb China's coastal areas and islands and drop secret agents to undermine subversive activities on the mainland.

Chou called on China to build up its navy and air force. "China could not afford to be without strong forces while imperialist powers" were expanding their arms.

Unemployment Will Be Chief Topic at CCL Convention

By JOHN LaBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment will be the big issue before the Canadian Congress of Labor at its annual convention opening in Toronto Monday.

Congress leaders have listed the subject for priority at the week-long meeting and are planning to have a full day set aside for a discussion on ways of beating what they consider virtually a "disastrous" outlook for next winter.

The congress executive is understood to be preparing, too, a comprehensive anti-unemployment plan to be placed before the 500 or more delegates as a basis for discussion.

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada already has drafted its proposals for boosting the number of available jobs, at its recent Regina convention. Main points are a program of federal public works and low-rental housing.

Another major question before the 375,000-member CCL will be the ratification of a no - raiding treaty with the older congress. The 380,000-member TLC already has approved the agreement drawn up by the executives of the two congresses, and the CCL unquestionably will do the same.

The unprecedented pact—binding the two congresses not to raid each other directly and calling on their self - governing union affiliates to follow suit—is regarded in some quarters as a forerunner of eventual organic unity of at least the greater part of the 1,200,000-member Canadian labor movement.

Colombo Plan Bridges World Says Delegate from Britain

OTTAWA (CP)—The Marquess of Reading, Britain's chief delegate to the Colombo plan conference, today described the Commonwealth as a "bridge across the world."

The 65-year-old official, son of a one-time viceroy of India, said in a statement that Canada is an example of this bridge. She had accepted responsibilities to aid in the Colombo plan despite the vast distances separating her from the distressed area in Southeast Asia.

Lord Reading's statement was distributed before plan experts in advance of his arrival. The experts are laying the groundwork for the ministerial conference beginning Oct. 4 at which Lord Reading will be Britain's chief delegate.

The conditions under which people in Southeast Asia live is a blot on our civilization, he said. It presented a challenge which had not been taken up by the six-year, $5,000,000,000 Colombo plan pro-gram.

Population is the problem, said Lord Reading who is state minister in Britain's foreign office. The population in Southeast Asia is estimated at 170,000,000, and by 1970, it may be increased to 720,000,000.

That would be an increase of about 150,000,000—almost equal to the total population of the United States. To provide for those additional people was one of the challenges facing the Colombo plan countries.

Expressing "great and hopeful prospects are opening," he said. "The first phase of the plan is over; the period of achievement has begun."

"Canada has from the outset taken a leading part in giving practical and generous an interest in the great humanitarian enterprise that it will be a real satisfaction to the representatives of other countries to find themselves assembled for this purpose on Canadian soil."

DENIES CANADA BACKS GREECE AGAINST BRITAIN

Pearson Contradicts Report on Cyprus Case

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) The controversial Cyprus question comes before the United Nations today.

The UN General Assembly's steering committee will decide whether a proposal for union of the British colony with Greece should be placed on the agenda.

Greece, in its proposal, refers to the "repeatedly and solemnly expressed will" of the overwhelming majority of the people of Cyprus for union with Greece, which they regard as their mother country. Greece supposes a plebiscite to let the Cypriots themselves decide the matter.

Britain, a member of the steering committee, will oppose inclusion of the proposal on grounds that it is a matter of purely British jurisdiction.

Canada, not a member of the steering committee and hence without a vote in today's discussion, has clarified her position on the matter.

PEARSON DENIES REPORT

L. B. Pearson, Canada's external minister and chief Canadian delegate, described as "completely without foundation" a published suggestion that Canada might align herself with the Greeks in connection with the Cyprus question on this question.

He will have scheduled to deliver a major address before the General Assembly this afternoon. He will be one of the first speakers in the assembly's general debate on world affairs.

After the session ends tonight Pearson will fly to London to attend the cabinet conference on German rearmament.

TO DISCUSS INDONESIA

Wednesday the steering committee voted 7 to 3 with five abstentions to place on the agenda a request for discussion of dispute with the Netherlands over sovereignty of West New Guinea.

Some observers regard this action as a sure indication the committee will vote against the Dutch proposal on Cyprus.

Russia, France and Australia voted against the Indonesian proposal. The U. S. abstained.

Canada, Britain and seven other Soviet objections to an Australian proposal that the assembly consider admission to membership of Laos and Cambodia. The committee sided with the Soviet, Russia and Czechoslovakia abstaining, that the proposal be contained in the agenda.

The committee fixed Dec. 10 as a target date for having the general ninth session of the General Assembly.

Four Convicts Die In Flaming Riot In Missouri 'Pen'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A flaming riot at the Missouri state penitentiary, was quelled today after four convicts were killed, 30 prisoners and three guards injured and at least eight prison buildings destroyed or heavily damaged by fire.

Heavily armed troopers of the Missouri state highway patrol moved into the foggy, smoke-begrimed prison this morning.

Within a short time patrol officers reported all the convicts in troubled B and C halls were back in their cells.

An hour and half later, Col. Thomas P. Gill, state director of corrections, said the danger of any mass outbreak was definitely past.

PRAISES PATROL

He said then the situation was under control and that he expected no further trouble.

"It was the most efficient highway patrol that got the job done, and I want to add that the convicts who lost their lives may have saved hundreds of others and the lives of many officers."

The riot, causing damage estimated by prison officials at almost $5,000,000, was confined within walls of the penitentiary. None of the prisoners and chief riot leaders escaped.

The rioting broke out about 7 p. m. Wednesday night on the third floor of a maximum security section where incorrigible prisoners are confined in separate cells. How they were released from their cells is not known.

From then on for six hours, officers said the place "looked like a madhouse," with men running shouting, howling and fighting in the glare of fire from burning buildings.

GUARDS INJURED

As guards and state troopers moved in, they were met with a hail of rocks and bricks. Some prisoners were shot.

Three guards were injured. One was beaten unconscious by the rioting convicts. Another was shot in the face.

Amid the shouting, just before the troopers moved in, came one voice saying:

"If we'd had a parole board this wouldn't have happened."

A circuit court judge, Sam C. Blair, who talked to some of the prisoners, said they blamed the outburst on criminal psychopaths and said they cared for their lives. If they told him any more.

Governor Phil Donnelly of Missouri hurried to the prison. The governor's mansion is only a short distance from the penitentiary.

Sixty police officers were rushed from St. Louis, equipped with riot guns and tear gas. National Guard units also were called out.

During the night, from the prison yard, some prisoners approached warden Elston asking to be put again in their cell blocks. One convict in an inner area called out to a guard to send him out.

"They're gonna kill me if you don't let me out," he shouted.

MEIGHEN CUTS RIBBON

ST. MARYS, Ont. (CP)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, prime minister of Canada, Wednesday snipped a ribbon for the official opening of the new St. Marys District Collegiate Institute. Mr. Meighen is a graduate of the old St. Marys High School.

U.S. Experts Quietly Working On Alternative Defence Plans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — American military and diplomatic officials are quietly working on alternative European defence plans for possible use if next week's nine-power London conference fails to produce an acceptable German rearmament program.

Some authorities estimate almost as much time has been spent on possible lines of action for the United States in the absence of French agreement to some German plan as the time so participated in the London talks.

One reason, informants say, is that U.S. public opposition officials do not want to get caught again without substitute plans, as they were when the French Assembly shelved the European Defence Community project.

THREE PROPOSALS

Work to date has produced a great variety of policy papers which, informants say, fall into three categories:

1. Peripheral defence—this would mean basing U.S. plans for resistance to any Communist aggression on positions in Britain, Spain, Italy and the Middle East. It would have no political consequences because it would not be interpreted by many Western Europeans peoples as meaning U. S. abandonment of them. Both President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles are understood to be fundamentally opposed to this concept.

2. Direct rearmament of Germany—under the general aegis of U. S. and British world opposition, shedding French influences, to form German military forces after giving the West German government sovereignty in those areas. Some officials are convinced France never will ratify or actively have to follow suit in its zone.

3. Interim German armament—by the U. S. and Britain, with the cooperation or assent of France, if possible, would arm the West Germans, after granting sovereignty, but with a clear understanding that's a political solution would still be worked out.

Dulles is scheduled to go to London this weekend to attend the conference which will bring together also the foreign ministers of Britain, Canada, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A general warming trend is in prospect for the province Friday, and for western Ontario today. Skies are clearing as a large high pressure area moves over the province, and as it moves into Quebec Friday south winds will develop and bring warm air to Ontario.

Cloud is expected in northern Ontario Friday as a low pressure area in the Dakotas moves north of Lake Superior. Frost will be general tonight north of Muskoka, but in southern Ontario early light frost in low-lying areas is likely.

Think Settlement Of Trieste Question Possible

LONDON (CP) — Western diplomats here are forecasting a complete settlement within the next two weeks of the dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia over the Adriatic territory of Trieste.

The optimistic reports followed a visit by Robert Murphy, United States deputy undersecretary of state, who conferred in Belgrade today with Yugoslav leaders on the question, a point of dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia since the Second World War.

Sources at the U.S. embassy here say Murphy will make clear to leaders in both countries that as far as the U.S. is concerned the time has come to get the matter out of the way and begin a new period of close cooperation.

He was reported to have left Belgrade with word that President Tito's government is ready to make a significant shift in its position over one key point of claim which long has blocked agreement. This involves a narrow coastal strip including several small islands in which about 1,000 Italians live.

The settlement is believed to involve this area in dividing the disputed territory into Italian and Yugoslav zones.

Canadian Planes Will Be Moved To French Bases

LONDON (CP) — Canada's remaining air strength in Britain is expected to be transferred to France within the next six months, completing a move which may have been deferred at the express wish of Prime Minister Churchill.

The last remaining RCAF fighter unit, 421 squadron stationed at North Luffenham, Rutland, will probably be moved to quarters at Marville, France, early in 1955.

The transfer originally was scheduled to have taken place six months or a year ago. The Marville quarters were built in 1951 but the move was caused because there was pressure from Whitehall to keep the three squadrons in Britain.

"Personal intervention by the prime minister put a stop to the whole trick," the newspaper adds.

Canada already has nine squadrons in France and Germany. When No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham moves to Marville, it will complete the 12-squadron force which is the extent of Canada's commitments under NATO. Two squadrons already are from Canada to Britain, and subsequently to the continent, started late in 1951.

Artillery Duel In Quemoy Area Reaches Peak

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist artillery on Quemoy and communist guns on the nearby mainland fired more than 2,000 shells Wednesday night in a savage hour-long duel, a Nationalist spokesman said today.

He described the exchange as the heaviest since the fighting broke out a month ago September 3.

Nationalist planes and warships took over at dawn today, bombarding Amoy and other Red bases within artillery range of Quemoy for the first time since the defence ministry announced.

Communist planes have not challenged Nationalist attackers, but the ministry said Red aircraft have shelled Tuesday and Wednesday near the Tachen islands, 200 miles north of Quemoy. The Tachens are the northern anchor of a string of Nationalist island bases along the China coast.

Canadian-Born Officer Guilty Of Helping Reds

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP)—Lt.-Col. Harry Fleming, Canadian-born U. S. army officer convicted of "collaborating with the Communists" as a prisoner of war in Korea, today was sentenced by army court to be dismissed from the service and forfeit all pay and allowances.

The 11-member court-martial deliberated Fleming's fate for 12 hours—until 3:30 this morning—before finding him guilty. Conducted resumed at 10 a. m. to deliver the verdict.

Most of the prosecution and defence witnesses were in the courtroom when the sentence was announced. Many of the men who were prisoners with them in Korea with Fleming stood tensely in the courtroom waiting for the court's decision.

"Thank God I'm out of prison now—out of the communist's," Col. Fleming said after the sentence was pronounced.

He did not comment on the court martial's decision.

Fleming, 43, was born in this country name. Dismissal from the service is pretty hard to take. I don't intend to stop the fight which started here."

The maximum penalty could have been life imprisonment plus dismissal from service with forfeiture of pay.

Fleming, who normally be carried to the president.

Jap Says Reds' A-Bomb Ashes Threaten Canada

TOKYO (Reuters) — Radioactive ashes from a recent Soviet nuclear test in the area of Bering strait might "strongly affect" northern Canada, Alaska and some parts of the United States, a Japanese weather expert said today.

Yuo Miyake, of the Japanese meteorological research institute, said that test staged by radioactive rain which fell on many parts of Japan last Saturday suggested the Russians exploded a nuclear device on Wrangel island, in the Bering strait area.

During the fall of rain the wind was blowing off Siberia.

Archbishop Warns Immediate Union Of All Churches Would Be 'Ghastly'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, warned Wednesday it would be "a ghastly affair" if the Christian churches were to try to become together right away under one constitution."

"Each denomination would have written into that constitution so many safeguards," he said, "that the whole thing would fail."

The archbishop arrived in Winnipeg Wednesday evening and an hour later appeared at a public song service attended by more than 2,000 persons.

Reviewing progress of the World Council of Churches at its recent meeting at Evanston, Ill., he said that while "there is nothing more important than a reasonable constitutional union, the Evanston meeting proved the Christian churches can grow together inspirit."

He said the problem facing Evan-sion delegates was to review the various usages of "Christ's creative gifts" and "to see what of it all is trivial, what is sectarian and what really belongs to the church.

"I wonder if you realize that the night before the council met, I prayed that the church might be one. It was already accomplished.

Today, he said, "the voice of the church on world problems is heard more than it's ever been heard before. The world now takes notice of what Christians think. One reason is that in every quarter of the world where a problem exists there is located a Christian church right there on the spot."

Even small churches were "talking the language of religion." This, he said, was a reflection of the changing attitude sweeping the world.

Canadian Planes Will Be Moved To Centralia

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ground Instructors School (RCAF) now at Trenton, Ont., will be moved to Centralia, Ont., next month, the air force said Wednesday. More than 100 students and about 25 instructors will be affected by the move.

The ground course at Centralia will be extended to 12 from six weeks, reducing ground school time for trainees when they reach the flying schools.

In November, the English-language section of the parachute flight cadets at St. John's, Que., will be moved to Centralia. The air force said this will enable French-speaking cadets to take language instruction with North Atlantic Alliance aircrew trainees.

The RCAF said moves to Centralia is made necessary by the increase of accommodation at London. Some of the staff now down at Centralia will be dispersed among prairie stations.

Broken Axle Caused Streamliner's Wreck

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A broken axle today was listed as the probable cause of Wednesday's derailment of the Santa Fe railroad's streamliner San Francisco Chief, in which all 191 passengers escaped serious injury.

Between 20 and 30 persons aboard the Oakland, Calif.-to-Chicago train were shaken up, but only two passengers and three crew members were kept in hospital overnight.

The Santa Fe estimated damage at $250,000.

Auto Manufacturers Are Criticized For Urging Dealers to Sell at Loss

VICTORIA (CP) — Automobile manufacturers have been criticized for urging dealers to sell cars in such volume that little or no profits are realized.

David A. Annoy of Montreal, retiring president of the Federation of Automobile Dealers' Association of Canada, Wednesday told some 500 delegates to the annual convention here that factories "must gear future production" to the volume of cars which can be sold profitably with hard, intelligent selling".

"It is imperative that factory officials refrain from urging dealers to sell cars 'even at a loss' to maintain prestige and position within the industry," the group's said.

"Our industry, as well as the Canadian industry in general, has survived on a very healthy competition. But blitz sales, high discounting and over-trading do not provide a sane answer to over-production."

Another speaker, James L. Cowan, Toronto newly-elected treasurer, said volume selling is creating an unhealthy situation in the automotive industry.

He criticized some selling methods used in Toronto, including the sale of cars at list prices at the end of the year and below list rates in the latter part of the year.

Mr. Cooke said government legislation should be reversed so that factories can set new prices.

Speaking about the used-car market, Mr. Cowan said: "Poor, unsound, over-priced and inventories are high."

"The dealer body across Canada has not yet put itself in a position to sell and recondition used vehicles properly," Mr. Annoy said. "Sales outlets are still lacking and poor facilities are very evident."

He said the federal government was maintaining its "unrelenting attitude" against lower excise taxes on cars "in spite of our representations and appeals."

Forecasts Record Hikes Recommended

OTTAWA (CP)—Wage increases averaging about 5½ per cent for workers of government - owned Polymer Corporation at Sarnia are recommended in the majority findings of a federal conciliation board.

Lloyd Metcalfe, director of the AFL Chemical Workers' Union had asked for increases averaging 10 per cent.

The board was headed by Eric G. Taylor of Toronto, who joined in the majority report with R. L. Andras of Ottawa, union nominee.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

KIWANIS SPONSORS FIELD, TRACK MEET

As in former years, the Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a National Kids' Day, and this will take the form of a field or track meet at the Fair Grounds on Saturday afternoon. It is expected that approximately 2,000 pupils from the public and Separate schools will take part. Preliminaries will start at 1 p.m. and will be run off during the week and the first two in each event in each school will take part in the finals on Saturday.

Fred Jones, recreational director, has drawn up a carefully-timed program for the events and the members of the Kiwanis Club under the direction of Hugh Murray, chairman of the sports committee, will assist the director in running off the events.

Militia Units Carrying Out New Training

The militia units of Eastern Ontario Area are carrying out an entirely new system of training this month, and the training of all militia units being carried out at regular Army Camps on week-ends, which will replace advanced or weekly drill nights, formerly held. The plan is now in operation and is designed to increase the efficiency and at the same time promote an even greater interest in the militia.

The militia units, under the new plan, will train on week-ends in any one of the militia camps they are closest to, which, are located at Barriefield, Petawawa, Connaught Ranges, Picton and on occasion, Meaford.

Under the new plan, units will train at very nearly service conditions over Saturday and Sunday, and every effort will be made to knit itself out, get to know one another, and become a unit, as a unit, and this hard to do in a crowded armoury. Training is continuous and by experienced officers. Sunday's training is preceded by a church parade held during the day, a soldier's hour.

Area headquarters will be able to demonstrate the latest methods of instructors, arms and equipment needed to make training under this new plan a success in every way.

The week-end training will be far more interesting for all ranks, and particularly attractive to younger recruits coming into the units where they will find all the activity of a most interesting training scheme going on and can be part of it.

During the winter months, elementary and advanced training will be carried on at the local headquarters together with the necessary administration. When possible, there will be winter week-end training.

Eastern Ontario Area Headquarters Staff is very enthusiastic about this new plan and feel that it is the best training scheme ever. The units will gain far more practical experience in every phase of training under ideal conditions.

Curtain of Rain Showers Brings Summer to End

Summer dropped a finale curtain of rain on Belleville yesterday—the last day of summer—as it made way for autumn.

Almost an inch of rain fell during the day, a typical ending to a summer which reached the Belleville district with a total of 21.42 inches of rain from June through to September.

Last year 10.92 inches of rain fell during the four summer months. Mean temperatures also were lower this year, July registering the lowest climb of the mercury at an average of 67 degrees compared with 71 degrees for July 1953.

However, July this year had less rain, 1.11 inches being recorded against 2.53 inches for the same month 1953.

September, this year, although the wettest month of summer also was below the rainfall recorded for the same month last year, 3.92 inches compared with 4.17 inches.

August shared the lowest mean average of 64 degrees with June. Last year August registered 69 degrees and June 63.

Cool weather ushered in the first day of autumn today, with bright skies and crisp temperatures. The weatherman promises cloudy skies with occasional sunshine, clearing Mr. today, and continuing cool. It will be warmer on Friday.

Varied Program for Tweed Fair One of the Best Ever Offered By Directors Despite Rain

Cloudy skies and scattered showers failed to deter the enthusiasm of a large crowd of keen goers who Wednesday afternoon turned out for the annual Tweed fall fair.

Intermittent showers, which forced the fair-goers to dodge for cover under whatever shelter presented itself only went to add to the variety of the fair program, which undoubtedly was one of the best ever planned by Tweed fair directors.

As is expected at a Tweed fair there was a splendid horse show, both in the heavy and light classes. There was a special showing of golden maned Palomino and even a trick horse event that did his stuff for the fair patron. There was a fine display of livestock with district breeders bringing out prize winning stock. Sheep, swines, horses, Jerseys, Holsteins and Aberdeen, Hereford, Angus cattle were represented in the cattle showing. Members of the Tweed 4-H Club held their achievement day in connection with the fair and all 15 members turned out for 100 per cent competition.

Three classes of horse racing patrons were also treated to a splendid show, the programme by a troupe of Hamilton artists. Jack Lewis, versatile musician, Ted Lewis, versatile musician, Ted Lewis, versatile musician, Ted

Belleville Pair Wins in Tourney At Campbellford

Bowling tournaments in the district are drawing to a close for this season and Campbellford held their last of the year on Wednesday afternoon with a doubles tourney. The greens were in excellent condition and although rain surrounded the area, the games were not delayed more than ten minutes by a light shower. It was rather cool bowling but the keen competition kept the bowlers on their toes.

Wilfred Price and A. E. Womascott were successful in winning three games and finished second to W. Ballantyne and Dwight Bennett, who were given a bye and 18 points in one game. James McMullen and William Brady won the two-game high, while Bruce Miller and Walter Elliott of the Belleville club won the one-game high prize. Belleville rinks that were entered in the tourney and did not get into the prize list were Gordon Edwards and L. E. McLean, Jack Fitzgerald and Ernie Boulton, Fred Harper and Jim Hanna and Mark Vanner and "Davey" Davison.

Mr. Price and Mr. Womascott beat Ernie Boulton of Campbellford in the first game, George Colling and his partner of Brighton in the second game and William Conn and Lorne Lockwood, also of Brighton in the third game to collect the second award of the tourney.

A delightful lunch was served by the women of the club between the second and third games.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market snapped a two-day losing streak today and marched ahead with moderate forenoon trading.

Industrial gains outnumbered losses about three to one and some western oils had price climbs of around 50 cents. Base metals and golds were narrowly ahead.

With the upswing, the trading pace slackened in comparison with the Tuesday and Wednesday sessions, which were among the the first hour was just under 700,000 shares.

Utilities, refining oils and manufacturers were strong and most other industrial groups mixed to a little better. Brokers said there was no special news to account for western oil strength.

Uraniums, Manitouwadge and Bathurst issues were mixed.

Twelve O'Clock Point Tourist Drowned in Murray Canal

TRENTON (Special) — William H. Smith, 60, of Swornville, N.Y., lost a grim battle against the strong current and the chilly waters of the Murray Canal, three miles south of here yesterday.

Clinging to an overturned boat after it tipped over and threw three American vacationers into the waterways, Smith grabbed the upturned craft and was swept downstream by the swift current. Phillip Dewey, son of the owner of 13 O'clock Point Lodge and a strong swimmer, visiting here from the United States, tried vainly to rescue him but he was forced to turn back to the bank of the canal by the cold water and the fast moving current. Smith finally slipped beneath the surface 500 yards east of the bridge on Highway No. 33, while two rescuers in a boat were witnessing shouting advice to him. One of the men in the boat, A. "Bus" Frauts, a grocery keeper at the canal bridge, reached down into the water and pulled the victim to the side of the boat only a few seconds after he disappeared. Frauts said Smith was still breathing when was met at the bank by young Dewey and a Buffalo life guard, Bill Murray, who is another U.S. tourist on vacation at the summer resort. Murray applied expert artifical respiration until Weaver ambulance from Trenton arrived with oxygen.

WORKED FOR HOUR

Doctors and firemen worked on Smith at the Trenton Memorial Hospital for an hour before he was pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. A. J. Andrews of Brighton.

Smith and two of his friends, Dr. Ray Herman, of Williamsville, N.Y., and J. Belter, a former Congressman from Cherry Chase, Maryland, were fishing from a punt in Murray canal when a storm threatened to give them a good soaking. The trio sought protection under the bridge that spans across the canal unaware that the current was strong enough to pull the boat from underneath them. One of them caught hold of cables support and the boat lurched suddenly, dumping Smith and Dr. Herman into the water. HAD HEART ATTACK

The former Senator knowing Dr. Herman suffered from heart trouble grabbed him and fell head first into the water trying to pull him over the bow of the boat. Somehow Belter and Dr. Herman managed to reach the canal bank while Smith hung on to the uprighted boat.

Afterward Mr. Belter not a young man himself, still shaken by his experience said: "I could never swim a stroke. But I remembered that my daughter's swimming instructor told her to keep cool and keep your hands moving. I went under once as I tried to touch my feet on bottom. Then somehow I struggled to the bank."

Bridgemaster Jack Clark of Carrying Place, heard no cries for help although he figures the men tried to attract attention but the high wind snuffled their calls. Clarke and Frauts they assisted Belter and Dr. Herman to the bridgetender's house only a few feet from the water where the trio fell in.

John Black, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Greer Black, of Carrying Place Road, happened along on his way home from a garage at Carrying Place. He joined Frauts and they started after the man clinging to the overturned punt.

William Dean of Williamsville, N.Y., and Steve Kosz, who lives near Buffalo, decided against fishing during the afternoon and stryed back at the resort.

WHY THIS SECRECY?

Canada's Young Liberals want the Federal Government to increase substantially this country's contributions to the Colombo Plan.

That announcement was made at a most opportune time, as 60 economic and financial experts from the 14 Colombo Plan countries met in Ottawa at a two-week conference.

The Young Liberals, however, had actually reached their decision many months before at a closed session at the 1954 national convention in Ottawa last May.

At this session they also passed several other resolutions containing important recommendations, urging, among other things, the appointment of a parliamentary committee to study Canada's divorce laws, establishment of an interparliamentary body to regulate and license all radio and television stations and adoption of an exclusively Canadian flag.

It is an excellent thing that young Canadians should take an active interest in national affairs and should study and make recommendations regarding such problems.

Most Canadians, we think, will be interested to learn of the recommendations by the Young Liberal Federation.

They may, however, be puzzled as to why these recommendations were not made public until four months later, when it gathered this week in the summer issue of the Canadian Liberal, published quarterly by the National Liberal Federation of Canada.

Very few people in Canada read this publication. Most Canadians, though, read their daily newspapers. If the Young Liberals thought their recommendations were important—and we think they were—why did they not take steps to give them wide and immediate publicity, through appropriate press releases?

WORKS PROGRAMS DIFFICULT IN WINTER

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario announced on Tuesday of this week that an assessment of Ontario's spending program on roads, public works, hydro and other projects is being made with a view to enlarging the program if it is required to alleviate increasing unemployment.

On Monday, Hon. Milton Gregg, Federal Minister of Labor, had stated: "I can assure you that we will do our utmost to arrange building and other contracts and undertakings so that the maximum amount of employment therefrom will be made available to Canadian workers during the winter months."

It is impossible to accurately assess the effects of these suggestions until concrete proposals are made. Nevertheless it should be noted that the Canadian climate imposes a handicap on efforts to solve unemployment problems by public works programs.

Many economists have advocated such programs as the best means of alleviating unemployment when it develops in a free enterprise economy. Much can be said for their views. It is obviously much to be preferred that these unemployed citizens be given an opportunity to earn their living, rather than live on insurance which, from its very nature, cannot be adequate to maintain their normal standard of living. There are many projects which are desirable and which would benefit Canada as a whole, the province or some district or municipality. It would appear reasonable to undertake such projects at a time when citizens were finding it difficult to obtain work in private industry.

Unfortunately much of our unemployment in Canada is of a seasonal nature. The ranks of the jobless swell during the winter months—and the winter is exactly the time when public works projects are most difficult to undertake. In those cases where it is still possible to do the work, it is often not possible to do it as cheaply as it could be done during ordinary times.

During the depression many municipalities undertook projects as relief work. Where these were useful, and where the work was done in the most economical manner, this was a healthy effort to help the unemployed. However, the projects were undertaken not so much for their value to the community as to make work for work's sake, to force the unemployed to labor for the equivalent of their relief. Often in some cases a job which could have been cheaply and quickly done with available machinery was done in a costly and time-consuming manner by hand labor. Taxpayers understandably resented such practices and rightly so. All work is dignified, but only when it serves a useful purpose.

In their public works programs provincial and Federal authorities will have to guard against the danger of increased costs resulting from undertaking projects in unsuitable weather and, if they want the persons given employment on their projects to have their pride in living tasks and to give an honest day's labor, they must eschew the temptation to make a big job of a small project by avoiding the use of machinery.

OF INTEREST TO SPIES

The law sometimes seems to go out of its way to make itself ridiculous—to laymen, of course. There's that new law passed in Washington, for instance, which requires that all saboteurs and spies register themselves with the justice department. Under the new bill, espionage is punishable by death. If the spy hasn't registered, and is convicted, we assume punishment will be even stiffer. (Montreal Herald).

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

SEPTEMBER 22, 1934

The following item with regard to the Salvation Army is taken from our file copy at this time in 1884: "Today is the first anniversary of the establishment of the Salvation Army in Belleville. At the time of its organization here various opinions were expressed as to the length of time it would exist. Few gave it a year and the majority thought a few weeks would see it collapse. However, in the face of many difficulties and obstacles the success of the army is remarkable and it is doing a fine work. It has maintained the large Metropolitan Hall, which is the upper part of the building at the northeast corner of Bridge and Campbell Streets, for its meetings and has lately inspected a fine set of new instruments for its brass band, also in its own good financial basis. The number of members is greater than ever before and no one, we are sure, who has at heart the welfare of our city, wishes ill to the Army as it is at present conducted."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Every store and every industry ought to have a couple of old cigar boxes and a dusty carton or two which you can't throw away—a shelf somewhere, in which are stored the unlikely odds and ends no longer kept on stock, which customers are likely to come and ask for once every two years or so.

By keeping this with ancient wrapping and modern industry is that it is now efficient. Too smartly inventoried. If an article of merchandise isn't moving, they chuck it out. Nothing that's ever is allowed to accumulate. The useless stores hold out for a long time. Fancy goods shops, those little notions shops largely patronized by the ladies in quest of a spool of thread or some bias tape, were always crowded and confused until lately. And for a time, the drug stores, when they abandoned their chaste bottled primness and went in for a sort of general bazaar business, gave some hope that at least one emporium in the block might provide a little mystery and romance in shopping.

But the hardware stores have gone supermarket. The little fancy goods shops have gone in for system and the bare inventory. The drug stores are slowly retreating to the apothecary business, and the tiny hardware shops, limited strictly to bolts, there by their best to get all their merchandise into cellophane packages that look like bottles. You might still be able to get a bathing cap or a gag and a card in a drug store, but they are likely to be done up in plastic cylinders.

Thus, when you go into a hardware store and ask for a larding needle, there isn't anybody in the place, not even the grey headed ones, who knows what you mean.

"Go on," you urge. "Look in that old cigar box and there in the back, up on the shelf. . . ."

But they haven't got even an old cigar box in there, up on the shelf.

When you ask the druggist for a tin box of Arnica tooth soap he just stares.

"Haven't you got some old carton, down cellar, where you keep things that might have gone out, maybe forty years?" you question anxiously.

He hasn't. Every foot of the cellar is full of the pharmaceuticals, delivered yesterday.

Army Defines Ball Player

(Pittsburg Post-Gazette)

Bureaucratic language has produced many laughs in Washington. One of the latest came with release of the report of the House armed services subcommittee which investigated allegations of "coddling" of professional athletes.

A witness was told to read from the army's official form the description of the civilian occupation of pitcher Dick Brodowski. (Boston Red Sox). Here's what was written on the form:

"Baseball player, amusement and recreation, played pitcher's position on major league baseball team, threw baseballs to opposing batters, fielded batted balls."

Ireland Changes Slowly

(By Peter Grubbe in European Review)

Dublin is the capital of Eire (Ireland).

The newsboys shout the same kind of headlines which are shouted by the newsboy of London, Paris or Hamburg: Cease-fire in the Far East; Revolution in South America; Spy escapes through Iron Curtain or Iron arguments on German rearmament. The headlines are the same but they sound different.

They sound somehow strange and remote, like those in one of the Irish fairy-tales themselves.

People in Eire read the papers as others might read a novel which has nothing to do with reality.

Even the visitor, the stranger, is somehow caught by the magic. The cold war, rearmament, even the terrible A-bomb or H-bomb suddenly seem to be unreal-looking but have become unreal.

What is the reason for this?

One could say that Ireland is an island, that it is, geographically, far removed from the centres of international friction and from the cold war.

But Britain is an island, too, and for instance Portugal is a few thousand kilometers away from the Irish Coast.

But both in London and in Lisbon one can immediately sense change and development.

No, the real reasons for this sense of unreality are different ones: Ireland is situated on the fringe of Europe. It has not as cultural, economic, political or military ties as the countries which belongs to the Occident and to the Continent of Europe.

Indeed, Ireland has never been a real conflict between East and West, although many people would make her an important bridgehead for the Americans in the event of war. Ireland is not on the island, this aspect of world politics practically never appears from view.

One must always remember that political thought in Eire has been concentrated for hundreds of years on one subject only—her relationship with Britain.

Even today, Ireland is one of the few countries of Irish policy, e.g. the Irish Republic has been refused membership of NATO.

For this, argued the government in Dublin, could be interpreted as an admission that the territory of Northern Ireland was a part of Britain; an interpretation which the Eire government would endure or survive.

But Ireland seems far removed from the Continent for another reason, which, however, is more obvious and, is, of vital importance to most European countries never existed on the "mental" level.

Ireland was not devastated by the war, there are no families in recent years. She has no Communists and so there is no Communist menace.

The then foreign secretary of Eire, Sean MacBride, pointed out as a step towards closer European co-operation the abolition of the old shoot-Eire's possible participation, he just smiled "You don't seem to forget that Eire possesses neither coal nor steel."

Thus, the problems of Ireland are different from those of the rest of Europe, a fact which could not fail to have its psychological repercussions on the inhabitants of the island.

There would be one inevitable consequence if Ireland were to overcome her exclusive preoccupation with the English question — especially if, at the same time, she were to modernise her agriculture and to develop a modern industry; the island would rapidly approximate to the fringe of Europe closer towards the continent.

She might even join the political group of the Atlantic Pact.

But ll should be borne in mind that such a development would mean a change in the whole basis in the life of the island.

Nevertheless, most of the "emerald isle" where donkeys jog along comfortably, where time seems to stand still, is the real of human beings, and where people still have time to discuss world arguments in the pub of an evening instead of staring silently at a television set.

Instead, she will become like all modern countries, where machines of industry will reign supreme, and where people will be busy harassed.

There can be little doubt that, one day, Ireland will have to pay this price, so that she may not be left altogether with the rest of the world.

But there is one consolation for those who love her just as she is.

Like everything else in Ireland, this change will take place very slowly indeed, and much water will flow under the bridge before she will cease to be what she is today: a country of men, not machines; a country of contrasts; a country of fairs and telephones calls.

The "emerald isle" belongs to Europe; but unlike the continent, she has managed to avoid the common dirtiness of perpetual hurry and her people are living undisturbed at the edge of time.

Meeting Train In Old Days

(By Bill Laird, in the Louisville Courier-Journal)

A generation which sets great store by movies, radio and pictures through the air just won't be able to comprehend how diminished in power in fact, a community's whole social and cultural life—centred upon "when the train came in."

It was a big event when old, decrepit No. 4 arrived in that little flagstop where I lived many years ago.

Big, loud! No. 4! Brave little teakettle with a chime whistle which blew bass, and a brassy little tenor bell, and slightly lopsided drivers which slicked off the rail joints at a stold and sedate pace.

Most of us worked at a mine and mill in that little town. When the work was done, we sauntered down the hill to the railroad depot. The newspaper was already there, because we had farther to come.

There would be Ed with the eternal quip, and Tom (how was his new grill?), and Lew, who was a bit deaf, and Jim, whose nightly was a journey which was to end under a cross in Flanders.

There was the farmer from down the road, and the mill boss, and sometimes a part for the machine by express. There were a couple of gay older boys who wanted papers to see how the ball game went, because who had heard of such things?

We knew that when No. 4 stopped, the mail bags would be on the platform because he knew there would be a sale or two. She he'd get a couple of cigars. We smoked because the drummers smoked them.

Down by the depot platform a couple of razorback hogs would be rooting themselves on the ills they had long ago worn smooth.

Through the gathering dusk would come one long, mournful blast of the whistle. No wizard of sage or radio can capture the suspense as we waited for the first flash of the headlight. We would signal that No. 4 had business with us that night.

Speed Boosts Car's Weight

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

What is really terrifying is the head-on collision between two cars both doing 30 miles per hour or higher. At 30 miles the collision force of two cars is four times that of one against a stationary object; both at 40 miles, seven times; at 50, 11 times; at 60, 16 times.

In the latter case it would be as if a 16,000 pound car remained perfectly still while a 2,000 pound car, 16,000 pounds!

That is another thing to remember. A speeding car is something of a projectile.

One Slow Speed

(Eldora (Iowa) Herald-Ledger)

We are rearing a generation of entertainment seekers. They come into the house they make a few little noises, investigate and turn it up to full volume, they go over to the fan and turn it up to high.

The radio has to be turned up as loud as it will go, windows are flung to the high as they'll go, the doors are banged wide open.

When they get a drink the water is turned on full force and they let it run into the kitchen; when they take baths the water is left to run full.

Everything is done with a bang at top speed. Except when it comes to mowing the lawn, the mower has one speed— very slow.

Pace Of Time

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

The most amazing thing to an old person is how he got old in so short a time.

Highest and Emptiest

(Guelph Mercury)

Pride is to character what the attic is to the house—the highest part—and generally the most empty.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE LATEST "OUTBREAKS" OF RABIPHOBIA

In an article prepared by a physician for publication in the newspapers we read:

"Once the symptoms (of rabies or hydrophobia) begin, it's incurable. But it's an almost completely preventable disease — if you care enough to back up the health authorities . . . The outbreak of rabies in Chicago and Los Angeles dogs recently illustrates the lurking menace . . .

I don't know about Chicago—last bulletin received from that stricken community described the heroic headline hunter, the perennial health administrator, patrolling the back streets and alleys in quest of some unidentified person at large who had "probably been licked by a dog that later fell victim to health department rabies. Meanwhile, from the last story flashed clear across the top of the front page.

In the Los Angeles area it appears that several persons have "faced Pasteur treatment" under some stray dog reported to the health department, or something of the sort, but not a single dog and folks.

Chicago and Los Angeles fairly represent a thousand other communities. As the head of one health department (Chicago's or Los Angeles) candidly confessed in a recent radio interview, when I asked him to tell me confidentially why the health department participated in the periodic mad dog scares whipped up by the newspapers in his community, "We have to dramatize such incidents in order to get a larger appropriation from the state to carry on the proper work of the health department."

The same dodge works pretty well in Chicago and Los Angeles.

As for the parents of children in these benighted communities, who cares how much unwarranted worry or horror the mad dog scares cause them?

Not the local health authorities, who need less extra money.

Not the members of the local medical profession, who haven't the knowledge, the courage or the character to speak out about rabiphobia.

What medical or public health authority has the knowledge, the courage or the character to answer the conclusion reached by Drs. Dowling and Sanders, after years of experience with the problem in the Hillman Hospital for Negro Health Center (Birmingham, Jefferson County, Alabama)? these chiefs of the county health department concluded, among other things, that most cases of "Rabies is primarily a veterinary problem. Regardless of its human importance, it will probably never cause sufficient hardship or economic loss to human beings in this region to allow its classification as a public health problem of significance."

That, my dear health "authorities," is the most concise way these Birmingham experts who had had more experience with rabies than you have had, to say:

And how about tipping me off beforehand by letting me know by yapping about how many cases of rabies you have discovered-and-dealt-leaving the dogs-alone to imagine you mean rabies in human beings. If, of course, you were counting only dogs?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PARTIAL AND THE PERFECT

Our age is in danger of being anesthetized by its scientific achievements. We know so much, learned so much within the last 100 years, we have fallen into the delusion that we know all or almost everything that is worth finding out. All of which is absurd; for what we know is but a tiny infinitesmal portion of what there is to know. Five hundred years from now people will probably look back upon us as bubbling infants. The great Sir Isaac Newton, one of history's outstanding sages —said on one occasion: "I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the sea-shore, and myself now away and then, finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, while the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me."

In this we have a true picture of a humble man. All the truly great scientists have been humble men, and they have been humble because the more they learned the more they realized how little they knew but little of the vast store of knowledge. The best we can do is to bail out our thimblefulls of knowledge from the sea of truth. If we do this we shall have been humble. We shall know all we need to know and we are assured of all the Word of God that when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away.

HOW TO KEEP A FRIEND

The greatest possession any one can have, next to a good conscience, is a friend. There is no material cost involved, but there is of appreciation and understanding. If your want to have a friend show these two.

Now as to some of the other essentials. You must respect your friend and keep on looking for his good points, overlooking his unattractive ones. There is far more good in all of us than there is that isn't good. Nothing is more fascinating than the unfolding of a life. The more you get to know a person the more we learn about him.

There are always differences among intelligent human beings. Be tolerant. Give your friend the benefit of any doubt. Keep overlooring into your friend's mind, discovering the secret of his charm, his personality and his manner of life. There is always something now to be revealed mind and heart.

among friends. Play up to the best in your friend and you will be a valuable refuge in times of trouble and failure.

If you want to keep your friend don't try to pattern his life after your own. Don't attempt to try to make him feel inferior. Select your friends because of their personality, your patience, and your faith.

Always choose for a friend a person of large capacity! It will be to his or her credit. Go adventuring and discover as you will. There won't be many, but aim to be worthy of at least one or two friends, who will be yours for lifetime. A single friend may prove to be your other self undying in love and loyalty. Better to lose a fortune than to lose a friend in whom you have invested your confidence.

Approve Addition To Wesleyan Methodist Church

At a joint meeting of the Board of Directors and Conference Trustees with the building committee of the Everett Street Wesleyan Methodist Church held last night, permission was given to proceed with the necessary additions and alterations.

The conference board, a committee of nine men, was shown an actual model of the new structure by Mr. Walter Jewell a member of the local building committee which includes the Advisory Board, the Board of Trustees and the Board of Stewards. Mr. Jewell also outlined in detail the proposed plans for the new wing and the alterations to be made to the present building. The complete exterior of the new extension and the present building will be of brick and stone. The inside will include a nursery, vestry, pastor's study, choir loft and additional seating capacity almost double that of the present capacity in the main auditorium. The basement will include a new auditorium and Sunday School rooms.

The method of financing the new structure was presented by the pastor, Rev. James S. A. Spearman, as adopted by the Board of Stewards and the local church congregation.

The president of the conference, Rev. H. Kielty, of Winchester, Ont., expressed his appreciation for the enthusiastic spirit and loyal support of the Belleville Wesleyan Methodist Church and wished the congregation every success in its new venture.

The devotional service, with a Bible reading given by Rev. H. Kielty, congregational singing led by Mr. E. E. Wilson, Brockville, and a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Mr. Carl Coates, was most inspiring.

It is expected that work on the new structure will begin this fall.

Board to Name Pool in Honor Of Marilyn Bell

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn Bell went back to school Wednesday, and as she pondered over Latin verbs the city's board of control decided to name a swimming pool in her honor.

Grade 12 classmates and other students crowded around when they heard of Marilyn's arrival.

"After all, it's not every day a girl gives up Hollywood to go high school and we want to make this a memorable day," said one.

The board of control approved a recommendation that the next swimming pool built by the city be named the Marilyn Bell pool.

MEETING STARTS

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian Tourist Association Wednesday night opened its annual general meeting and convention with registration and a welcoming party for about 250 delegates and guests.

Raynault to Run

MONTREAL (CP) — Athanase Raynault, three times mayor of Montreal, announced Wednesday he will seek a fourth term in office in the Oct. 25 mayoralty elections.

Mr. Raynault, mayor from 1936-38, was defeated in the next election by present Mayor Camillien Houde, who has announced he will not run in the forthcoming election.

Mr. Raynault returned for two terms from 1940-44 when Mayor Houde was placed in a detention camp for publicly attacking national registration.

He was again defeated by Mr. Houde in 1945.

Charge Reduced To Manslaughter, Defer Sentence

TORONTO (CP)—John Harvey Snider, a 34-year-old city hall clerk who worked nights to provide for his wife and six adopted daughters, Wednesday was found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the strangling death of his wife.

Snider, who had been charged with the murder of his wife, Shirley, 22, faces a possible maximum sentence of life in prison when he appears before Mr. Justice O. A. Gale next Wednesday.

The jury deliberated 3¾ hours before acquitting Snider of murder but guilty of manslaughter.

Snider told the court that on the night of Feb. 28—five months after their marriage—his wife told him she planned to go away with another man.

HIS STORY MAN

The man was identified in court as Murray Sherriff, the woman's employer at a theatrical agency, and Snider's testimony that he saw the theatre where he worked slightly.

Several witnesses testified they saw Sheriff's car in front of the Snider home.

Defence counsel G. Arthur Martin said there were no marks on the woman's body to indicate that a skipping rope mentioned in testimony was tightened about the woman's neck. He called for a jury verdict of manslaughter.

Crown counsel H. H. Bull told the jury it might find it hard to find that Mrs. Snider's death was an accident. "If one person with his hands takes another person by the neck, what conclusion do you come to but murder?"

Mr. Justice Gale told the jury it had only three possible verdicts, guilty of murder, guilty of manslaughte or not guilty.

He mentioned the "mystery of her clothing" that the woman had gone to bed dressed in pajamas, but when police arrived they found her almost nude and bedclothes in disarray. "That may indicate there was a struggle," said Mr. Justice Gale.

Snider leaped to his feet and asked permission to make a statement to the jury after both defence and crown counsels had concluded their remarks. Snider withdrew his request after a conference with his counsel.

The body was found March 1 by police in the Snider's suburban Downsview home in the back bedroom with the woman's three-year-old daughter who was unharmed.

All-Canadian Seaway May Be Constructed

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence seaway authority, said Wednesday he hopes Canada one day will have its own navigation facilities through the International rapids section of the St. Lawrence.

The former transport minister, now heading the agency that will build and operate Canada's part of the seaway, replied to what he called criticism that "the all-Canadian seaway has been abandoned and now is a thing of the past."

His remarks were included in an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon marking the opening of a new electronic plant.

PARALLEL FACILITIES

Mr. Chevrier said he hopes that "some day soon it will be possible to build parallel facilities at Barnhart island if the traffic conditions so warrant it."

The Canadian and United States governments recently concluded an agreement whereby the big navigation works of the section, bypassing a hydro development at Barnhart on Cornwall, Ont., are to be built by the U.S. Canada reserved the right to parallel the U.S. canals at any time.

Meanwhile, the Canadian and U.S. governments both are to build canals on their own sides upriver from the power site.

Family Receives Picture by Mail From Communists

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. A. R. MacKenzie, whose husband was taken prisoner by the Chinese Communists after being shot down over Korea, said Wednesday his family has received pictures of him by mail.

Mrs. MacKenzie, who lives with her two children in suburban Strathmore, said her husband Sqdn. Ldr. MacKenzie of the RCAF sent the pictures in mail addressed to his father's home in Montreal.

In her own letters from him, she said she has received no word when he will be released. She said she does not know in what part of Communist China he is being held.

The pictures show him to be in good health, but his weight appears to have dropped considerably from the 200 pounds he weighed when captured.

Sqdn. Ldr. MacKenzie is one of four airmen, three of them American, still held by the Communists on the ground violated the Manchurian frontier during the war.

Baroness Still In Montreal Jail As Bail Lacking

MONTREAL (CP) — A shapely brunette, who says she is the wife of a British Labor member of Parliament and a Hungarian baroness, languished in the commercial cell of a Montreal jail today while her lawyer tried to hustle up a bondsman to pledge $5,000 property bail to get her out.

The woman, whose passport shows her as Lillian Maria Adler, 31, spent a third night in jail when her lawyer failed to get the court to accept $5,000 in cash as bail.

She was taken into custody late Monday when she tried to buy a fur coat. RCMP officers who arrested her said she had $1,700 in counterfeit United States paper money in her possession.

Her first bid for temporary freedom failed when Judge T. A. Fontaine refused a defence suggestion that she be allowed to deposit $50,000 in Canadian funds as security.

Wednesday, judge Fontaine ordered her to undergo psychiatric examination of her mental condition.

He said the RCMP quoted the woman as saying her husband—Harry Pursey, Labor MP for Hull, Eng., gave her the money.

Federal prosecutor Gaston Lacroix said bail should be higher. He said he learned from RCMP officers the woman had an airline ticket to Europe on her when arrested. She had checked out of her hotel before going out to buy the coat, he said.

Red Propaganda Aimed at Men At Arctic Base

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Army says Russia is aiming its propaganda radio at American servicemen stationed on the big and isolated air base of Thule in northwestern Greenland.

It cites the Thule-beamed "Voice of Russia" as part of the general Red propaganda effort directed "at undermining the American soldiers' morale, especially in foreign lands where American troops are stationed."

Reference to Thule is contained in a new troop training pamphlet, "defence against enemy propaganda," now being circulated by the army.

ANOTHER FIRST?

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass news agency today announced the finding of fossil bones of prehistoric animals 40,000,000 years old in a coal mine in Alma Ata in the Kazakh republic.

Act Amended

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Mothers' Allowances' Act has been amended to permit payment of allowances to foster mothers, Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday.

The amendment places in the act regulations covering payments which have previously been made through order in council, Mr. Goodfellow said. He added that they are designed to assist in cases where a mother has neglected or deserted her children or is unable to provide for them.

VON Fall Meet Hears Reports

The opening fall meeting of the local branch of Victorian Order of Nurses was held in the Y.M.C.A. After the members were welcomed by the president, Mrs. M. E. Bulger, the reports were received and acted upon.

Miss Grace Scott, who is spending four weeks doing field work with the local branch nurses, was introduced by Miss Dorothy Connor, nurse-in-charge. Miss Scott is a graduate of Wellesley Hospital in Toronto, and is taking her course in Public Health at Queen's University.

The nurses' report, presented by Miss Connor, showed that during June, July and August the VON attended to 139 patients and during the summer months nurses made 2690 visits, 973 of these on maternity and newborn cases.

Under special activities the nurses spent a total of 51 hours, 45 minutes, assisting the local health department at the Child Health clinic at the Kiwanis Centre and in June at St. Michael's Academy and Holy Rosary schools.

Some 18 hours were spent at Cannifton school.

REMOVE GUN REMINDER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workmen erased a last reminder of the Puerto Rican terrorist shooting which failed five members of the United States House of Representatives last March 1. Final repairs closed up the ugly hole ripped in the ceiling of the House chamber by a bullet from one of the automatic pistols with which the assassins sprayed the House floor and chamber.

Weddings

RANGER—WAITE

Baskets of pink and white gladioli formed the background in Christ Church on September 11, at 4:00 p.m., for the marriage of Caryl Fay Waite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Waite of this city, to Alfred Kenneth Ranger, Nanaimo, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ranger.

The Rev. E. Smith performed the ceremony and traditional wedding music was played by Mr. J. C. Wilbers, organist of the church, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. G. Fargis, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white nylon net over taffeta, three tiered skirt ruffled in Chantilly lace, with matching jacket and mitts. Her fingertip veil was caught to her hair by a tiara headdress set with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Veronica Sunderland, as matron of honor, wore yellow net over taffeta with matching lace jacket and mitts. Her headdress was of pale yellow lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of copper colored 'mums centred by a pale yellow rose.

Lorne Waite, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was in pale green nylon piques in ballerina length with three tiered skirt, matching headdress and gloves, and carried a nosegay of pale yellow baby 'mums centred by a pink rose.

The junior bridesmaid, Patti Jane Waite, also a sister of the bride, wore a pale pink nylon pliese gown in ballerina-length with three tiered skirt, matching headdress and gloves and carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums centred by a pale pink rose.

Mr. Leonard Wesmith, of Kimberley, B.C., was groomsman and the ushers were William McMahone, Vancouver, B.C., and Harold Kessler, uncle of the bride, of Belleville.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the rooms were attractively arranged with baskets of asters, baby breath and gladioli. The bride's table with white cut-work tablecloth was centred by a three tiered wedding cake with white candles in silver holders on either side.

Mrs. Waite received in a navy and white flowered dress with navy nylon net overskirt, navy accessories and corsage of pale pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. William Stork of this city, wearing plum colored crepe with matching hat and corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Vancouver, Victoria, Kimberley, B.C., Chatham, Trenton and Brighton.

The bride and groom will reside at 338 Coleman Street, Belleville.

BAILEY—REID

St. Paul's United Church parsonage, Stirling, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 14th, at 2.30 p.m., when Aletha Jean, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reid of Hallowey, became the bride of Gerald Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey, of Stirling, R.R. 3. Rev. Arthur Packman officiated. Twenty guests were in attendance.

The bride wore navy sheer and with navy accessories and her corsage was American Beauty roses.

Marion Reid, of Belleville, sister of the bride, attended wearing navy sheer with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. James Bailey, of Belleville, twin brother of the groom, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, following the ceremony. The dining room was artistically decorated with a canopy of pink streamers and white bells over the bride's table with a three tier wedding cake, with a miniature bride and groom as a top ornament. Baskets of gladioli were used as floral decorations around the table. The bride's mother received the guests wearing navy taffeta with navy accessories with a corsage of pink roses. Assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing navy sheer with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left by motor for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls and points west. They are residing at R.R. 3, Frankford.

Tweed Couple Marks 25th Anniversary

On returning from a week's holiday, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Quinn, Tweed, were completely surprised to find their home had been taken over by some forty or thirty guests attired in the costumes of the gay twenties, to celebrate the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

An address specially composed for the occasion was read.

Presentation of a bouquet of 'mums and a silver Lazy-Susan was made to Carm and a silver table-lighter to Ray. Following this, delicious refreshments were served. Sing-songs and dancing completed the pleasant evening.

Parent-Teacher Association Installs Officers

The September meeting of St. Michael's H.S. P.T.A., was held on Monday evening in the school auditorium.

Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin opened the meeting and installed the officers for the coming year. Congratulating the retiring president for the achievements during the past year and hoped the same success attended the efforts of the new executive. He commented upon the success of the students last year and attributed part of their success at least, to the untiring efforts of their teachers and the encouragement given them by their parents.

The new president, Mr. Herbert Brown, extended a cordial welcome to the new members as well as the old ones, and hoped the good attendance that was in evidence would continue throughout the year.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Mrs. J. Gallagher, also a letter of appreciation from Sister Mary Jovita for the gift and best wishes received from the association in recognition of her outstanding teaching ability on St. Michael's staff for the past eight years, being transferred to Prescott this year.

The financial report was given by the treasurer, Mr. Harry O'Neil.

PRESENTS AGENDA

Mr. Brown presented a full agenda for the coming year proposed by the executive for the approval of the members and stated any changes would be made at the next meeting.

The following committee chairmen were named: Social, Mrs. J. E. Polrier; membership, Mr. R. Ryan; research and policy, vice-president Mrs. E. B. Lealy; publicity, Mrs. J. Gallagher; historian, Mrs. A. Black.

Rev. Father J. F. Buckley spoke a few words in the interest of Catholic education, "St. Michael's High School," he said, "is an institution we should be proud of." He assured the meeting of his continued loyal support.

Sister Mary Lenore, principal, then addressed the gathering and gave a most enlightening talk on some of the courses requirements for both junior and senior matriculation were outlined. She explained very clearly the subjects that were obligatory and those optional and urged the children to go on to school as long as they can and endeavour to obtain as much benefit from it as possible.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by Mrs. Poirier and her committee.

Hospital Auxiliary Holds First Meeting of Fall Term

Despite rainy weather, many items of business were transacted by the keenly interested members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary who met in the nurses' residence for the first meeting of the fall season.

Mrs. J. H. Forrester, the president, welcomed new members.

After the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read, a discussion ensued and was satisfactorily concluded, regarding the auxiliary's investments, bearing in mind the pledge to the Hospital Building Fund.

The Opportunity Shop in the Market Building opened on Friday. The amount of business on Saturday was so great that, though many articles of clothing and household items had been sent into the shop, the supply was vastly depleted and more goods are urgently needed. Anyone having donations to give outright, or on a 50 per cent basis will be glad to bring them to the shop or notify Mrs. L. B. Fonger, the convener.

NEW CONVENER NAMED

Regret was expressed at the resignation of Mrs. Lennox Smith as convener of the "Coffee-Snack." Mrs. Smith was pleased to announce that Mrs. E. H. Hall had consented to act as the new convener. Donations of home-made pies, tarts, and cakes have been more than welcome both by the supervisors of the "Coffee-Snack" and the customers. Mrs. was waiting to help this phase of hospital work by home-baking monthly, Mrs. E. H. Hall, Phone 4094M, and the donation will be picked up. Mrs. Forrester announced the addition of Mrs. G. H. Madden to the "Coffee-Snack" staff. Mrs. Madden does the buying and the preparing of food on a business basis.

A letter was read from one of the student nurses thanking the auxiliary for the assistance in the bursary she receives which enables her to take the course.

Mrs. R. F. Burley reported over 100 paid members.

Mrs. W. J. Pearce spoke on the work done by the auxiliary secretarial committee for the Hospital Building Fund.

Plans for the tea at the residence of Mrs. George Faulkner, 257 Bridge Street East, on Wednesday next, September 29, were announced by Mrs. J. D. O'Flynn.

Communications were read concerning the Ontario convention in October at the Royal York in Toronto, and from the National Council of Hospital Auxiliaries. Mrs. W. C. Mikel described the benefits derived from meeting with representatives from all provinces.

Radio programs have been planned for Tuesday evenings from 7.45 to 8 p.m. commencing October 5, at which a panel headed by Mr. K. Box, superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital, will speak. The Board of Governors has sponsored a movie short purchased to fix problems and plans for the future.

The following brochure of available talks for interested organizations was announced by the president—radiology, Dr. Peter Loder; pathology, Dr. A.-N. Rois; nursing, Miss M. I. Peart; kitchen, laundry and stores maintenance, Mr. I. Burfoot; building program, Mr. J. E. Bush; Women's Hospital Auxiliary Mrs. W. H. Fickle; general organization of the hospital, board member.

Mr. John R. Burton will speak at the October auxiliary meeting on the building program.

Staff Honors Bride-to-Be

Staff members from every department of the Ontario Intelligencer gathered in the editorial room yesterday for the second time in two weeks to bail the departure from the business staff, of another bride-to-be, Miss Margaret Lovering.

In making the presentation of a chenille bedspread on behalf of the staff, sports editor, George Carver, extended the very best wishes of the gathering.

GOOD HUNTING

MONTREAL (CP)—Seven Montreal men returned from a week in "Hunter's Paradise" Tuesday with a bag of 33 deer and about 30 ducks. The hunters found the game on Anticosti island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Albert Rakovsky, one of the hunters, estimated there are about 100,000 deer on the island.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MOTHER WRITES AN EXCUSE-NOTE TO TEACHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My young son is starting school this Fall. I have been told that when he is absent or tardy he will have to bring a note to his teacher. Writing notes is a problem to me. Will you please suggest a proper form of words for these occasions? — Mrs. Moore

Here is the usual form of these notes-of-explanation:

123 Park Street
Haven, New York
September 29, 1954

Dear Miss Martin:

My son Kenneth had a cold yesterday, and I thought it wise to have him stay at home. Please excuse his absence from school.

Sincerely yours,
Janet Moore

(Mrs. John Moore)

(Important note: Never sign any letter or note "Mrs. Moore" or "Mrs. John Moore." The direct signature is your own name . . . "Janet Moore" or "Janet Smith Moore" or "Janet S. Moore"; then, in parenthesis, your formal name, as shown above.)

WEDDING QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. For a wedding, do the organist and the vocalist usually have a set fee, or should they just be given a gift?

2. Is it proper for the bride to wear a floor-length wedding dress and the attendant (or attendants) to wear tailor-length? Or must the dresses be of the same length?

3. Would it be considered proper for my grandfather to walk up the aisle with me, since my father is not living? (My father died when I was an infant.) (My maternal grandfather is not living.) H.R.

1. The organist and the vocalist usually have a definite professional fee, and this is the fee that should be given them. Ask the clergyman or the sexton about this. A gift is given only when the organist and vocalist have not a definite fee, or when both of them offer their services as friends.

2. Today it is entirely correct for the bride to wear a floor-length dress, and for the attendants to wear tailor-length dresses.

3. A perfect plan for you to give your father's place the honor of escorting you up the aisle. If your mother is living, you might like to have your grandfather lead her up the aisle, and have your mother give you in marriage.

THE COUPLE'S RESPONSIBILITY TO THEIR ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) I am to be married soon. Both my prospective husband and I have been married before. A married couple to be our attendants. Should these attendants be given gifts? If so, should my fiancee or I give these gifts?

(2) Does my attendant, as well as I, wear a corsage? If so, who pays for these corsages?

(3) Should I give the bridegroom a gift? — E.

(1) A s a memento of this important occasion and as a how to their friendly cooperation, it is gracious for you to give a gift to your attendant, and for your future groom to give a gift to his attendant.

(2) Usually the one attendant does wear a corsage, a very much simpler one than the bride wears. Your bridegroom should, of course, provide your corsage; either you or he gives your attendant her corsage. The bridegroom, when he buys his boutonniere, buys one also for his attendant.

(3) Customarily the bridegroom may give his bride a wedding present; the bride may give him one or not, as she wishes.

THIS BEST MAN REALLY HAS A PROBLEM!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I hope you will help me with my problem—and I do mean a problem. I am going to be best man at the wedding of a friend of mine. I was asked only a week ago, and the wedding is to be in three weeks. I have seen very little of this friend since we were graduated from High School five years ago. We have each made other friends, and now I don't know the friends he has made, and she doesn't know the friends I have made. The wedding is to be a family good-sized one, with a reception for about 120 guests. There will be a maid of honor, two bridesmaids and two ushers.

I know that I must give a stag party for the bridegroom, but my problem is that I don't know how to go about planning it. What shall I do? — Henry M.

I have a very, very strong suspicion, sir, that you were 'elected' to be best man, not in such a suspiciously short time before the wedding date, . .either because no other man had given up the "honor" or because he couldn't be weedled into taking on the responsibility of giving the bachelor dinner.

The fact is that if a bachelor dinner is to be given, . .this is not at all necessary, and today it is very often omitted, . . it is the responsibility of the prospective groom to give it. Occasionally it is a Dutch Treat dinner, each man paying his share of the expense. But the groom should not expect the best man to plan and pay for this dinner, nor should he accept this suggestion. If you don't want to give this dinner, . .and your words about the friendship and the dinner don't seem at all enthusiastic, . .my honest advice to you is not to give the dinner, or even to mention it.

If you feel you just must give a dinner, invite only the groom and the two ushers (the man in the wedding party), or plan a Dutch Treat. Warning: Since you've been misguided by someone about your responsibility to give the dinner, don't allow yourself to be talked or cajoled to assume other responsibilities, providing wedding flowers, for example, or bavings gifts for the reception, or any other trumped-up responsibilities of the best man.) Actually you, the best man, have only two financial responsibilities: (1) you provide your own attire to wear to the wedding (if you don't own it, you buy it or, as is customary today, you rent it); and (2) you send a wedding present to the bride-to-be.

DIVORCEE'S RINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Don't you think it's bad form for a divorcee to wear the engagement ring and wedding ring of her first marriage when she is being married to her second husband? — A.G.

Yes, . .extremely bad form. The rings of the first marriage should be removed as soon as she becomes engaged again. Or, if she particularly wishes, she may wear her wedding ring until the morning of the day she is to be married again.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T GET MAD: TRY TO UNDERSTAND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost two years I've been going with a girl who is 14 years old.

Every time I go somewhere with her and we run across her girl friends out with their boy friends she goes off with them and they go to a sandwich place which is a regular hangout. Then all the kids I hang around with laugh at me for spending all my money on her. I think she goes with them because they have a car and I don't.

What should I do? — Joseph Y.

Dear Joseph:

Don't you think perhaps you're expecting too much of a girl only 14 years old? After all, you began going with her when she was only 12, so you have probably been the one boy in her life up till now. It's only natural for her, as she grows older, to want to broaden her acquaintance with boys, even if only for part of with the girl friends and their dates. She's doing it in a normal way, and, of course, but she's scarcely old enough to know better.

The question is that you'd be wiser not to reproach her, or try to make her feel that she is doing something wrong in going off as she does. Instead, try to understand that every girl in her early teens, and often in her late teens, too, wants a chance to have a lot of friends and new experiences before she decides to "go steady." On your side, you can't expect her to "go steady" right now, but if it seems the case, she is a bit tired of having just one boy friend and probably doing the same things over and over, you'll get nowhere by making it the cause for a quarrel with her.

If you think that your lack of a car accounts for her present behavior, how about working after school and Saturdays, and gradually saving enough money to get yourself a secondhand job eventually? By the time you've got it, you may be ready to come back to you, full of new respect for you because you took such initiative as to earn the money for a car.

In any event, it's not going to help your friendship if you get mad, and accuse her of bad manners and all that sort of thing. Much better for you to build up some new friendships of your own.

DON'T BE SECRETIVE: BE SMART!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a greatly troubled girl of 17.

There is a boy I used to know quite well and liked very much, but I'm afraid I made that a little to obvious to him. I got over my infatuation for him and we still are pretty good friends.

Now I'm going with another girl, and this new girl friend of his annoys me by asking me, in his presence if other girls and boys: "How's Jimmy?" This is embarrassing to me, as she is trying to give the impression that I was jilted.

What answer would you advise me to give her — K.L.M.

Dear K.L.M.:

Never give this girl the satisfaction of seeing that her question embarrasses you. When she says "How's Jimmy?" just answer lightly, and perfectly naturally, "He's fine!" That will not only show her that you're not sensitive about Jimmy, but it may also give her something to think about, wondering if you're seeing him, too!

Bill Brought Home A Bushel of Grapes

By Mary Moore

The telephone rang and a familiar voice said "Mary what can I do with a whole bushel of grapes?"

When I realized it was Kathy I asked "Does Billy like Grape Conserve?" "I think so—he likes all kinds of jam and stuff like that" so I read her off the recipe for

GRAPE CONSERVE

Which by the way is the only jam one family that I know ever eats. The mother makes 50 jars of it to do the four of them through her's winter. A pretty good recommendation for this.

Six lbs. grapes (weighed after washing and stemming), 6 lbs. white sugar, 1 lb. sultana raisins, 2 seedless oranges, 1 cup nutspreferably almonds or fine quality walnuts. Wash grapes, pull from stems and weigh 6 lbs. Slip off the skins, (this is the longest job.) Put the pulp on to cook over low heat and cook until tender and seeds float. Push through fine sieve to remove seeds. Add pulp to skins and add sugar, raisins, juice and grated rind of the oranges and cook gently until of thin jam consistency, stirring very frequently. Add the nuts coarsely chopped and remove from heat. Pour into sterile jam glasses, and when cooling cover with paraffin, adding a second coating as soon as first is cold.

Before I give you healthy folk another grape recipe I want to insert here the recipe for

SUGARLESS GRAPE JAM

For my diabetic friends.

Wash Concord grapes. Pull them off the stems and measure 6 1-2 measuring cups. Slip off the skins. Cook the grape pulp, without adding any water, over low heat until tender and seeds float. Force through fine sieve and add pulp to the uncooked skins which have been chopped on chopping board. (You may be tempted to force these through the food chopper, but don't. They clog it.) Cook the combined skins and chopped skins gently, covered, for about 40 minutes, stirring frequently. Now add 18 sugar tablets and the grated rind of 1-3 lemons. Gently boil for 15 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon certo crystals and cook, stirring, for five minutes more. Into sterile jelly glasses (3 6-oz. jars) and seal with hot paraffin, adding a second coating when cold. As usual take a lip from me and store this precious stuff in the refrigerator.

GRAPE JUICE

I want to say that this is simple to make and recommend it particularly to the timid young cooks or new brides who want to "do down" something but don't know how. Wear blue jeans or a blue smock though! Ten lbs. grapes, 2 cups water, 3 lbs. white sugar. Wash grapes, pull from stems and weigh 10 lbs. Put them in preserving kettle with the 2 cup water (no more) and cook over low heat at first, stirring until they form juice, then cook until soft. If you have a basement take the whole business downstairs for this is to drain through a jelly bag overnight. Don't squeeze the bag in the morning —all you force out is cloudy juice and sometimes break the bag in the process. Bring the juice just to boiling point, add the sugar and stir until it is dissolved. Bring to boiling point and boil gently five minutes. Pour into sterile quart jars and seal with sterile rubbers and tops. This amount makes about 4 quarts. A sediment forms in the bottom of the jar when you make grape juice. But don't worry about it it's just natural to grapes and is harmless.

WELCOME OFFER

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—The Israeli government Tuesday welcomed the British government's offer to help settle Israel's differences with the Arab states. The statement marks a departure from previously-declared Israeli policy, which called for direct peace talks with each Arab state individually.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

RESPONSIVENESS LEADS TO POPULARITY

Some girls who are fair to the eye, wear lovely clothes and are as up and coming as could be desired are nevertheless unhappy because they aren't popular. What's the reason? Well, shyness and self-consciousness are common causes. These girls are inarticulate. They just aren't responsive.

To such a one, let us suggest that when the "new number" comes into her life—as no doubt he will—he will probably spend all his time telling her what a great guy he is instead of telling her she has pretty eyes. He may talk about his job, a subject that bores her, but she must be an eager listener, hang on to his every word. That will flatter him, and he will love it.

Many of the species is inclined to be a show-off—especially in youth. Now the antics of the small boy when a little girl is present to regard and admire him. It's born in him.

The most valuable quality a girl can have, next to beauty, is shy girl can't be at her best because she suffers from social insecurity. She is afraid of saying the wrong thing. She worries about her appearance.

One way to overcome this unhappy state of affairs is to force herself to say nice things to people. To do that she must have nice thoughts about them. Tell the girl friend that her frock is pretty, that you love the way she does her hair. With plenty of girl companions one is sure to meet boys.

Admittedly, overcoming shyness is a difficult matter. But it must be tackled early or it will continue through life and it may interfere with business and social life.

Give yourself a little spice, sauce, trouble. Cultivate a little healthy conceit. That'll do it!

Dad's really entering into the spirit of the Autumn Pancake Festival! Hurry up with some more pancakes 'n syrup!

Autumn Pancake Festival Gets Under Way This Week

"Hot off the griddle!" That's the enthusiastic cry which will re-echo from coast to coast when Canada's big Autumn Pancake Festival gets under way this week. There'll be happy Pancake Parties everywhere; exciting events with church and other community groups catering to as many as a hundred or more at one sitting; family gatherings either right in the home itself or if the weather is favorable—outdoors, around the barbecue.

Surrounding all these get-togethers will be an old time spirit of jollity and the thrill of good eating — because somehow wherever people gather to eat pancakes, the feast always takes on an air of celebration and a real good time is enjoyed by all. The very aroma of those light fluffy pancakes baking on the griddle stirs the appetite. (Fall appetites are keen, too). And when your top those satisfying pancakes with golden pats of butter, and pour the rich syrup over them, so that the delicious butter and syrup blend—melt and ooze down the sides! That's the time to grasp that fork and really dig in! The youngsters get so much enjoyment out of it (to say nothing of the grown-up men folk—who are really youngsters at heart) that any extra trouble taken by mother is afterwards well repaid by the happy smiles of enjoyment she sees all around her.

And now, Mothers, here are a couple of suggestions to help you make your Pancake Festival party a real success:

REGULAR PANCAKES (Basic Recipe)

Here's an "easy-as-wiking" basic recipe that makes 14 to 18 medium pancakes:

2 cups Ready-Mix for Pancakes; 2 cups milk (or water).

Just add milk or water to the unsifted Pancake Ready-Mix all at once and stir lightly. Some what lumpy batter makes light, fluffy pancakes.

Pour ¼ cup of batter for each pancake onto a hot, lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

For extra rich pancakes, add two tablespoons melted butter, fat or oil and one beaten egg to pancake batter.

For thinner pancakes use more milk or water.

For delicious Buckwheat Cakes use two cups Buckwheat Ready-Mix and 2½ cups milk, following above directions.

And now try some of these appetizing new variations:

APPLE PANCAKES WITH SOUR CREAM

"September is Apple Pancake time."

2 cups Ready-Mix for Pancakes; 2 eggs, beaten; 2 cups milk; 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine; 2 cups diced raw apples.

Combine beaten eggs and milk. Add to pancake ready-mix all at once and stir lightly. Fold in the melted butter and diced apple. Pour ¼ to 1 cup of batter onto a greased griddle or frying pan. Bake slowly until golden brown on underneath side, about three minutes. Turn and bake on other side. Roll up. Place on baking sheet in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) to keep warm until the pancakes are baked.

Sprinkle generously with confectioners' sugar and garnish with fried apple slices. Serve with sour cream. Makes 5 servings.

CANADIAN POTATO PANCAKES

"Just right for a hearty luncheon dish."

1 cup Ready-Mix for Pancakes; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk; 2 eggs, beaten; 2 cups grated raw potato; 1 teaspoon grated onion; 2 tablespoons melted butter, fat or oil.

Mix together Ready-Mix and salt; add milk and beaten eggs, stirring lightly. Fold in potato, onion and butter. Pour ¼ cup of batter for each pancake onto a hot, lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once. Serve with hot apple-sauce.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG. — A Thanksgiving service was held in Christ Church on Sunday morning. The church was decorated with fruits and grain from a bountiful harvest. Attendance was below the usual for a harvest home festival.

Evening service in the United Church was fairly well attended. Rev. R. G. Chapman spoke of the journey on the Emmaus road and the significance of Communion. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered next Sunday, 26th September at a service at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Trumpour, of Montreal, who have been visiting their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman, for a time, returned home last week. Mrs. Bert Sills, Tweed, sister of Mrs. Trumpour, accompanied them. Mrs. Sills has a son residing in Montreal.

The Women's Guild of Christ Church met at the home of Mrs. C. Grills on Friday. There was a good attendance.

Guy Thompson, principal of Stockdale School, was under the doctor's care last week. A throat infection kept him from school for a couple of days. All join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Ronald Adams left on Sunday for Toronto, where he will join the Ontario College of Arts. All join in wishing him every success in his studies.

Mrs. (Dr). Dennison of Fort William, is visiting with her mother, Mrs. W. Holbert.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott were guests of Mrs. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taverner of Napanee, on Sunday.

Minister Will Make Statement On Riot Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner of penitentiaries, said that Justice Minister Garson will make a statement concerning the Aug. 15 riot at Kingston penitentiary when the investigation into the disturbance has been completed.

The investigation by prison authorities has not been entirely completed," he said. "We still are gathering details of what took place and questioning guards and prisoners."

Gen. Gibson said Mr. Garson's statement would disclose the reasons for the riot, whether any charges are to be laid and the amount of damage caused during the disturbance. He indicated that Mr. Garson might also refer to the possibility of further segregation of a hard core of psychopathic prisoners and other troublemakers.

Prison authorities, he said, now are considering whether a segregation move of this type would make necessary a separate institution for men of this category.

Gen. Gibson said damage caused by the rioters would be considerably less than the first estimate of $1,000,000.

HOW TO KEEP REGULAR

ON A REDUCING DIET

When you're eating less, and irregularity due to insufficient bulk becomes more of a problem, remember this simple, natural answer.

Many people these days are dieting to lose weight—some for their health's sake, others for appearance' sake. Some are able to stick to their diets until they lose the desired number of pounds. Others run into difficulties and give up after a few days.

One of the most common of these problems is irregularity. A reducing diet usually means a big change in eating habits. You eat less than you normally would. You get less of the natural bulk that normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

When, as a result, there is a slowing up of this natural process, the first thought of some people is to "take a laxative".

They try to substitute unnatural "forcing action" for natural regularity. When the condition persists, many fall into the habit of a daily dose of some product intended only for over-night relief of a temporary stoppage.

BUT THE USE OF DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES CAN BE AVOIDED ENTIRELY BY SIMPLY EATING ONE OUNCE (about ⅓ cupful) OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR BREAKFAST AND DRINKING PLENTY OF WATER.

This "source of prevention" supplies only 93 calories, but it does supply the necessary bulk your restricted diet lacks.

The natural laxation effect of All-Bran has been demonstrated time and again in clinical studies reported in medical journals. On this basis alone it merits a place in the well-planned reducing diet.

One of the more common complaints of folks who are eating less is a feeling of "emptiness". However, because All-Bran's soft, smooth bulk absorbs and retains water and liquids, it helps relieve this "empty" feeling.

And you need not add one single extra calorie when you substitute a serving of All-Bran in your breakfast every day. Reducing diet plans usually allow up to one-third of your calorie allowance for this important meal. The typical breakfasts given below show how a serving of All-Bran fits right in to various diet plans.

360-CALORIE BREAKFAST

Eaten as part of a 1300-calorie diet

Tomato Juice (4-oz. glass)
All-Bran (½ cup) served with 4 oz. milk, 1 teaspoon sugar
Egg, one, boiled or poached
Toast, one slice
Coffee or tea, plain or with milk

450-CALORIE BREAKFAST

Eaten as part of a 1400-calorie diet

½ Grapefruit
All-Bran, (½ cup) with 4 oz. milk, 1 teaspoon sugar
Slice Toast
Butter (1 teaspoon)
Egg, boiled or poached
Coffee or Tea, plain or with milk

When you consult your doctor about your diet (and every reducing diet should be planned by a doctor), ask him about including Kellogg's All-Bran. And to keep regular be sure to eat All-Bran regularly. It has helped millions. Why not you?

Whipped by Rains, Troops Take Part In Manoeuvres

SENNELAGER, Germany (CP) Whipped by torrential rains, hail and storms, troops of five countries participated today in exercise Battle Royal, the largest NATO manoeuvres in northern Germany and the first ever to simulate atomic war.

The 133,000 troops—British, Canadian, Belgian, Dutch and American—camped under canvas in woods and fields all night.

Split up in two sections—the so-called "Northland" and the defender "Southland" forces—the troop went into action Wednesday.

Tanks ground deep ruts into fields and woods as Northland units moved south towards the "Osnabrueck-Bad Oeynhausen line" to invade Southland territory. They were immediately engaged in bitter fighting.

Flashing blue and red lamps, German police cars cleared roads for the American 280-millimetre atomic guns which both camps rushed into strategic positions.

Twice the sun broke through. Immediately some 200 planes of the 2nd Allied Tactical Air Force were in the air to "bomb" and "strafe" opposing troops.

The battle area extends over about 120,000 square miles. The exercise will end Sept. 28.

Prominent military men from various European and overseas countries will witness the exercise.

True Bill Returned

TORONTO (CP)—A grand jury Wednesday brought in a true bill charging Standard Paving, Limited of Toronto and E. Bridsall, its vice-president, to stand trial on charges of conspiring to defraud the Ontario Government in connection with road-building contracts.

The charge was laid last spring. At that time, crown officials said it arose out of work done on the trans-Canada highway stretch between Terrace Bay and Marathon near the northern shore of Lake Superior in northwestern Ontario.

Theodor Blank, West German defence commissioner, and several others of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's military advisers, will attend, along with two former German generals, Hans Speidel and Adolf Heusinger.

Members of the Soviet military mission in West Germany have been barred from the area. Big red signs carrying the warning in Russian have been put up.

Canadian troops, many of them Korean veterans, were the first reported "in action," as part of the Southland force. Rain continued to pour down as they moved to ambush attackers from Northland.

NEW CITY HALL

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Mayor Ernest M. Hawkins laid a cornerstone for the new city hall Wednesday in a ceremony highlighting the city's golden anniversary celebrations.

Wiring in Many Canadian Homes Is Outdated

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Wiring in many Canadian homes is too outdated and inefficient that it costs householders "thousands of dollars" extra in electricity bills, a wiring expert said Wednesday.

Even in some new homes, inadequate wiring causes waste, C. D. McCaig of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association's adequate-wiring committee, said in a speech at the association's annual convention.

"In many cases, the wiring is 30 years behind the times," he said. "It cannot carry current to meet the demands of today's high-efficiency appliances."

"Appliances which take two or three times longer to function are proportionately more power for a longer period of time. To the consumer this means waste of power and higher electric bills."

Rain Slows Up Harvesting Over Whole Province

TORONTO (CP) — For the fourth week in a row rain has held up harvesting on Ontario farmlands, the Ontario department of agriculture says in its weekly crop report.

Farmers generally are busy trying to get their silos filled in spite of the delay.

The rain has improved pasture conditions, increasing milk and beef production, but in some areas it has halted field work entirely. Some damage from frost has been reported.

Southwestern Ontario farmers report maturation of corn and beans slow and are hoping for a late fall. Feeder cattle are in good demand at community sales. Brant county tobacco growers report considerable frost damage.

The central Ontario counties report little progress with tomato picking. The apple crop is sizing well and shows promise in Prince Edward county.

Only northern Ontario farmers report progress. Mostly dry cool weather permitted harvesting and only about 10 per cent of the grain crop remains to be cut. Cattle production has been good. More than 1,700 head of cattle are to be sold at auction at Thessalon Sept. 29.

BOPPED BY BOTTLE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Martha Rayes, television and night club entertainer, Tuesday sued contractor Harry Barton for $400,000, claiming permanent injuries were caused when he smashed a whisky bottle on her head during a birthday party brawl Aug. 22. The suit charged fainting spells and insomnia. Barton said he "broke the bottle over her head," causing her to have "blurring eyesight, fainting spells and insomnia."

Barbecued Chicken

The other night one of the home economists of the Consumer Section was attending a movie and one of the short shows was a fashion show. It was not the usual type of fashion show with gorgeous furs, hats and gowns, but if you please a Barbecue Fashion Show. The scene was an outdoor barbecue fireplace and shown were food fashions for barbecues and the clothes you would wear at the barbecue. Actually it probably appealed to the home economist especially at that time because that very day in the kitchens of the Consumer Section, she had been working on barbecued chicken. The words "barbecue" and "barbecuing" have probably been used in our vocabulary more lately because while we knew about barbecuing whole sides of beef or a whole pig it is only recently that we have had barbecues in our own back yards or at summer camps and cottages. And, very definitely as far as food fashions are concerned "barbecuing" is a popular thing.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, realize that not everyone is fortunate enough to have an outdoor fireplace or a portable barbecue so they have been doing some work on how you can barbecue in the oven of your kitchen stove.

Now this word barbecue has several meanings it seems. It can mean a fireplace, frame or spit used for roasting meats. It can also mean a method of cooking as frying or roasting does. Barbecuing is roasting in the outdoors over a fireplace. And too, a barbecue can be a social event just like a picnic. However, when we write about "barbecuing" we mean the method of cooking. As mentioned before, it generally refers to outdoor cooking, but this is the home economists indoor version of "oven-barbecued" chicken.

CHICKEN CUT-UPS

The first thing needed of course, is chicken. The home economists suggest using chicken cut-ups that is, the legs and the breasts of chicken or half broilers. A broiler is a young chicken which weighs from 1½ pounds to 2½ pounds eviscerated, that is cleaned and ready for cooking. When these small chickens are split in half each half makes a good serving.

Generally barbecued meats are basted with a spicy sauce while they are cooking, and they may also be served with a spicy sauce. The home economists found in their work that barbecue sauces used for basting are of two main types, one a very thin sauce with a vinegar or lemon juice base, the other a much thicker sauce with a tomato base of tomato juice, canned tomatoes, chili sauce or catsup.

One very easy method of oven barbecuing chicken is to simply brown each piece of chicken in a small amount of fat in a frying pan, then arrange the chicken in a baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven 375 deg. F. until tender. If the legs and breasts are small weighing only around 7 or 8 ounces they will need about 45 minutes to cook, for larger legs and breasts weighing from 10 to 12 ounces allow approximately one hour. About 10 minutes before the chicken is done a thick spicy barbecue sauce is poured over it; this sauce should be served with the chicken. With this method the spicy flavor of the sauce naturally does not penetrate the meat as much as if it had been basted constantly, but it is certainly a satisfactory way and one which is not too time consuming. We usually feel however, that barbecued chicken is a specialty, something that we are willing to spend time making, so if you want to make the real oven barbecued chicken these are the directions.

WATCH OVEN CONTROL

To oven barbecue chicken you place the chicken in a pan on the centre rack of the oven and set the thermostat control at 375 deg. F. An interesting thing to note is that when the basting sauce had a tomato base there was a tendency for it to burn more quickly due possibly to the thickness of the sauce and the sugar in it. When the oven barbecued chicken was to be basted with a tomato base sauce the home economists found that they had to set the oven control at 350 deg. F. rather than 375 deg. F. In other words place the chicken in a shallow pan in the centre of the oven and set your oven control at 375 deg. F. for chicken basted with a thin sauce, but at 350 deg. F. if the basting sauce is thick. Just before the chicken is placed in the oven, it is a good idea to sprinkle it with salt and brush both sides with the barbecue sauce. Then place the chicken, skin side down in the pan and put it in the oven. About every 10 or 15 minutes it should be brushed with the barbecue sauce. When basting the chicken do not pull the oven rack out and baste with the oven door open. Lift the pan out of the oven and close the door because when you have to baste so often a good deal of the heat will be lost if you leave basting sauce was certainly easier to handle in barbecuing chicken because of the tendency of the tomato type to burn more quickly. However, many people like the flavor of the tomato barbecuing sauce and if you are one of these people just be sure to watch your oven carefully because you may have to lower the oven heat if the sauce starts to burn. It will take about 1½ hours at 375 deg. F. and 1¾ hours at 350 deg. F. for the chicken to cook. The last before serving you can brush the chicken again with barbecue sauce. However, if you feel that you like the chicken very crisp you omit the final brushing. If there is any sauce left you can serve it with the chicken. If it is too thick just dilute it with a small amount of water. It probably is not necessary to give you a recipe for a barbecue sauce because you can find one in any cook book. But, if you would like the Consumer Section's favorite recipes just write the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and ask for barbecue sauce recipes.

Fisherman Dusted By Radioactive Ash Is Dead

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese fisherman dusted by radioactive ash from a United States H-bomb blast March 1 at Bikini died tonight in a Tokyo hospital.

Aikichi Kuboyama, 40, radio operator on the fishing boat Lucky Dragon, is believed to be the world's first death resulting from a hydrogen bomb explosion.

The fisherman had been suffering from jaundice complications brought on by radiation from the Bikini bomb, Japanese doctors said.

His illness and death is a matter of great international significance for Japan. The country has been bitterly critical of the American tests, and is reported to have presented Washington with a bill for several million dollars.

Kuboyama was one of 23 fishermen aboard the Lucky Dragon, which was approximately 80 miles from Bikini when the test bomb was exploded.

The other fishermen also are in hospital, but appear to be recovering.

The U.S. has offered Japan $1,000,000 in damages for the 23.

Kuboyama's death is expected to touch off a wave of anti-American feeling in Japan. Nothing since the surrender nine years ago has so stirred the Japanese people as the illness of the fishing crew.

Kuboyama is survived by his 33-year-old wife, Suzu, his 71-year-old mother and a nine-year-old daughter.

CAUSE IN DOUBT

Kuboyama died at the end of his second relapse in a month. The exact cause of death may never be agreed upon.

Japanese physicians hold the jaundice was due directly to radiation sickness and his generally weakened condition. Others, including an American doctor, said the jaundice may have been due to a hepatitis infection resulting from blood transfusions.

Kuboyama's death coincided with speculation here that Russia exploded a hydrogen bomb recently on Wrangel Island, only 500 miles northwest of Nome, Alaska.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — On Sunday evening the following were supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and family, to celebrate the birthdays of Mr. Spencer and his little granddaughter, Christina Lynn, whose birthdays fell on Monday, September 20th; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Briant, Tommie and Kathy; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer, Chryssie Lynn and Suzanne, Miss Marilyn Bateman, of Springbrook, and Mr. Dougie Doober of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Humphries (nee Bertha Gibson) of Calgary, have been holidaying with relatives and friends in the vicinity. On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid and Geordie, entertained the following in their honor: Mrs. Stella Gibson and daughter Blanche; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath, Donnie and Carol; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pilchett and Ross, of Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. F. Elliott, of West Huntington, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Mumby and Nonnie.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sine, of Marsh Hill, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mallejohn and family last Sunday, and attended the Rylstone anniversary.

French Troops Writing Finis To Hanoi Rule

By FORREST EDWARDS

HANOI (AP)—French troops are stepping up their evacuation from Hanoi, writing finis to their 61 years of control over the North Indochina capital, heart of the rich Tonkin delta.

The Communist-led Vietminh is scheduled to take over the centuime French capital of Indochina Oct. 10 under terms of the Geneva armistice, leaving the French and the government of Viet Nam the port of Haiphong for eight more months.

Hanoi's European business section is on its deathbed, after weeks of wasting away. All major stores closed today, and smaller shops are in the last week of final sales.

Civilians have only until Oct. 1 to leave the city. After that the big bridge crossing the Red river on the road to Haiphong will be closed to all but military traffic.

About a third of some 1,000,000 civilians already have fled to South Viet Nam from the areas to be turned over to the Vietminh. French authorities say about 25,000 were Hanoi residents.

Ties between Hanoi and South Viet Nam are being cut one by one. The government's rubber airlift to Saigon already has ended.

French troops, mostly Foreign Legionnaires, are still guarding all major public buildings and public utility works here. They will maintain and run the plants if necessary until the Vietminh take over.

1954 Shaping Up as Lightest In Years for Forest Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forest rangers across Canada are keeping their fingers crossed but 1954 is shaping up as one of the lightest in years for forest fire damage.

Ontario officials consider the situation normal but other provinces report a decline both in number of fires and in damage done.

British Columbia sources put the loss at 85 per cent less than 1953 and other provinces report varying declines. None reported increased fires or damage.

A cool, wet summer in most forest areas was credited with the improvement. Vigilance of forest rangers and safety campaigns among tourists and residents also was a factor.

BLAZE IN B.C.

The worst fire in British Columbia this year was 180 miles north of Vancouver when about 100 acres of hemlock and cedar burned. Damage to Sept. 10 this year was $35,055, compared with $108,830 for all last year.

Only the northern Peace River area in Alberta was considered dangerous as the rest of the province recorded good rainfall. Two bad fires this year in the far north destroyed only scrub timber.

Officials said damage this year will fall far below that of recent years due to the extremely moist summer. Last year's Alberta damage totalled $1,327,000.

Saskatchewan rangers report the fire hazard still high in the north but feel in other areas there is little possibility of forest fires this year. The only bad fire was at Uranium City in July.

Only eight fires, all minor, occurred this year in Manitoba. Most of the forests are damp.

PREVENTION PROGRAM

Manitoba maintains a staff of 53 permanent rangers and 50 foresters. During the summer four new fire towers were built and another four were shifted to better locations. Films, school book covers and floats in various county fairs this year all carried how-to-prevent-forest-fires messages.

Most serious fires in Ontario this year were at White River, Kapuskasing, Cochrane and Gogama. The year has been classified a normal season with 55,700 acres having been burned in 320 fires to date. Usual average for the season is 800 fires, officials said.

Damage was minor in all Quebec fires this year. Damage last year totalled many millions of dollars but final figures have not yet been compiled. They are expected to equal the record in 1941 when 1,710 fires did $3,932,345 damage and destroyed 1,500,234 acres.

The hazard is described as "very low" in New Brunswick due to the wet summer. Small fires numbering 15 burned 1,725 acres causing a loss of $18,000. Loss last year was $27,000 at 309 fires consumed 5,414 acres.

Light rains fell steadily in Nova Scotia forests and rangers consider the danger very slight. Last year was considered better than average with only 225 fires and a total of 1,895 acres burned.

Prince Edward Island also experienced a light year with rains removing danger. Newfoundland also had one of the lightest forest fire years on record.

Auto Licence Examiners Are Defended

BRANTFORD (CP) — Motor licence examiners in Ontario receive far too much criticism as the "whipping boys" for driving evils, Alderman James Rumble told the Ontario legislature's select committee on traffic safety meeting here.

"Tests are not rigid and consistent," said Ald. Rumble, who is licence examiner at Brantford. "If this committee can do anything to rectify the conditions, I would be happy to see it."

He said examiners lead a dangerous life when out with prospective licencees. The government provides no insurance or compensation in case of an accident during a test—merely the $1 fee for each examination, he said. Ald. Rumble suggested drivers should be compelled to have insurance—without waiting for an accident to make it compulsory.

Melrose

MELROSE. — Miss Margaret Bailey returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Reilly last week after a lengthy holiday in England and Scotland.

Several children in the community have chickenpox.

Local teachers attended the teachers' meeting in Shannonville school, Wednesday. There was a full attendance with the Inspector, G. W. Nelson, presiding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, Mr. and Mrs. Sherry Demille and Mr. and Mrs. Newton Demille were guests at the wedding of the latter's sister on Saturday afternoon. Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke (nee Hajdena Crow).

At the morning church service in Melrose United Church, there were two baptisms, Catharine Marie Embury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Embury and Christine Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Badgley, were baptized.

Mrs. Roy Cook received word Saturday that her brother, John Palmer had been in a motor accident near Brantford, and was taken to Brantford Hospital. His condition was not reported serious but extensive damage resulted to his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Willett Casey and boys had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. G. McLaren.

Mrs. George Badgley is guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Badgley.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sullivan and Cheryl spent a day last week in Toronto.

URANIUM MINE

This is the property of Gunnar Uranium Mines in northwestern Saskatchewan near Uranium City. Company buildings are on the lakeshore, while in the foreground lies part of the deposit which company spokesmen describe as "fabulous." The company says enough uranium ore is on the surface to keep it busy for four years before having to start underground workings. (CP Photo).

Four Companies Are Either Producing Uranium Ore Or Are Getting Ready for It

By WILF CHISLETT,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Headframes of uranium mines are rising above the barren wilderness in Saskatchewan's northwest corner as ore production increases.

Although none of the color has left the province's mining boom, four companies are either producing uranium ore or are getting ready for it.

The federal government's Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. has been processing ore at Beaverlodge lake since June of last year and now has three of its own producing shafts. It also handles ore from rix-Athabasca uranium mines which four months ago became Canada's first private uranium producer. Nesbitt-Labine Uranium Mines near Eldorado is stockpiling ore as a shaft is sunk.

BIG CAPACITY

The Eldorado mill has an ore capacity of 500 tons a day and this is being expanded to 800 tons to handle ore from other mines, but the actual production rate of refined ore is a secret.

A fourth company, Gunnar Uranium Mines, is outlining an ore body which its spokesmen describe as "fabulous."

ors push farther from the centre of activity around Uranium City.

HIGH-GRADE ORE

Whatever the future, the government expects the high interest shown in the last three years to continue for some time to come.

Uranium-mining profits depend on the grade. Under the old method of calculating payments, Eldorado paid $14.80 a ton for ore that produced until 1953.

Saskatchewan's industry still has a few major problems. The main one is transportation. How roads are going to be built into mine camps is uncertain.

The provincial government has offered to pay one-third the cost of a road, providing the federal government and the mine will share the rest. C. J. Hezz, deputy minister of mineral resources, says so far the federal government hasn't shown interest in the proposal.

MUST PROVE DEATH

WELLAND (CP)—Crown attorney T. Forestell said Tuesday the bondsmen who put up $30,000 bail for Edward Blair of Toronto must present proof of death before they can get their money back. Blair, who died last week, was to be tried in November in connection with the theft of $250,000 worth of metal concentrates from a Port Colborne railway platform.

THERE'S MONEY FOR FERTILIZER at the B of M

The purchase of fertiliser is sometimes a headache. Because the need for it usually comes at a time when there are a lot of expenses and little income.

Avoid that headache this year. See your B of M manager about a loan. Repayment terms are easy—suited to a farmer's requirements. Drop in at your nearest B of M branch today, or as soon as convenient.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

BUSY SATURDAY!

Saturday will be action-packed for sports fans, what with three playdown battles scheduled for the village greens.

The Ramp, who left at 5.15 today for Oshawa, where they joust with the Transporters tonight starting 7.30 in the first game of their best-of-three senior baseball series, will entertain the Walker men at Exhibition Park starting eight o'clock.

Two softball classics will take up the time of this game's supporters, with Point Anne entertaining the Stratford Krechlers in the first game of their OASA intermediate "A" quarter finals, and Bob Turnpike's fighting Belleside beating the Peterborough squad in the second game of their best-of-three intermediate "AA" jousting.

The Ox Point-Krechlers game will be played at the Point starting at 4.30, while the Cats-Petes tussle takes place at the CNR Recreation Park, getting under way at 2.30 p.m.

It should be quite a fray over at the Canada Cement Company's softball park. Krechlers come with quite a reputation. They eliminated the strong Fort Colborne team in two straight games by 13-0 and 1-0 scores. The Fointers pay the return visit on Monday. Pat Maracle will be gunning for his fourth straight victory, in all likelihood.

BUM, HE SAYS

The rabid Brooklyn fans are noted for their bleacher banter—heckling at Ole Case Stengel well known. When manager of the Dodgers, Case saw the bases loaded and the club need runs. So he told Babe Phelps to go in as a pinch hitter. Phelps blasted the ball out of the park for a grand slammer.

However, the opposition again grabbed a substantial lead and the same situation arose. Case scratched his head. What to do for a pinch-hitter.

He hadn't quite made up his mind when a foghorn voice belonging to a fan sitting near the Dodger dugout assailed his ears with these words:

"A fine manager you are Stengel! If you haddena already used Phelps to pinch-hit yo'd have him se's youse could use him now! What a bum you are, Stengel!"

• • •

THE RIGHT ANGLE

Not all pro ball players have cement between the ears. Taba Charley Schmidt, catcher for the Detroit Tigers many years ago. George Mullin was on the mound, and the opposition had worked a man to third base.

Schmidt called for time. He walked to the mound and told Mullins: "I want you to throw a wild pitch."

"Who, me?" demanded Mullins. Never in his career had he heard such a proposal.

"Look," said Charlie. "You see that spot on the wall back there where the paint's chipped a little? Take dead aim and throw hard and hit that spot. We'll get this guy on third."

He explained to Mullins he had to throw the pitch deliberately hitting the wall back of the plate. It would rebound in an easy manner for the catcher. Schmidt said he would be there to get it. The runner would try to score but Mullin would race in to the plate. Schmidt would throw the ball to him for the put out.

It worked perfectly.

GOOD SHOW!

Two of wrestling's top stars will meet in the mat headliner at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. Paul Baillargeon, strongman from Quebec, will oppose "Gentleman Jack" Claybourne, international Negro star from South Africa.

Baillargeon's forte is fabulous strength, which enables him to lift a horse from the ground. Naturally, he handles mere human opposition like tossing a medicine ball. Claybourne's long suit is dazzling speed and shifty moves that leave his opponents flat-footed. This bout figures to be a ring classic.

The marvellous midget wrestlers will be in a special event, starting at Little Beaver and the Brown Panther meeting the team of Fuzzy Cupid and Tom Thumb in the tag match. Pat Flanagan will wrestle Pat Fraley in the first bout.

REST IN PEACE!

Sportdom hereabouts was shocked to hear of the passing in Ottawa of Howard "Stubby" Palmer, former well-known athlete of this city. "Stubby" was popular in nearly all phases of sport with baseball being his best love. He played in the old Central Ontario Baseball League and in intermediate loops of the city and district. He was an outstanding bowler and an ardent softball player. "Stubby" loved the kids and for a long time he teamed with "Twiley" Woodley in a clown role at the former YMCA circuses for children. He was the idol of the youngsters and extremely popular with adults not only in the realm of sport but other circles in which he moved. This department joins his many friends, sportsmen and otherwise, in extending heartfelt sympathy to the family.

POSTPONED!

The Bobcats-Petes game scheduled for last night was postponed. The teams play tonight in Peterborough.

TO COACH AMATEURS

MONTREAL (CP)—Two former players with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League will coach amateur teams this year. Roger Leger, former defenceman, has signed to coach Shawinigan Falls in the Quebec Hockey League and Gerry Plamondon, Wednesday was named coach of Trois-Rivieres Reds of the Quebec junior league.

BIG PAYOFF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Touring U.S. golf professionals close their smocks on the 1954 season in the $40,000 "World Series of Golf," which opens at Congressional Country Club here today. The pot of gold will be the second largest of the year with an $8,000 payoff awaiting the winner of the 72-hole competition on Sunday.

Tribe Registers 110 Triumphs With 3-1 Victory Over Sox; 'Bums' Hurler SO's 15 Giants

By BEN PHILGRAY
Associated Press Sports Writer

On the theory that $720 is still $720, four teams today retained a vital interest in the makeup of the final major league standings.

The $720 represents the approximate share per player of the world series money for members of the fourth-place team in each league. And fourth place still is quite a battle in both leagues.

In the National only a game separates Cincinnati, now in fourth from the fifth-place Philadelphia Phillies. Boston leads Detroit by a game and a half in the American League.

The Redlegs have just two games left and the Phillies have six to play.

REDLEGS SCREAM

Cincinnati still is screaming about a 3-1 loss in Milwaukee Wednesday when a ninth-inning rally was brought to an abrupt end by a freak double play.

With runners on first and second and one out, pinch hitter Bob Borkowski slashed one on a wild pitch. While catcher Del Crandall chased the ball, Gus Bell scored from second to third and Borkowski headed for first in a hurry since if the catcher threw to third safety he usually has to throw out the batter at first.

Crandall threw to third baseman Eddie Mathews in a vain attempt to catch Bell and on a wild pitch across the diamond when he saw Borkowski racing for first. Hit threw his Borkowski in the back and rolled into right field and Bell scored from third. Wally Post also scored from first.

Then the umpires broke over. After an 18-minute conference they ruled Borkowski was out automatically on his shortcut since first base had been occupied. Then they ruled Borkowski had interfered with the attempt to catch Bell because he drew a throw to first. The rules say in this case the batter is out and Bell, is out. The two outs ended the game and the Reds filed a formal protest.

ROBERTS' 22ND

There was no room for protests at Philadelphia where Robin Roberts whipped Pittsburgh twice, 13-1 and 5-1. Robin Roberts won his 22nd game, a two-hitter, in the first nightcap.

Detroit beat Baltimore 4-1 on Steve Gromek's four-hitter and Boston wasn't scheduled.

In other games on the American League champion Cleveland Indians equalled a 111-year-old record for the most games won by beating Chicago 3-1 for their 110th victory. The National League champion New York Giants bowed 3-0 to rookie Don Drysdale of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who set a major league record by striking out 15 in his first start in the big time.

TRIPLE PLAY

The New York Yankees defeated Washington 3-0 with Tommy Byrne winning his third game as the Yanks came up with a triple play, fifth in the majors this season.

Brooklyn Dodgers won his 14th game for the St. Louis Cardinals, clinching the Eastern Zone 6-4 on five hits. Two of the three Cub runs came on a fifth inning homer by pitcher Dave Cole.

Don Mossi, a rookie used mostly in relief, and Al Smith combined their talents in the Cleveland victory. Mossi shut out the White Sox through the first eight innings and Smith drove in two of the three Indian runs with a double in the second inning and a triple in the fourth.

Series Winners May Collect $10,000 Each

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1954 world series, to be played in the largest ball parks in the two major leagues with ticket prices at their highest levels, may be worth more than $10,000 to each player on the winning team.

It is almost sure to break all previous records for attendance and gate receipts and the estimated financial figures are astronomical.

The series opens next Wednesday in the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants, which has a listed seating capacity of 53,000. After two games there, it moves to Cleveland's 73,500-seat Municipal Stadium for the fat weekend games. Then, if it lasts longer than five games, it returns to New York.

The cleveland stadium is where the all-time world series record crowd of 86,563 saw a game between the Indians the Boston Braves, Oct. 10, 1948. That record may not be broken, but the Indians have had about twice as many ticket applications as they could fill. The Giants also have been swamped, and standing-room-only crowds are assured.

Shamrocks Ask Rest of Series Played Indoors

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Victoria Shamrocks Wednesday demanded that the remainder of the Minto Cup lacrosse series with Peterborough Trailermen be played indoors.

The Canadian Lacrosse Association replied that the series must be continued in the outdoor Millen Bowl if the weather is favorable but agreed to transfer any games to Civic Arena here if weather conditions prevent it being played the scheduled night in the outdoor bowl.

Robert Pierson, president of Peterborough team, said Civic Arena is available for Friday, Saturday and Sunday games and the Trailermen are willing to play there if weather prohibits playing in Miller Bowl. The capacity of the arena is about 2,000 and that for Miller Bowl about 3,000.

The CLA threatened the western champions with suspension if they insist on playing only indoors.

The westerners' demand came after the fourth game was postponed from Wednesday night until tonight. Peterborough leads the best-of-seven series 2-1.

The series has been hampered by bad weather.

Pierson said the CLA reached agreement with the two clubs to play in the Miller Bowl and the Shamrocks were aware of this when they came east.

The Shamrocks have criticized the outdoor bowl since they first saw it. The western team which previously had played only on artificial surface floors said it would prefer having the series transferred to any arena in Ontario with a hard surface floor.

Casey Signs to Manage Yanks in '55, To Build Team Around Berra, Mantle

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, still "surprised" that he failed to win a sixth straight pennant, Wednesday signed to manage New York Yankees for a fourth year in a row through 1956 and promised to rebuild the club.

The grizzled 64-year-old manager will remain the game's highest paid coach at "exceptional money."

Neither Stengel nor the Yankees would nail down the exact figures, but it was believed his basic salary is $75,000 a year with a profit-sharing pension plan and a bonus edging the figure close to $85,000. Stengel had managed the Yanks to five pennants and five world series triumphs since 1949 until beaten by Cleveland this year.

Although the Yankees have won more than 100 games this season Stengel left no doubt many changes will be made.

"We've got to fix our hitting and our pitching. When you get a setback you have to rebuild. Anybody interested in any of the New York Yankees can get in touch with Mr. Weiss (general manager George Weiss) by phone. With the exception of Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle I'd listen to talk about any others."

NOT ON BLOCK

That doesn't mean the rest of the club is on the block. Most of them, of course, will still be around when it comes time to report for spring training.

Casey told a press conference:

"I think the other clubs (except Cleveland), had better consider their own personnel. I should think they'd get down to business and strengthen their own clubs instead of worrying about what the Yankees are doing. The Yanks are not finished. I have to find some way to catch Cleveland and so do six other clubs."

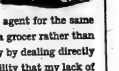
"WHY I Buy My Insurance From An Agent!"



"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the bee, there's a good possibility that my lack of training, knowledge, and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?" So says an insurance buyer.

Yes "It's wise to buy your honey from the man who knows the bees — and even wiser to buy your insurance from the man who knows the business."

'Say-Hey' Willie Mays, Larry Doby Outfield Attractions in Big Series

By KEN GLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The almost certain capacity crowd which will pack Yankee Polo Grounds next Wednesday for the first game of the world series will be able to compare the two top baseball's prappler center fielders—Willie Mays of the Giants and Cleveland's Larry Doby.

Both powerful batters, fleet of foot and with strong throwing arms, Mays and Doby are a cinch to finish up close in the most valuable player awards voting, if not at the head of the class.

And valuable they were. Mays started and extended rallies, threatened Babe Ruth's all - time home run standard for a time and often came up with a key defensive play. Doby, perhaps a mite steadier than Willie in the field, though less sensational, carried most of the Indians' load after Al Rosen's slugging tailed off because of a fractured finger.

MAYS TOP HITTER

Mays leads the National League with a .345 batting mark. His 41 homers and 110 runs batted in compare favorably with Doby's 32 circuit blows and 124 RBI's.

Overall, the Giants appear to have the outfield edge, if only for Don Mueller's superiority over Cleveland's right fielders, Dave Pope and Wally Westlake.

In left field, where Giant manager Leo Durocher has yet to choose between Dusty Rhodes and Monte Irvin, there's no marked advantage either way with the Indians' Al Smith the party of the second part.

ENJOYS REST SEASON

Mueller, with 203 hits—the most in the majors—and a third-place batting average of .338 is enjoying his best of seven big league seasons.

Pittley, a switch-hitter, started the season slowly and is finishing at the same gait with a .254 mark. Westlake likely will take over right field against righthanded pitching.

Smith, one of the real surprises for the Indians, is in the leadoff spot. At bat produced 11 home runs, 49 runs batted in and a .276 batting average. Speedy and with a powerful, accurate throwing arm, he figures to play against both righthanders and lefties.

LONG RELIEF THREAT

Whether Rhodes or Irvin gets the starting nod, the Giants will present a long ball threat in left field. Dusty, with a .344 average, has walloped 15 home runs and Irvin, though at .259, has 19.

Irvin's performance in the 1951 series, the last one in which the Giants and Yanks met, prompted Durocher to go along with him.

Barrie Junior Balks At Salary Limit

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—The newly-adopted $60-a-week salary limit for players of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A teams has led to the departure of forward Bob White from Barrie Flyers.

Coach Hap Emms said he could be suspended and the Flyers fined $1,000 if he went over the limit.

He has turned the matter over to the OHA. They adopted the salary limit recommended by the junior A council. Emms said White plans on applying to the OHA for his release.

Chiefs' Owens Rookie of Year In International

MONTREAL (CP)—Jim Owens, 20-year-old Syracuse pitcher, has been named the International Baseball League's rookie of the year. The announcement was made through league headquarters here Wednesday by Al C. Weber of Rochester, president of the circuit's baseball writers' association.

Owens, a six-foot four-inch right hander, collected eight votes of a total 25 cast by writers. Utility third-baseman Hector Lopez was runner-up with six votes.

Owens posted a 17-6 record with the fourth-place Chiefs during the regular season this year. He was credited with five shut-outs to tie the league leadership in that department.

ORFU Dutchies Whip Sarnia For Loop Lead

SARNIA (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen moved into a commanding four-point lead in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, standing here Wednesday when they edged second-place Sarnia Imperials 13-10 before some 5,000 fans.

The brilliant passing, running and signal-calling of Dutchmen's quarterback Bob Celeri in the fourth quarter proved to be the downfall of the Imperials. Kitchener led 1-0 at the end of the first and second quarters and then the Imperials came up with a 10-point effort in the third to go ahead 10-1. In the final quarter Celeri guided the Dutchmen on two touchdown marches and to victory.

Kitchener's first point in the first - quarter came when Ross Dowswell was rouged by Roy Stevenson after a wide 37-yard field-goal attempt by Paul Amodio.

TAKES LEAD

Sarnia took the lead early in the third - quarter when Carlton (Cookie) Gilchrist booted a neat 45-yard field-goal. A short time later Gilchrist scored a touchdown from three-yards out after a march from the Kitchener 30 on five plays. Quarterback Jim Lambert converted to make it 9-1. On the kick-off Gilchrist booted the ball into the Kitchener end-zone and Carl Totzke was rouged by Bill Mosienzhya.

Midway through the final quarter the Dutchmen closed the gap when Amodio took a 15-yard pass from Celeri and then went another 12 yards to pay-dirt. Amodio converted his own major. With approximately five-minutes to go Celeri scored from one yard out after a 40-yard march. Amodio converted to complete the scoring.

The Imperials tried nine passes in completing only three and Celeri completed 11 of 19 tosses.

Dutchies Sign Hockey Stars

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series Wednesday announced the signing of centre Ken Laufman and the purchase of Bill Hammond, forward of Hamilton Tigers.

Laufman was second in the scoring race last year with 31 goals and 60 assists.

The former Guelph Biltmore junior star joined the team last season. Hammond, 24, has played with the Tigers for four years. He was a top scorer on the 1953-53 club with 19 goals and 23 assists.

He was claimed in the draft by Stratford Indians when the players from the defunct Hamilton senior team were put up on the draft at a recent senior council meeting. Hammond did not want to play in Stratford so the Dutchies made arrangements to buy him in an outright cash deal for an unannounced sum.

Chiefs Give Leafs the Ole Heave-ho, Await Winner Royals, Wings Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs have gained the final round of the International League's Governor's Cup from Toronto's powerful pennant winners, and now are awaiting the final outcome of the semi-final series between Montreal Royals and Rochester Red Wings.

Syracuse, who had to play the Havana Cuban Sugar Kings for a fourth-place playoff, defeated the Leafs 7-5 Wednesday night on a two-run homer by first-baseman Bert Haywood.

Blaylock slammed the ball over the fence with one out in the sixth inning. The win gave the Chiefs the best-of-seven semi-final 4-2.

The Montreal - Rochester game, postponed for the second straight night because of rain and wet grounds, was rescheduled for tonight in Montreal. Montreal leads that best-of-seven playoff 3-2.

Syracuse held a 2-0 lead on John Ennis's home run in the second inning and a triple in the sixth. Loren Babe of the Leafs drove in three runs—two with a single and another on a sacrifice fly.

Lynn Lovenguth held the Leafs to a single in three innings of relief pitching to take the victory. Jack Crimian, ace relief hurler for Toronto all season, was the third Leaf pitcher and suffered the defeat.

Karl Spooner, Dazzling Dodger Lefty, 'Greatest Pitcher I've Seen'--Campy

BROOKLYN (AP)—"He throws harder than anybody in the league."

That was catcher Roy Campanella's rave report on 22-year-old Karl Spooner, who set a major league record Wednesday by striking out 15 New York Giants in his major league debut with Brooklyn. The Brash rookie shut out the newly-crowned league champions 3-0 on three hits.

The fast-ball southpaw, once a lefthanded catcher, came within two of the modern National League record set by Dizzy Dean in 1933 while pitched the mark established by Cliff Melton in his first big league game with New York Giants in 1937.

"I wasn't nervous in the first inning," he said in the clubhouse. "I just was missing the plate. I struck out Hofman with fast balls."

The Giants loaded the bases in the first on two walks and topped infield single by Al Dark that went for a single, Spooner, then struck out Bobby Hofman to end the threat.

The Giants were duly impressed by the kid's pitching. Reuel Fitzsimmons, New York coach, said he was "real fast," Manager Leo Durocher echoed, "great, just great."

DODGER FANS STARE

"Where's this been hiding?" asked the Ebbets Field faithful who watched the Fort Worth farm product.

Campy made no effort to restrain his enthusiasm.

"He's the greatest young pitcher I've ever seen. I couldn't believe it when I caught him in the first."

Spooner's purchase from the Dodgers' Texas League farm was a note buried in the Dodger obituaries Monday night when Glenn Gliarle clinched the pennant. He won 21 and lost 4 in the regular season and had a 3-1 playoff mark.

Spooner took success in stride. He said he didn't know that the previous record was and didn't know he had broken it until the public address announcer told the fans in the ninth when he fanned his 14th man.

Spooner cost the Dodgers $500 in 1950. Scout Cree Mulvey said "The first time I saw him the kid looked fair, just fair . . . I offered him $500. He said he owed the dentist $88 so could I make it $600."

Niagara Whips Crowland In Senior Baseball

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Niagara Falls Shoemakers took a 3-2 lead in their best - of - seven Niagara District Senior Baseball League final by defeating Crowland Bisons 8-3 here Wednesday night. The date of the sixth game has yet to be decided. It will be held in Welland if the grounds are available.

Harness Horses Set World Marks

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Three world records were set during the Delaware Fair grand circuit harness racing program today, two of them by Earn Safe, winner of the featured $6,750 Old Oaken Bucket for three-year-old trotters. Earn Safe, owned by the Ontario Fair Acres stable of Doquoin, Ill., set a single heat record for three-year-old geldings by winning the first heat in 2:04 3-5, then repeated in 2:06 3-5 to create a two-heat mark for the same age and gait group. Benny Schine was the driver.

The other record was credited to Dottie Pick, who set a two-heat record for two-year-old pacing fillies by winning the $10,450 Walnut Hall Farm Stake in 2:05 2-5 and 2:06 1-5. Dottie Pick is owned by the Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., and was driven by Houston Stone.

PICK FAVORITES

LONDON (CP) — Two English-owned horses, Alpenhorn and Turk's Blood, became joint favorites to win the Oct. 13 Cambridgeshire Handicap at a betting rally of British's leading bookies Wednesday night. They were quoted at 20 to 1.

Shamrocks May Withdraw From Mann Cup Series

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Victoria Shamrocks have threatened to withdraw from the Mann Cup lacrosse final if the remainder of the series isn't played indoors.

The Canadian Lacrosse Association replied Wednesday that the fourth game must be played tonight in the outdoor Miller Bowl if weather conditions are favorable, but if a postponement is necessary again it is agreeable to have the series transferred to the indoor Civic Arena.

The western champions must obtain their return tickets from the CLA. It is considered that this rules out any chance of the Shamrocks not agreeing to the conditions where the rest of the series will be played.

England Whips Ireland 6-0

LONDON (AP)—England's soccer stars coasted to an easy 6-0 victory over a team of Ireland selection in Dublin Wednesday night. They were again 30-year-old Stanley Matthews highlighted the match.

He threw the Irish defence into confusion with tantalizing bursts down the wing and on one occasion ended a fine solo run with a low, angled shot into the net.

Other scorers for the English team were inside left Don Revie (Manchester City), who got three, centre forward Nat Lofthouse (Bolton Wanderers) and inside right Johnny Haynes (Fulham).

At Cardiff, Wales bowed 3-1 to Yugoslavia, the first time the Welshmen had been defeated at home by a Continental side. Todor Veselinovic scored all the Yugoslav goals.

Former Lacrosse Star Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Peter (Pete) Joseph Schenkerman, former well-known lacrosse player, died Wednesday after a heart attack.

In his prime he played for teams in Toronto and St. Catharines. He was inducted in the Old Boys Lacrosse Association.

Born at St. Catharines, he was with the federal customs and excise department for 37 years until his retirement seven years ago.

Survivors include four daughters and two sons.

Gene Tunney won the world's heavyweight boxing crown from Jack Dempsey 28 years ago tonight before a crowd of 120,000 at Philadelphia's Sesqui - centennial Stadium. Their second bout a year later—at Chicago's Soldiers' Field in 1927 — drew boxing's largest gate, $2,658,660, when Tunney retained the title.

Chisox Boss Gives 'Case' the Needle 'Let's See What Genius Can Do Now'

CLEVELAND (AP)—For reasons of his own, Frank Lane, outspoken general manager of the third-place Chicago White Sox, is happy that Casey Stengel was signed to manage the New York Yankees for two more years.

"Let's see how good Stengel is now," challenged Lane' when he heard the news of Casey's retention. "He fancies himself as quite a genius. It's easy to be a genius when you're given all the horses.

"Well, a lot of horses have gone lame. Now he may learn how the other half lives. I'm glad he wasn't fired, as he suggested they do if the Yankees did not win the pennant. They sentenced him to something even worse—to hang around and rebuild ill fallen champions."

Lane, who rarely misses an opportunity to take a slap at the Yankees and belittle Stengel, his favorite sparring partner, said he was convinced the Yankee - American League pennant monopoly has come to an end.

"The Yankees will never dominate the game again as they have for the past five years. They don't have a corner on the player market any more."

"And neither would my Dad. He knows the value of trust company experience in looking after an estate. He wouldn't be without it!"

So many wise men to-day rely on the experience and co-operation of a trust company.

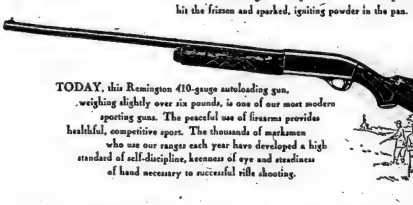
This single-barrel Kentucky rifle was first used about 1750 by early settlers in the vast uncharted country west of the Alleghenies. Muzzle loading, this weapon was fired when a piece of flint hit the frizzen and sparked, igniting powder in the pan.



TODAY, this Remington 410-gauge autoloading gun, weighing slightly over six pounds, is one of our most modern sporting guns. The peaceful use of firearms provides healthful, competitive sport. The thousands of marksmen who use our ranges each year have developed a high standard of self-discipline, keenness of eye and steadiness of hand necessary to successful rifle shooting.

When it comes to bridge, give master a hand he can ride and will go in all directions. It is cold day in Hades when a pot-of masters will all get to a such contract.

My claim is that many great masters are ignorant of a sound ick count. I am the only one o will believe me. They have o high a rep to tab them with ornance in any department.

Let me show you here deal umber 13 from the last nationals:

In this match were 36 tables of highest ranking masters. Before se at this instant is the printed ject of what they did. Yet, it is doubtful if anybody will bellieve ey reached 13 different ends.

The contract should not be in doubt ders or hearts because neither partner has support for the other these suits. It should not be in ge-trump with the diamond suit side spades.

The only sound contract is in ts, of which there have plenty each hand. West counts six ticks and east counts five. Game chalks a touch and the pair hould know it.

Did these people play it here? es, a few. But very darn few. t the 36 tables only five were ht end of the deal. Some of em played it badly enough to go own one trick.

Thus, with the one downed at five clubs, 31 of the 36 tables did not register a score in either bidding or play or defence. It is an imposing number of errors for such players.

This is an isolated case based on a frenzied hand. The players themselves dealt from snuffed decks. Without exception deal after deal, as reported here, contained many errors.

What happened with this spread at the other tables? From the records I read off what others did to get into wrong contracts. Wait until I stop laughing.

IS TOP HORSE

TORONTO (CP)—Queen's Own established himself beyond doubt as the champion three-year-old of Canada when he galloped off with the big money Wednesday in the 10th running of the Brockers Stakes. Ridden by the most persistent of Queen's Own's rivals during the season, finished second, beaten two lengths, while Hi Laude, from Vancouver, was two lengths further away in third place.

It was Queen's Own's eighth victory in 12 tries this season and moved his 1954 earnings to more than $20,000. He has been second on three occasions and the time he finished out of the money in 1954 was when he ran in the Dwyer Stakes at New York.

AT THE CAPITOL—Jack Mahoney, Peggie Castle and William Bishop in a dramatic scene from "Overland Pacific", United Artists film in color opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Captain Kidd and Slave Girl" in glorious color, starring Anthony Dexter and Eva Gabor. Both hits are first city showings. Special added attraction Saturday, Gene Autry in "Wagon Team".

Charles Laughton co-star of "Hobson's Choice", Dramatic Art Gold-Medal Student

Charles Laughton was born in Scarborough, Yorkshire, on July 1st , 1899. He was educated at Stonyhurst College and studied at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art where he won the Gold Medal in his final year. In 1928..he scored a personal success in "The Man Who Red Hair", a play which was followed with "Alibi" and as Tony Prell in "On The Spot" on the stage.

In 1931 Laughton starred in "Payment Deferred" which was later transferred to New York. He returned to England in 1933 to play in "The Private Life" at the Theatre Company until 1936. He next went to the Comedie Francaise in Paris where he made theatrical history by being the first English actor to play French roles in that theatre.

Charles Laughton made his screen debut in English studios in "Piccadilly in 1929 and for some years alternated between England and America. He first became a star of the first rank when Sir Alexander Korda cast him as Henry VIII in "The Private Life of Henry VIII", a classic performance in a classic film which still holds its place among the great films of all time. Following this film in 1932 Laughton went back to Hollywood where he starred in "White Woman", "The Barretts of Wimpole Street", "Ruggles of Red Gap", "Les Miserables", "Mutiny on the Bounty."

In 1936 he returned to his native country to star in Korda's "Rembrandt." He remained in England to found—with Erich Pommer—the Mayflower Pictures Corporation, for which company he made among others "Vessel of Wrath", "St. Martin's Lane", "The Beachcomber", "Jamaica Inn". He has since starred in numerous American films.

Charles Laughton is married to Elsa Lanchester with whom he first appeared in "The Private Lives of Henry VIII". He currently stars with John Mills and Brenda Dalamie in David Lean's big comedy success "Hobson's Choice", showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre

AT THE McCARTHY

A Technicolor Cure for the Blues

As gay as one of Kenneth More's many-hued waistcoats, as boisterous as a Varsity rag, "Doctor in The House," now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, makes a firm claim to be the film of the best British comedy of the year.

It gets off to a rousing start by featuring a brilliant star cast—Dirk Bogarde, Kenneth More, Donald Sinden, Donald Houston, Muriel Pavlow, Kay Kendall and James Robertson Justice. And all of them are in top form, revelling in this high-speed comedy of life among the medical students.

For Ken More, this is a riotous follow-on from his record-breaking "Genevieve" and he romps through the film in his most engaging style. As one of his most studious companions, Dirk Bogarde can also claim "Doctor in The House" as another personal success. It gives Dirk a fine chance to prove that he is a light humorist of considerable talent, and in the delicate romantic moments with Muriel Pavlow, Bogarde brings added smoothness to the picture.

A "flying colors" production, "Doctor in The House" affords first-rate opportunities for all the performers—Sinden as a student with an eye for a pretty nurse, and Houston as a student more interested in the shape of a rugged ball, complete the well-balanced quartet.

Kay Kendall's glamorous charms adds gracefully into view for some of the film's funniest moments, and there is a fine lingering gem of a portrait from James Robertson Justice. As an emiment surgeon who takes the students' side whenever he feels the Dean of the Hospital is being too much of a disciplinarian, he will win many hearts.

The well-knit script based on the best-selling book of the same title, captures all the happy-go-lucky spirit of the original novel, and Ronald Neame Thomas has never allowed its essential speed to slacken for a second.

Although Shy Maggie McNamara Stands Up to Her Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The public thinks of most actresses as rather brazen extroverts. Here's one who is shy—Maggie McNamara.

Actually, she's a paradox. Although she is admittedly shy, she has stood up to her studio in manner that has amazed Hollywood.

There can be no doubt about her shyness. She talks in a soft voice, thinks any attention and seems uneasy in an interview.

"I started as a model," she explained. "When you're a model, you don't have to talk. It was ideal for me."

HAD NEVER ACTED

Her photo appeared on a magazine cover and movie offers came her way. She declined them, having never acted in her life—"not even in the high school plays." So she took private dramatic lessons for three years. Then followed an impressive job in a Broadway flop and 13 months in the Chicago company of "The Moon is Blue." Twentieth Century-Fox signed her to a contract.

Her first movie was a loan-out to her old stage employers for the film version of "The Moon is Blue." The part won her an academy nomination, and no one was more surprised than Maggie.

After her first film, her studio assigned Maggie to "King of the Khyber Rifles." She astounded them by refusing the role.

In a new assertiveness to turn down her first role at a studio is nothing short of treason, but she stuck to her guns and Terry Moore drew the role. I might add that Maggie's judgment was operated. The picture and the role were duds.

SCORES HIT

Maggie languished happily on suspension for a few weeks, then got back in the studio's good graces with an assignment in "Three Coins in the Fountain." She scored another hit and is now playing Edwin Booth's wife in "Prince of Players."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 24, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A generous outlook for personal and business activities. Though it may not be too easy to sight your direction with care and keen thinking you can come up with the right answers.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Use your God-given talents and innate intelligence properly, and you can make this promising day just about what you want it to be. But be patient; don't rush headlong into action without first analyzing situations.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't miss out on good chances now. Stick to the right course, and reward will be yours. Caution in purposeless things.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may find today a little more difficult than usual but you will also find that, as the hours progress, prospects grow more generous, success more attainable. Follow scheduled plans.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A combination of influences may lead to confusion in some matters now, so think clearly, calmly and unselfishly. You will fathom things out and come to the right conclusion. ↑

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Beware of risky undertakings now. Don't be hurried or worried into decisions. Give due consideration to all problems. Have confidence; smile.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Don't let the first glance at this day's demands scare you. Just use good sense; there are good influences to aid you now, so take the bull by the horns—you'll win.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Vibrations point to good business progress. Keep cool, think smartly, manage sensibly. Busy hours may have some unfriendly rays but they are only temporary. Most of the day is benefic.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Outlook clear, promising. It won't be difficult to find the right road to follow. Just use your good mind, Get going early but don't be careless or hasty.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—If you plan your day's tasks wisely you can expect fine results from honest effort. An excellent period for business, military planning, financial matters, also personal affairs.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Today's influences stress a need for caution in all financial matters and in property and real estate transactions. Take time to decide. Sound thinking before acting needed.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Take reasonable chances occasionally. Make good preparations; investigate, then strike out with confidence. It is likely you'll make good. Nothing risked, nothing gained.

YOU BORN TODAY have a magnetic personality; can accomplish in almost anything to which you set your mind. You have fine qualities; are honest, sincere, careful in habits, manners; are greatly interested in the welfare of humanity, devoted to family and religion. You should constantly strive to improve your education. Try not to be over-critical; it will cause you to be misunderstood. Overlook others' failings and don't allow unpleasant things to upset you, perhaps hurt what can be a happy prosperous life. Birthdate of: Zachary Taylor, 12th U.S. president; Marcus A. Hanna, American statesman.

Italian Premier Pledged Support In Scandal Crisis

ROME (AP) — Reinforcements rallied today around Italy's premier-designate to beat down the leftist attack over the Wilma Montesi scandal.

While the country awaited President Giovanni Gronchi's reply to Premier-designate Mario Scelba's request to form a new cabinet, Scelba's minor-party allies said they would support him.

Without this support, should demands for a vote of confidence be granted, Scelba's coalition government would fall.

But Liberals, Social Democrats and Republicans made it clear this morning that they stand by Scelba's Christian Democrats in the Montesi affair.

WILL NOT BOW

They declared in their various organs and newspapers that they would not bow to what Social Democrat Giuseppe Saragat called "agglomerated manslaughter," for "having on April 10, 1953, caused the death by drowning of Wilma Montesi . . . abandoning her, believing her already dead, out there at the sea . . . "

Montagna was charged with aiding and abetting by using his high connections to try to hush up the case.

Raffaele Sepe, the magistrate who investigated, resulted in young Piccioni's and Montagna's arrest, spent three hours questioning them in Regina Coeli prison (Queen of Heaven) jail.

Papers reported that 13 subpoenas have been issued for other figures in the 17-month-old mystery including several police personages.

MORE TO COME

There are signs that the investigation is far from over. Sepe is reported to have ordered another autopsy on Wilma's body to ascertain the exact cause of death.

The whole case opened up about one year ago, five months after her body was found on the deserted beach south of Rome, when journalist Silvano Muto made an article alleging that Wilma, a party girl, died after a dose of sex and orgy at a high-society hunting lodge.

Muto, whose name now has become almost forgotten in the chain reaction of sensation, was put on trial last March for publishing false news. The trial suddenly stopped when Muto told Ugo Sandalo Cagio, Montagna's ex - mistress, a reporter was ready to spill the "brains" of a dope ring which preyed on young women and that Piccioni was the "assassin."

Will Star Dance On Yonge Street Next Month

TORONTO (CP) — There'll be dancing on old Yonge street next month.

For one night the city's main north-south boroughfare will be transformed into an open-air ballroom as residents celebrate the official re-opening. Repaving of the street is nearing completion after being torn up to make way for construction of the Toronto subway.

Plans prepared by the Downtown Businessmen's Association for celebration ceremonies have been tentatively set for Oct. 15, also include a city hall ceremony, two days of parades with bands and floats and a beauty contest.

Earlier Wednesday the board of control recommended a $2,500 city grant toward the cost of the festivities. It also sounded a note it once: work will start again next spring.

Archbishop Thanks Engineer

WINIPEG (CP) — Engineer W. H. Thomas heard someone calling him.

He looked down from the cab of his locomotive in the Canadian National Railways yards here, and there stood the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"Just a minute," said Thomas, "I'll be right down."

"I'll come up there if you like," shouted the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Stomach Disorders, Gas Headache, Rheumatic Pain

Had Indigestion, Heartburn, Dizzy Spells, Nervous Fatigued. Now Tries 1st Real Relief by Taking Synilons.*

MRS. ELIZABETH GARDNER

Here's good news for sufferers from functional stomach, kidney and liver disorders and their many associated symptoms. Thousands of men and women say Synilons Herbal Compound has given them prompt relief. Such is the experience of Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, Campbell Street, Strathroy, Ontario, as reported recently.

Felt Sick All Over

"I suffered on and off with stomach trouble that I would get awful gas, indigestion, sour acid risings after eating the lightest foods. Headaches and dizzy spells plagued me. Rheumatic pains in my nerves were so severe I couldn't sleep. I was sick all over. I started on Synilons that night, pains and misery left and I felt extremely fatigued from the time I'd get up until I went to bed.

Friend Advised Synilons

"Medicine that I took did not help me but my friend, Mrs. Lee, suggested that I try Synilons. It only a short time after I began taking the medicine I felt like a changed person. My food was digested better, my heartburn and sourness had cleared up. Druggist

Accused Denies Statement Of Police Officer

WINDSOR (CP)—Joseph Adams, 23, of Windsor Wednesday denied the statement of a Windsor police officer that he had beaten his own child to death April 26.

The officer's testimony came early on the second day of Adam's trial for murder of the six-weeks-old child. He pleaded not guilty.

Patrol Sergeant James Joseph Roberts said Adams came to police headquarters early on the morning in question and said he beat his child to death because it would not stop crying.

Adams claimed he told the officer he thought his baby was dead. Police later found the child in a crib in the kitchen of the apartment. Adams said he answered yes when another officer asked if he had killed his child.

Previous medical testimony indicated the child died from external injuries caused by a fall or beating.

Church Mission Schools Closing In South Africa

PRETORIA (AP)—Schoolbells in South Africa are tolling out the last days of church mission schools.

The missionary schools, which have educated black African children for more than a century, are headed for extinction under a new education law centralizing education of all natives under government control.

Church groups, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, have voiced strong protests to the new law. The churchmen are still in the dark as to the full scope of the legislation but insist it will mean inferior education for the natives. The opposition to Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's nationalist regime takes the same stand as the churches.

The plan is part of Malan's apartheid (racial segregation) program. Black and white children never sat side by side in the mission schools, but the change is designed to put all native education in the hands of the department of native affairs. Supporters of the law say its aim is to educate the native for his "proper role" in society. Its opponents say that means a permanent category of second-class citizens.

"As a first step in the changeover, education subsidies to church groups are being reduced. Up to now these subsidies covered 100 per cent of the teachers' salaries plus an amount equivalent to rent on church-built schools.

Rev. Spencer Hall, director of Anglican missions in one diocese, told an opposition newspaper, the Johannesburg Star, that the decreased subsidy "is a process of slow strangulation." He said it would be impossible for the missionary bodies to furnish more money to make up the difference.

The Catholic Times of South Africa, commenting in an editorial on South Africa's "leanings" toward fascism, asked whether the government is more concerned with "state monopoly of education than with increased educational facilities for the Bantu (native)?"

Defending the changeover, C.W. Prinsloo of the native affairs department said that "although the missionary effort in past years is highly appreciated here, at this stage it is beginning to retard education." He added that the changeover "is a logical development in all democratic countries, with the state responsible for education."

Says Brother Black With Rage Day He Was Shot

GUELPH (CP)—Mrs. Ross Overland said in court Wednesday that her brother, John Mackle, was "black with rage" the day he was fatally shot.

She said there was "always trouble" in her farm family farm home between Mackle and her son, Jeffrey Robertson, 22, on trial for manslaughter in connection with Mackle's death.

She testified that on the day of the slaying, Sept. 5, 1953, Mackle hit the youth in the face and threw dishes at him.

Robertson was originally charged with murder. He was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to seven years but was granted a new trial on an appeal.

After Mrs. Overland testified Wednesday defence and crown council D. J. P. Kelly then adjourned the case until today when he will deliver his charge to the jury.

Mrs. Ruth Wood Fatally Injured In Car Collision

Car in Which Woman Riding Hits Transport on Dundas St.

Mrs. Ruth Wood, 33, of 48½ Bridge Street East, was fatally injured early this morning when the car in which she was riding went out of control and sideswiped a highway transport on Dundas Street East.

Mrs. Wood suffered severe lacerations of the head and face and also a fractured leg when the side of the car collided with the transport. She died on the operating table at Belleville hospital three hours after the accident.

Police said that Mrs. Wood had been riding in a car driven by Stanley G. Bremner, 27, of 277 John Street. The eastbound car, bound to the north of Trenton, mounted the curb and knocked over a parking sign and postal letter box, then sideswiped the dual wheels of the transport tractor before crashing head-on into the rear duals of the trailer.

THROWN FROM CAR

Mrs. Wood was thrown out of the wrecked vehicle and was found in a puddle of oil and grease, which had run from the wrecked motor. Bremner also suffered injuries to his left arm, with about 20 stitches being required to close the gash. Both Mrs. Wood and Bremner were taken to hospital in Bush's Ambulance.

Damage to the transport amounted to only $300 while the car, owned by Goodhead and Montreal, escaped injuries. Jones-dennis said he swung toward the south side of the street in his effort to avoid a collision when he saw the car approaching.

An inquest was ordered by Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon S. Robertson, the preliminary hearing being scheduled for this morning.

Police Constable S. Cook investigated the accident.

Police noted that it was the first traffic fatality in the city this year.

BORN IN CITY

The late Mrs. Wood was born in Belleville 33 years ago, being the daughter of Mrs. Vera White and the late William White and has lived practically all her life, where she was well known and held many friendships.

She was a member of Calvary United Church, Belleville.

Surviving are her husband and son, Ronald, at home; her father, Mr. White, Arnprior; two brothers, Mr. Arnprior; two brothers, John and James White, both of Belleville, Ward White of Rosslin, Charles and Roy White of Ballycanet, Wilmot White of Alberta, and four sisters, Mrs. Ethel Hall of Belleville, Mrs. Iawa and Vera and Marion of Sidney.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Varsity Riot Leaders Face Fines, Expulsion

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, said today disciplinary action will be taken against 200 engineering students who staged a march of destruction through the university Thursday.

The students roamed through University College and other buildings, tearing posters and notices from the walls. An elderly professor, W. J. McAndrew, was knocked down and required several stitches to close a head wound.

The discipline will mean fines, suspension or expulsion but Dr. Smith said he could not yet confirm it will take. "that is our problem," he said.

The president, who addressed the students Wednesday on good manners, said violence and wilful damage will be "exterminated" from the college.

Student reaction also was severe. Martin Friedland, president of the student body, said an immediate apology will be demanded from the engineering society. The undergraduate daily newspaper, The Varsity, condemned the students' action.

In addition to tearing down notices and injuring the professor, the students carried off drapes, a table and a letter box. They also upset piles of chairs and tore the head off a drinking fountain.

Accused Given Six Years For Manslaughter

GUELPH (CP)—Jeffrey Robertson, 22, of Erin township Thursday was convicted of manslaughter in the first shooting of his kind in the year. He was sentenced to six years' imprisonment by Mr. Justice Ivo D. V. Kelly.

Robertson was originally charged with murder in connection with the death of his uncle, John Mackie, Sept. 5, 1953.

At a trial here ago he was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to seven years but later was granted a new trial.

Mr. Justice Kelly said he did not disagree with Ontario Supreme Court jury's verdict. He told Robertson: "You are fortunate not to be charged with a more serious offence."

BLACK WITH RAGE"

Robertson's mother, Mrs. Ross Overland, testified Wednesday her brother was in a black rage the day, he was shot. She said there was a fight between Mrs. Mackie and her son in their farm home.

The night of the shooting, she said, her brother started throwing rocks at Robertson after he had hit the youth in the face.

Later, she heard Mackie threatening to kill Robertson and said: Then, she added, she heard the report of the gun and saw her son run out of the house.

The jury deliberated four hours and 50 minutes.

Sawmill Burns

TORONTO (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin Thursday destroyed the Longlac Pulp and Paper Company sawmill at Longlac, 150 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

Company officials in Toronto, confirming a Longlac report that the mill burned, said stocks of lumber were not damaged. An investigation is under way to determine the exact loss but may be $200,000 to $250,000 but no final figure is available yet.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny, warm weather is expected in Ontario today. It will continue in southern Ontario on Saturday, but rain is expected during the night and Saturday morning in northern Ontario and on Saturday night in the south. Frost is unlikely tonight or Saturday night.

PEARSON FEELS GERMAN PARLEY MOST IMPORTANT

First of 8 Ministers To Arrive in London

LONDON (CP) — L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, arrived today for next week's West German rearmament conference and declared: "I feel that there has been a more important meeting in recent years."

Pearson, first to arrive of eight foreign ministers due here for the opening of the conference next Tuesday, made immediate arrangements to see Anthony Eden, host foreign minister.

The other countries at the conference will be the United States, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The task of the meeting, expected to last about five days, is to work out how West Germany is to be armed now that the European Army plan is dead.

In a brief interview with a BBC television commentator, Pearson said he believes there has been some slight lessening of world tension in the last year or so.

Canada, like other powers attending the conference, is not ready agreed to Eden's proposal that West Germany, freed from occupation should be rearmed as a full member of the Atlantic and European defence forces.

Main problem before the ministers will be to devise a system preventing arms limits on Germany which cannot be represented equally with equal, sovereign states with them, but they insist that Germany must not be allowed to build up possible rebirth of nationalist militarism in Germany.

Pope Speaks Despite Advice Of His Doctor

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (CP)—Despite his doctors' advice to rest, Pope Pius today delivered an address to members of a world scientific congress.

In a firm voice, he cautioned them that the "new and wonderful" physics conference that "the scientist may not be worthy of God's name if he does not elevate himself above technical problems." He was due to address officers in three days, and the longest in his reign. He has been ill and suffering from a minor ailment a week ago.

Physicians have ascribed the ailment, marked by occasional retching, to the nervous shock suffered the Pontiff last winter, to fatigue. They advised him to get more rest.

In his address today, the Pope said: "Science is not for science particularly for "the personal initiative and perseverance of each one whose place can be taken by no machine."

"But it is deluding for him who wraps himself up in this areas and in this personal exterior perspective," he warned, adding:

"Only the human spirit, however much genius it may possess, remains subject to the superior order of a divine creator in all its attributes and activities."

Mother Earth's Slip Is Showing, She Is Slowing Down Say Experts

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP) — Mother Earth's slip is showing. She's getting just a bit tipsy. And she's slowing down—but she's getting longer than 24 hours.

Just looking out the window, you wouldn't notice any of this. However, scientists in Rome this week have come up with three explanations reported that their instruments and calculations have definitely proved the theories.

Take the one about the day getting longer. That's the simplest change of the three, but in the long-run effect on gravity or ocean movements it might prove to be the most important.

Prof. Enrico Rovelle, delegate from the U.S. National Research Council, and Dr. Walter H. Munk of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, both of La Jolla, Calif., found that for the last 3,000 years the earth has been turning steadily slower on its axis.

The average slowdown amounts to 31½ seconds each 1,000 years. That in a year works out pretty small, but the two experts reported that the rate of slowdown appears to be steadily increasing. What causes it?

Revelle said the two major factors responsible for the earth's slowing down the earth's turn on its axis, and the torque exerted on the earth's spin by the sun and lunar atmospheric ties. Other possible factors are changes in density, changes in the sea level, and transfers on momentum between earth's and atmosphere.

It was on that last point that Revelle and Munk reported the most greatest change. They said there is a slip amounting to about 75 feet between the earth's outer skin and her inner core.

The other change in density, a lengthening tip in the earth's axis. Revelle and Munk reported that over thousands of years this shift at the pole probably has averaged about a centimeter a year. They said it seems to be increasing: Estimates differed on the present rate. Some put it as little as 3½ cm in recent times to 10 centimetres (four inches) a year.

Investigate Explosion of Jet Fuel Tank Which Killed 30

BITBURG, Germany (AP)—The known death toll from Thursday's explosion at a storage tank for jet fuel near here was set today at 30, as French and German authorities investigated whether there was a possibility that sabotage caused the disaster.

Twenty-two Germans and eight Frenchmen lost their lives and five persons this morning were believed missing. Eighteen others suffered severe injuries as the tank blew up during a demonstration of fire-fighting equipment in the concrete shaft.

The 120,000-gallon tank was located near the Luxembourg frontier of the French occupation zone. It was operated by a company of French soldiers under the Republic of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bitburg is a terminal for the NATO pipeline which reaches across France to the Atlantic supply ports...French authorities are in charge of the line but the United States Army has a share in the jurisdiction over fuel reserves.

French authorities, still trying to piece out the tragedy, said a German firm was demonstrating fire-fighting apparatus as a crowd of Germans and some French looked on. Many were reported standing on the tank.

Suddenly the tank blew up with a thunderous roar, sending a column of black smoke nearly two miles into the air. Flames shot up 1,000 feet and licked out from the wreckage to threatened adjacent storage tanks all filled with highly volatile jet fuel.

French, German and American rescue and fire crews moved in. While the injured were being cared for, workmen drained the biggest tank in the area into a small river.

Three hours after the explosion the fire was under control but it continued to smolder. Today black smoke still drifted over the disaster scene.

The blast tore a hole 35 feet in diameter in the tank's thick roof. Pieces of steel-reinforced concrete, the tank had been sunk in a hilltop camouflaged with fir trees. It was surrounded by eight feet high encircles the site.

The explosion apparently confiscated the cameras of several German newsreel and television photographers, but returned them after several hours.

Detective Posing as Girl Captures Alleged Bank Bandit

KEEWATIN (CP)—A suspected bank bandit was lured into a trap here by a policeman who posed in the darkness as a girl hinging him a getaway car.

The trap was sprung Thursday night at what police said was to have been a girl friend's rendezvous with the suspect on the outskirts of this tourist town in the northwestern Ontario lake country.

Police said a man driving the parked car he was captured by, Constable Robert Gallerneau, in bushes. Inside the car was Bob McGarva, an ex-convict and hospital orderly. His disguise was a woman's bandana; he depended the dark coat and hair by a scarf.

Police charge the man they arrested to the latter with the armed robbery of shotgun who carried out a $5,000 robbery Tuesday at the Keewatin branch of the Bank of Montreal, Toronto.

The girl they describe as his sweetheart, 21 - year - old Rhoda Joyce Millard of Deaman island, B.C., was arrested in St. Boniface Wednesday with what police say was part of the holdup money, $1,500.

They said she told of the planned rendezvous on the Keewatin beach road while she was being returned to Keewatin under escort to face a charge of receiving stolen money.

Mrs. Millard is expected to appear in police court today.

The police spokesman here have patrolled the woods and maintained road blocks. They said the bandit fled in the car he commandeered area Tuesday but went to St. Boniface, Man., to see his girl.

On her return, they said, she was to park on the beach road at a prearranged spot, flash the car lights and then light a cigaret.

Instead, they said, Const. Gallerneau parked in a private car almost the road. As he paid, the policeman slipped from the back seat and hid in the bush.

Then Constable McGarva waited for more than an hour. Just as he was going to drive away to try another spot, he heard a voice. A man approached the car and was nabbed in a struggle.

Sgt. Roger Richardson of the OPP said the suspect had two guns with him when captured, a sawed-off shotgun and a .38 calibre revolver. He was also carrying a large sum of money, Richardson said.

Fear Bloody Week-End Ahead As Viet Nam Cabinet Changed

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam late today tossed out his old cabinet and formed a new one of 22 members amid rumblings that bloody weekend may be in prospect.

Diem retained 11 of his old ministers but admitted for the first time that communists are in the powerful Cao Dai and Hao Hao sects.

He named himself minister of defence but under pressure gave the plums of minister of state and minister of interior to two generals. One is a Cao Dai and the other former chief of staff.

Announcement of the new cabinet was preceded by the resignation of vice-premier Nguyen Van Xuan, who was appointed only last Saturday as an effort to patch up Diem's quarrel with the army chief of staff, Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh.

The situation in torn Viet Nam tonight is uncertain. The army chief of staff is admittedly unhappy about the new cabinet, which puts the Cao Dai and Hao Hao representatives in strategic spots.

Both sects are strongly anti-Communist and wield large influence among parts of the Cochin Chinese people.

The situation is grave. There is open unrest in some camps where refugees from North Viet Nam have been quartered.

The refugees are unhappy over the settlement of the agreement. Some say they want to return to the north, where at least they had a few chickens and a bit of land and the sustenance of life which they say the French (about 20 cents) a day given to each adult in the south do not provide.

Perhaps the key to the whole situation lies with Ninh, the 43-year-old leader of the Viet Nam's 300,000-man army. He said today in a private interview that he will "wait and see" whether he and the army should "do something for the country."

UNITED CHURCH KNOCKS SUNDAY SPORTS ON TV

Council Splits Over Rightness of Act

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — The United Church of Canada called on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Thursday to quit telecasting commercial sports on Sunday because it keeps young people away from church.

The church night sitting of the 1954 biennial general council gave rapid approval of a series of resolutions submitted by the new education and social service session committee.

The 375 delegates from 11 conferences across the country agreed to dissolve the 16th council by midnight Sunday. Some left for home Thursday night.

CLIMAXES DAY

The resolution on televised sports climaxed a day that saw the council split over the rightness of Ontario's Lord's Day Act, approve the appointment of an assistant secretary to the board of pensions and adopt a radically new supervision scheme that spelled the end of honorary retired clergymen and broader coverage.

The council took note of CBC football broadcasts from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and Hockey Night in Canada "in accordance of the Lord's Day "in a way that is either contrary to the law of the country or to the spirit and use of it."

It said the telecasts reached some areas of Ontario that had voted against Sunday sports and now there was a possibility that hockey would follow in the winter.

VOLUNTARY ASSISTANCE

Telecast sports, it said, "attract many children and young people and thus interfere with their attendance at church and Sunday school." It wanted the CBC chairman and board of directors to "take this protest into their communion."

The council also took note of drinking which it said was "symptomatic of a deeper problem in society and asked that all religious bodies stand for "voluntary total abstinence."

The council also proposed an increase in the taxes on beer, wine and spirits, and a higher sales tax of liquor on trains and issued an appeal to federal and governmental authorities" to ban liquor advertising. It also condemned the sale of liquor in grocery stores.

ACT AMENDMENT

The night session also put through an amendment to the Lord's Day Act. The amendment was submitted by Dr. A. E. Kerr, the president of Mount Allison university.

The Lord's Day Act permits certain sports on Sunday, like baseball, but prohibits others, such as horse racing.

St. Catharines Man Is Facing Murder Charge

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — John Ganjalouski, 65-year-old Grantham township resident, Thursday was committed to stand trial on a charge of murdering his 44-year-old son Eli. His case will be heard at the fall assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Eli Ganjalouski, father of four children, was found dead of a gunshot wound in his home which he and his family shared with his father.

At the preliminary hearing Thursday, Mrs. Ganjalouski, widow of the dead man, described events leading to the death of her husband. She testified that on the day the alleged attack occurred her husband's mood was in an argumentative mood and she had to separate the pair three or four times.

She said she was in the kitchen when she heard the shot and came once more in another room and a cry for help from her husband. She said Eli Ganjalouski fell and cried out "I'm stabbed."

Mrs. Ganjalouski said she tried to call the police but her father-in-law told her "you call the police and I will kill you."

Police Sgt. William Watson testified he arrested the elder Ganjalouski home it was apparent the victim's father was intoxicated. He said a blood - stained hunting knife with stains of blood on the blade was found in a pocket on the elder Ganjalouski.

URGES JAIL TERMS

LONDON (Reuters)—The Church of England newspaper has called for jail terms for persons named co-respondents in divorce cases, and also urges stiffer divorce laws.

Canada Backs U.S. Plan For Peaceful Use Of A-Power

Dulles Advocates Action With or Without Russians

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States pushed new plans today to set up an international agency to foster peaceful use of atomic power, with or without Russian co-operation.

State Secretary Dulles outlined the four-point proposal in a major American policy speech in the ninth United Nations General Assembly Thursday afternoon.

Developing the ideas set forth in President Eisenhower's speech to the UN last December, Dulles called for:

1. Creation of an international agency to include "nations from all regions of the world." Dulles said it is hoped the agency will start work "as early as next year."

OPENS SCHOOL

2. Holding of an international scientific conference under UN auspices next spring to consider the "whole vast subject" of the peaceful use of atomic power.

3. Opening in the U.S. early next year of a nuclear training school "where students from abroad may learn the working principles of atomic energy as they relate to peaceful uses."

4. Invitations to "a substantial number" of foreign medical and surgical experts to work with "atomic energy techniques in American cancer hospitals.

CANADA BACKS PLAN

Canada threw her support behind the American proposal in a policy statement by External Affairs Minister Pearson, who told the assembly the plan could succeed even without Russian co-operation. The Canadian minister said his delegation hopes the plan "will prove to be an important step in the liberation of atomic energy from its destructive uses for the benefit of mankind."

Britain's minister of state Selwyn Lloyd said his country would join such a group, and unofficially, it was said that all seven countries represented by Dulles have agreed to come into the agency. Besides Britain and the United States are France, Australia, Belgium, Portugal and South Africa.

Dulles' proposals brought immediate expressions of approval from many other UN delegates. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the UN, in a quick review of the UN steering committee to put the proposed plan on the assembly's agenda as an "important and urgent question."

MEETS SATURDAY

The top - level UN executive group, in a two - hour session after Dulles spoke, broke its five-day deadlock and voted unanimously to clog on the atomic plan for Saturday.

The 15-member committee, which decides whether to include items on the assembly agenda, failed to act on Russia. Debate on the agenda item may show what position the Soviet Union intends to take in the later assembly debate. Russia's Andrei Vishinsky declined to discuss the speech with reporters.

Canadians to Move Clocks Back Hour As Nation Reverts to Standard Time

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A majority of Canadians will make a slight change in their living habits Sunday when the nation reverts to standard time.

By moving their clocks back an hour, they regain that time lost when they went on daylight time in April.

Some areas will make the change at 12:01 a.m. and others at 2 a.m.

Also to complicate things for many to many areas instead of conflict, caused when railways, steamship companies, municipalities two provinces—Alberta and Prince Edward Island—remain on standard daylight time.

In Alberta and Prince Edward Island where daylight time is banned by law, several cities and towns which unofficially went on "fast" time, will make the change. Charlottetown citizens adopted daylight time but municipal and provincial offices kept to standard time.

Saskatchewan was split into time islands when some municipalities went on mountain time—the only legal office hours in Montreal.

Five Are Killed By Nationalist Air Assault

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Five persons were killed, nine were injured in a bombing attack by Chinese Nationalist planes attacking Communist shipping off the mainland, the Communist New China news agency said today.

It said the raids, launched earlier this week against the Amoy area and on south and central Fukien opposite the Nationalist island headquarters on Formosa, were made by "training planes" which received "severe punishment" from anti-aircraft fire.

The Hong Kong-language commercial newspaper Kung Sheung Yat Po reported today that the Communists have ordered 50,000 armed motor junks be built in Shanghai, and claimed this "significant in view of repeated Communist threat to invade Formosa."

BELYEA WITHDRAWS

TORONTO (CP)—Controller Roy Belyea said Thursday he will not contest the next mayoralty election. He will be candidate for a board of control instead. His announcement came after the first two candidates for mayor—present mayor Leslie Saunders and former alderman Nathan Phillips.

Find Bodies Of Climbers Lost in 1880

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP)—Arnold Haller, a young Swiss doctor, was one of Switzerland's most experienced mountain climbers.

One summer day he set out with two equally experienced guides to climb the Zwigschoechorn (Eerie Snow peak) near Grindelwald. None of the party was ever seen or heard from.

The date was July 14, 1880.

Thursday, 74 years later, guides found perfectly preserved bodies at the foot of the Lauteraar glacier.

3 ROSES PICKED FROM GARDEN

Mrs. Thomas Wren, 153 McDonald Avenue, was disappointed on Thursday afternoon when she was unable to get downtown to get one of the roses offered by an appliance store, but her husband made her quite happy later in the evening. Mr. Wren went to the garden to pick some potatoes for a big family feast would damage them and while in his garden picked three beautiful roses that had bloomed earlier. Along with the potatoes the roses were taken to the house and they now hold a prominent place in the home. It is unusual for roses to be blooming at this season.

CLUB MEMBERS NEED TABLES

The members of the Senior Citizens' Club, sponsored by the Recreation Committee are eagerly looking forward to the opening of their fall term next month. At the present time there are 110 members in the club and this total has grown from a very few who wanted some entertainment to while away the leisure hours. The club has made rapid strides and the members, who are all over the 60-year mark, thoroughly enjoy the social evenings that are arranged for their pleasure. There is a great need for bridge and euchre tables and if any resident has one that is not being used, it would be appreciated by this club. If there are any old ones lying around that are serviceable a call to the Recreational Director at 5019 would be welcomed and the table will be picked up.

Obituary

EDWIN ALFRED KELLAWAY

Ill for the past four months Edwin Alfred Kellaway, 3 Everett street, well known west side grocer, died late Thursday in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Kellaway was born in Belleville 70 years ago, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kellaway. He had lived in the city all his life and had spent a lifetime in the grocery store and fruit business. He was a large property owner in the north end. He was a member of Christ Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edna Cook, two sons, Kenneth of Ottawa and Donald, at home, and four daughters, Mrs. Ernest (Edith) Kelley of Montreal, Mrs. Jack (Kathleen) Lowery, Belleville; Mrs. Jack (Evelyn) Goyer, Belleville, and Mrs. Roy (Lois)Sherring of Ottawa. One son Lorne was killed overseas while serving with the RCAF in 1943.

Also surviving is one sister Mrs. Charles Baker of Toronto.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home 38 Everett street; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. THOMAS NOBES (Boanlaw)

In ill health for the past ten years, Mrs. Anne Nobes of Boanlaw died Thursday at Kingston. She was in her 78th year.

Born in Marmora township she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell and had lived in the Boanlaw area practically all her life. She was a member of the Anglican Church. Her husband, the late Thomas Nobes died in 1938.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Sarah McMullen of Norwood, Mrs. Ross (Hilda) Carman of Marmora and Mrs. D. S. (Stella) Fraser of Boanlaw.

One sister, Mrs. Frank Roach of Saskatoon, and one brother Robert Bell of Blissfield, Ont., also survive; there are 20 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

MRS. MAGGIE M. MACDONALD (Stirling)

The funeral of Mrs. Maggie Mabel MacDonald of Frankford, wife of Dr. Austin Stanley, was held Wednesday from her residence to Stockdale United Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. K. H. Lackey and interment was made by Mr. Hugh Rose of Trenton.

The funeral was very largely attended by neighbors and acquaintances came to pay their last respects to Mrs. MacDonald, who was killed Monday in a car-train accident at Consecon. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The bearers were Willian Johnston, Arthur Plumpton, William Pitcher, Harold Pitcher, Roy Sherwood and Harold Hyatt. Interment was in Stockdale Cemetery.

MRS. ANNIE ELIZABETH (BARNETT) MUNRO

Following a lengthy illness Mrs. Annie Elizabeth (Barnett) Munro, 24 Victoria Ave., died at the Toronto General Hospital on Thursday.

Born in Coventry, England, 80 years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Mander, she had resided in Belleville for the past five years and previously had lived in Toronto. She was a member of the United Church and was the last of her family.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. A. (Annie) Hind and Mrs. Robert (Phyllis) Watson, both of Toronto, and four sons, Charles Barnett, Belleville, George Barnett, and John Barnett of Toronto, and Howard Munro, of Toronto.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. HANNAH AUGER

MARMORA—Mrs. Hannah Auger, a highly respected resident of Marmora for many years, died in a Kingston hospital on Tuesday afternoon in her 79th year. Her health had been indifferent for several years following her last illness of activity. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sullivan and was one of a family of twelve children. Her parents resided on a farm at Tiffin. She was married to the late Hugh Auger who died about forty-five years ago. She was a faithful and devout member of the Sacred Heart Church, and was a member of the Marmora sub-division of the Catholic Women's League, of the Altar Society and of the Holy League of the Sacred Heart. She is survived by two sons Charles of Kingston and Harold of Deloro. Also surviving is one brother Mr. Owen Sullivan, and six sisters, Mrs. Susan McWilliams, Toronto; Mrs. J. A. Shannon, Mrs. Agnes Blundell, Brockville; Misses Clara and Lena Sullivan, Marmora and Miss Teresa Sullivan, Kingston.

BERT SMITH (BUD) PATRICK (Frankford)

The funeral of Bert Smith (Bud) Patrick, of Frankford and Rossmore, fatally injured in an accident at the C.N.R. yards at Belleville on Monday was held from the Rowe Funeral Home Thursday afternoon where service was conducted by Mr. Hugh Rose of Trenton. Interment was in Frankford cemetery. The bearers were Murray Chard, Herman Chard, Floyd Foster, Robert Howard, Francis Armstrong and J. Mills.

Leo. W. Vezina Named President Corby Distillery

Mr. L. W. Vezina, of Montreal, former general manager and general manager of the H. Corby Distillery Ltd., has been elected president, replacing the late Senator Eiel Beauregard, Q.C. In addition to his new duties as president, Mr. Vezina will continue to act as general manager of the company.

Mr. Vezina joined the former parent company — Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Ltd. — in 1942 after many years of sales and industrial management experience. He is vice-president of National Sales Executive, vice president of Reddy Memorial Hospital, a director of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau, and a past president of the Montreal Advertising and Sales Executives Club.

Mr. Vezina is well-known in Belleville. He has presided over many conventions of this sales staff here and has acted in an after-dinner speaker capacity. His personality and friendly attitude towards all with whom he comes in contact have made him many friends in this city and district.

Firemen Save Valuable Barn As Stack Burns

A haystack on the farm of J. W. Sargent, 2nd concession of Sidney township, west up Glanmire, Thursday evening as city firemen and neighbors fought to save the Sargent barn only ten feet away from the blazing stack.

Two fire trucks from the city department and other tank trucks were used to provide water to save the barn.

"It was too close for comfort," stated Mrs. Sargent, "but the wind was in our favor and the firemen and neighbors were just wonderful."

Tomato Picking Being Held Up By Heavy Rains

Extremely wet weather during the past few weeks has held up tomato picking in the district according to the crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The report noted that very little progress has been made in tomato picking because of the rain.

The report also notes that a number of carloads of cattle have been shipped from the Prince Edward district at good prices. The apple crop is rising well and gives good promise.

In Hastings it is reported there is unusual interest in the more recent varieties of winter wheat, namely: Dawbul and Genesee. A larger acreage than usual of grain corn has been grown this year on many farms and neighboring farmers are watching the final results with keen interest

Cageman Saves Four Miners From Gassing

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—A Quemont Mines cageman Thursday was credited with saving four miners overcome by gassed underground in the mine when sulphide gas formed following blasting operations.

Taken to Rouyn Hospital were W. Trudeau, S. Cole, Maurice Parent and S. Guimond, all of Rouyn.

Cageman Francois Guimond of Rouyn received emergency telephone call from the miners and rescued them just as they were about to collapse. About 15 other miners slightly affected by the gas did not need hospital treatment.

TIN MINE CLOSES

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's biggest tin mine has ceased operations because of falling prices and fear of war. Government mines department sources today said the British-financed Thailand Tin Mines, Ltd., in Yala province near the Malayan frontier is discharging workers and auctioning equipment. The company was known for using some of the world's most modern tin extracting machinery.

Thailand is through Burma.

Four Delegates Will Attend Kiwanis Meet

DON E. ENGDAHL

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville will be represented at the 1954 convention of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime Kiwanis District at Montreal, September 26-29, club president Lawrence Kells announced today.

The local representatives to the convention will be Lieutenant-Governor W. G. Slade., Past Lt.-Gov. W. B. Lattimer, President Lawrence Kells and Kiwanian L. G. Foxard.

Mr. Don E. Engdahl, President of Kiwanis International, and widely known Pacific Northwest sash and door manufacturer, will be a featured speaker during the three-day meeting. Mr. Engdahl makes his home in Spokane, Wash. The convention will be held at the Mount Royal Hotel.

Belleville has 30 clubs, representing a membership of 7,824 businesses and professional leaders, will participate in the various sessions. Committee conferences, a discussion of plans for the coming years and election of officers will highlight the convention program.

Presiding over it will be Mr. A. E. Coulter, a recent visitor at the Belleville Club and governor of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime Kiwanis District and well-known Oshawa, Ontario, manufacturer. Governor Bert Coulter officiated at the chartering of the two new Kiwanis clubs in Bobcaygeon and Marmora-Deloro within the last month.

Mr. Engdahl, one of the principal speakers and the official representative of Kiwanis International, is the association's International President. He is a veteran of 20 years' Kiwanis work. During that time he has served as president of his home club in Spokane, Wash., governor of the Pacific Northwest District of Kiwanis, chairman of the International Committee on New Club building for the United States and International trustee and treasurer.

In 1944 Mr. Engdahl won the Spokane Junior Chamber of Commerce award for the city's most outstanding citizen under 35.

Kenneth Brown, a prominent Toronto, Ontario shoe merchant and trustee of Kiwanis International will also address the convention.

Mass X-Ray Survey Slated For Next Year

Study of several needy cases presented by members of the county of Hastings Tuberculosis Association at its regular meeting.

Art Bridge, in charge of Social Services of the association, told the meeting two of the cases required immediate help in either breadwinner of the family, or the breadwinner of the family, or the mother, was in a sanatorium.

President Neal Hallam was in the chair and paid especial tribute to Messrs. Ernie Thomas and Jim Brown, who came from Bancroft to attend.

The meeting endorsed the appeal letter for Christmas Seals which will be in the mails on November 5.

President Hallam told the meeting the association will hold a mass X-ray survey in May, 1955, in the county of Hastings. He urged all to avail themselves of this free service.

The association secretary, Mrs. N. Gault, who attended the Secretaries' Association Conference at Niagara Falls earlier in the month gave a report on the gathering. She pointed out that all those attending had the privilege of being received by Her Duchess of Kent, acting president of the National Association Presidents of Tuberculosis. Her Royal Highness wished the convention "all kinds of success in this most worthy work."

Police Blotter

City police arrested two men, John Clarence Jones, Pearl Street, Hillcrest, and Clarence Blakely, 206 Pine Street, on charges of breaking and entry at Webb Motors, corner of Station Street and Cannifton Road. It was reported that a TV aerial was taken from the premises.

Thieves also broke into Dussek Brothers plant on Station Street and took a quantity of petty cash from the office.

Milk bottle thieves were active in the West Hill area with one Cedar Street woman complaining that money, bottles and all had disappeared from her house. The bottles were found discarded a few doors away.

On Catherine Street boy Ross Walmsley was knocked from his bicycle at Bridge Street east, and Crestview Avenue, when his bike collided with a car driven by Fred Davis, 102 Humewood Drive. The boy was not injured, it was reported.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market climbed moderately today with fairly heavy fashion trading.

Western oils showed greatest strength their index climbing more than one-half a point in the first hour. Industrials and base metals had a good majority of gains and golds were mixed to a little higher.

First-hour volume was just over 728,000 shares.

Utilities, constructions and motors showed light strength and liquors were easier. Base metals gained fractions and pennies. Uraniums showed light strength and Manitouwadge and Bathurst stocks were mixed.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were unevenly steady to lower this week at the Ontario stockyards. Calves and hogs were generally steady while lambs were lower.

The run of 9,800 head of cattle was added to a carryover for 800 head from last week. Included in the fresh run were 2,600 head of western cattle, mostly stockers. An estimated 1,700 head, mostly stockers, will be unsold at the close. Another liberal supply of cattle and slow dressed beef trade proved to be the weakening factor on most classes of slaughter cattle. Top grades of steers were generally 25 cents lower, while red and red pearl ings were steady, cows were $1.50-2 lower while bulls were barely steady to 50 cents lower a hundredweight.

Prices: choice steers, all weights, $21-22; a few lots at $22.50; good steers $20-21; mediums down to $18; good heifers $18-18.50; choice heifers selling to $19; mediums down to $16; low mediums down to $14; common light boner steers and heifers were far too numerous and sold down to $8; good cows $10-10.50; an odd sale at $11; heavy cows up to $12; canners and cutters down to $7; good heavy bologna bulls were scarce at $13-12.50; an odd top at $13; butcher bulls up to $13.50; common light bulls down to $8; a few yearlings generally of ordinary quality with the few choice offers selling at $22.50-22.50; mediums down to $20. In the replacement classes good short-keep feeder steers $19-20; good stockers $18 .*19; mediums down to $16; common stockers as low as $12; good stock calves up to $20.

Calves were 3,000 head; a light run of good to choice veal calves sold actively at $22-23; mediums $14-21; common light dairy-type grass calves down to $10; weighty beef type calves were slow at $16-17.

A run of 3,100 head of hogs was received; prices were steady with $26.50; $1/- $25.50 several lots sold at $26.75 and $25.75 respectively; sows were unchanged at $17.

Sheep and lambs totalled 2,300 head; lambs opened $1 lower than last week's close; deliveries by rail were $21; by truck $20 for good ewes and wethers, bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; good heavy lambs were discounted as much as $3 a hundredweight; common to medium lambs $15-20; good light sheep $8-10; common sheep down to $4.

Is Inducted

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Walter W. Jarvis, formerly minister of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Fort William, was inducted Thursday as rector of the Anglican Parish Church of St. Thomas. He succeeds Canon C. J. S. Stuart who retired last July.

Visiting members of the parish saw their new rector inducted by Bishop Beverley of Toronto during a special ceremony here.

STARTS LIBEL ACTION

TORONTO (CP)—Allan A. Lamport, former mayor of Toronto Thursday started a damage action for $250,000 against the Toronto Globe and Mail, Mr. Lamport, now vice-chairman of the Ontario Transit Commission, claimed he was libelled in editorials last June 23 and 24.

Lewis Tells USW CIO Affiliation Their Misfortune

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Fiery John L. Lewis, who broke with both the CIO and AFL, has wired the CIO United Steelworkers Union that "you are unfortunate in your affiliation. . . ."

A telegram from the chieftain of the Independent United Mine Workers was read to the steel unions convention Thursday shortly after USW president David J. McDonald pleaded for a union of all American labor groups and declared he would not split with the CIO.

Both the wire and McDonald's speech drew loud applause from the 3,000 delegates representing the 1,200,000-member steel union that has been rumored ready to sever its ties with the parent CIO.

In his telegram to the USW, Lewis said in part:

"You are unfortunate in your affiliation with a federated group dominated by intellectual inebriates in frantic pursuit of butterflies of their delusions.

"Obviously, the strength of the steelworkers union is circumscribed and the degree of their progress limited by such associations, and it would seem that your convention could well devote itself to a discussion of this subject with the thought in mind of exercising a larger influence in the councils of the American labor movement."

Blames Husbands For Wives' Stand Against Fish

KEMPTVILLE (CP) — Fisheries Minister Sinclair blames the anti-fish attitude of Canadian women on husbands who return home from camping trips and confront their wives with a mess of uncleaned fish.

It is no wonder Canadian housewives do not like fish, he told the Eastern Ontario Municipal Electrical Association Friday. Husbands go fishing against fish and ducks and the blame must rest with men, Mr. Sinclair also said the abstinence of Roman Catholics from meat on Fridays was not necessarily a good thing for the fishing industry.

"Fish has become associated with penance," he said. "Protestants think that way too."

Five Degrees Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Frost finished off the last of vegetable crops Thursday night in the Caledon area, 40 miles northwest of here. Caledon reported five degrees of frost.

In the Holland Marsh area, 35 miles north of Toronto, a light frost slightly damaged lettuce.

The frost brightened autumn leaves for a weekend display of color.

Round Up Suspects

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Iranian army disclosed today that 13 suspects who plotted to sabotage the vast Abadan refinery were rounded up earlier this month.

An army spokesman said they were brought in Sept. 15 — the same day that Iran's chief counter-spy, Capt. Cheham Hossein Garagozloo, was locked up as the head of an alleged Soviet spy ring.

Bucky Harris Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bucky Harris quit today as manager of the Washington Senators. The American League baseball club said a successor probably will be chosen by next Monday.

Atomic Cannon Fired Third Time In War Games

SENNELAGER, Germany (AP) Another imaginary atomic blast hit the north German plain today as United States' atomic cannon opened fire for the third time in exercise Battle Royal.

Nearly 140,000 British, Canadian, Belgian, Dutch and American troops are engaged in West Europe's biggest test of atomic warfare techniques.

Each side has six American 280-m.m. guns capable of firing atomic shells, and they can call for RAF Canberra jet bombers to drop simulated A-bombs.

The aim is to train army staffs in the use of atomic weapons and units in the field to disperse and take precautions to minimize casualties.

So far only the defending "southland" force, consisting of 1st Belgian Corps and the Canadian Infantry Brigade, have used A-weapons. The first two shells were "fired" Thursday to slow the advance of the 7th British Armored Division leading the invasion of a combined British-Dutch army.

Bad weather interfered with a planned mass raid during the night by 85 Canberras, each capable of doing as much damage as a Second World War 1,000-bomber raid.

Only 25 of the bombers were able to get into the air from their bases in Britain, and only 10 reached Germany. Allied air forces working together to intercept the raiders, claimed they shot down seven.

Canada Becomes 'Sitting Duck' Of Manufacturers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Canada has become a "sitting duck" for world manufacturers because customs valuation system easy access to Canadian markets, K. V. Farmer, president of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association, said today.

"Some of the safeguards formerly enjoyed should be reinstated to give reasonable protection against the many millions of dollars worth of imports which each year enter our markets," he said in an address to the association's 10th annual meeting.

Mr. Farmer said the same problems that face the Canadian textile industry now endanger the electrical manufacturing industry in the future. Only the variety of the industry's manufacturing interests have saved it so far.

"We must maintain a healthy economy if we are to defeat the Communist threat which even now clouds our future."

Conservatives Set Up Federal Council in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Formation of a co-ordinating council to represent all federal ridings in British Columbia was announced here Thursday night by the federal faction of the Progressive Conservative party.

Lex Bewley, secretary of the newly - formed body, said the organization will work in conjunction with federal constituencies and will have sole jurisdiction over all federal activities in the province.

Plans for the council were drawn up by representatives of federal ridings who met here Wednesday with George Hees, national president of the Progressive - Conservative Association.

The move is the latest in a continuing dispute between federal and provincial members over jurisdiction of party affairs in B.C.

A STRANGE RULING

The Ontario Department of Highways maintains and operates free of charge a total of 73 roadside parks, which embrace a total of 1,674 acres.

This information is contained in a release from the Department which has come to the editorial desk.

In 1951 there were 54 such parks and 19 have been added since then.

"They have provided," says the release, "happy camping sites for families of modest means who would not otherwise be able to enjoy the best sort of outdoor living and recreation."

There may be some who will question the Department's right to engage in this type of work, who will maintain that the Department's business is to build and maintain the roads to provide camping facilities.

That view is understandable, but we prefer the Department's attitude, which obviously is that good roads are not an end in themselves but rather a means to an end and that one of the important ends they serve is to permit people to enjoy "the great Ontario outdoors, its lakes, rivers, rolling hills and beautiful forests." By providing these camping sites the Department is playing an important role.

There is, however, one rule which both puzzles and annoys us.

"In the majority of roadside park sites," the release notes, "Ontario residents are allowed to camp free for a period of two weeks, and visitors to the province are allowed a three-day stay."

What can be the reason behind such discrimination?

Those of a suspicious nature may interpret this rule to be a throw in the direction of the almighty dollar, tantamount to forcing the stay of our cousins from the south.

That suggestion seems to be belied by the Department's own statement that these parks provide "camping sites for families of modest means." If the Department had its eye on the tourist cash register, it would be more interested in luring and retaining visitors with well-stuffed wallets.

What, though, can be the reason? And, whatever the reason, can it possibly be a sound one?

These roadside parks are maintained out of the province's revenue, that is out of money collected from taxes of one kind or another. These taxes come, in the main, from residents. We are the owners of these parks. Yet our stay in these parks is limited to a fortnight, while a visitor from outside the borders of the province, who has made little or no contribution toward the cost of their upkeep, can stay in these parks for three weeks. Is this fair? We suggest it is not.

GENERALIZATION DANGEROUS

Latest organization to join in the crusade against enforced retirement at a fixed age is the International Association of Gerontologists. Some of these experts on the problems of old age voiced their approval of the old maxim, "It is better to wear out than rust out."

One doctor declared: "Retirement and enforced leisure destroy one's own goal. Those who remain healthy after the age of 65 wish to work, and they stay healthy because they work."

Some know of individual cases which tend to bear out this observation.

However, at the risk of repeating a statement made on a former occasion, might we suggest that the present campaign against retirement can be carried too far.

Some types of work may help to prolong life and may enable the worker to retain an interest in living. But some types of work do not.

There is a danger of present criticisms of retirement programs being carried too far.

Almost all of those who speak out against such programs are blessed in some of a type which challenges their abilities and continually stirs their interest.

There are, however, some kinds of employment which are extremely monotonous. The introduction of engineering and industry the ability of machines to do our work tends to multiply the number of jobs in which the worker is an automaton, merely tending a mechanical monster which makes all the decisions and displays all the craftsmanship.

We seriously doubt whether work of this type tends to keep a man healthy. After he has done the same things day in and day out for forty years, the worker would appear to be entitled to the opportunity of discovering if there were not more interesting ways of spending his remaining days.

As with many other problems, this would appear to be one in which generalizations are dangerous, in which there is as much danger of error in saying that nobody should retire at 65 as there is in declaring that everybody should retire at that age.

AN APPROPRIATE HONOR

Congratulations are in order to the Toronto Board of Control.

It had decided to honor Marilyn Bell—by naming a swimming pool after her.

It might appear that such a decision does not demand a spark of genius. The unhappy truth is, however, that the appropriate nature of the name selected is unusual.

Judging from past performances of some name-giving bodies, we should have expected the swimming pool to be named after the conqueror of Mount Everest, with Marilyn's name being reserved for use over a public library, a race track or a rink.

ANGLERS MUST TRAVEL

Strange, that fishing's never best
Where you have your mail addressed,
From the cabin where you stay
Fishing's better miles away.

From the region where you are
You must always travel far
To a distant, secret spot
Where you'll surely catch a lot.

Anglers wise you'll pass that day
Journeying the other way,
Hoping bigger fish they'll find
In the lake you've left behind.

This by all is understood:
Fishing's never quite as good
Where you are as where you're not.
That's the other fellow's spot.

LOOKING BACKWARDS
GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
SEPTEMBER 24, 1934

One hundred and fifty children of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday School were entertained in the church last evening. A sing-song was held. Interesting films were shown and Mr. E. V. Illsley gave a short address and Mr. Douglas Brownridge rendered several enjoyable vocal solos. The chairman was Mr. Charles A. Cameron, the superintendent of the school.

The Rt. Rev. A. H. Sovereign, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Athabasca, will be the week-end guest of Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne and Mrs. Payne at St. Thomas' Rectory. He will deliver the sermon in St. Thomas' Church Sunday morning and in the evening he will preach at Christ Church.

Mrs. Gaston LaRose, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting her aunts, Mrs. H. Ibey, Strachan Street and Mrs. F. Hume, Ridley St.

Fourteen hundred boxes of cheese were shipped from here today to Montreal per the Canadian Pacific. Some of the cheese is for overseas.

30 YEARS AGO
SEPTEMBER 24, 1924

There was a light frost here last night.

Rev. Dr. MacTavish of this city spent yesterday in Toronto.

Work on the new and enlarged roundhouse for the C.N.R. at Glen Miller is progressing satisfactorily; there are fifty men engaged on the job. There will be 11 new stalls for the big mogul engines.

Charles (Bud) Galway, son of Mr. Hugh Galway, Burton Street, broke his right arm above the wrist last night when cranking a motor car owned by William Rose, dairyman.

Mr. Robert Davison, of Picton, will address the members of the Kiwanis Club at their next meeting.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

We never know who is looking at us. Indeed, I am shocked all the people who had looked at us, or noticed us, we might be flattered and proud; or mighty scared, it stands to reason that in the course of the long years, we have looked at countless people without knowing who they are. So countless people have looked at us. Great people, maybe, famous ones, statesmen, namely. men, poets, leaders, heads of great enterprises, whose names we know and honor. But they were just strangers to us, as we were strangers to them. Also, we have doubtless been looked at by famous crooks, evil men, criminals, thugs. Maybe they have cast over us an appraising glance. Murderers possibly have viewed us, forgers, confidence men. Why not? We cannot travel far without looking at a thousand people; and one or two wicked ones.

In the elevator of a hotel the other afternoon I found myself with one other. He was a large, well-dressed man with a big, red moon face, rather eye-brows, and a pair of ice cold, large-pupiled eyes that looked aside. I gave them the I glanced at him, and found he was staring unblinking at me. I looked again, and he still was fixing me with a bold stare. Closely how impudent stare.

"Are we acquainted?" I asked him sharply, and all unexpectedly that he was a little startled.

"I think not," he said, levelly.

"Then," I enquired haughtily, "what are you staring at?"

He reddened angrily, and you could see he was not accustomed to being challenged for his arrogant gaze.

Before he could figure out the proper smash rejoinder, the elevator door opened on my floor. And disengaging my glare from his, I strutted out.

Shortly after, going down the elevator with the same boy at the lever, I enquired:

"Who was that big stiff I went up with a few minutes ago?"

"Well, he's one of the big operators in town here," said the boy, "I hear he made his big money years ago running rum off Nova Scotia. He's one kind of a character. You sure made him mad."

"Did I?"

"Yep. He told me he didn't know he was looking at anyone. But he didn't even see you until you snapped at him."

"Hmmm," said I heavily.

Cancer Scare Questioned

(By Elmore Philpott Writing from London in the Vancouver Province)

I am not a smoker myself, for after the Germans shot out my teeth in World War I, I could no longer hold a pipe with my false dentures.

I did smoke cigarets till about 1936, when I suddenly decided that it was a foul habit and quit.

Having established my own position of detachment, I must say that a British professor seems to have brought out some really good evidence about the effect of smoking in relation to lung cancer. He is Professor Sidney Russ, physician and radiologist and he writes in the British Medical Journal:

"If cigaret smoking is responsible for the majority of deaths from lung cancer, how it is that the people of the United States, who smoke far more than twice as many cigarets than we do, show a death rate for lung cancer less than half of ours?

"The people of the United States are the largest consumers of cigaret smoking people in the world, yet their lung cancer death rate is about the same as that of the people of Switzerland and Canada, which is only about one-half the quota of Americans."

In case anybody should suspect that I have been subsidized to write the above by the cigaret industry, I must pass on a good story told to me by my old friend of the Montreal Gazette—the great John Dougall.

Back in the earlier days of the Macdonald brothers of Montreal had built up a wonderful tobacco business, mostly in the plug variety. They were thrifty Scots and did not believe in advertising beyond placing little tin hearts in the middle of each plug cut.

Once one of the eccentric brothers was on a visit to Nova Scotia. The porter at the hotel thought he would curry favor with the famous magnate, and said:

"Mr. Macdonald, I have been chewing your tobacco all my life and I have a whole box full of them in my tin tub in my room to-day for it."

Imagine the porter's chagrin when the tobacco king snapped back:

"Chewing tobacco is a filthy habit."

Farmers Best Drivers

(Amherst, N.S., News-Sentinel)

Not only farmers will be interested in a two-year-period survey of motor vehicle driving conducted by a mutual automobile insurance company in Illinois.

The survey proves farmers are the best drivers among all the bigger occupational groups and they take fourth place among all groups large and small.

Farm drivers of all, as a group, are the wholesale business houses, a much smaller group than farmers. The worst are enlisted military personnel. In between are retail stores, subject to conditions of men—and women—and varying degrees of efficiency, courtesy and care. Clergymen have nothing to be proud of, ranking fifty-fifth among 100 white collar occupations.

Lawyers are only five points better; doctors appear in place thirty-nine.

The biggest surprise —i.e. from the male point of view—is that housewives have earned better than average rating among twenty-eighth among all categories.

There may be some males to doubt this, but the insurance company making the survey had no reason to publish anything not supported by the facts.

Letter to the Editor

World Wheat Crop Smaller This Year

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.
Dear Sir:
Your editorial "Strange Paradox" (Sept. 18 issue) in which caution is made on the prospect that Canada's 1954 wheat harvest is likely to be little more than 60 per cent of last year's bumper crop", made a bone-cog in this rural mind. It seemed to me in merit—and probably has received—the attention it deserves in town and city.

While writing, it occurs to me to send along the following global survey of the wheat scene, which may be considered apt and timely, and explains my thought in the above editorial:

"During the 1933 crop year the pressure was on wheat-producing nations to lower prices. World wheat production was placed at 7,150,000,000 bushels, and Europe, where most of the wheat imports are required, showed only a big crop. Production in the four main exporting countries was high. Present prospects indicate lower wheat production throughout the world. Few countries appear to have a much smaller crop than last year, with the harvest establishing records in many years. A news story from London says 'Nowhere is a bumper crop to be seen'. West Germany reports a harvest the worst in 30 years. Switzerland, for the second poor harvest, with a wheat outturn 1-3 less than that of 1953. The British harvest has been set back from two to three weeks, with the yield per acre and the grade of the grain will be poor. Conditions were fair to good in France, as expected in Belgium. In Austria, grain crops will be 20 per cent less than last year. Authentic information from behind the Iron Curtain is difficult to obtain, but known to have caused havoc among farmers in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania. There are still ample supplies of surplus wheat in exporting countries, so there will be no lack of this vital food. But it is not unreasonable to assume that world trade will be larger than last years. There may also be the same pressure for a reduction in wheat prices." —J.D."

Cannot Give Woman Cold

(Minneapolis Tribune)

Mrs. Kathleen Chaffey of London, has never had a cold. The scientists at the common cold research centre would like to know why. So would we.

Nine times the scientists have tried their darndest to give Mrs. Chaffey a cold. Nine times they have failed. The fifth attempt is scheduled for October.

The research scientists have at their command the most virulent cold germs obtainable; doubtless Mrs. Chaffey is a martyr to chilling and wet feet. But we think they may have a special trick up their sleeve of the cold germ.

Our advice is this: Arrange a wedding for Mrs. Chaffey, something she most particularly desires—a week in the south at the Van Cleves' place in the country, where wrangling is the sport of London's snazziest ball. This would present the sort of challenge to the virility of the germ name could resist. Our guess is that Mrs. Chaffey would catch the Chaffey cold before they doused before the big event.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO COMPOSE THE MIND

I had an interesting vacation this past summer. I met many friends who also were vacationing. I talked with some merely and kept moving because it gave them a chance. There is so much in the world to learn. We are apt to get stale and uninterested in much that we encounter in our daily lives, but through travel and the meeting of new scenes and people the mind happily reacts and is newly composed.

There came across a sentence in the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson that I like to hold a pack upon a pack-saddle against a gale out on the freezing north is no high industry, but it is one that serves to occupy and compose the mind."

We have certain friends who are better for us than medicine. In their kindly need, or want to have, the medicine suggested to them. They need kind words, a change of habitual thought, and new locations. I love my summer island retreat largely because it gives me the opportunity to compose my mind, to meditate in the cool forest, and to become one with the wind, the open sky, the wash of the waves of the lake, and quiet—quiet at times. And, Oh, the smell of the fragrant pines and hemlocks, and the fresh earth after a shower! We all need quiet times in which to newly compose the mind.

There is no instrument in this world so tunefully regulated for perfect sound as a healthy human life, as the human mind and its allied machinery. Perfect cooperation when its full significance is recognized. Above everything, however, the magnificent creation of the human mind must be composed, and not abused, or it becomes a monster. How could be the first step to attain near perfect happiness? I would say to drop all fears from your life!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE CALORIES THAT MAKE YOU FAT

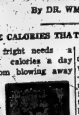
Every lady knows a couple thousand calories a day to keep her from blowing away in the wind. It is little difference whether most of the calories are derived from the sugar in ice cream or the starch in potatoes or the fat in butter or gravy.



Dr. Brady

Sugar is absorbed faster than any other food. Hence it refreshes and sustains a marathon runner or swimmer or a mountain climber who might succumb to exhaustion before he could convert other food into muscle energy to carry him on to the end.

Provided you know you are not diabetic—and how can you know without a test of urine for sugar? —you are less likely to eat too much and accumulate slacker flesh if you eat or drink something sweetened with sugar just before a meal.

Sugar, being almost immediately absorbed, raises the blood sugar level and when your blood sugar is high your appetite is moderate, whereas when the blood sugar is low is your appetite is ravenous beasty, maybe.

Many people who are always going on a diet Monday morning need only adopt a set of calisthenic exercises to restore a little firmness to their flabby flesh, and follow the easiest of all restrictions of diet, namely, omitting dessert.

After all, it's how you look and how you feel...not how much you weigh.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

FEW AND PRECIOUS

Three stone cutters were at work one day when a stranger approached. "What are you doing, my friend?" he asked the first stone cutter. "Cutting stone, can't you see?" replied the man sharply. The second man when queried as to his employment replied, "I am making a living." But the third stone cutter looked up and with beaming countenance declared, "I am building a cathedral."

They were all doing the same thing, but what a difference regarding the spirit in which they worked. To one man, work was a necessary evil. He was irritable, as his reply indicated. The second man was of that vast company who goes along doing what has to be done without asking any questions. He had to eat, and this was his best way of getting food. But the third man was an artist. This third man had an object in view. He was capable of visualizing the completion of his work. He was an eager cooperative in a great program. In his imagination he saw the spires and the pointed arches, and also he saw the massive entrance to the cathedral.

There are ways and ways of looking at life. One man falsified in answering the question, "What are you living for?" Another man answered revealed the kind of men they were. Cathedral builders are few and precious.

Two Million Trailerites

(Christian Science Monitor)

More than 2,000,000 Americans now are moving over the highways in mobile homes.

They are construction workers, military personnel, defence workers, retired couples, salesmen, engineers, teachers, businessmen, and average families who want to live in low-cost, shelter, the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association declared here.

The industry building these houses is made up of nearly 200 manufacturers, 3,500 distributors, and 10,000 mobile home parks, the association pointed out.

All this has taken place, largely since World War II. Prior to that time the units produced were mainly for vacationists or for temporary housing. The war proved the merits of combining mobility with year-around living, and the rest is up to the manufacturers.

In Orange, Texas, and in Seminole, Ill., where populations mushroomed to several times their former size, mobile homes largely filled the needs of the emergency. Privately owned trailer homes have sprung up in such communities as Oak Ridge, Tenn., livable.

The manufacturers divided the mobile population into four parts: mobile or semi-mobile occupation workers, 35 per cent of the total; military personnel, 20 per cent; retired persons, 10 per cent; miscellaneous, 7 per cent.

Economical shelter is not the major purpose for living in mobile houses, the statistics disclosed. The average income of mobile families was found to exceed the national average by $1,000 a year. Apparently, most of the persons living in trailers do so because they like it, or at least because it seems to be the best type of shelter for their current needs.

Irritability Sign of Life

(By Simeon Sylliles in the Christian Century)

Let me give you a few facts on some marvelous ways by which a loving wife can and does keep her husband from growing old.

Irritability tells me that one sign of life is irritability. If there is no irritability, there is no life. It is rather hard to irritate a stone. The higher we go in the scale of life, the more susceptible we are to irritation. You never heard of a clam with a nervous breakdown. A clam is notable to be bored.

One life preserving irritation which keeps me from fighting at myself and which my husband is the well beloved voice in the car, "Darling, must you drive so fast that red light ahead?" "This is a stop street." "You are too near the curb." "That music has no power to soothe the savage breast; it has made it savager." And words off old age.

One of our neighbors who will remain Methodist until Methodism can bring it about is a man whose wife asks him every few days to get out that article in the paper today about the correlation of lung cancer and cigarets.

One day in a fine fettle of irritation he asked, "You like that article correlating cancer with cigarets?" I answered the irritation of affection and exasperation that every husband knows. Sometimes he thinks truly that it is possible for a wife to irritate a man into doing anything. Many times whether he locked the back door than it is possible for his enemies to do with a libel.

Garson Says Drew And Duplessis Hold Same View

WINNIPEG (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Thursday Progressive Conservative leader George Drew stands with Quebec's Premier Duplessis in representing tax rental agreements with the provinces as a federal government plot to centralize all taxing authority in Ottawa.

"Mr. Drew and Mr. Duplessis both seem anxious to restore a system which prevailed before these tax agreements," Mr. Garson said. "But this would be so terribly damaging to all the other provinces, that Mr. Drew and Mr. Duplessis do not like to discuss this question in terms of the other provincial interests.

"So they represent the tax agreements as being a great scheme by which the federal government seeks to centralize all taxing authority in Ottawa and then they attack this straw man of centralization.

"... These tax agreements do not centralize. Being because the federal government wanted to centralize the functions of government or the taxing powers in Ottawa. They came into being because the great depression revealed a weakness in our federal system which placed, and especially under depression conditions, an intolerable burden upon those provinces which lacked the accumulated wealth of the central provinces."

Mr. Garson said the demand for the tax rental agreements originated in Manitoba, not Ottawa. He said the agreements between the federal government and all provinces except Quebec have transformed Manitoba from Canada's highest provincial taxpayers to the lowest.

Opposes Arming West Germany

BONN (Reuters)—Colin Cameron, CCF member of Parliament for Nanaimo, B.C., said here today that his three-day visit to West Germany has increased his conviction that West Germany should not be rearmed.

Cameron is on his way to Scarborough, England, to attend the conference of the British Labor party. A total Western news agency today that he had a long talk with Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the West German Social Democratic opposition.

"Herr Ollenhauer's views and those of the CCF are almost identical," he said.

Cameron said the rearmament of West Germany now could lead to a possible resurgence of those forces which produced Hitler.

"They are still here, there is no doubt about it," he said.

West German rearmament would also rule out the possibility of German unity, it was impossible to expect the Russians to consent to German reunification if West Germany were firmly tied into the Western defence alliance.

The great powers should instead make a start of their proclaimed disarmament program by agreeing not to rearm Germany, Cameron urged.

Monetary Fund And World Bank Given Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told the World Bank and International Monetary Fund today that the twin institutions have "the assurance of our support" in efforts to strike restrictions from free world trade.

Eisenhower, who is on a western tour, chose treasury secretary George Humphrey to read his message to the opening session of a joint six-day meeting of the bank and fund governors.

Humphrey is attending also in his capacity as United States' governor on the two 37-country institutions. And since the governors are all financial leaders from their countries, the annual parley amounts virtually to a finance and trade conference of the free world.

Humphrey and the other listed speakers today, fund manager Ivar Rooth of Sweden and the Netherlands finance minister, Johan van de Kieft, all stressed in their prepared remarks the strengthening of national economies for convertibility, or free exchange, of their currencies. But none set a hard-and-fast schedule for a return to free convertibility and trade.

Chairman van de Kieft said "the growing awareness that mistaken internal fiscal and monetary policies" are at the root of unbalanced international trade is one of the most important developments of recent years. The approach to convertibility "must, of necessity, be a gradual one."

Humphrey declared that "genuine progress" had been made in the last year in sweeping trade restrictions aside and strengthening economies, and currency convertibility "has become a nearer prospect."

The U. S. had taken and would continue to take its part in trying to remove trade barriers, as advocated in Eisenhower's foreign economic policy message to Congress last March. It was "worthy to note" that the U. S. had already reduced tariffs under its reciprocal trade program so that last year "only 4% per cent of the total value of our imports were subject to any import duties."

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Engages Representative In London

CAMPBELLFORD.—At a special meeting of the town council in the council chamber, Mr. Alex P. Wales of London, was engaged for a second year as the representative of the industrial interests of the town of Campbellford in Europe. All members were present together with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wales came to Campbellford on Monday from New York where he had been on business for the past few weeks. Primarily interested in firms seeking export markets, Mr. Wales, in many cases in his capacity as a consultant, has occasion to recommend to European industry that they branch out. As a representative of Campbellford, he hopes that his mission on behalf of the town will bear fruit in the matter of new industry. He expressed his entire satisfaction with conditions in this town, especially complimenting the people of the town on their new hospital. This, together with the friendly co-operative spirit prevalent in the community, the natural advantages we enjoy and the amenities of small town life make Campbellford a town which he feels proud to represent.

He explained that he felt much better equipped to sell Campbellford to prospective industry across the water since he had first hand knowledge of the community. He said there is in his opinion good scope to persuade small industry to locate here.

Generally speaking, he stated, industry is, or has been, in the habit of consulting government agencies abroad when they wish to come to Canada. Naturally, no community can be given preferential treatment over any other given area. Though Campbellford is represented through literature at the head offices of the banks and government agencies, the cities attract most of the new industry. He pointed out that restrictions on the exports from British of capital and machinery has eased up to a great extent, and that if we are to attract new industry, it should be done at once.

He, when questioned, stated that he would work for the interests of Campbellford only, and that without consent of council he would accept no commission to represent any other town in Canada, stating further that if some specialized industry which would not be suitable for Campbellford would come within his scope, he would seek permission of council to place it elsewhere. Council was much impressed with the apparent capabilities of their London representative. He speaks five languages fluently, and his connections with the export trade together with his experience relative to the problems of industry in the Old Country and on the continent, gave encouragement to each member.

During his stay in Campbellford, Mr. Wales was entertained by Mayor Locke, the Industrial Committee of Council, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

ABANDON HOPE

Mayor Whitton Declines to Take Part in Match

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton, invited Thursday to "joust at plowshares" at the international plowing match sent an "Olde Englyshe" refusal.

Apparently referring to the December municipal elections, the mayor replied: "Therefore, we wishing still to plough and till the municipal field wherein our lot is cast shall not at this season venture" into the match next month near Waterloo.

Mayor Whitton's phrasing corresponded with the hand-lettered invitation sent her by six Ontario mayors. She recalled the retirement from politics of Toronto's former mayor Alan Lamport, one of her opponents in a 1952 plowing match. Mr. Lamport now is a member of the Toronto Transit Commission.

"One of Irish strain and foreboding dast not venture upon the field in that the champion of jousts of two years gone (Mr. Lamport) hath, it seemeth, by prowess with the plough, brought upon himself the ill will of the rapscallionalia (apparently the people of Toronto) and an evil spell that hath caused him to flee the furrows of the municipal field and to ride henceforth in a tramcar."

The invitation came from Mayors Donald Weber, Kitchener; Elmer Goebel, Hespeler; Frank H. Bauer, Waterloo; Ernest F. Willson, Preston; William Anderson, Galt; and Dr. C. E. Gibson, Elmira.

Ease Customs For Seaway Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States have agreed to ease customs and immigration formalities to facilitate construction of the St. Lawrence seaway project on both countries.

An arrangement announced today applies to the first stage of the undertaking, the coffer dams that will be built to hold back water while work proceeds on the permanent dams and power installations.

Other arrangements, it is expected, will be made from time to time as construction develops on the $500,000,000 power job being done jointly by the Ontario government and New York state. Navigation canals are being built individually by Canadian and U. S. governments and do not cross the boundary.

The coffer dams are to be built in the vicinity of Iroquois, Ont. Long Sault rapids and Barnhart island near Cornwall.

Both Legs Broken When Knocked From Bicycle

PICTON — Knocked by a car from the bicycle he was riding, Fred J. Smith, Ontario Street, yesterday suffered two broken legs and severe shock and abrasions. The breaks were below the knee. A civilian employee at the RCSA station, Smith was struck by a car driven by M. Mayhew, also an employee of the station. Police were informed that the motorist did not see the bicycle rider due to the sun shining in his face. An RCSA ambulance rushed Smith to hospital.

Two broken arms were sustained by Walter D. Thompson of Bloomfield while operating Harold Ralston's well drilling outfit on the Glenora road. He was putting a belt on the engine and his arms became entangled in the belt. He was thrown from the platform. He is a patient in Prince Edward County Hospital here.

Should Develop Historical Spots

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Canada should develop more historical showplaces as tourist attractions the Canadian Tourist Association was told Thursday.

M. F. Jones of Niagara Falls, president of the Canadian Wine Institute, said in an address to the association convention:

"The showplaces of Canada are all too few, partly because of our peculiar national modesty but chiefly because of our shameless indifference to a heritage that is as romantic as that of any country in the world."

He cited reconstruction a few years ago of Fort York at Toronto and said tourists from other countries "want to know something about our past, what it is that makes us what we are, what it is that makes us different."

Mr. Jones announced that a new trophy, sponsored by the institute, would be awarded annually to the Canadian magazine or newspaper which made the greatest contribution toward the awakening of public interest in the preservation and development of Canada's historical and cultural assets."

Weddings

RANKIN—MORROW

The Frankford Trinity Anglican Church was adorned with baskets of gladioli and white satin bows on the pews for the marriage of Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Morrow, R.R. 2, Frankford, and Herbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rankin of Frankford, on Satur- day, Sept. 18, at three o'clock. Rev. M. C. Secker officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mr. Georgi Ketcheson and the soloist, Miss Isabel Arch- dekin, of Brampton, sang, "The Lord's Prayer", before the cere- mony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked radiant in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta and net, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a headdress of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations.

There were three attendants Mrs. Ronald Thompson, of West Huntingdon, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a pale green floor length gown of nylon net over taffeta with bolero ef- fect, and matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of baby 'mums. Miss Maisie Rankin, sister of the bridegroom, wore a pale yellow floor-length gown of nylon net over taffeta with bolero sect and matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of baby 'mums. Mrs. Harold Morrow, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a pale mauve floor-length gown of nylon net over taffeta with bolero effect and and matching headdress. She car- ried a nosegay of baby 'mums.

Mr. Wilson Rankin, brother of the groom, was the groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Morrow, brother of the bride, and Mr. Harold Thompson, brother- in-law of the bride.

The reception was held in the Parish Hall with fifty guests pres- ent. The bride's mother received in navy crepe dress with navy ac- cessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a blue slate dress with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink car- nations.

For travelling to Toronto, Niag- ara Falls and points west, the bride donned a brown suit with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Rankin will reside in Frankford.

Out-of-town guests were from Columbus, Ohio, Stirling, Frank- ford, Belleville, Barrie, Bramp- ton, Harold and Wooler.

JONES— BURKE

On Friday, September 17th, the Nazarene parsonage, Trenton, was the setting for the marriage of Muriel Gladys, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Burke, and Roy McGin- non, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Jones, Cambridge, N.B. The cere- mony was performed by the Rev. H. V. Muxworthy.

The bride was gowned in waltz- length blue pure silk satin with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Miss Edna Burke was brides- maid, and was gowned in waltz- length blue nylon net with matching accessories and wore a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Alan Hopper was best man.

For travelling to New Brunss- wick, via the United States, the bride chose a coat of blue camel hair fleece, fashioned on princess lines.

Upon their return, the couple will reside on Charles Street, in Trenton.

McGARRIE—MAYELL

On September 4th at 2.30 p.m., the marriage took place in Christ Church, of Mary Evelyn Mayell, B.R. 2, Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Caroline D. Mayell and the late John Mayell and Ronald Ca- dec McGarrie, Toronto, son of Mrs. Janet McGarrie and the late Archibald McGarrie.

Archdeacon F. R. Creegan per- formed the ceremony before a tiered skirt, long sleeved Chantilly gladioli and Mr. J. C. Wilbert played the wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Charles E. May- ell, wore a waltz-length strapless gown of white nylon tulle with background of red, pink and white lace jacket fastened at the wrists with pearl buttons, fingertip veil of nylon tulle held in place with band of white daisies. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by Mrs. E. Morgan of West Huntingdon, as matron of honor who wore a waltz-length strapless gown of white nylon tulle with matching jacket, small white hat trim- med with rhinestones and white nylon gloves. She carried a nose- gay of pale pink roses set in deep pink gladioli.

Mr. Norman Borski of Toron- to, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. C. Mayell, Oak Lake, where the rooms were attractively arranged with baskets of pink gladioli, while wedding bells and streamers. The bride's mother receiv- ed in a navy suit of taffeta, navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a navy and white dress, navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points west the bride chose a periwinkle blue suit with black patent accessories and cor- sage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were in at- tendance from Toronto, Deseron- to, and West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. McGarrie will re- side in Toronto.

HOWARD—BEAMIS

FRANKFORD—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Sat- urday afternoon, September 18, at 2 p.m., at the home of Mr. G. A. Beamis, when his granddaughter, Hazel May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hearns, of Frankford, was united in marriage to Mr. James Bennett Howard, son of Mrs. Blake Fairley, of Frankford. The Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Harry MacDonald, of Frankford, played the tradition- al wedding music and during the signing of the register sang "I Love You, Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor-length triple skirted gown of white nylon net and French lace over taffeta with French lace bodice, Peter Pan collar, and long sleeves pointed over the hands. Her waist-length veil of tulle illusion net embroid- ered with rose point lace fell from a headdress of pleated nylon net and white lilacs. She wore a three-strand pearl necklace with matching earrings, and carried a cascade of red roses and bou- vardia.

The bride's attendants were Miss Helena Hearns, of Trenton, sister of the bride, and Miss Bar- bara Joan Hearns, as junior bridesmaid, also a sister of the bride. Helena Hearns wore a triple skirted floor-length gown of mauve colored nylon net over taffeta with accents of green with headdress and mitts to match. Barbara Joan Hearns was ador- able in a double skirted floor length gown of green colored net over taffeta with accents of mauve and headdress and mitts to match. Each girl carried a quaint nosegay to match her dress.

The groomsman was Mr. Percy Peck of Trenton, and Mr. Ver- non Hearns acted as usher.

The reception was held at Frankford Community Hall with the Ladies of Riverside Friend- ship Circle catering and the waitresses were girl friends of the bride. The bride's maid- received dressed in navy blue crepe gown with matching acces- sories and wore a corsage of yel- low and blue glamelias. The bridegroom's mother assisted dressed in a navy blue lace gown with powdery blue bib and navy accessories and she wore a cor- sage of red glamelias.

For the trip to the northern States the bride wore a suit of navy blue with red and navy accessories and she wore a cor- sage of red carnations.

Out-of-town guests were pres- ent from Detroit, Michigan, Ham- lton, Oakville, Toronto, Peter- borough, Cobourg, Belleville, Ma- doc, Trenton and Batawa.

The young couple will reside in Frankford.

Belleville Council Christian Education Holds Convention

The second annual convention of the Belleville Council of Christian Education was held in Christ Church parish hall, Wed- nesday.

Following conclusion of discus- sion on various topics stressing the importance of guiding youth in a responsible understanding of God, the following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Mrs. Robin Babiak, Tabernacle United Church; vice- president, Mr. R. Jones, Bethany United Church; secretary, Mrs. Hilliard Fisher, Christ Church; treasurer, Mr. Floyd Cummings, Wesleyan Methodist.

Mr. J. G. Dennis opened the meeting and welcomed the dele- gates.

Three topics were discussed under the general theme "For such is the Kingdom of Heaven", conducted by Mr. John Babiak, of Tabernacle United Church.

The first topic, introduced by Archdeacon J. Creegan, empha- sized a child shall have an aware- ness of God and the teacher must emulate this himself before pass- ing it on to the child. Respect for the church and Bible must be taught to children, who should take part in opening services of church school.

Efforts should be made to have parents in church school also, the group decided, and parents and church school teachers should work together to further Christian education of children. It also stressed children should be en- couraged to practise prayer and Bible study in their daily lives.

The second discussion under the Rev. Miriam Collins, Bridge Street United, showed the need necessity for teachers to present an example to their pupils and that children should be kept mindful of what they are learn- ing stems from the Bible.

Teachers and officers should be installed with a dedication cere- mony so children and leaders understand it is God's work they have to do. Young children must learn they are part of the church family. Church school must not take the place of church but must only be a preparation for participation in church services. Church school must also teach the child his responsibility to the community, the discussion concluded.

The last topic, "Securing Alle- giance for Christ," introduced by the Rev. S. E. Larman, Holloway Street United Church, noted that although children often are asked to make this decision before they are ready for it, the decision rests with the individual. However no age limit can be set in this case since some children mature more rapidly than others. Teachers were reminded that the child must not be forced in the matter.

Rev. R. Rowley, Tabernacle United Church, gave the invoca- tion and Mr. R. Lennox, superin- tendent of Christ Church Sunday School, welcomed the delegates to the supper session.

Devotional messages introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. H. B. Burkholder, general secretary of the OCEE, Toronto, who spoke briefly on the history, organiza- tion purpose and work of the councils. He said all denomina- tions are part of the family of God and all share in the respon- sibility of making youth Christ- tian.

Departmental groups were formed to discuss the original three topics of the afternoon ses- sion.

Rev. H. Burkholder conducted the installation of the new office- ers and a dedication ceremony.

In a following address Mr. Burkholder said teachers must feel they have been chosen by God to undertake the task of giving Christian truth to chil- dren.

Mr. Burkholder closed the con- vention with prayer.

Women's Activities

LADIES' AUXILIARY UNIT 43

At a general meeting of the La- dies' Auxiliary Unit 49, Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans in Canada, Mrs. William McKenna, provincial command president, was presented with a life mem- bership certificate and pin by president G. Grant.

The members of the local unit are proud of the award since it is the first one in Ontario.

AVONDALE N.A.

The September meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held recently at the Avondale School in the form of a pot luck supper.

After the meal, Mrs. A. Daniels opened the meeting. The program was in charge of Mrs. T. Anger and Mrs. H. Wright. The devotion- al was opened with the Scripture reading, Matthew 5:17-20 by Mrs. Allen, followed by a short medi- tation by Mrs. Bush. A poem, "Doing Things Worthwhile", was read by Mrs. Ling. An amus- ing verse on "Women On a Diet" was given by Mrs. H. Denike. Mrs. Anger closed this part of the meeting with prayer.

Several interesting games and contest were conducted by Mrs. Anger and Mrs. Wright.

ARGYLL CHAPTER I.O.D.E.

The Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. after summer recess has held its first meeting, Thursday, Sept. 16, at the Officers' Mess of the Belle- ville Armouries. The main discus- sion of the meeting was the Au- tumn Tea and Needlework sale. The tea will be held soon. A committee was appointed to look after the details.

Knitting for the Christmas box- es and sewing of layettes for dis- tress areas were given out to the members.

Tea was served by Mrs. G. M. Hall and Mrs. F. M. Sprague.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

MARMORA.—The first meet- ing of the fall season of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart Parish hall, on Monday evening, September 20, with Mrs. A. M. Jones pres- ding. There were fifty members present.

Rev. Father Healey opened the meeting with the League prayer, followed by singing "Came Holy Ghost."

Several new members were welcomed by the president, af- ter which the secretary read the roll call, correspondence and the minutes of the June meeting.

Mrs. J. H. English gave the treasurer's report showing a sub- stantial balance on hand.

Reports from the conveners from both Marmora and Deloro, were then given. Miss Mary Brady and Mrs. E. Johnston reported that five calls had been made to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. E. D. O'Connor and Mrs. A. Keeley were appointed visit- ing ladies for the following month.

The president reported this sub-division has ordered fifty rosaries for the Most Rev. Ben- jamin I. Webster, D.D., the new director of the Catholic Women's League in Ontario.

Rev. Father Healey, spiritual director, then addressed the meeting and was edified to see such a wonderful attendance. He discussed plans regarding the an- nual bazaar, which is to be held November 3-4.

Group 8 arranged the playing of several games, after which a relicious repast was served by Group 9.

Quinte WI Holds September Meet

The September meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Robin Brown, 45 Highland Avenue, Belleville, on Tuesday afternoon, with an attendance of about 32 members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. E. Sander- cock, presided.

A vote of thanks to the hostess for opening her home for the meeting was extended.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. Mitchell, read the minutes and correspondence, also a letter from the department regarding exten- sion service to be held at the Front Road Church hall on Octo- ber 12, from 10 a.m., to 4 p.m.

Mrs. C. Reid reported on the Achievement Day at Stirling.

After a discussion, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Greatrix and Mrs. Parrott were named to attend the Lead- er Training School in Madoc.

Mrs. Frank Bedell, and Mrs. Sharpe, conveners for Agricul- ture and Canadian Industries, ar- ranged the following program. According, readings were given by Mrs. Robert Atkins; readings by Mrs. Bellamy and Mrs. N. Montgomery.

Mrs. M. B. Weese introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Phil Hunter of CJBQ, who spoke on Agricul- ture and Public Relations.

The president thanked the con- veners for the very interesting and enjoyable program. Mrs. A. Parrott led in community singing.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mesdames Weese, Insley, Murphy and Anderson.

ELECT OFFICERS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. C. Patter- son of Edmonton Thursday was elected president of the Girls in Recreation Association of Canada at final convention sessions. Other officers include Peter Christilaw. Kitchener, vice-president.

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W.I.

Pine Grove Women's Institute met for its regular monthly meet- ing at the home of Mrs. B. Saylor, Oak Lake, with the president, Mrs. G. Barlindale presiding and a good attendance of members, and visitors.

Consumer Bulletins were dis- tributed. The members were re- minded of the Arena convention, which is to be held in Belleville October 21st.

Canvassers were chosen to canvass for the National Institute for the Blind. It was decided to make a donation to the Unitar- ian Service Committee of Can- ada.

Conveners of Standing Commit- tees reported on the work of their committees.

Mrs. B. Kingle gave interest- ing "Current Events."

Mrs. G. Barlindale then took charge of a Grandmothers' pro- gram composed of readings, Poems, and a contest given by the grandmothers who were present.

At the conclusion of the meet- ing refreshments were served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

Arts and Crafts Club Holds Second Meet

The second meeting of Belle- ville Arts and Crafts club was held in the City Hall Council Chambers, Thursday evening, with between 40 and 50 present to lay the ground work for the en- joyment of many hours of recrea- tion in art, ceramics, weaving and crafts of all kinds, as suggested by the interested people.

It is expected that several eve- ning a week will be taken up with the different activities in the two large rooms provided by the Belleville Recreation committee, through the co-operation of the public school board.

The main business of the meet- ing was the reading of the interim constitution, agreement of an an- nual club fee, the decision for a date to have the regular month- ly meetings, which is to be the third Monday of the month.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

DON'T MAKE ANY PROMISES NOW

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 18, I am in love with a boy of the class ago. He is in the navy, and wants me to wait for him. He writes often, and is coming in soon on leave.

I feel that four years is a long time to wait, especially when we are neither going steady nor engaged.

How can I explain to this boy how I feel? I am afraid he will think I'm asking him to marry me. He says he loves me but that he doesn't want to marry while he is in the service. — Kat.

Dear Kat:

I feel that you were very foolish indeed to promise to give up all your other friends and wait for this chap for four years. A lot of things can happen in that much time, and particularly at the ages of an 18-year-old. So it would not be at all unusual if either of you—perhaps both—should find the attraction you now feel for each other had died since worn off before all those years had passed. The very way you write makes me believe that, even now, you are not too seriously interested in this boy, and you do not make any promises to him would be rash indeed.

Instead, I advise you to be perfectly honest with him and tell him that you think it would be better if you were both free to do as you please, and go out with anyone you like for the next few years. If there is anything really sound in your relationship, seeing others will only cause it to strengthen and develop, and if it is not really sound, it will fade and then you will never miss it.

"I'm sure you will make no mistake if you do as I suggest.

BABY-SITTING IS BUSINESS, NOT A SOCIAL EVENT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14 years old, and one night I went to the movies with a boy of 17 who I thought was very nice. I didn't see anything wrong with a goodnight kiss, but since then he keeps calling me up and asking me if he can baby-sit with me, and I do not want that.

My sister, who is over 17 and has been going steady, told me to be firm with this boy and tell him that I am too young to go steady. I agree with her, but every time he calls up I haven't the courage to tell him. — L.G.

Dear L.G.:

It wouldn't be a good idea at all to let this boy baby-sit with you, and nothing we employ you to sit with their children wouldn't like it a bit. They might even stop employing you if they found that you had boys to their homes with you. Baby-sitting is business, not a social occasion. So simply tell this chap you are not permitted to have boys within you on the job.

As for your going steady with him, he hasn't asked you yet, has he?

If you like this boy, and suspect you do since you find it so hard to discourage him, let him take you to the movies either on a Saturday afternoon or to an early evening show but forget the goodnight kiss. You have sense enough to know that you're too young to go steady, so be sensible enough to realize, also, that you're too young to be kissing boys.

You're not too young, however, to begin building your own standards of conduct and sticking to them. No nice boy is going to give you up as a friend because you're a nice girl who knows what's right and best to do.

THIS MAN IS NOT AN APPROPRIATE FRIEND FOR YOU

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17, and in love with a man who is 28. He says he likes me and would ask me for a date if it wasn't for the difference in our ages.

All the boys I have ever gone out with age at least a year or two older than myself, and even my closest friends are older than I am. I never have gone out with boys my own age.

Would it be wrong for me to date this 28-year-old man, and if not, how can I let him know that the difference in our ages means nothing as long as we like each other? It is very hard to act as though I don't notice the way he looks at me, and to overlook the things he says, because we work together. — A.W.

Dear A.W.:

Even though most of your friends have been slightly older than yourself, a man 11 years older is much too old for you.

No doubt you feel a little flattered that a man of 28 should appear interested in you, but, if you give it some serious thought, don't you really think anyone of that age must be rather childish if he is still interested in teen-agers? Normally, by the time a man is in his late twenties, he is, and should be, more interested in young women closer to his own age.

I think you would make a mistake to date any dates with this young man, or to try and indicate to him that you would consider him an appropriate friend for you. He really isn't clear cold water 2 hours. Then add them to the brined cucumbers and proceed with your mixed pickles. Just as directed for Sweet Cucumber Pickles on "Serious Pickle Makers" column of May 1952.

QUESTION:

I've been wanting to do this for ages. . . I have two boys who keep me busy but they eat anything and everything so I have no food problems. . . .I often buy cut-up chicken and to keep every body happy usually come home with three drumsticks and one chicken breast. I fry them in butter but to me they don't taste the way fried chicken should taste. Can you give me a good recipe? I have a set of heavy aluminum cookware utensils (waterless) and use my large covered deep frying pan. . .I am interested and brined along with the cucumbers? or for a varying period of time. Sometimes you think you must think some of us are awfully dumb but we can't all be born cooks.—G. E. S.

ANSWER:

Such a thought never crosses my mind and it it dared to I'd banish it in no time, for my business is to answer—not to judge. Cut the large cucumbers in pieces not smaller than 2 inches long and brine as directed. Do not brine the onions or cauliflower with or as long as the cucumbers. They need to stand only overnight in brine made in proportion of 1-4 cup salt to each 4 cups cold water. Drain them then and "freshen" by allowing to stand in

I made no recipe for pickles (entitled) Serious Pickle Makers. . . .notice it states to choose cucumbers from 3 to 4 inches long. . . brining for 6 or 8 weeks. Our cucumbers have grown much larger than that. If I cut them. . . would that be okay? . . . I like small onions and cauliflower in with the cucumbers. Should these also be prepared and brined along with the cucumbers? or for a varying period of time. Sometimes you think you must think some of us are awfully dumb but we can't all be born cooks.—G. E. S.

ANSWER:

I did not repeat some of the sweet things you said B. Thanks for these two recipes:

CHOCOLATE CLUSTERS

(Courtesy B.)

Mix together in large bowl 3 cups rolled oats, 1-3 cup each cocoanut and chopped nuts, 6 tablespoons cocoa, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Boil together for one minute only 1-2 cup each butter and milk and 2 cups white sugar. Pour this over the first ingredients and blend thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on a sheet of wax paper and let cool. They harden quickly so work fast.

BUTTERSCOTCH SQUARES

(Courtesy B.)

Mix together 1-3 cup melted butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups rolled oats, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Spread on large cookie sheet to about 1-2 inch thickness and bake 10 to 15 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Mark in squares while warm, but cool before removing from pan.

Thank you again. I am sure there are several readers who will welcome these cookie "quickies." I have sent a copy of release on fried chicken.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

HOW DOES YOUR SKIN BEHAVE?

It is generally conceded, and always so by beauty specialists, that a naturally fair skin is the most attractive feature a woman can possess. For, so blended, she can use this as a setting upon which to bring out or build up other attractions. Given a dazzling complexion, almost anything in the way of external loveliness can be achieved.

Nature has provided a cosmetic oil that is exuded by the sebaceous glands. This lubrication tends to keep the epidermal surface firm and enriched.

But the supply of oil from the glands is sometimes inadequate. The glands can grow weak through poor circulation or by a diet this does not contain enough fat upon which the glands seem to thrive. The skin then becomes dry and papery, instead of being moist as nature intended. This condition requires treatment because dry skin easily shrivels into fine lines that may eventually develop into deep furrows.

Creams are the antidote for this type of complexion. The flesh is buffery for them. Pat them up eagerly. A light application is not enough. They should be massaged into the tissues with light tapping movements of the finger tips. The brisk patting will bring a rush of blood to correct the malnutrition of the glands. Keep the entire face of the skin softened and supple.

Use a light cream before applying make-up if your skin is dry. Cosmetics will then go on smoothly and will blend neatly, something they will not do unless the facial areas have this foundation.

If exposed to strong sunlight, apply a light cream immediately upon coming into the house.

Quick reduction in weight will often bring a dryness of the skin because the body stores of fat are being diminished. If one takes off weight too rapidly there is no time for the skin to adjust its tension and elasticity.

BABY BORN ON TV

CINCINNATI (AP) — Television viewers in southern Ohio and Kentucky watched a baby born by a caesarian operation here Wednesday night, but the unidentified father missed most of it. Shortly before the operation sent on the air over station WLW-TV, the father had to take his mother-in-law home because he was ill. He was reported to have seen a bit of telecast at his mother-in-law's home but by the time he got back to the hospital the baby girl had been born.

Husband, Home Take All Time Says Mrs. Attlee

MONTREAL (CP)—The wife of former British prime minister Attlee says she's too busy taking care of her husband and family to get involved in a political career of her own.

Although a member of the British Labor party which Mr. Attlee heads, she said Tuesday her political activity is confined to driving her husband to catch a commuters' train for London and generally helping out in any way possible.

The petite, grey-haired lady of Britain's top Socialist was interviewed while accompanying her husband on the last lap of his globe-circling tour that included visits to Russia and Red China.

She "didn't visit the Communist countries with Mr. Attlee, but met him in Singapore and went to Australia and New Zealand with him.

"My home and my family take up most of my time," Mrs. Attlee said.

A mother of three daughters she now has two granddaughters aged six years and two months.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DIVORCEE'S NAME AND WEDDING RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) After two unhappy years of marriage, my husband and I are being divorced. We have 4 years old. We have a little boy, and because of him I'm hesitant as to whether or not I should continue to wear my wedding ring.

(2) Also I don't know whether I should keep my married name, or what form of name I should use. Please guide me about these two questions. — Bewildered.

I'm deeply sorry that you are having to face so many problems when you are so young. But, for reassurance? and to avoid any critical comments, you are wise to plan what you should do about your wedding ring and your name.

(1) It is important, since you have that little boy, for you to continue to wear your wedding ring.

(2) When the divorce is final, you should change the form of your name: drop your ex-husband's first name and substitute your maiden surname. Let's say your maiden name was Dorothy Hill, and your husband's surname is Clark: your new name should combine the two surnames: Mrs. Hill Clark. Another possible form is, to indicate the initial of your first name, Mrs. D. Hill Clark. But please don't use the incorrect form Mrs. Dorothy Clark.)

AN UNCLE OR FAMILY FRIEND TO ESCORT BRIDE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am an only child, my father passed on two years ago, and my mother and I live together. I am to be married soon, and the question arises as to who is to escort me up the aisle and give me in marriage. I have two uncles, but although I like them very much there has never been any particular devotion between us. Is it a "must" that one of these uncles to give me in marriage, or may I invite a long-time friend of my mother and father, a man who has been so kind and thoughtful during my father's long illness, always so good to us? My mother leaves the choice up to me. What do you suggest? — Rosemary B.

From what you say, I doubt very much that either uncle would expect to be given this honor. My suggestion is that you invite this kind family friend to escort you up the aisle, and if it is permitted in your church, to have your mother give you in marriage. Talk this over with the minister who is to perform the ceremony. He may suggest (I hope he will) that your mother simply stand in her place at the front row on the left, and respond "I do" to the minister's question. "Then it should be easy to be married to this man!" A fine memory, this will be.

Golden Legs New Sensation In Glamor Lineup

NEW YORK (AP)—Golden legs are the newest sensation to the glamor lineup, introduced Wednesday by designer Lilly Dache at his fall millinery showing.

Gold leg makeup and face powder in tones of mauve, green and gold were worn by the Dache models, who displayed hats and costumes keyed to the color of hair and complexion.

The leg makeup is worn beneath sheer stockings and is planned, says the designer, to "continue the shimmer."

Defends Inter-Racial Marriages

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian army private who married a petite Japanese girl three years ago defends inter-racial marriages.

Pte. Reid Cook and his wife passed through Vancouver recently from Japan on their way to Cook's home in Kyle, Sask.

"Look at it this way," said the tall, 24 - year - old medical corpsman. "If more people of different races got married, individuals wouldn't be so quick to criticize some one of another color or creed."

Mrs. Cook was injured in the atomic bomb explosion in Hiroshima in August, 1945.

With the Cooks were Sgt. Robert Matte of Montreal, his wife Chiharko, and their baby daughter Darin.

"If a man can face Koreа, with all its hardships and inconveniences for nearly a year," the sergeant said, "then it should be easy to face a few curious Canadians for a while."

Worth Remembering

Prince Edward Island was not always so named. The Indians called it "Abegweit", meaning "cradled on the waves." The French who later owned it named it Isle de St. Jean. Then, some time after they took possession, the British renamed it for Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria. An interesting historical fact worth remembering!

CONSERVATION
Ketch's Korner
by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

The end of vacation time just about means the end of angling time for the year. Right about now, the average angler is getting ready to hang up his gear for another winter. In a great many cases, this putting away of equipment merely consists of lashing the tackle box out of the trunk of the family car and putting it in some handy spot in the cellar. Rod, with reel attached, is left standing against the wall—usually over the tackle box so it will be visible when the owner starts to hunt for it next spring . . . This just about seems to be the extent of such "care."

Now, it doesn't really make much difference if your tackle is costly or not—all such gear deserves good care. And, believe us, it's quite apparent in the Spring-time what angler has given his tackle the kind of treatment it deserves."

Reels, for examples, are pieces of fine machinery. Like any other fine equipment, they need care in order to function properly.

You know, each season we spend quite a bit of time giving casting lessons here and there. As we travel about Ontario's resort areas, we often find it quite frustrating when we try to teach someone casting whose equipment is well-nigh impossible. Frequently it's quite hopeless to even attempt instruction so bad is the condition of the learner's gear. In addition to this, it's often embarrassing to have to either decline instruction or borrow or loan tackle.

This sort of thing is particularly annoying when you consider that tackle given the proper care will last—in perfect working order—for years.

These factors in mind, we present a few tips that should assure you of reasonable performance from your equipment for at least another year.

Steel or glass rods should be wiped dry and clean, guides checked. Either place the rods in their cases or hang them from their tips. Bamboo rods will take a bit more care. First check and varnish and make sure it has not checked or cracked. Next, check the bindings and guides—if they're in good shape, store in a cool place—but don't leave them standing against the wall. Bamboo or cane rods can easily take a "set" if allowed to lean against a wall. So much for the rods.

Now for the reels. Bait casting reels should be taken apart and thoroughly washed with "varsol" to make sure all sand and grit is removed from the moving parts. A thin coat of vaseline on bearings, gears, etc., will work in very nicely if you turn the reel handle a few times. . . Most well-made reels are easily taken apart and re-assembled. A good rule to follow is: lay the pieces out in relation as they are removed then it becomes quite easy to put it together again. Just reverse the process— the last removed are the first to go back.

Lines should be removed from the spool, strung up or loosely coiled. . . Spinning reels, not having the number of moving parts, require less knocking down. They should be thoroughly cleaned, and remember to carefully check the action of the bail and tripper. Nothing more need be done on that score.

Unless your fly reel is automatic, a careful wiping-off is all that's needed. The automatic reels should be taken apart (usually two screws will accomplish this), the spring washed with varsol and new graphite grease installed. Fly lines should be removed from the reels—for sure—and washed thoroughly. Those new detergents have worked wonders for us, by the way. Leave the lines loosely coiled. Then, when the season rolls around again, you're all set.

Scientists Explore Mysteries Of Cold Light in Animals

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—The mystery light of the dark seas sprang into glowing bluish light as the scientist mixed two chemicals in a blackened room.

It shone brightly in the glass beaker, iridescent, lighting faintly a whole corner of the room.

This was exactly the light you see in sea water if you've ever swam at night or watched as a boat knifed through the water. It's the light like that—except for color —from yellow fireflies. Or from dead tree stumps glowing in the dark because of fungi growing on them.

It is bioluminescence, chemical and cold light which nature has granted to many living things, especially in the sea.

Man has been intrigued with this natural light from the time of his earliest observations and wonderings about his world. Now science is beginning to find the explanations, and perhaps some day will find some marvelous uses for it.

LIGHT FROM CRUSTACEA

Mysteries of this cold light are being explored by Dr. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton University and associates who spend their summers here at the Marine Biological Laboratory working with these lamp-bearing animals and organisms from the sea.

Two chemicals create the light—luciferin and luciferase, an enzyme or accelerator of chemical reactions. Both have been isolated in pure form from a tiny crab-like creature, cypridina, which is one of the main illuminators of the sea. Fireflies produce their light from the same two chemicals, but the luciferin of fireflies is probably different from that of these crustacea.

These sea animals, about the size of big bird seed, can be kept in the dried state, and will give off light when ground by mortar and pestle and mixed with water.

By careful chemical treatment, their luciferin can be extracted and also their luciferase. When these two liquids are mixed, you get the wondrous glow as though thousands of the animals at once were lighting the sea.

FISH CARRY TORCH

In life, these animals shoot their luminescence out into the water as a boat goes or the water is disturbed. Why they do it is a riddle—perhaps to warn their fellows away.

There is one form of warm, which lives in the mud inside a tube, which can make itself luminescent. Eels seek it out, but it burns on its light to frighten the eel away.

A relative of the jelly fish, mnemiopsis, the size of a silver dollar or larger, is another common lamp-lighter of the sea.

MUSSELS TO MUSCLES

Dr. Joseph J. Chang of Princeton University, originally from South Korea, put a bit of this jelly-like creature in a darkened box, so electric shocks could stimulate its light-producing cells. The light was picked up by a photocell, amplified and turned into electric current, producing pips or bounces on a recording screen.

Can this reaction of sea-light help tell science more about the workings of the human engine of muscle? that is one purpose of the studies.

If luciferin and luciferase could be made synthetically—and there is a good chance that luciferin might be duplicated—then man could solve the secret of another engine of life.

Crofton

CROFTON.—Mr. and Mrs. William Dempsey and Terry, of Rossmore, were callers at the home of Mrs. S. J. Munro on Sunday evening.

Mrs. F. Crook spent Saturday with her brother, Mr. W. Salisbury, Mrs. Salisbury and Janet at Belleville.

Miss Theda Jones, Reg.N., and Miss Irma Smith, Reg.N., of Welland, spent a day last week with friends at Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort, Shirley and Paul, of Belleville, called on their mother, Mrs. W. J. Gray on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Haight, of Belleville, spent Tuesday night and Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. E. Crook and Wednesday afternoon called on Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Salisbury at Big Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morrison, Wayne and Brian of Belleville, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. B. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Allan and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crook were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. E. Crook.

Stirling

STIRLING — Hastings County Junior Farmers' executive meeting was held on Tuesday evening in the board room at the Ontario Department of Agriculture.
